Dairy large roll and tub butter is ½c. per lb. cheaper. Second grade dairy tubs are now arriving at 10 to 11c.

D. Gunn, Bros. & Co. say that last week's receipts of eggs were the largest in the history of their business.

A sample of new season's fine Japan tea was received this week by Mr. W. Dane, agent of the Eastern Japan Trading Co.

Rutherford, Marshall & Co. say that the demand for dairy tub butter this month has been unprecedented in their experience, scarcely a day passing without large orders being received for shipment.

Lard has advanced ½c.; long clear bacon is ½c. dearer; smoked rolls and shoulder hams are ¼c. per lb. higher, and Canadian heavy mess and and Canadian short cut are 50c. per barrel above last week's figures.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, May 19, 1898.

GROCERIES.

THERE has been a fair movement in general groceries this week, and, as a rule, values are firm in their disposition. Raw sugar, for instance, is higher than it was a week ago, which is two jumps in a fortnight, and if it continues, refined here is quite apt to advance. There is no abatement in the strength of the molasses market, while teas in the medium grades are very scarce and evidently badly wanted by jobbers. Rice has scored another advance, while dried fruit, canned goods, and country produce of all sorts are strong in feeling. In fact, the general situation is a buoyant one.

SUGAR.

The firm feeling in sugar is fully retained, and there have been further advances in the raw market both for cane and beet. The former is 3d. higher than it was at last writing, which makes 6d. for the fortnight, while beet is 1½d. to 2¼d. above where it was last week. Cables on Tuesday quoted cane at 12s. 3d. for Java and 10s. 9d. for fair refining, and beet at 9s. 6¾d. for present and 9s. 7½d. for next month's delivery. In New York also raw is strong and tending upwards, 3¾c. being asked for fair refinery and 4¼c. for centrifugal 96 test. The strength has not caused any change in refiners' prices on spot, but the tone is very firm, though the demand has been of a very limited character. If the present strength of the raw markets continues buyers gain nothing by holding off, as prices on refined are quite apt to advance.

SYRUPS.

The syrup market continues quiet and steady, and refiners are carrying very small reserve stocks.

MOLASSES.

The strong tone of the molasses market continues, and further advances are not improbable. Cables from the Islands this week are very firm, reporting the demand in excess of the supply, at 22½c. cost and freight, with tonnage difficult to obtain. On this basis no stock can be laid down much under 30½c., so that the jobbing figure, 31c., leaves only a small margin. Local demand is quite brisk, but sellers will not operate ahead to any extent, as they consider that the situation calls for very conservative action on their part. A letter from Halifax, under date of May 10, says: "Molasses having advanced in every direction, and crops in St. Kitts, Antigua, and elsewhere being reported as having ended with a much smaller result than usual, there has been a great deal of disappointment at the nonfulfilment of a number of orders which were sent to the West Indies, and which shows conclusively the scarcity of the article."

CANNED GOODS.

There has been some enquiry for canned vegetables on Northwest account during the week, but the business transacted did not amount to much, as buyers and sellers were apart on peas, corn and tomatoes. There has been little doing in other lines of canned material, but the firm tone of all sorts of meats is fully retained. In salmon, stocks in second hands here appear to be pretty ample, but there are none in first hands. No quotations on new pack are expected until next month.

TEAS.

The tea market continues firm, a notable fact being the shortage in first hands of teas ranging from 15 to 18c., both in Japan and China stocks. Jobbers are scarce of these goods also, and the fact has led to more enquiry, but the amount of business done has been small, for the reason above given.

SPICES.

There has been no change in this line of goods, the strong disposition being still prominent. In fact, if the outside markets continue to appreciate as they are doing jobbing prices here will have to be worked up.

COFFEE.

The coffee market has shown little or no animation during the past week, and prices, as a rule, continue as last quoted.

RICE.

The rice market was firm and active and strong this week, and, as primary markets continue to advance, prices here have been marked up 25c. on the standard B grade. No Crystal Japan, is obtainable. We quote : standard B, $4.; Patna, $5 to $5.50; Carolina, $7.25 to $7.75; choice Burmah, $4.50 to $4.75, and Java kinds, $4.75 to $5.

DRIED FRUIT.

The currant market continues quiet, but very firm, and offerings for fresh importation this spring in this market have been conspicuous by their absence.

Valencia raisins rule firm, and there are few offerings for forward shipment. Jobbers on spot have enough to go along with, though they are not disinclined to speculate when a good opportunity offers, owing to the Spanish-American war. So far, there have been few ; in fact, agents state that they have not had a cable quotation for over a fortnight. Local prices are steady.

Stocks of California raisins are extremely light, and, as there are few on the way, holders are very firm on values. There is one carload of 2 and 3-crown on the way from the Coast, and the firm in question could not procure any more, though they tried hard to do so.

The prune market is very firm, and, though not quotably changed, values, especially on California fruit, are strong, with an upward tendency. No fresh supplies can be had on the Coast.

Figs and dates remain unchanged.

Evaporated fruits are firmly held all round.

NUTS.

The market continues steady to firm, in response to the strength abroad. Valencia shelled almonds are enquired for, both for import and for jobbing distribution, but are difficult to obtain. Filberts are firm at last week's advance.

GREEN FRUIT.

The big auction sales being all concluded the green fruit market has resumed its normal condition. Business during the week was fair, and prices, while showing some variation, are not radically altered from last week's level. We quote : Lemons, $2 to $3.50 per box for fancy, and $1 to $2 for good; oranges, $3 to $3.25 for fancy, and $2 for good. Southern strawberries are firmer at 15 to 18c. and pineapples at 15 to 18c. Bananas range from $1 to $1.75.

DRIED APPLES.

Very little is doing in dried or evaporated apples in a large way, but values are freely held.

APPLES.

Remain as last quoted, at $3 to $5 per bbl.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—A fairly active trade continues to be done in eggs, and, although the receipts are liberal, which are fully expected at this season, prices are well sustained at 9 to 10c. per dozen.

BEANS—There has been a much firmer feeling in beans, and prices are advanced all round, primes selling at $1 and choice hand-picked at $1.10 to $1.15.

HONEY—Business in honey is exceedingly quiet and prices are nominal. We quote : White clover comb, 11c. to 12c. ; dark, 8c. to 10c.; white strained, 6c. to 7c., and dark, 4c. to 5c.

CLUB BRAND COFFEES

The following extract is from a letter recently received from one of the largest jobbers in the Maritime Provinces :—"The blend of Coffee we get from you suits us to perfection."

OUR CLUB BLENDS ARE ABSOLUTELY THE BEST IN THE TRADE. SAMPLES SENT ON APPLICATION.

S. H. Ewing & Sons, Importers and Manufacturers Montreal

MAPLE PRODUCT—The demand for small lots of maple product is fair, but the market on the whole is quiet and steady. Syrup in wood selling at 4½ to 4¾c. per lb., and in tins at 45c. to 50c., as to size. Sugar moves freely at 6c. to 6¼c. per lb.

POTATOES—The Yankees have been large buyers of potatoes throughout Quebec and Eastern Ontario, and have paid freely 40c. per bushel for them at country points. This demand has sensibly reduced reserve supplies throughout the country and stocks are light. Here 70c. per bag is bid on track.

TALLOW—Rules quiet at 1½ to 1¾c. for rough, and 3 to 3¼c. for refined.

HOPS—Dull, but steady, choice, 12 to 14c., and yearlings, 8 and 10c.

PROVISIONS.

There was no change in the situation of the local provision market. A fair trade continues to be done in most lines and prices rule steady. We quote : Canadian pork, $15.50 to $16 per barrel; pure Canadian lard, in pails, at 8¼c. to 8½c. ; and compound refined at 5½c. to 5¾c. per lb. ; hams, 11½c. to 12c. ; bacon, 12c. per lb.

FLOUR, GRAIN, ETC.

The grain market locally, in sympathy with the situation elsewhere, has been subject to rather violent fluctuation during the past week. At this writing a steadier feeling is noticeable, and prices have recovered from 3 to 5c. on wheat, though they are still away below where they were last week. Shippers here paid $1.09 per bushel for No. 2 red. Foreign bids for Manitoba No. 1 hard wheat were equal to $1.37 per bushel afloat Fort William. A fair trade was done in oats on the basis of 39½ to 40c. afloat. Peas were offered at 70c. afloat, and buckwheat at 52c.

The flour market, on the contrary, has not only retained all the advance recorded last week, but prices have risen still further. Export demand has been active, both the big local milling concerns putting through quite a quantity of flour for foreign shipment. Prices are higher all round, as follows : Winter wheat patents, $6 to $6.25 ; straight rollers, $5.75 to $5.85 ; bags, $2.70 to $2.85; Manitoba patents, $6.90 to $7.40, and strong bakers', $6.50 to $7 ; extra, in bags, $2.50 to $2.60.

There was no change in the feed market. A fair demand is reported at steady prices. We quote: Ontario winter wheat bran, $13.50 to $14 ; shorts, $16 per ton in bulk ; Manitoba bran, $14 ; shorts, $16, and moullie, $17 to $18 per ton, including bags.

The meal market was quiet, and without any new feature. The demand is slow and prices unchanged at $4.30 per barrel, and at $2.10 per bag for rolled oats.

The tone of the hay market is firm, and a good trade is reported at $10 to $10.50 for No. 1, and at $8 to $9 for No. 2 per ton, in car lots.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

Cheese, while not quotably altered, is rather easier in its tone. Based on last week's purchases at country points, the spot market should be an 8 to 8¼c. one, but buyers on spot are not disposed to freely concede this range. In fact, demand is narrow, being confined largely to a few operators. Enquiry in England, also, since the boom of a few weeks ago, has slackened. About 100 French cheese came in on the boat this morning, and were distributed, not sold, on the wharf, so that no price can be named on it, but buyers state that it is not worth more than 7¾ to 7⅞c. There was no special news from the country to-day, except that all the old cheese has not yet been cleaned up, as a shipper received the offer of a lot from the west to-day.

The butter market was quiet and inclined to heaviness to-day, for, though 17c. was asked for finest creamery, it was difficult to obtain, and 16½c. was the more general idea with buyers. Roll dairy was quiet, but steady, at 13 to 13½c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Both Japan and China teas, worth from 15 to 18c., are short here, while enquiry is brisk for them.

Cables note another advance of 1c. in the first cost of Barbadoes molasses at the Islands. This is 5c. in less than a month.

Local prices on flour have not been affected by the fluctuations in wheat. They are all, on the contrary, advanced on last week's range.

California raisins are scarce, both in first and second hands here, and all that one importer could gather up on the Coast was a single carload of two and three-crown fruit.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., May 17, 1898.

THE week has been a busy one. Values in nearly all lines are higher. In some, as in pork products and beef, the advance during the week has been very marked. These lines are not large sellers at this season. The weather keeps cold and wet here, which makes roads through the country bad. A fair trade is, however, doing. Money is a little scarce. This is the season lumbermen are expected to pay their accounts for winter's supplies, but this year they have not disposed of their lumber, so are inclined to ask extra time. Were it not for the dullness in lumber, this spring would be a particularly profitable one. It is many years since the wholesale grocery trade was making such good profits. In tea, a good trade is reported, largely for blends, in which India and Ceylon teas play a chief part. Vessel freights are good, particularly for large vessels. Shipments from St. John are light. Potatoes show better prices. Large quantities are going to the United States market.

OIL—Burning oil shows but the limited sale usual at this season. In lubricating, the sale is good at present, but the future gives promise of a quieter season than usual. In paint oils sales during the week were good, and prices are rather higher.

SALT—In coarse the demand is still quite active in spite of the fact that during the winter large quantities were shipped to consuming points, where demand would not begin till spring. A cargo, now due, is largely sold. Prices are rather higher. There are fair stocks. In factory-filled, the sale is quiet. It is effected by the increasing sale of Canadian salt in this market each year. We quote as follows: Liverpool coarse, 45 to 48c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 to $2.60 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30; mineral rock salt, 60c. to $1.

CANNED GOODS—As regards change in price, corned beef takes the lead, the advance being about 35 per cent. The Canadian packers are keeping their price firm. Dealers are largely stocked at the low prices, so that dealers are selling at about packers' prices or less. Corn, peas and tomatoes are firmly held, particularly the last named, and higher prices are looked for. Stocks are limited. In peaches, packers are inclined to advance prices. There is a good sale. In pineapple, the demand is good, and chiefly for grated. Oysters are firm. In salmon, the prices show no change, and, stocks being large, little change is expected. Lobsters are still high. There seems a better demand for blueberries than usual at this season. It may be because stocks are light GREEN FRUIT—Business is active, and large quantities of fruit are arriving. Prices tending higher. Some four cars of oranges and lemons arrived from Montreal this week, bought from the large cargo arriving there. Prices paid were rather higher than was expected on account of American demand. California oranges continue to move freely. In bananas, each week sees increased sales. Pines tend easier, but sale here is light; season is yet early. A few California cherries were received this week. In strawberries, prices this week were rather firmer. Rhubarb continues to improve in appearance and to ease off in price. Some good cabbage are now coming forward.

DRIED FRUIT—Little can be said. Everything is quiet. A fair stock of raisins is held, chiefly Malaga and California loose muscatels. The latter are preferred; prices easy; but prospects are for higher prices in Californias. There is a rather improved demand for seeded stock, and prices are somewhat lower. The few currants moving are chiefly cleaned. California prunes and evaporated fruits tend higher; demand is rather less. The sale is for 25-lb. boxes. Small-sized prunes are scarce. In onions, a large quantity of Bermudas went forward to Boston, via St. John, this week. Stocks here are not large. Prices show little change. Egyptians are being freely received. In apples there is little doing.

DAIRY PRODUCT—In butter, low prices are quoted this week, and buyers are getting particular about quality. There are good stocks. Eggs show quite a range in price, but they are, on the whole, rather firmer. Prices have been much lower here than on Prince Edward Island. In cheese, old still holds the market. There is but little change. Local cheese factories are now beginning to manufacture.

SUGAR—Prices continue to move up slowly, but surely. The business here is largely in the hands of the Nova Scotia refinery. One of the Montreal refineries is now offering, and the other is doing but a limited business here. There are fair stocks held.

MOLASSES—Prices continue to advance. and our dealers are caught short of stock, It is largely their own fault, as Barbadoes could have been easily bought, but the experience of the last two years, and the prospect early in the season of its being repeated, rather scared some dealers, and the result is lost chances. To a few who carried over stocks, particularly Porto Rico, the market has been a fortunate one. New Orleans is being received, after being out of the market for some time.

FISH—Except in dry cod, business is rather quiet. In this line, stocks are light and prices higher. Pollock show no change. Smoked herring show light sale, few are held here. Pickled herring are dull. In fresh fish the catch of Gaspereaux continues light, and the season is about over, the catch being only about one-quarter as large as usual. Alewives have been dull, but this is not so much regretted. There is a fair catch of cod and haddock. Halibut show fair receipts. Shad begin to be caught quite freely, and a stray salmon is seen. We quote: Large cod, $3.50 to $3.65; medium, $3.35 to $3.50; pollock, $1.80 to $1.90; Grand Manan pickled herring, $1.85 to $1.95 per half-bbl.; smoked herring, 8 to 9c. per box; Canso, pickled, $5 per bbl.; boneless fish, 3½ to 4½c.; cod, 6 to 7c.; finnan haddies, 4 to 4½c.; fresh Gaspereau, 35c. per 100; fresh halibut, 8 to 9c. per lb.; shad, 20 to 25c.

PROVISIONS—Barreled pork and beef are very high; advance has been sharp, and the outlook favors higher prices. Little is doing here; season is quite late. Stocks are not large. In smoked meats there is the same movement, a fair trade doing. Lard took quite a jump this week; fair stocks are held. Prices in this market have kept about the same as those asked by packers.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—It is years since flour showed the profit it now does, and the advance found our dealers well prepared. It is difficult to get full prices. A good demand is reported. In oatmeal there has been quite an advance; stocks are light, buyers being backward to take hold. There are but fair sales reported. Cornmeal, which is now in procession, is higher and moves freely. Oats are up; but few New Brunswick oats are offering. In feed, there has been but limited advance, but it is hard to get. In hay there is very little moving. In hay there is very little moving. Beans are hardly as high as a year or two ago, though still well above prices of four weeks ago.

MOLASSES STILL ADVANCING.

MAIL advices from New York state that houses there are in receipt of advices, from the Islands, on Barbadoes molasses, which reported the market strong at a further advance of 1c. per gallon, making first cost 13c., or cost and freight 22½c., and this figure is equal to 30½ to 31c., duty paid in Montreal. This may mean that with not a half crop of Barbadoes molasses this year, and not 3,000 puncheons afloat for Quebec and Montreal up to the present, as against 11,000 puncheons last year, that the top mark has not been seen yet. With the short sales that have been made, and smaller stocks on spot than any other season, the prospects are for much higher prices, especially as Porto Rico, Antigua and other ports are entirely shut out. Barbadoes planters have been boiling molasses largely into sugar and offers are out of the question now. The New York Commercial, under date of May 14, says: The feature in the molasses market was the receipt of a cable from Barbadoes reporting 1c. per gallon advance, making an advance of 5c. per gallon in four weeks, and molasses not obtainable. Crop short fully 16,000 to 18,000 puncheons. This was encouraging to local holders of foreign molasses, and they continued to show a very strong front. Top prices were realized. At New Orleans conditions are unchanged, but the feeling there is quite as strong as it is here.

Montserrat LIME FRUIT JUICE

No other brand of Lime Juice can compare with it for purity.

"Montserrat" has many imitators, but no equals. Some other brands have even gone so far as to collect old "Montserrat" bottles, and fill them with their inferior article in order to get a sale for it.

High Class Grocers everywhere sell and recommend "Montserrat" Lime Fruit Juice above all other brands.

Always ask for "MONTSERRAT."

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, May 16, 1898.

THE excitement over wheat has cooled somewhat with the drop in price, though the market is still a very good one, closing at $1.20 afloat Fort William. The highest price realized at Manitoba points during the week was $1.23. The millers, judging that the market was not a stable one, did not advance flour in proportion, and are now holding at last week's figures. There have been offerings of both new creamery butter and new cheese during the week, but the quantities are at present limited. Eggs have fallen, and are now plentiful. Business continues good in all lines. Wheat is up, but wants rain to make it grow rapidly. There has been a good demand for seed potatoes the last few days.

GREEN FRUIT—The season may said to be now fully open, with all seasonable goods in stock. Several Winnipeg merchants bought heavily at the Montreal lemon sales, and have also laid in good supplies of Egyptian onions. Orders for 24th May trade will be placed this coming week, and all the fruit houses are preparing for a rush. There are a few fancy California navels on the market, and will be for the next week or ten days, quoted at $4 per case; fancy seedlings, $3. California lemons are off this market. Messinas run from $3.75 to $4.25 per case, according to size and grade. Apples are high. Fancy Spys, $5.50; second grade, $4.50; Baldwins and Russets, $4.50. In bananas, fine lines of Port Limon fruit are shown, and, contrary to expectation, the price has declined slightly, instead of advancing. Quotations are: $2.25 to $2.75, according to the size; pine apples, choice Floridas, $4 per dozen; strawberries, $5 per case of 24 quarts; pie plant, Minnesota, $1.50 the 50-lb. box; tomatoes, 6 basket crates, $4; Egyptian onions, $4.50 per 100 lb.; green onions, radishes, mint, parsley, 35c. per dozen; lettuce, 40c.

BUTTER—Some small offerings of Manitoba creamery. The opening price will be about 18c., though 20c. is paid for small lots of fancy creamery in 1-lb. bricks. Dairy butter is more plentiful than it was, and the quality is improving. Choice dairy, 16 to 17c., point of shipment.

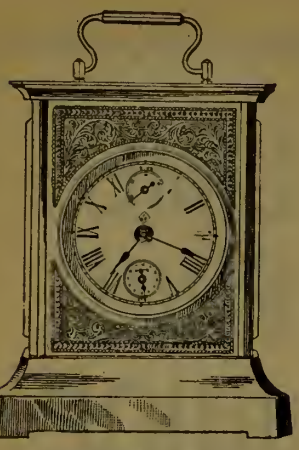
CHEESE—Small amount of Manitoba May cheese is offering. Dealers are paying 9c. at point of shipment and selling at 10.

EGGS — Plentiful and cheap. Price is rather variable. General price, however, is 9c. point of shipment.

CURED MEATS—Market is firm with a still upward tendency. Quotations are: Sugar cured smoked meats—Hams, 12c.; breakfast bellies, 12½c.; backs, 12c.; shoulders, 9½c.; spiced rolls, 10½c. Dry salt meats—Long clear bacon, 9½c.; extra short clear, 9c.; do smoked, 10c.; square cut shoulders, 9c.

LARD—Market is firm. Pure lard in 20-lb. pails, $2; 3-lb. tins, per case, 60 lb., $6.50; in tierces of 400 lb., 9½c.; compound lard, 20-lb. pails, $1.60.

SUGAR—Market has remained without change for the week. Granulated, 5⅛ to 5¼c.; yellow, 4⅝ to 4¾c., according to grade; lump sugar, 5⅝ to 5⅞c., as to size of package.



COFFEE — Market firm. Mochas and Javas, 24 to 25c. per lb.; Rios, 10 to 10½c.

EVAPORATED FRUITS—Market continues firm, but no change in price has occurred for a week, and none is looked for in the immediate future. The scare about frost has evidently driven apricots about as high as they will go, namely 11½c.

CANNED GOODS—Situation is also without change, though tomatoes, as noted last week, are a little easier. The price is $3.15 to $3.20. Corn, $2 15 to $2.20; peas, $2.25 to $2.75, according to brand. The advance in corned beef, and in fact, all canned meats is fully maintained.

RICE—Situation is without variation. Nominally, Japan rice is worth 6¾c. per lb., but in reality there is none on the market. Patna is coming in, and selling at 5¾c.; Rangoon and "B" rice, 4½ to 4¾c.

FLOUR—Patent, $3 for 98-lb. sack; strong bakers, $2.80; 2nd bakers, $2.25; XXXX., $1.50. Cereal market is firm. Rolled oats, $2; cornmeal, $1.45; split peas, $2.25; beans, $1.50, the expected advance in this product having taken place.

AUSTRALIAN EGGS FOR ENGLAND.

SHIPPING eggs to England from so distant a place of production as Australia appeared not long ago to be an impossibility. Owing, however, to the use of refrigerating machinery, Australian eggs can be landed in this country not only sound, but, according to an Australian agricultural paper, in "such perfect condition that some of the best English houses have purchased and sold them as new laid." A representative of a large London firm shipped from Australia a couple of years since many thousands of dozens. The firm reported that the eggs were of good quality and presented an attractive appearance, being carefully packed in cardboard divisions, filled up with dry pea husks. The consignment was carried at 1 deg. above freezing point, and the freight cost about 2d. per doz. leaving the net return of 9d. per dozen. The local price at the time of shipping was 5d. to 5½d. per dozen. To develop a new-laid egg trade with England, Australian poultry-keepers are warned that the eggs must be forwarded to the cold store while they are still perfectly fresh, and, like poultry, they must be shipped so as to reach England at the dearest time for such products, which, in the case of eggs, is during the three months November to January. After this period home prices fall to such an extent that exporting is no longer payable, and as supplies to the Australian markets are then becoming limited, and prices are advancing, the egg-producer will have remunerative returns throughout the year.—Commerce.

"WATCHED" BY HIS EMPLOYERS.

Mr. Robert H. Donkin, head shipper for Perkins, Ince & Co., wholesale grocers, Toronto, recently completed his thirtieth year in the firm's employ, and the other day Mr. Donkin and his fellow shippers were called into Mr. Ince's private office. They expected a lecture was in store for them, but, to their surprise, Mr. W. Ince, sr., rose to his feet and handed Mr. Donkin a handsome gold watch as a recognition of his 30 years' faithful service. Mr. Ince accompanied the gift with a few complimentary remarks.

Mr. Donkin came to Canada in 1861 with the Royal Artillery during the Trent affair, and shortly after leaving the artillery he entered the employ of Perkins, Ince & Co.

THE FRUIT SALES.

The last sale of direct green fruit for the season 1898 was held at the Montreal Fruit Auction Co.'s rooms Saturday last. The fruit offered was ex steamships Truma and Bellona, and consisted of 14,000 boxes of lemons and oranges. The attendance of buyers was large, and the bidding throughout brisk, especially from local dealers, who took the bulk of the offerings. The condition of the fruit was good, and considering the large quantity put up by auction this season here the prices realized all round were satisfactory, they being in many cases higher than those ruling in the American markets. Lemons sold at from 90c. to $2.65 per box, as to quality and condition. Oranges in boxes brought $2 to $2.60, and in half boxes 90c. to $2.30.

ROSE'S LIME JUICE AND THE WAR.

While the existing war, between the United States and Spain, may interfere with some lime juice manufacturers, Rose & Co., of Leith and London, will not find themselves hindered by it. Their extensive plantations are on the Island of Martinique, where they have been growing immense crops of this delicious fruit ever since they first patented their celebrated lime juice. Martinique is French territory, so, of course, neutral and not affected by the war.

Rose's lime juice is now being offered to the trade in imperial quarts and pints, both sizes being in the usual handsome engraved bottles, which are almost a trade mark of Rose's lime juice, and its large sale in Canada should be further increased by this move.

AMONG TORONTO RETAILERS.

Keeping Meat Clean-Looking.

Between winter's cold and summer's warmth there is a time of mildness during which I noticed quite a number of retailers are rather inclined to be careless in their handling of meats. In two or three stores I went into, notably one on Carlton street, I noticed the meat lying carelessly on a back counter, some of it looking quite dried. In the Carlton street store, a couple of smoked backs were somewhat clean, but were lying on the counter, one partly resting on the other with the cut edge rubbing on and gathering any dirt lying about. A roll was lying beside these, and as the cords which should be holding it in shape had become loosened, and as it was somewhat stale looking, I would not have been attracted to purchase thereof. There was a roll of bologna close by, and it was no better than the roll of bacon or the smoked backs. Of course, the weather is not so hard on meats yet, but if they are to be exposed, if you want to have the desirable reputation for cleanliness, or if you want to sell the meat, do not leave it in a slovenly or careless position on the counter. And see that the clerks do not. Most women are more particular than men, so you cannot afford to let your shop be slovenly in any respect because you would not notice such a thing.

Nice Stores.

Speaking about cleanliness leads to thinking about attractiveness, and in this connection I desire to say that there is a large proportion of the grocery stores of Toronto which are really attractive. Possibly this is a result of severe competition, which brightens merchants and makes them more anxious to attract customers. Be it a result of what it may, it is a good one and might be a good example to those who have not yet devoted their energies in the line of more attractiveness. I believe it would pay in every case for a merchant who is in an unattractive store to move, or, if he owns the building himself, to spend sufficient money on his premises till they are equal to any of his neighboring rivals. John Coutts has recently moved from one store, on Parliament street, to another much brighter and more attractive, at Gerrard and Parliament streets. It has paid him well. But more than that he has now a nicer store to live in. The store is where many retailers and clerks spend the most, and certainly the best part of their days. This being so why should not every merchant make it his endeavor to have his business house something more than a place for the mere selling of goods. Some may say that business is business, but life is more than business. Business is only a means to the end of our sustenance and enjoyment of life and should never be allowed to grow into an end itself, for when it does it dwarfs a man, making him a mere machine.

Shorter Hours.

I have had quite a number of conversations with retailers and clerks about shorter hours, and the answers I have received to my questions have been so conflicting, that it is almost impossible to arrive at a conclusion from the experience of others. Of this, I am persuaded, however, that in nearly every part of Toronto there is no real need for late hours in shops. Saturday night seems to be so ingrained in the customs of the public as shopping time, that it is now almost a necessity. On one other night in the week, say Tuesday evening till eight o'clock, it might be advisable to remain open for the convenience of those who cannot do their shopping during the daytime. On the other evenings there is no necessity for open stores, and, as there is no necessity, the merchants are giving themselves and their clerks more labor than is necessary. How to stop keeping open. That is a different thing. Very much so, but combined action on the part of the principal stores is all that is wanted. One grocer told me that he had not enough faith in the grocers of Toronto to believe that they would keep open after promising to do so. I would be very sorry to beleive that, and I do not believe it of the grocers I have met. The difficulties in Toronto would be great because of the small fruit stores which say they could not close down, claiming the evening to be their best business hours. Quite a number of sharp, progressive towns have early closing stores, to the satisfaction of all concerned. Why not the rest ?

How About Your Wagon ?

I wonder how it is that some grocers, after spending much time and money in getting their store fixed up in a neat and business-like manner, can send their goods to their customers in an old, worn-out, or poorly painted delivery wagon? Is it because they leave the driver to look after it ? Or is it because they do not think people notice or take any interest in the wagon which brings them their goods ? The first reason is inexcusable, as laziness always is. The second is a decidedly mistaken one, for the people who are willing "to pay a little more" for first-class goods, are, and have a reason to be particular about the wagon, as well as the manner in which goods are delivered. It is a noteworthy fact that the eminently successful retail grocers of Toronto have neat, bright wagons ; in fact, the difference between their wagons and the ordinary retailers' is more noticeable than the difference between their shops, and much more noticeable than the difference between their goods. Possibly some may give as a reason for not having a first-class delivery wagon, that they cost too much money. There are cases where retailers with small capital should content themselves with a cheap wagon, but that does not necessitate it being unpainted or unclean. Advertising costs money, but it pays, and a good wagon is a good advertisement, and the ambitious merchant who desires to grow should look to it that his wagon shall draw rather than turn away custom from his doors.

NEW STORES STARTING.

McGILL & DARROCH have opened out in business as grocers, provision, crockery and glassware dealers in Collingwood, Ont. Their store has been fitted up with the most modern furnishings, including shelving, glass cases, mirrors, etc., all in hardwood finish. The ceiling is handsomely paneled, and a neat office adorns the end of the main store. In the rear are spacious warerooms fitted out with every convenience for handling goods in large quantities. Their store looks fresh and appetizing, and should at once attract the attention of housekeepers. As enterprise does count, this firm should get a good share of trade in Collingwood, as it started off by issuing a large number of attractive circulars, and by publishing a full-width, front page advertisement in the local paper, a combination which should make McGill & Darroch known to every housekeeper of Collingwood.

SELLING FIGS FOR DELIVERY.

THE Smyrna Courier, of April 23, contains a leading article on the fig trade. Evidently the article is considered important, as it is put first with a large heading. Last year, The Courier points out, the fig trade was very unfavorable to the commerce of Smyrna. The exporters of the fruit had to record a loss estimated at more than £25,000 Turkish. On the other hand, the merchants in the consuming countries also made a loss. This is ascribed to two causes. According to The Courier, the Smyrna fig people "sold the skin of the bear before killing the animal."

Convinced that the fig crop of 1897 would attain 85,000 loads, they contracted to deliver at a price altogether absurd. They had counted upon the weather being in favor of a good crop, and that no cause would likely check this expectation. Unfortunately for them and their calculations, the north wind, indispensable for ripening the fig, made a complete default in August last, and, what was still more fatal, an abundant dew wet the fruit every night. These two causes not only reduced the crop to 65,000 loads, but also affected the quality of the fig.

A shortage of 20,000 loads not only influenced the price in Smyrna market, but meant loss to merchants who had sold for delivery. As the quality of the fruit left a good deal to be desired the wholesale purchasers in the consuming countries were obliged, in spite of themselves, to sell the product that it was not well to keep, hence a loss on their part which we do not know how to estimate.

Now, this year, continues The Courier, exceptional atmospheric conditions have occurred in good time to fig merchants, who are eager to sell for delivery, a warning which ought to be salutary, Have they the wisdom to profit by it? Since the month of March the skies have indicated, even if everything goes well, that the fig crop cannot go higher than 40,000 loads at most. In short, the month of March last saw a sharp and sudden return of winter, which threatened to destroy the buds of the figs that had come out under the rays of the February sun; frost had exercised its action on the trees, which were already beginning to sprout, and in some hours sensibly reduced the most healthy outlook.

Yet another cause, according to The Courier, is affecting the fig crop. It seems that the fig crop depends on the fertilization of one tree by another, and, strange to say, this year the weather has been very hard on the very trees which possess the fertilizing seed. The fig merchant expects that a supply of the fertilizing seed may be drawn from Cypress, Crete and other regions, but our Smyrna contemporary thinks the condition is one that ought to warn those who sell for delivery. The article concludes as follows: "From the preceding, and keeping in view the accident which may produce in 1898 the same kind of weather in August, which is the fig season, our fig merchants should show enough wisdom not to effect this year what is called 'selling for delivery.' Our advices from the interior, which are trustworthy, warrants our advising them at least to act with greater prudence."

DO YOUR DUTY.

"DO that which is assigned you," says Emerson, "and you cannot hope too much, or dare too much. There is, at this moment, for you an utterance brave and grand as that of the colossal chisel of Phidias, or trowel of the Egyptians, or the pen of Moses or Dante, but different from all these."

"The best way for a young man to begin, who is without friends or influence, is," said Russell Sage, "first, by getting a position; second, keeping his mouth shut; third, observing; fourth, being faithful; fifth, making his employer think he would be lost in a fog without him; and sixth, being polite."

"Close application, integrity, attention to details, discreet advertising," are given as the four steps to success, by John Wanamaker, whose motto is, "Do the next thing."

"There lives not a man on earth, outside of a lunatic asylum," says Bulwer, "who has not in him the power to do good What can writers, haranguers, or speculators do more than that? Have you ever entered a cottage, ever traveled in a coach, ever talked with a peasant in the field, or loitered with a mechanic at the loom, and not found that each of those men had a talent you had not, knew some things you knew not? The most useless creature that ever yawned at a club, or counted the vermin on his rags, under the sun of Calabria, has no excuse for want of intellect. What men want is not talent, it is purpose; in other words, not the power to achieve, but the will to labor."

There is only one constant factor that can enter into all professions and businesses—the service of mankind. It need interfere with no honest calling, or with its success. That Christian factor is the only thing that gives the highest success, the most enduring life—a worthy immortality. We do not choose our parts in life and have nothing to do with those parts. Our simple duty is confined to playing them well.—Epictetus.

"What shall I do to be forever known?"
Thy duty ever!
"This did full many who yet sleep all unknown,"—
Oh, never, never!
Think'st thou, perchance, that they remain unknown,
Whom thou know'st not?
By angel trumps in heaven their praise is blown,
Divine their lot.

CALIFORNIA PRUNES

REVIEWING the prune situation, The California Fruit Grower in its issue of May 7 says: "Stocks are well cleaned up and prices advancing. The Santa Clara County Fruit Exchange holdings of some 24 cars were sold during the week. Prices are firm at an advance of from ½c. to ¾c. over last week. There has been active buying for some days. The basis price to-day is 3½c. for Santa Clara stock and 3¼c. for outside stock. The quantity of prunes in first hands in the State is estimated at less than 100 cars. Chicago buyers are on the market taking undipped, ungraded stock at a ¼c. to ½c. advance over prices of a few days ago. We learn of shipments of choice graded stock from Chicago to New York at full figures. This indicates light holdings on the Atlantic seaboard. The upward movement has been so rapid that Eastern buyers have been slow to take advantage of the low prices. Large and small sizes are scarce. The heavy trading has been in 60s to 70s at 4 to 4¼c. in bags f.o.b. If the Eastern trade responds, prices on the coast will reach a 4c. basis for Santa Clara stock inside of 10 days. Overland shipments from San Jose for the season to April 30 were 55,019,437 pounds. For the month of April the movement from San Jose was 1,300,000 pounds. It is reported that Porter Bros. Co., Chicago, are heavy buyers of Santa Clara County prunes. This firm has purchased during the week 200 tons ungraded, average size 60s to 70s, and all the exchange holdings, some 20 or 25 carloads."

URGENCY FOR CANNED MEAT.

"It was said to-day," says the N.Y. Journal of Commerce, May 14, "that the immediate requirements of the United States Government for canned corned beef had overrun the limits of the contracts recently made with jobbers here, and that calls had been made upon the representatives of the packers in this city for large quantities, cleaning up about everything they had on hand and leading to the sharp advance in prices noted in our market reports."

HEAVY YIELD OF PEACHES.

Canners are on the ground in Placer County, Cal., offering to contract for cling peaches at extremely good prices, according to reports in The Placer Herald, which says it is rumored that one large grower has contracted to sell his clings at $50 per ton, though as a rule the orchardists are inclined to hold their crops and await developments. All deciduous fruits, plums possibly excepted, will, it is stated, yield heavily this year in that section. The peach crop, from all reports, will be the largest in the history of Placer County.

POOR SALMON CATCH.

The first month of salmon fishing on the Columbia River has ended, and reports thus far indicate a short catch. According to one correspondent in Astoria, Ore., the conditions prevailing on the Columbia River at present recall the state of affairs existing during the early part of the season of 1889. The water in the river is unusually low, and at the date the letter was written there were no signs of spring freshets, owing to the almost total absence of snow on the mountains. "All of these signs," the writer says, "portend a very poor fishing season. The pack of 1899 was only 325,000 cases, and under similar conditions the pack this year is likely to be even smaller, for the reason that there is now a demand for a large quantity for shipment fresh. In fact, a very large proportion of the present catch cannot be secured by the canneries because of the higher price offered by the fresh fish shippers. . . . Admitting a pack as large as that of 1889, even in the face of the heavy shipments of fresh fish, there would be a shortage of fully 150,000 cases." —N.Y. Journal of Commerce.

ADVANCE IN CRACKERS.

The market for crackers is 2c. per lb. higher on the average, owing to the increase in the cost of raw materials, and the large requirements of the Government. The New York Journal of Commerce says: "Higher prices are looked for, and a more active demand from consumers is reported."

LIGHT ORANGE SHIPMENTS.

A California fruit firm, in a letter from Los Angeles, dated May 5, says: "The daily shipments of California oranges this week have decreased fully 50 per cent. as compared with the last half of April, and the indications are that they will continue comparatively light from now on. Over 11,000 carloads of oranges have already been shipped from the State, as against the total output of 7,200 carloads last season, and there is probably not as much fruit left here at the present time as there was a year ago. The heavy shipments which went forward last month and the larger percentage of fruit shipped ventilator, which arrived in bad order, had a depressing influence upon the markets, but, as the shipments are so much lighter, and the fruit is being under refrigeration, thus assuring sound arrival, there is no doubt of a marked improvement in the market in a very short time. The navels are practically all shipped, there being but a few cars of this variety to go forward. There is still a fair supply of seedlings and Mediterranean sweets and a limited quantity of 'paper rind' St. Michaels and Valencias."

TOMATOES ACTIVE.

Spot tomatoes are reported to be in active demand and supplies are closely cleaned up. Up to $1 for Malylands has, it is reported, been paid for spot goods, but buyers seem unwilling to go on at that price. It is also reported that large transactions in futures sales, amounting to 6,000 to 10,000 cases, at 70c. in country, have taken place. —N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

BRITISH CHEESE MARKETS.

After a long period of quiescence cheese seems to be moving once more, and prices have advanced. The abnormally low prices which have ruled during the autumn and winter have undoubtedly increased consumption, provision dealers having given the full benefit of the low range to their customers, and the consequence is that the enormous reserves have been slowly but surely drawn upon until demand is almost at the heels of supply. There can be no great rise, however, now, the new make not being far ahead. We are pleased to learn that fodders are not being extensively made in Canada this year for export; we can do without them.—Grocers' Journal.

CURRANTS DULL IN LONDON.

As might have been expected, after the more than usually good business of the two previous weeks, the demand for currants has not been quite so active during the one now closing. The quieter feeling has been reflected in the price, which has declined to the extent of 6d. per cwt., owing to the evident desire of some of the holders to clear out their remaining stocks. At so late a period of the season this is quite a natural, and indeed a usual state of things and is more likely to occur when prices are high, than when very low values prevail, and merchants feel that there are probabilities of considerable profit in holding over their fruit into a new season. In the present position it must, of course, be admitted that values are above what may be considered to be normal, but, as against this it is firmly maintained, by many who are in the best possible position for gauging the matter, that for one reason or another the growing crop will be only of very moderate dimensions. It is, of course, too early to come to any very accurate conclusions on the matter; but if the more pessimistic view turns out to be correct, the coming season will more probably be one of high than of low prices.—Produce Markets' Review, May 7.

CANNED SALMON IN LONDON.

Some important sales of Fraser River salmon, both tall and flat tins, have transpired, and, judging by the numerous inquiries, the former description appears to be in much smaller supply than the present low prices warrant. The price for ½ lb. tine continues to harden. Alaska salmon has sold less freely, but prices are steady.—Produce Markets' Review, London.

AUSTRALIAN WHEAT CROP.

The estimates of wheat production for the Australian continent, according to Bradstreet's, are as follows:

	1896-7. Bushels.	1897-8. Bushels.	Increase. Bushels.
Victoria (official)	7,091,000	10,425,000	3,334,000
New South Wales (offic'l).	8,853,000	10,548,000	1,695,000
Queensland (official)	601,000	812,000	211,000
South Australia (private).	3,000,000	4,500,000	1,500,000
Western Australia	(Nothing appreciable.)
Total Australia....	19,545,000	26,285,000	6,740,000

Putting the population of the five colonies at 3,300,000, food requirements may be reckoned at 19,000,000 bushels (average 5¾ bushels per head). For seed, about 3,500,000 bushels are required. It would appear, therefore, that the production is about 3,750,000 bushels in excess of total requirements, and that this quantity must be shipped in other parts of the world. Already some 500,000 bushels have been engaged for South Africa, and a small quantity has gone to Marseilles.

CANNED SALMON FOR SOLDIERS.

A petition to the Government to place canned salmon on the list of army and navy rations has been circulated during the past few days, and, it is reported, has been numerously signed by commission merchants, jobbers and others interested. It was stated here to-day that the Government had favorably considered the petition, and that it was probable that salmon would be included in the regular rations of the army and navy.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce, May 17.

THE CANADIAN GROCER

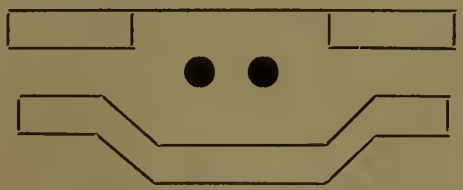
Vol. XII. (Published Weekly) TORONTO AND MONTREAL, MAY 27, 1898. ($2.00 per Year) No. 21

A MODERN GROCERY AND PROVISION STORE.

WITH the gradual improvement in business methods has naturally come an improvement in store arrangement, store appurtenances, etc. Evidences of this are to be seen in every city, town and village in the Dominion. But one of the most striking evidences is to be seen in the new business premises of John Duff & Son, retail grocers and provision dealers, 216 and 218 York street, Hamilton.

Mr. John Duff started the business some 30 years ago one door west of the firm's present stand. Two years later he was compelled, on account of trade expansion, to remove to larger premises in the building which has now been supplanted by the present new and handsome structure. In 1881 Mr. Charles Duff became a member of the firm, and three years ago Mr. Robert Duff became a partner.

When the Messrs. Duff undertook the erection of their new premises, their object was chiefly to make them neat and well supplied with modern appurtenances. But, had their intentions been of the most ambitious character, they could scarcely have been more successful. The new store of John Duff & Sons is one of the finest, if not the finest, of its kind in Canada to-day. And it is no exaggeration to say so.



THE NEW BUILDING.

The building is 40 feet front by 60 feet in depth and three storeys in height, plain brick, with a very moderate amount of stone trimming. The whole front is of plate glass. There is one large window in each store, nine feet in width. Between these two windows there is an alcove or recess six feet from the sidewalk, and a smaller window between the two doors, giving abundant opportunity for outdoor display. The partition between the two stores is also plate glass in large lights, as well as the display front of the refrigerator in the meat department. In the grocery department are two large mirrors. The interior finish and fixtures are of quartered oak with rubbed finish. The ceiling is metallic, and also the walls above the shelving and cornices. In the meat store the counters are Italian marble, and the wall above the counter for some distance of white tile. The iron bars for hanging the meat are white or silver bronze. The hooks are tinned.

STORE APPURTENANCES.

In the back part of the grocery department is a system of spouts or conductors, some wood some metal, connecting with a double tier of bins upstairs, which contain sugars, rice, tapioca, sago, oatmeal, flour, peas, beans, barley, etc. There are here 15 lines of goods along 19 feet of wall, taking up less room than the width of ordinary shelving without occupying a solitary foot of floor space or counter space or space under the counters. These same lines of goods in the firm's old store occupied ten barrels, besides five large bins or drawers. The work of parcelling from the new appliances is much easier, cleaner, and the place more sightly. The shelving, counters, etc., are arranged with a view to making the largest display with the smallest amount of goods. It is not the aim of the firm to pile up great stacks of tea chests, boxes of soap, etc., to give the effect of a storage warehouse, but rather more like a well stocked, attractive sample room.

In the meat shop the main counter is not straight, but with the centre standing further out in the store, thus giving room for the blocks behind. A very convenient contrivance here is four sliding boards or shelves, arranged to pull out from under the counter, just as is to be seen in some of the modern office roll-top desks or secretaries. These are convenient to draw out to tie up parcels on, when the counter is full of cut meats or wet with the juice of pieces of meat that may have been lying thereon. The board is always dry and clean, and the parcel, when made, is clean to hand to the customer.

A HANDY REFRIGERATOR.

In the rear of the meat department side of the building is a large refrigerator, 15 x 25 feet. This is divided into three compartments—one for the meat shop, one for butter, eggs, lard, fruit, etc., and the larger for general storage in connection with the jobbing department in provisions, etc., in which the firm also does a nice business. The ice chamber overhead contains, when filled, upwards of 40 tons of ice. In the refrigerator is a rack on which a quantity of cuts of meat can be kept. This rack is on a track, and can be run in and out of the refrigerator at will. When inside the refrigerator this rack and its contents are in full view through the plate glass front. The occasional afternoon customer does not need to stand holding the refrigerator door open while she selects a piece of meat, allowing a large amount of cold air inside and warm air outside to exchange places, at the imminent risk of taking cold, but the whole lot is brought out instantly and the door closed.

The cellar under the whole building is floored with concrete. One room is divided from the rest for butter, easily accessible from behind the main grocery counter. A large space is reserved for roots (principally potatoes), and the rest devoted to curing and packing of bacon, hams, etc. The second flat is also used in connection with the packing and jobbing business, and the third for general grocery stock and other storage.

The office is situated as nearly as possible in the rear of the building on the ground floor, and commands a good view of both stores, and convenient to the passageways and stairways. A power elevator in the rear of the building connects all the flats. The premises are lit by electricity, generated by the firm's own plant, which has a capacity for 150 lights. From 80 to 100 of these are used in the stores. The effect is brilliant and most attractive to passers-by.

Besides the attractiveness of the new building of John Duff & Sons, one cannot help being struck with the good judgment which has been displayed in the convenient arrangement of counters, doors, etc.

Since moving into their new premises there has been a material increase in business, particularly in their cash sales. It is to be hoped there will be further development along these lines, for the firm certainly deserves unlimited success.

A "DESCRIPTION" OF COFFEE.

A correspondent of The San Francisco Chronicle, sending information from Brazil calculated to interest and instruct the readers of that paper, concludes a description of a coffee plantation with this statement:

"The Mocha, or best quality, is the undeveloped grain that grows at the end of the limbs. The Java is the best developed, and grows about the centre of the limb. That next the trunk is the Rio. The Mocha brings the first price and the Java the second."

This is certainly ingenious, and very comforting to dealers who have been using the terms Java and Mocha carelessly.—The Spice Mill.

A DEBT-COLLECTING AGENCY.

One of the difficulties experienced by merchants doing a credit business is the cost of collecting accounts. The Ontario Mercantile Agency, Limited, 18 Wellington street east, Toronto, advertises in another column that it is prepared to collect accounts at a fee of 10 per cent., making prompt returns, and reporting monthly.

BUSINESS LENIENCY.

THOSE who give credit ought to know that they injure both themselves and their debtors by undue leniency, writes E. S. Campbell in an exchange. Exact fulfilment of the contract is essential to the well being of both parties. The creditor is injured by delay, for it keeps him short of cash, and makes it necessary to pay more for interest, or it causes the loss of what could be made by discounting bills. He is also injured by the increased and constantly growing risk which delay brings, and further, by the certain and costly demoralization which follows as the consequence of all wrong methods. Business demoralization is nowhere more apparent than in connection with the cause.

The debtor is injured by the false feeling of restfulness and confidence which the leniency of his creditor engenders. By this leniency he is taught to rely upon using what really belongs to another, but which has been left in his hands through a mistaken desire to accommodate. He is wronged by the demoralization which comes to him through false training. Further, he is injured by the temptation which is thus presented to be slack in pressing his own collections. Leniency upon his part toward debtors increases his business losses.

Many instances are in mind where loans and discounts have been refused simply because the banker has perceived that the applicant, instead of borrowing money, should push his collections. In some instances the would-be borrower has subsequently expressed his gratitude for the refusal because the lesson thereby taught resulted in saving of money. I recall an instance of too easy loaning by a bank to a retail butcher, which resulted in the borrower deliberately permitting customers' bills to grow until they became so large that in many instances the temptation to default was too great to be resisted. The end was what might have been expected. The butcher lost heavily and finally failed. The bank lost its claim. It had loaned thousands were hundreds would have been a reasonable limit. Had it loaned only so much as was appropriate there would have been no failure upon the part of the butcher and no loss to the bank. A strong and firm adherence to contracts is essential to safety. Carrying leniency to extremes always means loss, and in many cases absolute ruin.

CANADIAN FISH AND THE WAR.

A. F. Rich, of the fish firm of A. F. Rich & Co., Boston, says that as a result of the war the maritime province and St. Pierre fishermen are making an attempt to control the fish market in Boston. Mr. Rich admits that the New England fishing fleet is hampered to some extent by the danger of capture, and that vessels will not go far away from a convenient refuge. Many vessel owners who largely employ residents of the maritime provinces and Newfoundland on their vessels, report that the men, being British subjects, do not care to risk capture, and some of the vessels are short handed for this reason.

EARLY RISING.

The following calculation is interesting: Suppose one boy, aged ten years, determines to rise at five o'clock all the year round.

Another at the same age, indolent and fond of ease, rises at eight, or an average of eight, every morning.

If they both live to be seventy years old, the one will have gained over the other, during the intervening period of sixty years, 65,745 hours, which is equal to 2,739¾ days, or just seven and a half years. If a similar calculation were applied to the whole country, how many millions of years of individual usefulness would it prove to be lost to society?

WISE COSTA RICANS.

A large Costa Rica coffee planter has sent his three sons to Canada for the purpose of educating them in the English language and acquiring a knowledge of commercial matters. These young men do not speak English, and during their two years' stay in this country will live with Mr. W. H. Seyler, of Toronto. Mr. Seyler is proficient in Spanish, and the father of the youths was urged to place them in his charge by Dr. A. F. Pirie, a Canadian physician, who has been residing in Cartago, Costa Rica, during the last ten years.

The father of these young men had formed such a high opinion of Canadian commercial and social life, from the Canadians resident in his country, that he is desirous of having them educated here.

On their return to Costa Rica these young men will engage in commercial life, and it is assumed that their sojourn in Canada will induce them to exert their influence in building up a trade with the Dominion.

LIVE, AND LET LIVE.

Depression in business during the past few years has brought changes in trade usages.

We read in trade exchanges of retailers organizing to buy in lots direct from manufacturers, and to prevent jobbers selling to consumers. Jobbers are seeking to prevent manufacturers selling to retailers, and both jobbers and retailers complain that certain manufacturers sell direct to consumers. This demoralization will disappear with continued improvement in business.

Manufacturer, jobber, and retailer should work in harmony. Each does his part in the economy of distribution more effectively and cheaply than the others could do.

Each is necessary to the other and to the consumer, and there should be no friction between them.

Associations and organizations may properly stand up for the rights of their members, but they make a mistake when they seek to break up the machinery of trade.

It is well to keep to our line, following a "live, and let live" policy.—Mercantile Journal.

WHERE THE QUEEN BUYS HER TEA.

The tea consumed by the Royal household is always bought at a quaint, old-fashioned store in Pall Mall, and has been bought there during the reigns of Queen Victoria's five predecessors. It costs 5s. 4d. a pound, and was for a long while known as "Earl Grey's Mixture," this nobleman having recommended it to Her Majesty.

SOURCES OF U.S. TEA SUPPLY.

The gross imports of tea into the United States and the sources of supply, during 1893, 1895 and 1897 are shown in the following table :

	1893. Lh.	1895. Lb	1897. Lb.
United Kingdom...	2,547,361	3,622,984	6,217,726

Other countries.....	.....	.....	60
Totals	89,061,287	97,253,458	113,347,175

This table shows the steady progress which East India teas, imported principally from Great Britain, are making in the United States, being very useful for blending purposes. But it will be noted that neither China leaf nor Japan leaf is losing ground.

Since 1893 the per capita consumption of tea and the average price at place of importation have been as follows :

	Cents.	Pounds.
1894	15.1	1.34
1895	13.5	1.38
1896	13.5	1.31
1897	13.1	1.55

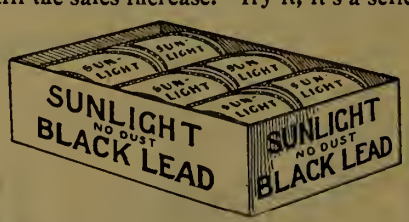
CHARGE OF THE BARGAIN BRIGADE.

From Puck.

"Bargain sale! Bargain sale!"
Newspapers thundered,
Up to the Palace of Trade
Strode the Six Hundred.
"Forward! Our fortune's made!
Charge on the clerks!" they said.
Into the Palace of Trade
Rushed the Six Hundred.

"Goods sold for half their worth,"
Was this a cause for mirth?
Women who saw the sign
Not even wondered.
Theirs not to make reply,
Theirs not to reason why,
Theirs but to simply buy,
Buy in the Palace of Trade—
Thought the Six Hundred.



Bargains to right of them,
Bargains to left of them,
Front of them—back of them—
Volleyed and thundered.
What they bought none knew well,
Weak ones grew faint and fell,
Tho' dresses ripped, ker-r-r-rack!
Into the crush pell-mell
Dove the Six Hundred.

Boldly and well they fought;
Then home their spoil brought
Each wife and daughter.
Let this be their defence,
All saved at least ten cents—
Some saved a quarter.

THE BUSINESS WINDOWS.

THERE is sometimes a good deal in a window, whichever way you look at it. The owner of one in Washington, which commanded a fine view of the inauguration procession, got $1,000 for a few hours' use of it on March 4. A "typewritress" (I used that word because it was not the machine, but the operator of it) got just half that sum for the use of her window that day, and was about as happy as if the new president had given her an office. But these are windows that look out, or that have their value in their command of a picturesque view. It is only in one city, and once in four years, however, that windows, can be made profitable in this way. To the merchant or storekeeper, the telescope must be brought to the front, and goods shown that are out of the line of actual necessities, that they must be attractively flaunted to be known or thought of. In oriental and warm countries this is so well understood that the whole front of the store itself is taken away, or the fancy bazaar comes out on the sidewalk. Little stocks of goods of a considerable variety are kept entirely out of doors, and in the almost uncarriaged or untramwayed streets in many towns and countries—notably in Central America. So that the world over, that human nature is a good deal alike. A pretty or attractive thing dangled before our eyes captivates and captures us : though, if it had not been for the window or the open-air proximity and view, we should have gone along without it.

Benjamin Franklin said we ought not to buy a thing we can get along without, because it is cheap ; but that depends on several things, and is not a concern of the merchants. Sometimes we ought to. The maxim has always been more or less scouted, or disbelieved in. I confess that I scout and disregard it very often. Only a few years ago—although it was then mid-March, I bought four garments which could only be used in the winter, because I could buy them for 75 per cent. off. I could have got along until December next without them ; but it was justifiable sense and economy to buy them when and as I did. This bargain came about because the goods were put in the show-window and marked with the reduced price. And this is one of the things a show window is for. I am constantly watching windows of this sort, and have found my account in it. They show us too, some things that we can use and enjoy that we may never have used before. And this is a gain to good living and civilization. It's not the merchant's business to tell us we cannot afford his lures, for there are some who can. It's his business to put them out. The ethics of the buyer are quite another thing. Business windows probably never made a spendthrift. But they can and do make trade. Nothing is more important than to have them well dressed, so as to proffer their sorcery and advantage to every one who passes.—Fame.

MOLASSES IN HALIFAX.

AS stated by The Herald recently Porto Rico molasses is held for 32c. in puncheon lots by the jobbers, and some dealers are expecting to get even more. Stocks in Halifax are short. It may seem somewhat remarkable that there should be this shortage in stock, especially when it is known that up to this date considerably more molasses has been imported this year than at the same time last year. The figures, for which The Herald is indebted to the courtesy of Mr. A. S. Mitchell, of G. P. Mitchell & Sons, are as follows :

May 17, 1897.		May 17, 1898.
Puncheons	3,379	Puncheons	4,347
Tierces	293	Tierces	414
Barrels	505	Barrels	1,573

One great reason for the excess this year is the fact that crops on the different Islands were much earlier than last season. The Spanish-American war has quickened the demand, for dealers felt that there was no knowing how the supply would hold out. The war will certainly have the effect of cutting off supplies, and comparatively little molasses may be expected during the remainder of the season. It is estimated by one authority that the total quantity of molasses that will be imported this year will probably not be more than half that brought in last year. From May 18 to Dec. 31 last year the importations of molasses were :

Puncheons	4,765
Tierces	450
Barrels	725

No one expects that between this and December 31 even half this quantity will be imported, so that by the end of the year the total importations will be very much less than usual.

A cable to New York from Barbadoes on May 11 quoted molasses at 16¾c. This is per wine gallon, and landed here means that the price would be about 26½c. The cable quotation of the previous week was 15¾c., showing an advance of 1c.

The advance has been general in the west as well as at Halifax. The Montreal Wholesale Grocery Guild have advanced their prices of Barbadoes molasses to 30c. for car lots, and 31c. for single puncheons. A cable received from the Islands report a further advance, equal to about 30c. here, but it is said that firm offers cannot be got even at this figure. The market here is firm, and stocks are very light, and very little Barbadoes is on the way.—Herald, May 17.

HIS OWN DETECTIVE.

According to The Merchants' Review, a grocer named Raymond Groves, of New Brunswick, had missed articles from the front of his store at several times for several weeks. All efforts to catch the thief failed. One night he placed a twenty-five pound bag of flour in front of the store in a place where it would allure, He took the precaution to make a small hole in the bottom of the bag. About 10 o'clock the bag was missed. The grocer got some matches and followed the track of flour for three blocks. It ended in front of the home of John Cavanaugh on Suydam street. Groves placed the evidence before the police, and Policeman Campbell went to Cavanaugh's house at five o'clock next morning and arrested him. A bag of flour was found in the house.

GLADSTONE AS AN EXAMPLE.

THERE can be extracted from the lives of all great men something which shall stimulate and encourage the energies of the young men of to-day and to-morrow. Gladstone's life in the political arena may not appeal to all. Indeed, we know that it does not. And as long as men think differently on matters appertaining to politics, it cannot.

But Gladstone's brilliant intellect, scholarly attainments, and moral excellencies are qualities which we can all at least essay to emulate.

However we may view him politically, as a man he was great. And he was great, not because he came of an intellectual family, but because he made the best of his opportunities.

The moments he guarded zealously. Busy as his life was in the political arena, the amount of work he accomplished in the literary field was prodigious, and this work to him was not labor; it was recreation.

His work in the ordinary sense was in the political field. His literary work and his studies were, in addition to tree-felling, his recreations.

Recreation is necessary to every man. Even the man who neither toils nor spins needs it. He can find it in work. But the man who busily toils and spins from day to day needs it more. At any rate, he is entitled to it more.

Recreation and rest are synonymous terms. They do not imply doing nothing. That is laziness. And laziness is good for neither man nor beast. They imply change; change from the worry of the every day avocation—from business or whatsoever else it may be. And this change can be found just as readily in some intellectual pastime as in lolling round a billard-room, a bar-room or a ball-room.

A man can, if he will, find mental as well as physical improvement in his recreations, Gladstone did. And his name is great to-day because he did.

There is in the commercial world room enough and to spare for men of brains, push and industry. And the young men of to-day who would be the successful men of to-morrow are those who shall make their recreations of a character that shall tend to fortify and not to weaken them for the battle of life.

As a politician Gladstone may not be an example; but as a man who treasured up and made good use of the golden moments he is a shining example.

COMPUTING SCALES IN CANADA.

There are computing scales and computing scales, and the authorities have found it necessary in order that the public may be protected against fraud, to so far only allow the makes of a couple of firms to come into Canada.

Although only two manufacturers are permitted to prospect the Canadian market, these two are such bitter rivals that each is said to be bringing charges against the other to the effect that its opponent's scales are being brought into the country at an undervaluation.

The Customs Department will, probably, be called upon to "weigh in the balance" the scales of both firms and determine which is found wanting.

INCONSISTENT ST. JOHN MEN.

THE New Brunswick Tourist Association, of St. John, N.B., has issued a 16-page folder, describing the attractiveness of St. John in particular and New Brunswick in general, as resorts for summer tourists. The folder is neatly printed, well illustrated, and does well what it is designed to do.

But, while the folder is all right, there is one little thing about it which rather reflects on the consistency of the New Brunswick Tourist Association.

For some years the business people of St. John have been actively engaged in increasing the efficiency of their harbor for winter navigation, and disseminating information by means of the newspapers and members of the board of trade who have toured the country for the purpose.

And the particular text from which both the newspapers and the speakers discoursed was loyalty to a Canadian winter port. "Why should you," they said in effect to the shippers and importers of the country, "export and import your goods during the winter months by Portland, Boston or New York when St. John affords you all the facilities."

But the principle should apply to other things as well as to the winter port: If the people of St. John expect the commercial interests of Canada to patronize their port the latter may naturally expect the former to patronize home industries as far as possible. What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.

This does not, however, appear to be the doctrine of at least the tourist association, for to get its printing done it goes to an office in a United States city, when it could, no doubt, be done just as well in St. John.

This may be a little matter, but it is large enough to warrant attention. THE CANADIAN GROCER has the cause of St. John's winter port at heart—in fact, all Canadian ports for that matter—but it does not like to see inconsistencies flourish which may tend to estrange the sympathy of the commercial interests of this country with that port.

Doubtless, the inconsistency is more the result of carelessness than design. But it is this carelessness which has led to many Canadian industries being allowed to languish while aid was lent to the building up of foreign industries.

OUT OF BRITISH GOODS.

In a majority of instances there is a dearth in Vancouver of certain British goods. There having been no direct sailing vessel from England for some time, many wholesale houses have run short of sauces, pickles, jams, cocoas, etc.; also Bass' ale, Guinness' and other stouts, brandy and other liquors.

THE above paragraph is clipped from a recent issue of The World, Vancouver, B.C., and corroborates what THE CANADIAN GROCER last week said regarding this very matter.

While the scarcity of British goods at the moment may be due to the fact that no sailing vessels have arrived on the Coast, yet such a condition of affairs is not new.

With the direct and quick routes there is no excuse for there being so frequently a dearth in British Columbia of such goods as those above enumerated.

The British Columbia market is a growing one, and manufacturers and exporters of condiments in the United Kingdom should be more watchful of their interests in that part of the Dominion—and in all parts of the Dominion, for that matter—unless they are prepared to see the trade they might get go to others who are more zealous than they in good works of this kind.

WHOLESALERS AND CONSUMERS.

THE CANADIAN GROCER believes that the wholesale merchants of Canada are as consistently wholesale as their confreres in any other country. But occasionally we hear of transgressions.

Only a few days ago a consumer in Toronto forsook a well-known firm with whom she had been dealing for years, because she had been able to open the door of one of the wholesale houses in that city. And it was one of the leading ones, too.

There are some very large consumers, such as lumber camps and public institutions, which wholesalers can scarcely be blamed for supplying; but with ordinary consumers it is different. And the case in point was an ordinary customer.

Wholesalers should remember that when they begin to sell to the ordinary consumer they are beginning to compete with their own customers, of the unfairness of which they need not be told.

No wholesaler who is worthy the name courts, or even desires, the business of the consumer. And when he does consent to sell him, it is only because some influence has been brought to bear upon him. The moment he resents this influence that moment will a great deal of the retailing by wholesalers cease.

CANADIAN TOBACCO DEARER.

A sharp advance of 2c. per pound has taken place in tobaccos made from Canadian leaf.

The advance is due to the high price of leaf tobacco together with the briskness in the demand, which has been active for the domestic made article ever since the duty was changed a year ago.

By-the-bye THE CANADIAN GROCER has it upon what is considers pretty good authority that a reduction in the duty at the next session of Parliament is contemplated by the Government.

A SOLDIER AS A SALESMAN.

It is said that one of the Canadian military contingent, which started for the Yukon the other day, carried, in addition to his own arms and accoutrements, samples for a Montreal wholesale house.

In opening up new countries it is usually first the soldier, and then the salesman; but this is an instance where the soldier and the salesman are combined in one and the same man.

This is something unique in history.

GROCERS' EARLY CLOSING.

The following leading grocers, provision merchants and liquor dealers, of the town of Peterborough, have agreed to close their respective places of business each evening, except Saturday, evenings before holidays, and Fridays, at the hour of 7 p.m. The agreement went into effect on May 16:

Henry & Co.,	W. H. Hamilton,
Peter Connal & Co.,	F. J. Mitchell,
R. H. Hunter,	D. H. Kernaghan,
R. J. Waller & Co.,	G. Briou,
J. W. Moore & Co.,	J. Giles,
Alex. Elliott,	R. J. Lane,
J. W. Brisbin,	Spot Cash Grocery,

E. F. Mason & Co.

It is understood that all grocers will act in harmony in this laudable effort to close their stores early, to enable their employes to enjoy their summer evenings.

CHINA GREEN TEAS.

CHINA green teas are still scarce and dear. One wholesaler in Canada who, the other day, found it necessary to match a tea which he had bought early in the season at 11c. per lb. had to pay 13c. per lb. before he could secure what he wanted, while for some of the samples submitted holders would not take less than 15c.

Advices received this week state that the shipments of green teas from the whole of China during the past season were but 305,501 half chests. Last year they were 322,364, and in 1896 the total was 444,340 half chests. It is the falling off during the last two years that has caused the present shortage in these teas.

The Hankow market, according to these same despatches, will not open till a week later than last year, owing to exceedingly heavy rains. The number of "hongs"—the places where teas are fired—in operation will be less than last year, owing to the heavy losses sustained during the past two seasons.

JAPAN TEA A LITTLE EASIER.

IT will be remembered that the market for Japan teas opened a few weeks ago at prices about 10 to 15 per cent. higher than last year. Since then, however, there has been a decline, although values are still above those of 1897—on fine teas about 5 per cent. and on medium teas 10 per cent.

A private letter received in Toronto this week states that Japan tea, which last year cost 18c., cannot now be bought at less than 20c.

New season's Japan teas suitable for the Canadian market will not arrive in quantities till about the middle of July. That which will be here in a week or two will be only small parcels of fine tea for each of the wholesale houses.

Ninety per cent. of the Japan teas consumed in Canada are those which retail at 25c. These teas will not be marketed in Japan till about the middle of June, and it takes one week to fire and pack them, and three weeks for their passage from Japan to this country, so it is evident that they cannot well be here till the second or third week in July.

THE PROPOSED BEET SUGAR FACTORY.

MR. JOHN MacKENZIE, vice-president of the Owen Sound Beet Sugar Co., Limited, has the following in the last issue of the Owen Sound Times:

"When you wrote the article for your paper of the 12th inst., you were not aware that the Owen Sound Sugar Co. had reached the goal of its desires in securing the promise of capital to operate a first-class beet sugar factory for this part of Ontario, and all that is wanted now to begin operations is that the Dominion Government re-enact the sugar bounty which expired July last. When and where was there a company that has done so much for a town as this company has done for Owen Sound? Working against the influence of the corporation, of the business men, and some of the press of the town, was it any wonder that after three years of hard, persevering work against all kinds of discouragements, and with so little sympathy, that a majority of the directors got tired, discouraged and disgusted with the treatment received in Owen Sound and commenced working in the interests of a rival town. It is time for a change in the interests of Owen Sound. If this factory is to be built in your town, the citizens of every class will have to back up your mayor and myself to keep the sugar factory from going to Wiarton. The majority of directors are committed in the interests of Wiarton, and they cannot in honor desert the enterprising people of Wiarton, if Wiarton carry out their part of the agreement, and I am satisfied they will, more particularly when we have secured the promise of a Scotch syndicate for sufficient capital to run a $500,000 factory. I worked in favor of Owen Sound, believing it was the most suitable place to locate the factory, and am also convinced, if capital could be had, that of any town in the northern district Owen Sound has the advantage. I am still of that mind, and will do all I can to secure the factory for Owen Sound, but it is time for a change in the sentiment of its people toward the sugar company if they want to secure the factory for their town. Wiarton is now in earnest, and will secure it if possible. They have some of the most enterprising and pushing men of any town in Canada, and they accept the hard working men even if they are not wealthy. In the sixties I advocated in the Owen Sound press the extension of the telegraph line to your town for six years before it was built. I spent two evenings in Wiarton to convince them, and they did extend the line to their town in three months. Your people make a mistake if they thtnk Wiartonians are not hustlers. But a change has come, for your board of trade and your best business men are with us, now that success is assured. If we had this change before our last meeting in the Y.M.C.A. hall, the five proxy votes from Detroit would not carry the meeting in favor of Wiarton, and we would not have to fight that town and a majority of our own board to keep the factory for Owen Sound.

"The management is not at the end of their rope and will not be till this Scotch syndicate takes possession of the enterprise and puts all the capital required into it—then they will elect their own management, when the present management will quietly drop out into oblivion unhonored and unsung; but at the present time we have plenty rope to spare for our friends. Every move in Canada for the last two years in the interest of the beet sugar industry is attached to our rope—every article in the Toronto, Montreal, and other papers in any way connected with this sugar company is fastened to our rope by the present management or our friends working in our interest. The Toronto Grocers' Guild, Toronto Board of Trade, the New York house of the great German machine house are working with us and for us to secure the bounty replaced upon the statue books. This sugar bounty is not a political question any more than the bounty on iron smelting by the Dominion and Ontario Governments—it is encouragement to the best interest of the agriculturist—it is assistance to introduce a new agricultural industry for the farmers of Canada, to the extent of $12,000,000 per year, which we can raise and manufacture as well and with less expense and more profit to the farmers than butter and cheese—and both these products are assisted and encouraged by the present Government to as great an extent as by the late Government. I am not a director of this company for the money there is in it—I have not received ten cents for services in ten months, and am willing to retire to-morrow in favor of a better man—otherwise, I will do the best I can till Sept. 8, when my time expires; and by that time, with the bounty re-enacted, the Scotch syndicate will take management."

AGAIN SHIPPING FREIGHT.

The Owen Sound Times says: "A little more than a decade ago, scarcely a steamer of the old Lake Superior and Georgian Bay lines went up without having a consignment for North Shore Lake Superior ports. In latter years, however, the trade fell off, owing to the fact that the C.P.R. steamships would not carry trade. With the advent of the Black and White Lake Superior lines, the cattle trade of this port was commenced again, and on Saturday night the ss. Majestic took up several head consigned to Port Arthur."

TORONTO GROCERS' PICNIC.

A SPECIAL meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held on Wednesday evening, in St. George's Hall, Elm street. President W. H. Marmion occupied the chair, and a good attendance was present.

The executive committee appointed to get information regarding a suitable place to hold the annual picnic reported in favor of Port Hope; that it be held on July 20; that the Garden City be chartered for the occasion; and that the price of tickets be $1.

After some discussion of the report its adoption was moved, when Messrs. Kelly and Scholes moved in amendment that the excursion be by train to Jackson's Point, the tickets for which trip would also cost $1.

The amendment was defeated, and the report was then adopted unanimously.

It was moved and seconded that "This association desires to state that it neither has nor had any connection with the association which conducted the excursion to Guelph on the 24th inst., and it neither gives nor did give any countenance to the said excursion." This resolution was passed, and the secretary was instructed to communicate with the papers of Guelph and Toronto, informing them of the resolution.

It was decided that the association would look after the printing of its programme itself this year, and the secretary was instructed to take the work in hand.

The following committees were appointed:

Programme—Messrs. Booth, Bond, Panter, Kelly, Gibson, Davies, Bell and Sanderson.

Printing—Messrs. Sykes, Kelly and Marmion.

Music—Messrs. Johnson and Bond.

Visiting—Messrs. Sykes, Johnston, D. W. Clarke and T. Clark.

Treasurer of Committees—W. J. Sykes.

The agreement between the association and the steamer Garden City was approved. The boat will leave Toronto at 7 o'clock in the morning, and, returning, leave Port Hope at 6.30 o'clock in the evening.

MICHIE & CO.'S STORE.

Michie & Co., grocers, 7 King street west, Toronto, who were burned out some months ago, have had their store thoroughly renovated, and have this week moved back into it. This firm's former store was acknowledged one of Toronto's most up-to-date business houses, and, with the improvements recently made, their present stand is one that is worthy the inspection of every retailer. Wednesday and Thursday this week were the opening days, and Michie & Co. mailed invitations to their friends to come on these days and inspect their stock and premises. Many availed themselves of the invitation.

The Superiority of BUSINESS CATECHISM.

Do you see the man?

I do see the man.

Who is the man?

He is a business man.

What is a business man?

He is a man who makes money by supplying the wants of people.

Does he always make money?

If he's a good business man he does.

How does he do it?

By advertising.

What's advertising?

It's the biggest thing on earth in a business.

Is it bigger than the business.

Yes, because the business couldn't live without it.

Is it bigger than the business man?

Yes, for it keeps him humping himself.

Very good; but what is this wonderful thing?

It is the everlasting and perpetual presenting of those who wish to buy a clear statement of what there is to sell.

Why must it be so everlasting and perpetual?

Because people's wants are that kind and the advertising must match the wants of those to whom it appeals.

Is there no let up?

Yes, when the people let up on wanting to buy.

But isn't it expensive?

Not at all.

My! Do they everlastingly and perpetually present, and charge nothing for it?

Oh, no! they charge, of course, but for every dollar paid out, from ten dollars to a thousand come back.

How is this advertising done?

There are ways and ways of doing it.

All good?

Yes, but some are better than others.

What is the best way.

The newspapers.

Why newspapers?

Because they go farther and hold on longer.

Why do they?

Their subscribers make them.

Do all business men advertise?

Those who know the most do.

But some are successful who do not?

Yes, just as there are some people saved from a wreck in which ninety-nine per cent. are killed. It's their luck, not their wisdom or their own efforts.—Fame.

BUSY CANNED MEAT PACKER.

There is one important industry in Montreal, at least, which is booming at the present time. The Hispano-American war has had the effect of stimulating the canned meat business to an unusual degree. In conversation with Mr. William Clark, manufacturer of canned and prepared meats, 83 Amherst street, he said that the firm were up to their ears in work, and kept busy supplying orders.

Prices were higher, and since hostilities between Spain and the United States commenced, the industry which he carried on had been indirectly benefited, inasmuch as nearly all the canned meats prepared in the United States and formerly exported to this country were diverted to other channels.

PERSONAL MENTION.

John Mouat, of Winnipeg, representing W. H. Gillard & Co. in Manitoba and the Northwest, reports business satisfactory, and states that their "Imperial" Congou blend is a great favorite in that part of Canada.

Mr. T. O. Leonard, of Detroit, representing Kingsford Oswego starch, was in Toronto this week. He reported that business in the United States is not as good as it was a few weeks ago.

GROCERY CLERKS' EXCURSION.

THE members of the Toronto Grocery Clerks' and Drivers' Association held their third annual excursion on Tuesday, May 24, going to Guelph.

Three special trains were needed to convey the crowd, which numbered over 6,000, and was composed largely of young men and youths. A joint excursion from Owen Sound, under the auspices of the North American Bent Chair Co., of that town, brought about 500 people into Guelph from the north.

During the morning and the early part of the afternoon the excursionists spent their time visiting the Ontario Agricultural College and seeing the "Royal City."

By three o'clock some four or five thousand people had gathered in the Exhibition Park, where the programme of sports was to be run off. The list of sports, etc., was a long one, including three baseball matches, a tug-of-war, a Jubilee baby show, a five-mile bicycle handicap road race, besides other bicycle races, foot races, etc., but all the events had been finished before six o'clock, though much trouble was experienced in keeping a way open for the participants in the various events. One competitor in the bicycle races was seriously injured through a fall, caused by a spectator striking a passing racer.

In the evening a concert was held in the Guelph Opera House. It was fairly well attended. During the concert, the exuberance of a large number of hoodlums up in the gallery exerted itself so vigorously that the programme had to be stopped to give them a rebuke. Apart from the disturbance created in that section of the hall, the concert was a good one, Bert Harvey, of Toronto, making the hit of the evening.

OUR OTTAWA CORRESPONDENCE.

Special to THE CANADIAN GROCER.

OTTAWA, May 25.—The Postmaster-General has, in his new post office bill, increased the mileage to 25, within which newspapers will be delivered free. This will bear very unfairly on newspapers of Provincial or Dominion circulation, and is conceded so as to allow the local country press an undue advantage over the papers of Provincial circulation. It may be recalled that when free delivery was advocated, some years ago, the press association asked only for free delivery within the county where the paper was published, but the Postmaster-General, with a view to getting a little cheap popularity, gave the newspapers free delivery everywhere, without any restrictions. There is no justice or equity in delivering newspapers free within the charmed circle of 25 miles, when the superior newspapers, published for Provincial circulation at enormous cost, are mulcted in postage. All exemptions of postage should be wiped out, and newspapers, like any other commodity, should pay equitable postage.

There is a well-founded rumor that a Yukon railway bill is to be brought down. If so, the session will be extended late into June. At the present time, the House appears to be "marking time," little progress being made with public business.

The Customs regulations for testing tea by infusion are not likely to be brought into force this year, as the necessary amendment to the Customs law has not yet been brought down. The mercantile interests of the country have to stand aside to make way for the political. F. J. D.

FISH SAUSAGES.

A new way to produce an excellent fish food has recently been patented by Miss Catharine Schoenau, of Hamburg, who has produced a fish sausage, which tastes well, is exceedingly cheap and will, therefore, become very popular, says The Philadelphia Record. Her method consists in the preparing of a gelatinuous broth, with which the shredded fish meat is thoroughly saturated. The broth is made of fish and beef bones, and spiced to suit any taste. The fish meat is then filled in casing, like any other sausage, and smoked twice, first after the hot, then after the cold process. After being smoked the sausage will keep indefinitely, without losing its delicate flavor of smoked fish.

VEGETABLES FOR THE NAVY.

It is said that Mr. R. J. Graham, Belleville, Ont., is to secure a large order from the Royal Navy for his evaporated vegetables. He has been in communication with the naval authorities for some time, and the samples supplied have been so satisfactory that a large trade may be anticipated.

YUCAN OIL BLACKING.

One of the staff of THE CANADIAN GROCER has adopted a novel scheme to become a "shining" journalist. He has begun at the bottom by procuring a bottle of Yucan oil blacking from W. A. Porter, 60½ Front street east, the Toronto representative of the F. F. Dalley Co., Limited, Hamilton, and says the results are entirely satisfactory.

CHANGE IN A SPICE FIRM.

Markets and Market Notes

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, May 26, 1898.

GROCERIES.

WHILE the holiday has necessarily interfered with business to some extent, there is, however, a good trade being done for this time of the year. The sugar market is stronger even than it was a week ago, and, while there is not a great deal selling, the demand has slightly improved. The opinion is that higher prices will soon rule in Canada. "Horse Shoe" brand of canned salmon is now quoted at the uniform price of $1.25 for any quantity. In other lines of canned goods there has been no actual change, the position being much about the same as it was a week ago, although, if anything, the feeling in regard to canned vegetables, outside of corn, is scarcely as strong as it was. The tea trade, on the whole, is quiet, although there is a fairly good demand for some descriptions. Currants continue to occupy a firm position, and there has been some business done during the week for importation. There have been some transactions in California prunes, but the prices paid by wholesalers are fractionally higher than they were a week ago. Other kinds of California fruits are much as before. In spices, the most interesting feature is the strength of pepper. The rice market continues strong, but the local houses are now better supplied than they were a few weeks ago. The wholesale market generally appears to be in a fairly satisfactory position.

CANNED GOODS.

The wholesalers have fixed their price of "Horse Shoe" brand canned salmon at $1.25 for any quantity. Heretofore, the price has been $1.25 for five case lots and over, and $1.30 for smaller quantities. This change was the result of a desire to do away with a misunderstanding that sometimes existed in regard to the price of this brand of salmon. While there has been no actual change in the price of canned goods, outside the particular line mentioned, there is an increased desire on the part of holders to dispose of stocks which they may have on hand, in consequence of the approach of the green fruit and vegetable season. Corn, however, being the latest vegetable to come on the market, does not share in this general tendency, and is held just as firmly as ever, transactions having taken place during the week at firm prices. Holders of gallon apples also appear to be desirous of reducing their stocks, it one is to judge by the fact that offerings during the week have been more liberal. At the same time, however, stocks are not large, and some wholesalers have none whatever. Wholesale houses report that there is, if anything, a little better enquiry for canned vegetables, although buyers do not appear willing to pay ruling quotations. The lowest price we hear of to retailers for canned tomatoes is $1.15.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There has been a few transactions in syrups during the week, but business in this line cannot be accounted any other than dull. The molasses market continues strong. Offerings of New Orleans molasses are still limited, although offerings of the lower grade article are increasing, according to advices received from New York.

SUGAR.

The strength of the sugar market, which has been noted during the last couple of weeks, has increased rather than decreased, beet sugar now being quoted at the highest price touched this campaign. On the local market there has been no change in prices, but the feeling is strong. Higher prices are expected before a great while, and it is the general opinion that dealers will be safe in keeping their stocks well assorted. While there is not as much buying on the local market of foreign sugars as there was a couple of weeks ago, representatives of shipping houses report that there is still some business being done. The Canadian refiners are looking for a better business at the beginning of next month.

For Prices Current See Pages 34 and 35.

NUTS.

Filberts are firm, both for prompt and future shipment, the basis for new crop, October shipment, now being 1c. higher than a year ago.

RICE.

The market keeps much about the same as it did a week ago, as far as prices are concerned, but supplies are now better, wholesalers having received shipments of both the imported and domestic article during the week.

COFFEE.

The market is without anything of particular interest. There is very little doing and prices are scarcely as firm as they were a week ago at outside points.

SPICES.

The recent advance of 1-16d. per lb. in pepper in the outside markets has been maintained and the tone is strong. In other lines there is no particular feature to note. Locally, business is quiet in all kinds of spices. Cream of tartar remains weak.

TEAS.

There is a scarcity on the local market of good liquoring Japan teas at from 15 to 18c., and new crop Japan in quantities will not be here until about the middle of July, only a few parcels of the finer teas being brought on with the first steamer. It will be remembered that the market opened about 10 to 15 per cent. higher than a year ago, but advices received this week state that there has been a slight decline. Values, however, are still from 5 to 10 per cent. higher than a year ago. Information through a private letter states that teas which last year could be laid down at 18c. are costing 20c. There has been a good deal of buying during the week of Ceylon teas at from 12½ to 15c. for shipment to this market from London, Eng., and while the price there has advanced from ½d. to 1d. per lb., that market is still cheaper than for direct shipment from Colombo. Indian teas are meeting with very little attention on the local market. Nothing is being done in China teas. There has been some enquiry, however, for green teas, but there are none to be had.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—There has been some regular buying for shipment to this country, and wholesalers are still meeting with a good demand. There has been no further change in prices, but the tone of the market is strong.

VALENCIA RAISINS — The market this week is devoid of any special interest. The demand is moderate and prices are without change.

PRUNES—Local wholesalers are beginning to evince a desire to clear out their stocks of prunes before the regular green fruit season begins. At the same time, however, they are finding it necessary to bring on from Chicago and other United States cities small lots, in order to keep their stocks assorted and to fill orders. For such lots as have been brought on during the past week, they have had to pay ¼c. per lb. higher than before. There have been, during the past week, some prunes offered on the Toronto market from Montreal, but the representatives on this market of California fruit firms report that they have received instructions from their principals to ship the stocks held here to Montreal, as better prices were obtainable there. Local wholesalers' quotations are unchanged.

CALIFORNIA EVAPORATED FRUITS—The whalesalers appear to have enough California evaporated fruits to keep them going for the rest of the season, as they are not buying fresh lots. At the same time they are experiencing a fairly good demand from retailers for such lines as peaches and apricots.

GREEN FRUITS.

The season for Navel oranges is about over, and Mediterranean sweets and Messinas are arriving in sufficient quantities to keep the supply well up to the demand. Quite a lot of second grade lemons have been arriving on the market, keeping the price of the better classes down somewhat. An advance may be looked for at any time. Bananas are selling freely, and the supply is abundant. A decline in price will likely follow the advent of local small fruits on the market. Pineapples are not plentiful, as practically no more Cubans can be had. What are offered are quoted at about 10 to 15c. each. Strawberries continue to arrive in increasing quantities and to decline in price. Quarts are quoted all the way from 12 to 16c. California black cherries have begun to arrive and are selling at $1.25 to $1.50 per box.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—Are coming forward freely with the feeling steady at 10c. per doz.

POTATOES— The feeling is firm, with prices unaltered. We quote carload lots at 70 to 72c. per bag. On the street market about 75c. is asked.

DRIED APPLES—Business is quiet, with prices unchanged at 3 to 4c. for choice lots, and 2½ to 3c. for ordinary stock.

EVAPORATED APPLES — There is little doing with prices steady at 9 to 9½c. An enquiry for a round lot is reported, but no business, as far as can be learned, resulted therefrom.

BEANS—The feeling is firm, though there is but a quiet trade being done. From 90c. to $1 is the ruling jobbing price for hand-picked, and 80 to 85c. for ordinary.

HONEY—The season is practically over until the new honey comes in, next August. Prices are nominally unchanged.

MAPLE PRODUCTS—The season is over.

VEGETABLES — Receipts continue to increase and prices to decline. The demand throughout is good. We quote: Rhubarb, 15 to 20c. per doz. bunches; onions, 10c. per doz. bunches; lettuce, 15 to 25c. doz. bunches; radishes, 15 to 20c. doz. bunches; cabbage, new, per case, $1.50 to $2; per doz., 60 to 75c.; parsley, 15 to 20c. doz. bunches; cucumbers, Canadian, 50 to 75c. per doz.; watercress, 20c. per doz. bunches; gardencress, 20 to 25c. per doz. bunches; spinach, 25 to 30c. per bush,; asparagus, 30 to 40c. per doz.; green peas, $1 to $1.10 per bush. Good butter beans are sold at from $2 to $3.50 per bushel basket, but some inferior grades are sold at $1.25.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—The feeling is weak. Some dealers say that the large receipts have left the market in a bad state, especially for large rolls, and advise shippers to send in their butter in tubs rather than large rolls. Dairy prints are also in small demand. The creamery market is in an even worse state than the dairy, but it is hoped that a few weeks will see an improvement. Prices for both dairy and creamery are about the same as last week.

CHEESE—The steadiness of the past two or three weeks has been broken somewhat, and now the feeling is weaker at ½c. lower figure than last week.

PROVISIONS.

A firmness is manifested in every line, with advances of ¼c. noted for long clear bacon, and lard in tubs and pails. There is a feeling that a scarcity of long clear bacon is likely to occur. Barrel pork is now scarce. Lard is moving freely, and, as stocks are lighter than usual, the advance noted is natural. All meats are in active demand.

We quote as follows: White wheat, 95c. to $1.10; red wheat, $1.11 to $1.14; goose wheat, $1.05 to $1.06; barley, 42 to 42½c.; oats, 37 to 37½c.; rye, 55c.; peas, 62 to 63c.; No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat is also unchanged at last week's figures, $1.45, Sarnia freight.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, May 26, 1898.

GROCERIES.

THE wholesale grocery trade has been a fairly active one during the past week, and the volume of trade is, if anything, larger than it was at the same time last year. Prices generally display the same firm disposition noted all along. The strong tone of raw sugar is maintained, and further advances have been scored, but prices of refined are as last quoted. Molasses, also, is quiet at primary markets, and the same can be said of rice and Spanish fruit of all descriptions. There has been some enquiry for canned vegetables during the week, and it has been welcome to holders, some of whom are quite anxious for a turnover. Teas are quiet and generally steady, and country produce, with the single exception of cheese, as a rule, is upward.

SUGAR.

The strong tone of the sugar market is fully maintained especially for raw in London. There, values held stiff throughout the week and finally advanced 3d. on Saturday for cane, very little offering at the advance which was 12s. 6d. for Java and 10s. 9d. for fair refining. Beet also is higher, having advanced ¾ d. the same day, May and June being quoted at 9s. 3½d. There has been no change in the situation of the local market, but the tone is firm in view of the strength displayed abroad, and refiners assert that as a consequence of the steady advance abroad, buyers' wants are steadily expanding, while jobbers report a good enquiry from retailers, both in and out of town. At the refineries this week granulated is held at 4½c. for standard Canadian, German, 4 3-16c. and yellows 311-16 to 4⅛c. as to grade,

SYRUPS.

These continue featureless and unchanged while stocks, both in first and second hands, are small.

MOLASSES.

The molasses market has not exhibited any change. The strong undertone is as marked as ever, and few cables are noted this week, but 13c., first cost, is now named at the Islands, which means fully 30½ to 31c. laid down here. The local guild prices have not been changed, 31c. being asked for puncheons. There is a fair enquiry on spot, but any round lots remaining here are held firm and business, therefore, is light.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been some enquiry experienced for tomatoes and other canned vegetables during the past week, and it has been decidedly welcome to holders of these stocks, some of whom are quite anxious to realize. Tomatoes have sold in small lots at $1.20; corn at the figures given elsewhere. Canned meats continue very firm, and there has been heavy buying here for exporters, which has further stiffened the market. Canned fish remain much the same.

TEAS.

The first arrivals of new Japan teas, some 500 packages or so, are close at hand, but the fact so far has attracted little attention as the lot in question is all high grade goods. In old season teas, some business has been put through from first hands, about 300 to 400 packages, selling at 14 to 15c. partly to Ontario and partly to buyers in this Province.

SPICES.

There is not much activity in spices, but the general tendency of values is as firm as ever.

COFFEE.

This market is steady, with sales reported of invoice lots of Maracaibo at 16½ to 17c., and Rio at 10 to 12c.

RICE.

This market appears to be getting stronger every day and values still have an upward tendency. Demand is quite active, but supplies in refiners' and importers' hands are light, in fact, some grades cannot be had at all. Foreign advices are as strong as ever and indicate a further rise in values in the near future. We quote as follows:

This is to certify that on analysis of the above-named GRAPE WINE VINEGAR, I found it a purely concentrated Wine Vinegar, made from the Grape fruit, free from mineral acids, metallic substance and alcohol. After dilution with pure water it should prove a most wholesome and palatable commodity, either for table or pickling purposes. DRIED FRUIT.

There has been no change in the currant market, and prices are held steady on the whole.

Valencia raisins continue firm abroad, but this fact dies not influence values here, which are precisely the same. As a matter of fact demand is light, and there is little enquiry to induce jobbers to take advantage of the strength abroad.

California raisins continue as last reported. A few small lots of 2 and 3-crown fruit have arrived here this week, and sold at a range equivalent to prices quoted in our prices current.

There has been some enquiry experienced for the large sizes of California prunes, especially 40's to 50's, but brokers cannot procure any except at extreme prices on the Coast, where 8c. is asked for them. Smaller sizes of Californias worth from 6 to 6½c. have been moved to a considerable extent during the week. There are only a few Bosnia prunes here, and the stock of French is almost exhausted.

Figs are quiet and unchanged, and the same can be said of dates and evaporated California fruits.

NUTS.

Enquiry for shelled almonds from local jobbers has been quite noticeable this week, and it is quite evident that the majority of them have light stocks. Brokers' advices are very firm, and to procure any supplies in London necessitates the payment of advanced prices. Filberts, also are very firm, in consequence of reports about a bad crop.

GREEN FRUIT.

Trade has continued good all round in green fruit. Several carloads of southern strawberries have arrived, and prices are easier, as a result, at 12 to 15c., a decline of 3c. Pineapples, also, are more plentiful and 3c. lower, at 12 to 15c. Bananas are a plentiful offering, at $1.25 to $1.75 for No. 1 and 75c. to $1 for No. 2. Oranges have been in good demand at $3 to $3.25 for fancy and $2 for good. There is not much demand for lemons, but there is no hurry to sell this fruit, as it is considered good property, with the warm weather near at hand. Prices are held at $2 to $3.50 per box for fancy and $1 to $2 for good.

DRIED APPLES.

Quiet and unchanged, at former quotations.

APPLES.

As last reported, at $3 to $5 per bbl.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS—The market for beans was firm at $1 for primes and $1.10 to $1.15. for choice hand-picked per bushel.

HONEY—In honey there was no change, sales being slow and the market dull. We quote : White clover comb, 11c. to 12c. ; dark do., 8 to 10c.; white strained, 6c. to 7c., and dark, 4c. to 5c.

MAPLE PRODUCT — Business in maple product was quiet. Syrup in wood selling at 4½ to 4¾c. per lb., and in tins at 45 to 50c., as to size. Sugar moves freely at 6 to to 6¼c. per lb.

TALLOW—Quiet, at 1½ to 1¾c. for rough and 3 to 3¼c. for refined.

POTATOES—The market is 5c. higher than it was last writing, at 75c. on track, with values firm at the rise.

HOPS—Rule easy. Good choice Canadian, 12 to 14c., and yearlings, 8 to 10c.

tains it at this writing. A feature has been the active demand for Manitoba wheat, and big prices have been bid for it afloat Fort William, but buyers would not accept them owing to the strength at American points. There was also a firmer feeling in oats and bids of 39 to 39½c. were made. Peas were quiet at 68½ to 69c. afloat.

The flour market has reacted somewhat from the previous high level, and prices for Ontario grades are 10 to 25c. below where they were last quoted. Manitoba grades have ruled steady, and some large export transactions in them on Glasgow, London, and Liverpool account, amounting to 6,000 to 8,000 sacks, have been put through by the two milling concerns here. We quote: Winter wheat patents, $6 to $6.15; straight rollers, $5.50 to $5.75; bags, $2.60 to $2.75; Manitoba patents, $6.90, and strong bakers', $6.50; extra, in bags, $2.40 to $2.50.

There is an active demand from Boston buyers for both Ontario and Manitoba feed, and some of the latter millers are oversold to the extent of 700 tons. The tone of the market is very firm, and prices have an upward tendency. We quote as follows: Ontario winter wheat bran, $13.50 to $14; shorts, $16 per ton in bulk; Manitoba bran, $14; shorts, $16, and moullie, $17 to $18 per ton, including bags.

The meal market continues quiet, and prices for rolled oats are unchanged, at $4.30 per barrel and at $2.10 per bag.

The demand for hay was good, and the market is active and steady, at $10 to $10.50 for No. 1 and at $8 to $9 for No. 2 per ton, in car lots.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

Cheese has slumped with a vengeance, the prices bid in the country lately being fully 1c. below what was offered the previous week. Such a decline as this is difficult to account for, except on the assumption that the buying was not warranted by the situation of the market, and prices had to fall to a more natural level. Demand from the other side is certainly of an indifferent character, and the bears assert that low prices will have to be the rule on early cheese if any prompt clearance of it is to be effected. It will be interesting to see whether the course of the market bears them out or whether the speculator will again take a hand, with the usual satisfactory consequences to the factorymen. Business on the spot is light and the market is lower, for whereas 7½c. was made last Saturday, 7 to 7¼c. is the general bid.

Butter continues quiet and unchanged at decline noted. Finest creamery sold for 16¾c., but this is an extreme figure, and we quote 16½ to 16¾c. Dairy rolls are a quiet sale at 12½ to 13c. Receipts were 1,227 packages.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Strawberries and pineapples, under increased receipts, have declined 3c.

The first lot of 500 packages new crop high grade Japan teas are expected here very shortly.

Potatoes are very firm and 5c. per bag higher on the cars here than they were last week. It is becoming increasingly difficult to procure stock of desirable quality.

There has been a reaction in the price of Ontario grades of flour here, which are 10 to 25c. lower.

Enquiry for shelled almonds is quite brisk, but brokers find it difficult to obtain a firm offer from abroad.

There has been a clean decline of over a full cent in the price of cheese during the past week, and the market is still weak.

There has been no further intelligence regarding Barbadoes molasses, and it is difficult to get any offers from the Islands.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., May 23, 1898.

THERE has been less change in markets this week than for some time past, though in canned meats, particularly American, and in molasses, prices have been marked up. In the city, general business is somewhat quiet, and money is rather hard to get. Still, as nearly all lines show a good profit, wholesale grocers, at least, do not complain. The good effect of the late Sportsman's Exhibition at Boston, in which our Province was so well represented, is being felt, and many enquiries are being received at different centres through the Province regarding pleasure resorts. In cream of tartar, which has ruled easy for some time, prices are higher. Rice is much higher, and the tendency is toward a further advance, there being a large Japanese demand. In tea, there is a fair local business, but just now import business is quiet.

OIL—There is nothing new. Dealers, those who handle large quantities of lubricating oil, look for a quiet season, though so far a good business has been reported.

Burning oil is in its quiet time. In cod liver oil, Newfoundland is now being offered. This oil is pushing the Norway product, the quality being much liked, and price lower than the foreign article.

SALT—There is fair business. The demand is largely for fishermen. The cargo spoken of last week is here and is largely sold. There is still, however, a fair stock held here. Prices are firm. Fine salt is having a good sale. The Canadian is preferred, though price rather favors English factory filled. We quote as follows: Liverpool coarse, 45 to 48c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 to $2.60 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30; mineral rock salt, 60c. to $1.

CANNED GOODS—There is a fair business. American canned meats, particularly beef, is out of sight, being much higher than Canadian, even without the duty. It is rather expected an internal revenue tax will be put on canned goods in the States. This will effect all goods imported from there, such as oysters, pineapples, etc. In vegetables, the market is firm, as no large stocks are here. Tomatoes, however, are hardly as firm, at least, no further advance is looked for. Salmon keeps low. Lobsters are not likely to show much change from the present high prices.

GREEN FRUIT—This is the busy line. Bananas are the leader, and there is a wide range in price, according to quality. Otherwise prices are about the same. Valencia oranges are out of the market, and Caltfornia navels are scarce. Messinas have the chief sale, though quite a few California seedlings are offered. Lemons are a good stock, and sell on an even market. Strawberries are lower, and of good quality. Pineapples are also lower. In California cherries there is a fair sale. Cucumbers and rhubarb move more freely. Apples are not a matter of interest. Tomatoes are quite plenty, of course, American.

DRIED FRUITS—It is hard, at this season, to get much of interest. In raisins, this market is easy, though Californias are reported firmer in the United States. In currants, prices are quoted strong, but there is but light sale. In dates, apricots and peaches—that is, evaporated—prices are marked higher, but the sale is now limited. Dried apples are dull here; consumers prefer to pay the extra price for evaporated, which seem quite low here, though stock and demand are light. In onions, Egyptian have the chief sale, and prices are rather easier. In quality, Bermudas are much preferred, but the price affects the sale. In peanuts, there is an advance in first cost, and prices are firm.

SUGAR—There is a firm feeling in the market and a good business doing. The tendency is upward, but our local market moves slowly.

MOLASSES—Is one of the firm spots, and the outlook is that stocks will rule very light, so that further advances are looked for. Porto Rico is scarce, though some old is still held. The position of West India molasses has caused quite a demand for New Orleans, and some good quality is seen at reasonable prices. The small package is liked.

DAIRY PRODUCE—In butter, the price is low; it would almost seem lower than necessary, but, with good supplies of new being received, the tendency is easy. It would be a great thing if the quality could be kept up. Creamery has light sale, owing to the difficulty in getting the price. Cheese is still dull; quite a few are still held here. An improvement in this market would be very much appreciated. Eggs are marked up, and incline to higher prices. Receipts have been light, and a good demand is noted.

FISH—This is a rather quiet week. Gaspereaux, after a light catch, are about done, and shad are scarce. The spring run are about all sold fresh, owing to quality. Smoked shad are quite popular here. A few salmon are taken here in the harbor, and fair quantities are coming from the north shore. Fishermen are looking for a good season in this important line, hoping prices will hold. In dry fish, quality received is not extra; stocks are light, but prices hold quite high, with medium about the same price as large. Smoked herrings, while in light receipt, incline to be dull. Pickled have very little movement. In boneless fish there is but light business, particularly in pure cod, it being hard to get the price. The war has a bad effect in many lines.

PROVISIONS—There is just a fair sale. Prices are high. In beef there is quite a demand here for the Canadian. In both pork and beef western houses feel the competition of Boston houses, who can ship in small quantities. Lard is rather higher. This is quite a large market for this product. In smoked meats there is a good sale; prices are firmly held.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—The sale in flour is now largely for Ontario grades, not only on account of the high prices, but because Manitobas are higher in proportion. Millers claim they are not yet getting as much for flour as they could get if they were to sell their wheat. In oats and oatmeal prices are higher. There is but light sale. Seeds keep scarce. In cornmeal, although price is again higher, there is a large sale, the local mills having all they can do to supply the demand. Hay is still dull; holders are hoping for better prices. Barley is again marked up, and a further advance is looked for. Peas are particularly scarce. Beans are hardly steady, with fair stock; sale is light. Yellow eyes would sell if offered. In seed, while prices are firmer, little change is expected, as the season is getting late. We quote as follows: Manitoba flour, $7.50 to $7.80; best Ontario, $6.40 to $6.50; medium, $6.00 to $6.25; oatmeal, $4.50 to $4.60; cornmeal, $2.35; middlings, $20 to $22; bran, $18 to $19; oats, 42 to 48c.; hand-picked beans, $1.20; prime, 95c. to $1; yellow eye beans, $1.75; split peas, $3.80 to $3.90; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $3.50 to $3.75; hay, $8.75 to $9.00; timothy seed, American, $1.75 to $2.15; do., Canadian, $2 to $2.40; mammoth clover, 7 to 7½c.; alsike, 7¾ to 8½c.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Burton Gandy received 5,400 bags salt this week ex the Ajax.

There are no finer fish than St. John harbor salmon. John Sealy is in a position to fill orders promptly.

Prince Edward Island eggs are now being shipped to Montreal. This has quite an effect on stocks here.

L. G. Crosby, of Yarmouth, has moved to St. John. Mr. Crosby has had close business relations with our city for many years, representing West India houses. He finds the war interferes very much with business.

Coal was taken, by the American fleet, now at Manila, from at least three St. John vessels that were there.

It is said consignees by the steamer Ravendsale, which sailed some time ago from Halifax to Havana, need not look for returns till after the war.

SS. Evangeline, of the Dominion Atlantic railway, is now making daily trips between Kingsport and Parrsboro, N.S.

St. John is looking forward to being the winter port of the new line to Manchester, England, this port being named in the prospectus.

F. H. Tippet & Co. landed a large quantity of cream of tartar crystals this week for different buyers here. They are in luck, as the market has lately shown an advance.

It is said Halifax last year bought butter to the value of $200,000 to $250,000 from Quebec and Ontario creameries. New Brunswick and Nova Scotia dairymen should take note.

The partnership between G. I. Letteney and Jonathan Letteney has been dissolved. The business will be carried on by G. I. Letteney under the old firm name of G. I. Letteney & Bro., Digby.

Lunenburg, N.S., is much affected by the war, as Porto Rico usually took about seven-eighths of the export of fish. A shipment of fish from Halifax for Havana, via New York, was returned from that port last week.

It is said Jamaica returns the compliment of preferential dutes offered by Canada by increasing her tariff to the injurious effect of Canadian business. Halifax merchants talk of bringing the matter to the attention of the Dominion Government, in order that some pressure may be brought to bear to effect a change.

The West India steamer Taymouth Castle, sailing this week, included in her cargo the following: 1,150 barrels flour, 4,900 boxes smoked herring, 390 barrels potatoes, 80 barrels beans, 115 boxes soap, 85 boxes cheese, beside a large quantity dry fish, and 120 packages Chinese goods.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, May 23, 1898.

MARKETS on all staple lines are stiff and advancing. Where this advance is going to end no one, at present, seems able to predict. Wheat continues to command a high price, though it has been stationary now for a few days. The quotations are $1.20 Brandon, $1.35 afloat Fort William. The receipts are not heavy at any one station, but a good deal is coming in all over the Province, in fact, there is little doubt that every farmer, who has any, will sell in the near future.

The weather has not been encouraging for creamery butter. Owing to the somewhat cold season, and the absence of rain, the grass supply is poor, and none of the factories are, as yet, running to their full capacity.

As intimated two weeks ago, biscuits of all kinds have advanced ½c. per lb. Flour has not made any further advance this week and it is a question whether it will go any higher.

CANNED GOODS—There is no change in the situation of canned vegetables, and little change in price, with the exception of canned tomatoes, which have certainly eased up a little. In fact, offerings from the east are much freer than for some weeks, and it would now seem as though eastern holders would like to unload some stock. The explanation is not far to seek. When any one article goes above a reasonable figure, purchasers are very liable to find a substitute. There seems to be a difference of opinion as to what is the price of tomatoes at the present time, but $3.15 per case is a safe average figure, few cases being sold above that, and none under. Corn $2.15 to $2.20; peas, $2.25 to $2.75, according to brand. In canned fruits, the market is steady, fairly brisk and with no change in price. Canned meats continue to advance rapidly. Corned beef is worth $3.30 per case, and this may be taken as a basis for all others, with the exception of brawn, which is very good value at $2.50.

CEREALS — This market is firm and has advanced ½c. on all lines since last week. Granulated oatmeal is $2.65 for the 98-lb. sack, the highest figure reached for many years. Rolled oats, 80-lb. sack, $2.25; smaller sacks on this basis. Beans have also advanced.

CURED MEATS — Are particularly firm and still further advances are looked for. Considerable American meat is being brought in for the simple reason it can be laid down here at cheaper rates than Canadian. We quote: Long clear dry salt, 9½.; American short clear, 9c.; smoked, 10c.; hams, 12c.; breakfast bacon, 12c.

RICE—Advices from Hong Kong show an advance in No. 1 China rice of ¼c. per lb. This is due to the fact that the Japanese crop being short they have purchased largely from China, so that this article is not likely to be more plentiful or any cheaper until the next crop is in, which will not be for three months.

EVAPORTED FRUITS—Apricots are worth 11¾ to 12c. Evaporated apples are firm and quoted at 10 to 10½c.; dried (sun) offering more freely at 5½c. Peaches and cherries are unchanged. Raspberries are a shade higher, being 18c.

SUGAR—Indications point to an advance in this article before long. At present, last week's prices rule; 5⅛c. for granulated; lump, 5⅝ to 5⅞c., as to size of package.

COFFEE—Firm; No. 5 Rios, 10 to 11c.

GREEN FRUIT—Little change for the week, Cheaper grades of apples are out of market, and fancy goods bring $5 to $5.50. Bananas are down a trifle and are now $2 to $2.50; pineapples, $3 to $4, according to size. Strawberries have been scarce; price, $4.50.

BUTTER—As already stated, quite a number of factories are in operation, but are rather crippled owing to lack of grass for the cows. Some sales are reported at 17½ to 18c., point of shipment. It is not expected that there will be any bulk of creamery before June 1. Bulk of dairy butter is from hay-fed cows, very pale in color. Receipts fairly liberal and slump in price is looked for early in the week.

CHEESE—Small amount of new cheese are offering and are readily snapped up at 8½ to 9c.

MR. BALLANTYNE ON CHEESE.

A STRATFORD HERALD reporter last week interviewed R. M. Ballantyne, of the firm of Thomas Ballantyne & Sons, butter and cheese dealers. Mr. Ballantyne returned recently from a short business trip to England in the interests of his firm. Questioned as to the general trend of the cheese market in Great Britain, Mr. Ballantyne said :

"The market has been in bad shape all the winter. A large quantity of cheese, which the English dealers bought here last year at good prices, was sold in England at tremendous losses. The reason for this unfortunate state of affairs was that the fine make of last season advanced prices in the fall. This put the cheese too high for a five-penny cut, and the dealers consequently lost tremendously."

"How is it now?" queried the pencil pusher.

"Well things are a little better now," replied Mr. Ballantyne. The market started to rise in the middle of April, and when I left it had advanced from 5 to 6s. per hundredweight. This advance was caused by the small stock on the British market, and, as the large English importers themselves had only a very small stock on hand, they could not reap the benefit of the advanced prices."

"What are the prospects for this season's make?"

"The English dealers are not likely to repeat last season's experience," said Mr. Ballantyne. "They will not allow our market to get to a higher level during the cheese-making season. In fact, we are not likely to see as good prices in any portion of this year as we did last season. The Britishers made such tremendous losses last season that they will not buy anything unless they can get it cheap. On the whole, I may say that prices will not be so good this season as last year."

"How about the butter market?" was the next question.

"In butter we are getting better prices than ever before. The English public is beginning to like our make, and we can now compare quite favorably with the Danish market. The outlook is quite encouraging in this department."

THE PROPER CLASSIFICATION.

"See here!" exclaimed the Customs house official, as he held up a half-dozen black bottles, "I thought you said this trunk contained nothing but wearing apparel?"

"That's what I said," answered the tourist.

"Well, what do you call these?" asked the official.

"Night caps," was the calm reply.

CHINESE FIRE CRACKERS.

During last year, according to an exchange, there were exported from China 20,705,733 pounds of firecrackers, valued by the Chinese Imperial Customs at $1,584,-151 (gold). The entire export was from the Province of Kwangtung, principally (over 20,000,000 lbs.) from the port of Kowloon. Of the total shipment, by far the largest part came by sailing vessels to New York. A small quantity went to England. Other countries buy only in very small quantities. The exports represent only a small fraction of the amount manufactured and used in China. There are no large manufactories; the crackers are made in small houses and in the shops where they are sold. Only the cheapest quality of straw paper, which can be produced in the immediate locality where the crackers are made, is used for the body of the cracker. The powder is also of the cheapest grade, and is made in the locality where used. It costs 6 to 7c. (gold) per pound. At Canton the ordinary size cracker (1½ inches long by ¼ inch in diameter) costs 62c. per 10,000 for export. At Chungking 15,000 of the ordinary crackers can be bought for the same amount. Four-fifths of the crackers consumed in China are made by the families of those who sell them. It is estimated that 30 women and 10 men can make 100,000 crackers per day, for which work women receive 5c. and the men 7c. each.

TRADE IN OTHER COUNTRIES THAN OUR OWN.

COFFEE IN NEW YORK.

IN its review of last week's coffee market The Journal of Commerce says: "The absence of a demand from the country trade has been the feature of the market, jobbers generally have reported an unusually slow business, interior dealers, generally, apparently being disposed to work off their supplies latterly purchased before entering the market as buyers. Naturally, with the slowness of the distributing business, jobbers have been difficult to interest in coffee offered by first hands; still, a moderate volume of business has been transacted, as the large roasters have been buyers, but at a decline in prices, paying on the basis of 6⅜c. for Rio No. 7 on the spot. Primal markets have held fairly steady, with prices slightly above a parity with those ruling locally. West India growths have been in increased supply, and, as the demand has been slow and there has been some pressure to sell, prices have declined to 8¾c. for good Cucuta. East India growths have had a limited jobbing sale at steady values."

SHORT LIMA BEAN CROP.

Mail advices from Venturn, Cal., state that no more than 1 out of 35 acres have been planted in lima beans this year. Last week purchases were made by speculators at 2.87½c. Holders now want 3c. net. Spot stocks on the Coast are closely absorbed by recent speculative purchases, the letter says. Growers who have stock are holding back expecting to get 4c. next fall for their beans.

TEAS IN NEW YORK.

The feature of the market in New York, according to The Journal of Commerce, has been the dulness of trade. The line business has been at a minimum, as the country trade has been a slow buyer, the few purchases made having been limited to peddling lots, as interior dealers have operated on a steady hand-to-mouth basis, confining their purchases to only such supplies as have been needed to meet current wants. The demand from the local trade has also dragged. The market for invoices has been neglected.

SALMON PACKING ON THE COAST.

In its issue of May 13 The San Francisco Herald of Trade and Finance thus reviews the salmon situation: "There has been, and continues to be, a free movement in Alaska pink and Oregon from outside rivers. In new season pack Puget Sound sockeyes are held on the basis of 85c. for talls. Columbia River is held at $1.05 for talls, but some cutting is reported. Sacramento spring is held on the basis of 95c. for talls. The spring pack on the Sacramento will be about 3,000 cases by the Carquinez Packing Co., against 6,000 cases spring of 1897, about 9,000 cases by the Sacramento River Packers' Association, against 14,000 in the spring of 1897. The run on that river started in big about May 4, and has been good since, except one or two days, when it was slack. They are paying 2½c. for fish on the Sacramento. The run on the Columbia River is still poor, but it is expected to be large in June and July—for, as a rule, these are the big months, although we have seen heavy runs in August. The fish in June generally average fair sizes, but smaller in July. We venture the prediction that the fish in June this year will not average in size 75 per cent. of June, 1897. The water in the Columbia promises to be lower than ever known for the months of June, July and August, which, if correct, will cause the large sized fish not to attempt to come in for spawning. The placing of mines at the mouth of the Columbia River will prevent fishing there, but it will not make any difference in the catch, for the fish can be caught above the mouth.

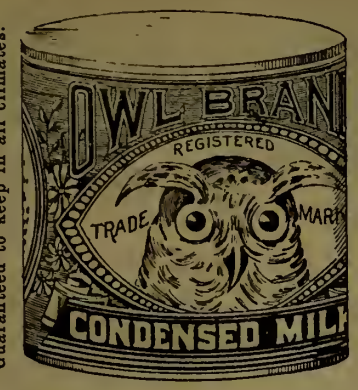
CANNED TOMATOES ADVANCING.

Interest in spot canned tomatoes continues, and prices are advancing. Stocks in first hands are said to be closely cleaned up. It is expected that the new season will open on a bare market for all descriptions. A prominent commission merchant said today that the market will be more closely cleaned up this season than for many years. —N.Y. Journal of Commerce.

GROWING FRUITS IN CALIFORNIA.

A letter written by a Los Angeles, Cal., fruit firm says: "Navel oranges are practically all shipped, but we still have a good supply of seedlings. Mediterranean sweets and some paper rind St. Michaels' and Valencias. We have a large quantity of budded seedlings, grown along the foot hills, which are good hard stock and best value, for the money, in the market to-day. They are as desirable as Mediterranean sweets, but can be sold at less money. The price to-day for these Trumpeter seedlings is 75c. per box f.o.b. California. It will be necessary to ice all shipments from now on, for, notwithstanding the fruit is good and hard, it is ripe and the weather is quite warm all along the line, and the fruit will not carry a long distance and arrive in good condition unless under refrigeration."

CANNED MEATS IN NEW YORK.



Prices on canned roast beef advanced Wednesday to $1.75 for 1-lb. tins, $8.25 for 2-lb. tins and $12 for 6-lb. tins. Potted meats were also higher, closing at 60c. for ¼-lb. tins, and $1.10 for ½-lb. tins. For ox tongues prices have advanced to $7.25 for 1½lb. tins, $8.25 for 2-lb. tins, $10.25 for 2½-lb. tins and $12.60 for 3-lb. tins. Stocks of ox tongues in the hands of packers are said to be practically exhausted. —N.Y. Journal of Commerce.

The report says : "The best estimates which can be obtained for the principal wheat-growing countries of the southern hemisphere for the year 1897-98 are as follows : Argentina, 50,000,000 ; Chili, 15,000,000 ; Uruguay, 8,500,000 ; Australasia, 30,500,000 ; India, 198,000,000."

THE CURRANT MARKET.

D. Pasqua, Patras, May 3, writes of currants : There has been quite a revival in our market during the past month, and, along with considerable business done for forward shipment, prices have also materially advanced.

Thus, notwithstanding the considerable advance in the rate of exchange, which quotes dr. 37 per £ sterling, the prices realized have been from 17s. to 19s. for provincial half cases, c.i.f. London.

The following table shows our exports to date in comparison with those of last year :

	April 30, 1898. Net tons.	April 30, 1897. Net tons.	July 31, 1897. Net tons.
To England	55,685	53,000	54,700
To United States and Canada.	12,360	14,065	14,065
To Australia	2,970	2,520	2,775
To Holland, Belgium, Germany and Austria	23,900	41,000	42,200
To France	1,540	5 470	6,223
To Russia		19,321	19 321
To sundries	300	1,000	1,200
Total	96.755	136,376	140,484

The forward sales for May and June are calculated to aggregate 4,000 tons, which will thus leave in the country about 3,500 tons unsold.

Market to-day is very firm, at highest quotations, and as the largest portion of the forward sales has yet to be covered, it is anticipated that we shall have an active market till the end of the season.

Good Advertising

For Wide Awake Retailers

By F. James Gibson.

Our "Good Advertising" department is to help our subscribers to do better advertising. The gentleman whom we have selected as its conductor is well known as one of the foremost advertising specialists of the day. Any of our readers who desire the benefit of Mr. Gibson's criticisms on advertisements or advertising methods, or his advice on any advertising subject, can have it or both entirely free of charge by writing to him in care of this journal.

If correspondents so desire, fictitious names or initials may be used for publication. But all requests should be accompanied by the subscriber's name,

I AM REQUESTED to say what I think of this ad., and in publishing it, to omit the name at the bottom, which I have clipped off:

Something New For Spring, 1898.

The Newest Designs in Blouses.

I have repeated these goods already. Selling fast.

Pretty lines FANCY DRESS GOODS, from 35c. to $1.50 per yard. Handsome Black Figured Dress Goods, 35c. to $1.50 per yard.

CRETONNES, from 11c. to 20c. Cannot be beat as regards pattern or quality.

SIL-VERTA in Pretty Designs, color guaranteed fast, at 25c. per yard.

UNBLEACHED SHEETINGS, two yards wide, at 14c.

BLEACHED SHEETINGS, two yards wide, at 19c.; good quality. This line of sheeting is selling on first sight.

LACE CURTAINS, 45c. to $3.60 per set.

REMEMBER we have a good line of Ladies' and Men's Ties, at 12c. to 60c. each.

MEN'S BRACES, with leather ends. These ends are made of the strongest leather on earth.

The People's Cash Store.

I think it is a very good looking ad. In the original it occupied 55 lines, two columns wide. It is well displayed, and the idea of having the names of the goods stand out boldly is a good one The ad., however, does not appear to be one calculated to get much direct business. It is too indefinite. "Fancy Dress Goods, from 35c. to $1.50 a yard," is too indefinite. "Cretonnes, from 11c. to 20c." is too indefinite. "Lace Curtains, 45c. to $3.60 per set," is too indefinite. "Ladies' and Men's Ties, at 12c. to 60c." is too indefinite. Probably half the people who read the ad. don't know what "sil-verta" is, except that it sometimes comes in pretty designs and guaranteed colors. Probably the best line in the ad. is: "Men's Braces, with leather ends. These ends are made of the strongest leather on earth." But this line is spoiled by the price, or prices, being left out. If the ad. had said "A line of fancy dress goods, 36 inches wide, in the new black check patterns so much the rage in Paris this season, at 75c. a yard," it would have been better. Definite information and the art of bringing out in an ad the really strong and desirable points about the goods advertised are two things the advertiser ought to strive for.

How is a country merchant to advertise to advantage when his local newspaper or newspapers have next to no circulation, or, if it be located in so small a place that there is no local newspaper at all? When the circulation of a newspaper is very small—say a few hundred—it is obvious that the publisher don't sell his space at as low a rate per line per thousand of circulation as the big publisher in the city can. In other words, it costs the dealer in a small country place more to reach the people through an advertisement than his advertisement costs his city competitor. In country places the personal element is also more in evidence than in the city. That is to say, there is more friendship trade. Some country merchants are related by blood or by marriage to a very large proportion of the people in their respective localities. Church association and other influences often are very potent. All these things frequently guide the course of business, while in the cities they have but little influence.

It is clear, then, that the country merchant is up against a more difficult task when he depends on advertising to increase his trade than is his city brother. Another thing that makes the task still more difficult is that there is not such a quick and general response to advertisements in the country as in the city. In the country the advertisement-reading habit is not so prevalent, because, like other habits, this habit grows by what it is fed on. It is not so prevalent, because there are comparatively few advertisements in the country papers for the people to read. And a great many of the advertisements which are there are so indefinite and pointless, and so dead-and-alive that they excite no interest and do no good to anyone except, perhaps, the men who publish the papers. But the country merchant, even if without family connection or personal influence of any other kind, need not despair. He has advantages over the city merchant, because his expenses are so much smaller and because the ties of locality are in his favor. And, if he understands his business and has the advertising instinct he will find some way of drawing trade to his store. Most people, especially women, if put to the test, will show that they love a bargain more than they do their relatives. If money is to be saved, the ties of church or other associations referred to, don't really withstand the temptation of lower prices and better assortments of goods for any great length of time. Human nature is human nature, and he who understands it best will be sure to forge ahead whether he is located in a country village or a great city.

But let us look at some of the ways in which our friend the small country dealer can advertise to advantage in these places where the newspaper is out of the question:

SIGNS.—Besides the usual sign over the door, others can be set up here and there in the district naturally tributary to the store. A good sign would be a blackboard set up over the store on which the special offerings of the day can be chalked. Arrangements could also be made to set up these blackboards in each of the sheds connected with the hotels of the place. If it is found to work better, printed bills could be substituted for the chalk talk. But these printed bills should be changed very frequently—every day if possible, but certainly once a week.

Another good location for signs is inside the store. These inside store signs should not, of course, be large, nor have much reading matter on them. They can be easily made out of cardboard and wooden type. It is important that these signs, too, should be changed frequently. With a little practice considerable skill can be acquired by a person of ordinary intelligence in writing and printing this useful form of advertising.

CIRCULARS are good if they are properly got up and properly distributed, but a handbill is not of much use. A good plan would be to get out a circular of several pages every week, to take the form of a newspaper. The paper could be called "Store News," or some such name. If the advertisements were to be interspersed with genuine and interesting news items it might be an improvement in most localities. If there happens not to be a good enough printing office in the village, get it printed in the nearest city or large town. A good size would be 10 to 12 inches by 4 to 5 inches. It might even be desirable to work in as an advertiser some other dealer in the same village whose goods would not conflict. This would distribute the expense somewhat, and give more of a variety to the advertising. The paper could be distributed through the mails on payment of postage, but it might be sent out by hand to he people of the village. A specially large edition could be got out for such an occasion as the county or township fair. If this fair is at a distance from the village, a few thousand copies of the paper could be sent there to be distributed by reliable persons. Advantage should be taken of any large or suitable gathering of people in our merchant's neighborhood to distribute copies of his advertising paper. As an auxiliary to this publication, smaller circulars relating to certain special lines of goods ought to be placed in each basket or box containing goods going out of the store. Other small circulars ought to be wrapped up in each of the parcels sent out. In all these mediums particular care should be taken to have the advertising bright, interesting and fresh. Get up some new advertisements, and, if possible, some new advertising ideas each business day. If the merchant discovers that anyone of his clerks evinces a particular aptitude for ad.-writing or sign-writing, let him encourage him along, instead of keeping the youth scraping out sugar barrels or washing crockery and glassware, give him a chance to learn something about advertising by the study of books and other publications bearing on the subject. May be the young man will turn out to have decided talent as an advertiser.

The store that comes to the front, other things being equal, is the store that does the best advertising. It is the fashion among certain small dealers to rail at the department store and blame it for their own lack of success. It is very handy, of course, to have a scapegoat when you feel the need of one, but a little reflection will readily show that this department store question is really very largely a question of advertising. The growth of the big stores has kept step with the growth of the daily newspaper press. This is not at all a mere coincidence. Without the big city daily paper the big city store could not exist. It is clear, then, that newspaper advertising is, to a great extent, responsible for the modern department store. Ten to twenty years from now some of the smallest stores in the big cities will have grown to be big department or other kind of stores, and they will "get there" mainly through their skill as advertisers. There is a lesson in this for many a small dealer in Toronto, Montreal and elsewhere, who is lamenting the fact that the big stores are getting bigger and the small stores smaller.

It makes no difference which of the leading cities you take, in either the United States or Canada, it will be found that the ones which do the most advertising do the most business. The subject of advertising, then, is one which the young man going into mercantile life should make a careful study of. And here's to his success !

The two following advertisements, taken from an Ingersoll, Ont., paper exemplify two distinct kinds of advertising—the kind that will sell goods and the kind that probably won't. The Forman advertisement starts right and tells you in large type that it is about patent medicines.

The Mitchell advertisement, while much prettier than the other, gives you no hint as to what it is about until you start to read the smaller type. Of course, it is ahead of the average country newspaper advertisement, but it is about no particular kind of

AMONG TORONTO RETAILERS.

Trading Stamps.

Some of the retail grocers who adopted the trading stamp scheme have had enough; they are now wanting to stop it. There is a barrier in the way, however. This scheme has undoubtedly brought new customers to the majority of the merchants who have adopted it. These customers, and the regular customers have been taken up with the desire to get these stamps, and careful sounding by these retailers has brought out the fact that they would object to the retailer throwing up the system. As the system gets fully into operation it develops its true features rapidly. One of the claims of the originators of this system has been that as many bills will amount to odd sums, say 23c., 26c., or 27c., as for these the merchant would give but two stamps he would be paying no percentage on the 3c., 6c. or 7c. This was true at first, but now customers buying, say 25c. worth of goods, will look around, saying, "now what can I get with 5c. to make it even," and get a bar of soap or something else, worth 5c. in order to get three stamps. Children are specially careful to strike it about even, one youngster last week, buying 19c. worth of goods from a grocer, bought 1c. worth of post cards, and then wanted two stamps. Another feature which was not so noticeable at first was the fact that in a quiet way the customcan be made to bear part of the expense of this system. In many lines of goods, there are two or three qualities, for the second and other inferior qualities of which there is no settled price. For such goods as these the full price is charged. Take butter for instance. Good dairy butter may be retailing at 18c. in a neigborhood, but the retailer has some second grade stuff he bought at about 12c. This he might have sold at 15c. or even cut to 13c., but, under the conditions created by the trading stamp system, he is able to sell it at 16c., the difference of this one cent making up for the percentage supposed to be given away. This relieves the retailer somewhat for the time being, but a customer will be slow if she does not notice these things. And when she notices it in regard to one article she will, in nine cases out of ten, conclude that the grocer puts up prices on all his goods. From the evidence I got from the grocers I spoke to this week who are trying the scheme, it is clear that fully 4 per cent. of the gross receipts go to keeping up this method of attracting business. To find out how the loss of such a percentage would effect a firmly established business, I called on Swan Bros. and asked Mr. Henry Swan for his opinion. He had not considered the scheme much, as he believed in running his own business. The editorial on the subject in THE CANADIAN GROCER of last week met his views, however. He did not see how any man could run a business and give away four or five per cent. of his receipts. If his firm were to give away five per cent. of its receipts it would lose $1,500 in a year's time. They could not give two per cent. away and charge the same prices they now charge, and make a living. A statement like this, coming from such a veteran retailer as Mr. Swan, is worth the consideration of retailers generally, not only in regard to the present scheme occupying the attention of many Toronto retail grocers, but in regard to any form or system of cutting below the regular selling price.

Unconscious Cutting.

As mentioned in the foregoing paragraph, during a conversation regarding trading stamps, my attention was drawn to the fact that many dealers have a habit of dropping a cent or two off the price of an article either out of good nature or of policy. This is a bad policy. The best merchants have a price for everything, and sell their goods at that price; those "not so fortunate" have frequently made it a policy to give their customers a rebate now and then just to keep them contented. The natural result is that the customers look for a rebate, or "a cent off," as a general rule. When I was working some six years or so ago in a country general store there were some dozen or so customers who would come into the shop, haggle half an hour with a clerk over the difference of 10c. in an article, then ask for the proprietor, who would, as a rule, make the desired reduction in price. This merchant listed his goods at one-third, or 33 per cent. more than cost price, and so could afford a loss of 5 per cent., or even an occasional 10 per cent., but the loss of his clerks' time added to the reductions given was such that he frequently stated that these customers were more nuisance than profit, and had been so for years. Yet he encouraged them by his weakness in giving them the rebate asked. As no Toronto grocer can charge 33 per cent. profit, giving rebates or reductions is much worse here now than it was in this country town six years ago. "One price for everything, and everything at that price," is a good axiom.

Salt that Pays

Some dealers say there is no money in handling salt. Our best customers tell a different story. Almost everything depends on the way it is handled.

How do they manage it?

First of all they buy it right—they send us their orders knowing that we carry large stocks of first-class salt, and that we ship promptly by any line of rail or by water. On arrival it is stored in a clean, dry place, and treated with the care that all good merchandise deserves. It is bought right—stored right—and as a result—sold right.

Coleman's Table and Dairy Salt

This pays the dealer a much better profit than common barrel salt, and by keeping it to the front, sales may be largely increased. Many farmers are using the cheapest salt they can buy for butter, simply because the grocer has never urged them to use anything better.

No time like the present

"June butter" is supposed to be the best of the year. It is for dealers to see that their customers use the best salt. Get a stock of fifty and twenty pound sacks of Coleman's Butter Salt, display it nicely, and it will be found a quick and profitable seller. We send attractive advertising matter in each car.

To complete the carload

We can supply fine or coarse salt in barrels, bags, or bulk—any assortment you may require.

R. & J. RANSFORD, Clinton.

Reasons why you should use the

"Marshall Process" Wick

(Patented)

in your Lamps.

Because it possesses the highest capillary power of any wick made.
Because it requires but little trimming or care.
Because its combustion of petroleum oils is perfectly odorless.
Because it does not clog.
Because the flame it produces has no creeping tendency.
Because it produces the whitest light of the greatest illuminating power.
Because it is a non-conductor of heat, a preventive of overheated lamps.
Because it is used and endorsed by the leading Lamp and Lantern manufacturers, and sold by the leading jobbers throughout the United States.

Write to us for samples prices, and all information. We sell the "Marshall Process" Wick for every style of Burner and Oil Heater in the Market.

Keep On Planting.

You remember the man who stopped planting his seed because he said the crows were getting more out of it than he was—he expected the seed to take care of itself. He stopped planting and his creditors took his farm—he's flagging trains at a way-station now.

It pays to plant good seed, but you must cultivate it after it's down—by-and-by you'll get a crop that will surprise you. Plant seeds of confidence now among your customers—it pays. If the first lot doesn't come up, "Keep on planting," and don't forget to cultivate them after they're down.

CHAT WITH A MAN FROM EUROPE.

THERE is nothing I like better than to sit down and chat with a man whose custom is to travel in various countries, especially if it be in the interest of some commercial concern. It was with pleasure, therefore, that I grasped the opportunity on Saturday last of interviewing Mr. Daniel Schulte, a gentleman who is at present visiting Canada in the interests of several European distillers and wine makers.

During the last two years he has been nearly all the time travelling in various parts of the globe, having visited Africa, Australasia, China, Japan, India, Brazil, Argentine and other Latin-American countries, and the United States.

Mr. Schulte is away above six feet in height; four inches above at any rate—I should think. And it seemed to me that I had even to reach up to grasp his hand. He is not yet at middle life, and he is a most affable and unaffected Englishman.

He had been in Toronto a day or two before I saw him, and had come direct from British Columbia over the C.P.R. Before visiting British Columbia Mr. Schulte spent some time in California.

"How was business in Victoria and Vancouver when you left?" I asked.

"Oh, a good deal of business is being done," he said.

"But down this way we hear that trade is flat in those cities," I interjected.

"Well, during the last month business has fallen off somewhat. You could scarcely expect anything else, but there is a good deal of business being done, nevertheless. Quite a little outfitting is still being done for the Klondyke. The outfitting for the Klondyke is now being all done at Seattle, Victoria and Vancouver and Tacoma is doing nothing. I was about two months too late to do much business in British Columbia in the lines I represent. Before I left for this country I made special enquiries as to when it would be the best time to visit British Columbia, and I was told it was no use going there till April, but I was, as I have already said, too late, and instead of being one of the first to get in there I was one of the last. British Columbia is at present overstocked with liquors. Why, there is a steamer lying at one of the wharves in Victoria with ten thousand cases of Scotch Whiskey and three thousand cases of beer on board. The liquors were brought out by speculators by steamer, and when I left a permit to land them had not even been obtained. Although a good business is being done in liquors, with the market glutted merchants will naturally not place further orders. The outlook for the future, however, is all right. I had purposed going to Dawson City, but in view of the present condition of affairs I decided that it would not be advisable. Then the immigration into the Klondyke has not been as large as was expected, although of course a great many people have gone in."

"There are not many wines drunk out that way I suppose?" I asked.

"No. You know the average miner is not particular what he drinks. As long as it is liquor he is satisfied. The consumption of Scotch whiskey is increasing and a great deal of claret and some champagne is drunk. But you know the population is small. But mind you, the outlook is good."

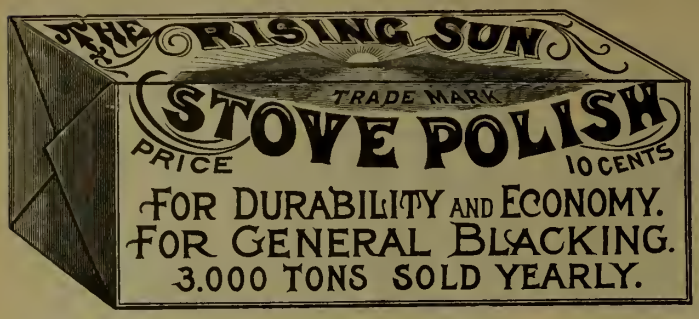
"How do you like Canada?" I ventured.

"British Columbia is a beautiful country. I like it very much. But I have only been in Canada a few days."

"But," I interposed, "British Columbia is a part of Canada."

"Yes, I know; but it seems another country. Everything is so different from what it is here. But I am very much delighted with Toronto. It is so clean looking. I had no idea it was such a fine city. And what a city it is for ladies! Why you seem to have more ladies than gentlemen here! You know in England the colonies are advertised as good places for young women to go if they are in search of husbands.

"It is amusing the misconceptions which exist in England regarding the colonies. There are people in London, for instance, who think they know everything, and that they can go to the colonies or foreign countries and employ the same methods they do at home and succeed. When they lose their money they find their mistake."



"In all your travels with which countries do you like best to do business?"

"Oh, the colonies. And the countries with which I most of all detest doing business is Spain and the Spanish colonies or countries which were once Spanish colonies. Buenos Ayres, Argentine, is however, an exception."

Speaking of trade conditions in the various countries in which he had travelled Mr. Schulte said: "I went to Africa shortly after the Jamieson raid and business was then good. But things are very bad now, and they will be until old Kruger dies or goes out of office. The Boer Government is unprogressive. Its taxes on dynamite and other things are most burdensome. I am firmly of opinion that there will be another revolution in that country before long. Things cannot go on as they are at present. In California, too, trade is poor, and the outlook is not good on account of the poor cereal and fruit crops. You know the commercial man's trade barometer in California is the wheat crop. If the crop is bad he knows trade will be bad, and he governs himself accordingly."

"Trade in Canada is in a pretty healthy condition," I ventured to remark, for I always believe in telling the truth and letting other people know all the truth about a good thing, and especially when Canada is concerned.

"Oh, yes, I understand that, and am glad to know it. From what I have seen of Canada I am convinced it is a grand country. But what you want is population. I have a number of relatives who are proposing to emigrate, and I shall certainly recommend Canada to them. One thing that favorably impressed me was the marked difference in the people in the Canadian Pacific coast cities and those at Seattle. In Seattle, a large part of the population seems to be composed of lawless and desperate characters, while in Victoria and Vancouver it is the very opposite. From what I could learn the Canadian people on the Coast are making every effort to keep out the rowdy element."

There is one thing I gathered during my chat with Mr. Schulte that I would recommend to all who travel either on business or pleasure bent. I will give his own words to show what I mean: "I do not, when I am abroad, travel after the manner of the ordinary tourist. There is too much silly talk with the average tourist. What he seems most interested in is discussing the height of some mountain which comes within his range of vision, or some other trivial thing. I have not time to read novels, but I read the leading trade papers and the books about the various countries with which I am trying to do business. I read these books before I go and I read them again after I have left these countries. Then I talk with the people of these countries whenever an opportunity offers. And you can as a rule learn more about a country by talking with a native half an hour than you can in hours reading books."

Mr. Schulte goes to Montreal from Toronto, and from thence to New York and home. I should have mentioned the houses he represents. They are: de St. Marceaux & Cie., Reims (Champagne); Erven Lucas Bols., Amsterdam (Liqueurs & Hollands Gin Distillers); Black & Ferguson, Aberdeen (Scotland), whiskey distillers and blenders; Dilthey Sahl & Co., Rudesheim on Rhine (Still and Sparkling Hock and Moselle); Quien & Co., Bordeaux (Clarets, Port and Sherries). AMONG TORONTO RETAILERS.

The Summer Fruit Trade.

The summer trade in small fruits and vegetables may be said to have nicely opened up, and already one can easily see that some dealers intend pushing this line of business for all it is worth, while others will likely carry a few boxes, for appearance's sake seemingly. There is no question but that fruits and especially small fruits are goods which need careful, watchful handling, but to the dealers who have mastered the art of selling their fruit before it spoils there is an undoubted profit in these goods. To a dealer who has recently opened up in business, or who has just begun to deal in fruits the experience of many successful dealers would say that business can be had in either of two ways: starting in a small way and increasing at every opportunity, or commencing boldly and selling all over-stocks at cost rather than allowing them to spoil. The first way is undoubtedly the safer, especially to the man with a limited capital, as he, having but a small stock on hand, does not run as great a risk from spoiling. To many men, however, the socond way is preferable, for though the risk is greater, the chances of a paying business are much larger, taking for granted, of course, that the beginner knows how to buy, display and sell fruit. There is no doubt but the average person is more likely to buy where there is an abundance and a variety of fruit than where the retailer keeps only a little and does not seem to take any interest in the sale of these goods. Then, as has been the experience of more than one dealer, after about a month's bold endeavors to reach trade, the trade seems to come more easily; the risk is consequently less, and soon a paying business rewards the enterprise of the retailer. As has been said before, in conjunction with enterprise, there is needed knowledge, to buy fruit; skill, to display it; and energy to sell it. There are one or two men in one district in the city who have a reputation for the ability to buy, as a rule, at a considerably lower rate than their competitors. They have thus an advantage over their rivals, for they can either sell cheaper or have a higher rate of interest. The latter seems to be the more satisfactory, for while it does not make competitors cut prices the larger rate of profit gives an opportunity for displaying goods to better advantage. Experienced dealers say that one of the chief difficulties in fruit selling is the danger of goods spoiling, and that experience is really necessary to judge the amount which can be safely handled in any locality. This very danger is the reason given by some dealers for having little to do with fruit. They are content to "make a living" selling groceries. The old proverb loses nothing in being read "Faint heart ne'er won fair lady's trade."

This firm now sends its travelers as far west as Winnipeg,

CANNED GOODS OUTLOOK IN THE UNITED STATES.

This unseasonable weather has had the effect of setting back all vegetation and retarding growth in general, and has prevented much seed from germinating, and killed off the young and sprouting plants. In many instances it has simply destroyed the entire work of the spring, and the farmers and planters will have to do it all over again, or repudiate their contracts.

From Southern Maryland come reports that the recent hailstorm of the 19th has cut peas and strawberries from their vines and killed all the tomato plants set out; the latter to such an extent that growers will be unable to fill their contracts, and so not one-third of a crop is estimated upon. But while this is the case in one locality, the neighboring county will escape all damage from hail and report a largely increased acreage.

But the report is general that the excessive rains have prevented germination, and consequently tomato plants were extremely scarce, and what plants were lucky enough to escape this disaster, are still waiting to be transplanted, owing to the wet condition of the soil. Much corn that has been planted has failed to come up, and other that came up only did so to be cut down again, which two fatalities, taken together, have necessitated much replanting. But, as the season is young for these two staples, it is thought that the new crop can be gotten in and matured in time for the coming packing season. In all directions there was an increased acreage, in some cases there was double over that of former years, so that the damage from weather conditions will really not make a very perceptable difference.—The Trade, Baltimore, Md.

REMEDY AGAINST CUTWORMS.

A good remedy to destroy cutworms that attack tobacco, cabbage, onions, tomatoes and similar plants soon after they are set out, is to drop a tablespoonful of poison mash in the vicinity, but not in the exact place where the plant will be set. If this is done three to five days before the plants are set out, the worms will be attracted to the bait, will eat it, and will be killed. The best bait seems to be wheat bran, say 50 lb., cheap molasses, 2 quarts, and paris green, 1 lb. Mix the bran and poison together thoroughly while dry, then add the molasses, previously diluted with a gallon of warm water, adding enough water to make a dough that can be handled easily without running. This plan has been very successfully used by a large number of farmers, and especially recommended by the Maryland station (Bulletin 55). It is inexpensive, and does the business. Where cutworms are frequent, there will often be found four to eight worms dead about each hill of bait. There are other methods of applying the poison, but this seems to be the most effective, and farmers and gardeners who have tried it endorse it as the most practicable scheme yet devised for dealing with the cutworm pest—American Agriculturist.

The majority of the business men of Nelson, B.C., have agreed to close their places of business at 6 or 7 o'clock each evening during the summer months, and the Nelson Economist suggests that they go farther, and close up one afternoon in the week. NATIONAL GROCERS' ALLIANCE.

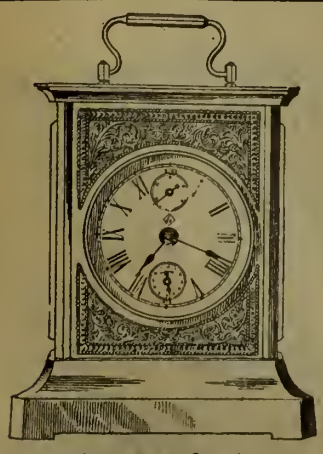
EVERY jobbing grocer in the United States, according to the N. Y. Journal of Commerce, has been invited to attend a meeting of the Wholesale Grocers' Association to be held at Niagara Falls, June 7 and 8. Among the subjects to come before the meeting is the question of forming a national alliance of grocers, embracing all the prominent houses in the trade throughout the country. The promoters of the proposed organization hope to perfect plans to bring the wholesale houses closer together in a business way, and to lay the foundation for a uniform schedule of prices in all the States.

Two schemes have been suggested as a basis for the new organization. One is to effect a union of the several State associations, and the other is to form a national association without reference to State bodies.

It is claimed that the State organizations have come into conflict on the borders of adjoining States and in the large cities where competition has been sharp. This has brought about a chaotic state of affairs that can only be regulated by the formation of a national body, with authority to make and enforce regulations that will prevent such conflicts.

In favor of the union of State associations, it is urged that all matters pertaining to the conduct of business within States could be regulated by the existing organizations, giving them practical home rule, with the power to adjust local differences, and thus relieving the national association of a vast amount of work that would complicate matters if thrown on to the national body.

Under this plan delegates to the national body would be elected by the several State organizations. These delegates would have to look after their respective States, both in the matter of the maintenance of prices and the regulation of freight rates charged by the railroad companies. They would also keep a watchful eye on the relations between the jobber and the manufacturer, and keep the State associations informed as to their duties.



Particular attention will be paid to devising some plan for the maintenence of prices and the punishment of violations. Several of the foremost thinkers in the several State associatious agree upon a fine of $1,000 for each and every offence in the way of cutting prices as the most efficacious way of stopping such practices, and such a plan will be proposed in the regular way when the convention gets down to business at Niagara Falls.

U.S. FLOUR FOR THE BRITISH.

A Kingston, Jamaica, despatch says: "The British Government has purchased in the United States for delivery here 120,000 barrels of flour for the army and navy stores. Part of the order was placed with a Minneapolis company. The transaction is significant as showing British preparation for an emergency."

THE DOMINION BANK.

One indication of the commercial prosperity at present being felt in Canada is to be found in the reports of the chartered banks. The report of the annual general meeting of the Dominion Bank shareholders will be read in another column. This institution, as is well known, is an old and rich bank, its reserve fund being equal to its capital, a unique and satisfactory feature which makes a financial institution practically impregnable. The business of the Dominion Bank during the past year has resulted in a clear net profit of $182,462. The balance carried forward, after the payment of four quarterly dividends, was $32,388, against a similar balance last year of $29,925. The bills under discount and call loans amount to $10,709,000, and the note circulation is $1,264,016. The assets of the bank are very large, and the price of its stock in the money market indicates an unequalled position. The annual statement is instructive and inspiring.

THE BREAD OF NATIONS.

IT IS a curious and interesting study to compare the various materials which serve the different nations of the world as the basis of their bread. In this country, where good bread, made from spring and fall wheat flour, is within reach of all, rarely a thought is given to the fact that, after all, the inhabitants of only a small portion of the earth's surface enjoy such food.

In the more remote parts of Sweden, says The Sanitary Record, the poor make and bake their rye bread twice a year and store the loaves away, so that eventually they are as hard as bricks. Further north still, bread is made from barley and oats. In Lapland, oats, with the inner bark of the pine, are used. The two together, well ground and mixed, are made into large flat cakes, cooked in a pan over a fire. In dreary Kamtschatka pine or birch bark by itself, well macerated, pounded, and baked, frequently constitutes the whole of the native bread food. The Icelander scrapes the "Iceland moss" off the rocks and grinds it into flour, which serves both for bread and puddings. In some parts of Siberia, China and other eastern countries, a fairly palatable bread is made from buckwheat. In parts of Italy chestnuts are cooked, ground into meal, and used for making bread. Durra, a variety of the millet, is much used in the countries of India, Egypt, Arabia, and Asia Minor for making bread. Rice bread is the staple food of the Chinese, Japanese, and a large portion of the inhabitants of India.

In Persia, the bread is made from rice, flour and milk; it is called "Iawash." The Persian oven is built in the ground, about the size of a barrel. The sides are smooth mason work. The fire is built at the bottom, and kept burning until the walls or sides of the oven are thoroughly heated. Enough dough to form a sheet about one foot wide and about two feet long is thrown on the bench and rolled until about as thin as sole leather. Then it is taken up and tossed and rolled from one arm to the other and flung on the board and slapped on the side of the oven. It takes only a few moments to bake, and when baked it is spread out to cool. This bread is cheap—1c. a sheet—it is sweet and nourishing. A specimen of the "hunger bread" from Armenia is made of clover seed, flax, or linseed meal, mixed with edible grass. In the Molucco Islands the starchy pith of the sago palm furnishes a white, floury meal. This is made up into flat, oblong loaves, which are baked in curious little ovens, each being divided into oblong cells to receive the loaves. Bread is also made of roots in some parts of Africa and South America. It is made from manico tubers. These roots are a deadly poison if eaten in the raw state, but make a good food if properly prepared. To prepare it for bread the roots are soaked for several days in water, thus washing out the poison; the fibres are picked out, dried and ground into flour. This is mixed with milk, if obtainable; if not, water is used. The dough is formed into little round loaves and baked in hot ashes or dried in the sun.

THE TIME FOR WISE BUYING.

The large number of food products which, either directly or indirectly induced by the war, have recently rapidly advanced, have given retail grocers a splendid opportunity to make money. Yet, it is a question whether many embraced it. The jobbers have been wiser, and some boast of having made as much money in the past three months as they made in the preceding six.

The making of money out of present conditions has required but one faculty—attention to the markets and careful buying. This illustrates the difference between a grocer who reads a good trade paper and one who takes none. The trade paper reader is kept constantly in touch with the markets by unpartizan writers; he knows what future prospects are, and whether it is safer to buy or to wait. The grocer who has no use for trade papers depends solely on salesmen or house organs, both of which are prejudiced in favor of the firm they represent. Even with the most reliable salesmen, when they form the sole source of information, there is always the fear that the wish for a market fluctuation may be the father of the thought.—Grocery World.

TO SMILE A MINUTE.

THE proprietor of the grocery had barely got inside the store the other day when the clerk called out excitedly:

"Say, Mr. Jones, you know that crock of old butter we were going to throw out yesterday?"

"Yes," calmly replied Mr. Jones.

"Well, sir," went on the clerk exultantly, "I sold the whole lot of it not ten minutes ago, and got full price for it, too."

"Good boy, John!" chuckled the grocer, as he patted the young man on the back and shook hands with him.

"And say," continued John, with a cunning smile, "you know that big can of so-called coffee we got stuck on and couldn't sell—that awful stuff we bought at auction last summer?"

"Yes"

"Well, I sold that, too—every pound of it—and got the money in the cash drawer!"

"My dear boy," said Mr. Jones, as he looked at his clerk affectionately, "you are indeed a treasure—a jewel of the first water!"

"But that's not half of what I've done this morning. I also got rid of that old cheese that's been lying down in the cellar all winter."

"What! That cheese I told you to throw out some time ago?"

"Yes, sir; and it brought a good price, too."

"Well, well, well! Your salary shall be raised immediately, and I've a good notion to take you into partnership with me. Got rid of that mouldy old cheese, eh?"

"I did!" proudly replied the clerk, with the wisest kind of a look on his face. "Just let me tell you, also, that I talked the same party into buying those six dozen spoiled eggs, all of the stale bread the baker refused to take back, and ten pounds of that brown sugar no one would look at! Mrs. Smith, who keeps a boarding house around the corner, took the lot, and—"

"You ass of asses!" suddenly broke in the grocer, as his jaw fell and he gasped for breath.

"S—sir?"

"You fool of fools!"

"But—but, I—I—"

"You awful apology for a human being!"

"W—why, I—I don't quite understand—"

"You idiotic idiot!" shouted Mr. Jones, as he caught his clerk by the collar and gave him a shake that made his teeth rattle. "Only yesterday I paid the same Mrs. Smith a year's board in advance, and now I'll have to help eat all that old moldy stuff you sold her, or starve to death! Hustle out of here before I tear you limb from limb!"

Wanted—Grocery clerk. Enquire of P. Jones.—Grocery World.

HE GOT HIS RECEIPT.

Uneducated people sometimes have a happy knack of coming to the point, says an exchange. Dan and Mose, neither of them noted for erudition, were partners in an enterprise which is needless to specify. One morning a customer called to settle a small bill, and, after handing over the money, asked for a receipt.

Mose retired to the privacy of an inner room, and, after a long delay, returned with a slip of paper on which were written these words:

"We've got our pay. Me and Dan."

THE CANNED SALMON SITUATION.

AS there appears to be a sufficient spot supply of canned salmon, no apprehension is felt on the part of the dealer as to what the cost of the new pack is likely to be; nor, indeed, is this unusual, in view of the demand having, as customary, been light during the winter and spring months, and the packers' agents being later than usual in soliciting orders for future delivery. But, as the season is now at hand when an increased consumption improves the demand, we may expect a revival of the interest in this important article in the canned goods line.

While it is altogether too early to indulge in predictions as to the probable pack, yet, it must be borne in mind that last year they had their big run of fish on the Fraser river, which occurs every fourth year, and which has invariably been followed by smaller runs each succeeding year until the next period has been reached. There is no reason why past experiences in this respect should not now be a safe guide, although the artificial hatcheries established by the Federal Government naturally tend to make the short years less pronounced than formerly.

The pack on the Fraser river in 1893, which corresponds with 1897 in its being the period of a good run of fish, was 474,000 cases. The following year showed a falling off of nearly 25 per cent., being only 364,000. In 1895 the pack was 384,000, and in 1896 it dropped to 323,000. Notwithstanding the large pack of last year, the stock on the Coast has been entirely cleaned up. There would, therefore, appear to be substantial reasons for packers' expectations of higher prices for the coming pack.

Great Britain takes the bulk of the British Columbia as well as of the Alaska pack, last season shipments by sea up to Dec. 31 being 1,217,825 cases, of which 759,253 were shipped from British Columbia. The English market, therefore, is a most important factor in determining the selling price of these goods.

The present selling price in England is 16s., equivalent to a net price to the packer of nearly $3.50 per case f.o.b. Vancouver; and sales have already been made of the coming pack by packers on the American side at about the same figure. This, therefore, is likely to be the very lowest figure in wholesale lots that our home trade can reasonably expect at the opening of the season, with the strong probability of an advance as the season progresses and the probability of a short pack becomes more apparent.

Freights are likely to be lower this season than last, hence the cost to the Canadian consumer need not necessarily be enhanced. The sharp advance in canned meats widens the comparison between the latter and canned salmon, which is now, everything considered, the cheapest food product on the market.

Men who do not hew to the line are sure to be shoved to one side by those who do.

THIS YEAR'S BRITISH CHEESE.

There is one bearish factor in the British cheese market this year which should not be overlooked, and that is the home make, which has every prospect of being large.

As pointed out by a London trade paper, the price of the first brands of English cheese has got to come down a long way before it interferes with the sale of Canadian.

FALLING FROM GRACE.

THERE appears to be something in the sunshine of the Government benches at Ottawa which is so enervating as to leave its occupants with little or no concern in regard to the commercial interests of the country.

When the present Government took office it succeeded an Administration which, during the last few years of its regime, had irritated, by its persistent and continual neglect of their interests, the business men of this country irrespective of politics.

The new Administration, therefore, with the faults of its predecessor before it as an object lesson, might have been expected to be zealous for the good of the business interests of the country from a sense of self-preservation, if for no other reason.

Its preferential tariff was clever, and it appealed to the business men of this country, as well as their confreres in Great Britain, to say nothing of the Imperialists on both sides of the Atlantic.

But signs are not wanting that it is beginning to fall from grace as did its predecessor. And, if it is not careful, it will, like it, fall from power.

The independent element in Canadian politics was never as strong as it is to-day. The business men of the country are gradually recognizing the fact that politicians are as much alike as two peas. Where they differ most is in name and in the fact that the one is in power and the other desires to get in power. When it comes to exhibiting a real and practical concern for the commercial interests of the country both are found wanting.

Good business legislation in this or any other country is dependent upon the watchfulness and energy of the business men, and this watchfulness and energy will be powerful only in proportion to the independence of this business element.

If business men tie themselves to this or that party, following where it leadeth, Governments will always be more or less careless of those interests which are of greatest import to the country.

Evident as it is that the independent sentiment is spreading among the business men of Canada, yet it needs both further expansion and more practical employment. The way in which business measures have been allowed to go by the board during the last session of the Dominion Parliament proves that beyond all question.

STRONG SUGAR SITUATION.

MANY observers of the sugar market consider a material advance in the cost of refined sugar a strong probability before many weeks have passed.

They certainly have plenty of ground for this belief in the decided strength displayed by raw sugar of late.

Since April 19 beet has advanced 9d., from 9s. up to 9s. 9d., while Java is 1s. 3d. higher, at 12s. 6d., and fair refining 1s. 3d., up, at 11s.

During the same period the price of refined has advanced only ⅛c. per pound. It is undoubted, therefore, that the position of the market is strong, and that still higher prices are not by any means unlikely.

One of the local Montreal refiners has, in fact, asked 1-16c. advance, but as the other is still filling orders at the old range, no actual advance can be cited. But, while this is so, it does not follow that it will pay buyers to hold off. On the contrary, indications are that they will find it a profitable proceeding to sort up their stock now, and get in their orders at the existing level of cost.

Buyers must bear in mind that such important sources of supply as Porto Rico, Cuba and Manila, being blockaded, are cut off by the war.

The United States Sugar Trust also, which has been working along on supplies of raw material, purchased previous to the outbreak of hostilities, will, very shortly, appear in the European market as a buyer of beet stock, and it is estimated that it will take fully 500,000 tons. In fact, if we are to believe the cables of the past week, the trust has already began to nibble at the European beet market.

Holders of beet are said to be waiting for this demand, and it is predicted that when it is experienced prices will boom.

Altogether, the sugar situation is a strong one, and some buyers are evidently aware of the fact, for both refineries at Montreal report larger orders this week than last.

COFFEE NOW AND ELEVEN YEARS AGO.

THE extremely low prices which have been quoted on green coffee during the last few months have not been without precedent in the history of the coffee trade.

The proprietor of one of the coffee mills has recently been going back over his books, with a view to comparing the prices paid by his firm to-day for green coffees with those paid in the years gone by.

He found that 11 years ago the prices for Rio, Santos and South American coffees generally were much about the same as they are to-day, while Javas were even cheaper.

About eleven years ago Rio coffees were bought in Toronto as low as 7½c. per pound. Just about that time, however, the market began to advance. In two months the grade of Rio coffee, which sold at 7½c., was quoted at 18c., while four months later still 24c. was touched. Eventually, the ruling price declined to 18c., around which figure the quotations remained for a couple of years. Then 16c. became the ruling figure; but, by-and-bye, the market gradually declined, until it worked down to the low point which it recently touched.

An interesting story is told of a Toronto speculator who had held 500 bags of Rio coffee up to within a short time before the market took an upward turn, eleven years ago. Becoming discouraged he sold at 7½c. Had he held for six months longer he could easily have obtained three times that sum. But he is now out of business and a millionaire, so it does not matter much.

LIGHT PEACH CROP.

Information, from what is considered reliable sources, has been received in Toronto to the effect that the crop of peaches this season in Western Ontario will not be over one-half last year's growth.

It will be remembered that last year the crop was one of the largest in the history of the Province, and it is a general rule that an enormous crop is succeeded by one rather below the average.

It was considered at the beginning of the season that this year would prove an exception, as the buds came out most beautifully and prolifically, but later information states that appearances now point to a light crop.

This intelligence will really be bad news only to the consumer, as, though a light crop means less fruit to sell, it also means better prices to the grower, and a better margin, at less expense, to both the jobber and the retailer.

A NEW DARK YELLOW SUGAR.

The feature of the sugar market this week is probably the appearance of a dark yellow sugar which is being offered at 1-16c. per lb. below the cheapest yellow sugar now quoted.

It is the product of one of the Montreal refineries, and is probably designed to compete with the imported dark yellow sugar.

The advent of this sugar has naturally unsettled the market for yellows a little, but, in view of the strong character of the sugar market generally, it can scarcely be expected to induce any reduction in values.

DRIED FRUIT POINTING UPWARD.

THE outlook in regard to dried fruit during the coming fall is commencing to attract quite a lot of attention.

Representatives of large operators in Valencia and other Spanish fruit, who were in Montreal last week, stated that the market in Europe is bare of supplies, and they are seriously thinking of re-shipping stocks of Valencia raisins that they have in Montreal and New York back to London.

Their reason for this action is that they expect the crop in Spain will not last one month later than last year, as the drafting of so many men for the army has left very few to work in the vineyards.

Altogether it is hard to tell how the present crop will turn out, as everything depends on the present war, and whether it will assume more serious aspects or not.

It may be remarked in this connection, that stocks of Valencia raisins in Montreal are lighter than most people expected. There are no layers or selected at all, and this condition has led to increased enquiry of late for California dried raisins. They are also firm in tone, and, naturally, if they have to take the place of Valencias to an increased extent, they will be firmer.

CHANGE IN PAPER BAGS.

MEETINGS of the Flour Sack and the Paper Bag Associations were held in Toronto a few days ago, and, although the meetings were private, THE CANADIAN GROCER learns that some changes were decided upon.

No actual change in quotations was made in flour sacks, but, it was decided to give a special trade discount of 3 per cent. on purchases of over five thousand one-eighth, 25-lb., and one-fourth, 50-lb. On lots of smaller sizes, amounting to over ten thousand, a special trade discount of 5 per cent. is to be allowed. No discount is to be allowed on purchases of less than five thousand, or on any other size less than 25-lb.

In regard to grocery bags, the following was agreed upon :

	Per cent.
On quantities up to and including 10,000	40
On quantities over 10 000 and up to and including 25 M....	40 and 5
On quantities over 25,000 and up to and including 75,000	40 and 10
On quantities over 75,000 and up to and including 300,000.	40 and 10 and 5
On quantities over 300,000 and up to and including one million	50 and 5

These prices went into effect on the 26th ult.

It is understood, that while no freight will be paid or allowed on any shipment west of Sudbury, and, while no freight will be paid or allowed on any quantity less than 75 M., sold, shipped, and delivered at one time to one party, that on shipments of good round lots, freight will be paid or allowed to the chief centres of Canada.

Those present at the meetings were : Mr. W. D. Woodruff, representing The Lincoln Paper Mills ; Mr. W. H. Rowley, representing The E. B. Eddy Co., Limited ; Mr. Jos. Kilgour, representing Kilgour Brothers. Mr. J. C. Wilson, the president, owing to illness, was not present.

CANADIAN STRAWBERRIES RIPE.

The first shipment this season of Canadian strawberries was received on the Toronto market on Wednesday, June 1. This is just five days later than last year, when they came in on May 27.

This first shipment came from a grower near St. Catharines, Ont., who has for some seasons past been the first to send Canadian strawberries to Toronto.

It is expected that before the end of next week, berries will be arriving from all sections of Ontario in proximity to Lake Erie, and the southwestern end of Lake Ontario.

The quality of the berries received is good ; rather better than the average. In regard to the crop it is too early to make a definite statement, but all indications point toward a bountiful one.

THE CURRANT SITUATION.

WHILE no further advance has taken place in currants, the position of the market continues strong.

According to the latest advices, stocks in Patras are reduced to 3,500 tons, and this, together with the fact that a good export demand is being experienced, keeps prices firm.

Currants on the spot in Canada are firm, and a Toronto broker, who, a few days ago, made a canvass of the wholesale trade in an effort to make a purchase to fill an outside order, could only get a limited quantity, and that at what was practically a retail price.

For this time of the year there has been a good deal of buying for import during the past week. The orders placed have, as a rule, been for fair-sized lots, and the fruit most wanted has been fine Filiatras.

The shipment of currants ex ss. Ganges are showing good quality. This is satisfactory to importers, because, usually this late in the season, the better grades of fruit have been shipped out of Greece.

CALIFORNIA PRUNES.

Although California prunes are ¼ to ½c. per lb. dearer on the Coast than they were a short time ago, there are holders in Chicago who are offering at much about the old figures.

In Toronto, stocks of prunes of this growth are getting into small compass, and there is a decided scarcity in the smaller sizes, but few, if any, orders for fresh supplies are being placed. As the demand is falling off, on account of the advent of green fruits, dealers feel that is the safer course to pursue.

Nearly one thousand more people left the United Kindom for Canada during April than during the same month last year. Small donations of this kind are thankfully received.

"COMPARISONS ARE ODIOUS"

BUT ONLY TO THAT WHICH SUFFERS BY THE COMPARISON.

We do not make Paper Bags according to the standard of others. We have a standard of our own—we must sustain the reputation of the Eddy Bag.

We ask all grocers who want to get full value for their money to compare Eddy's Paper Bag with any and all other makes. The result, in favor of the Eddy Bag, will be as follows:

1. LARGEST SIZE.

In almost every size Eddy's will be found more or less larger, consequently the Eddy Bag will sometimes answer the purpose of a so-called "size larger" of any other make.

2. FULL COUNT.

A few missing from each bundle amounts to a good many in a consignment. Eddy's are guaranteed full count.

3. GOOD PAPER.

Lucas, Steele & Bristol now offer Sicilian lemonade tablets; also strawberry and orange. They are put up in 1-oz. packets and sweetened ready for use.

The Davidson & Hay, Limited, is offering a castile soap in cakes to retail 3 for 5c. As there is only a limited quantity to offer buyers would do well to order early.

W. H. Gillard & Co. have now ready for shipment their "Aurora" Ceylon tea, which is packed in most unique and attractive packages, lb. and ½-lb., black and mixed, to retail at 35, 40 and 50c. This tea is only put on the market after exhaustive tests, and the firm guarantee that the high standard of quality will be maintained at all times.

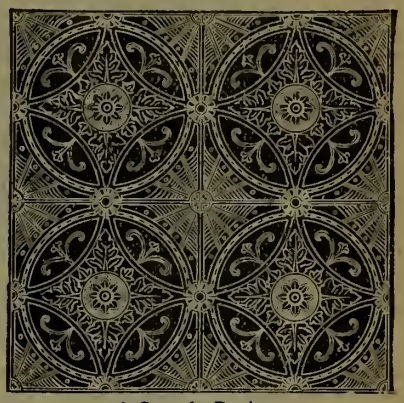
THE CANADIAN GROCER has been asked by Herdt & Co., general agents for Monsieur Menier, to remind the trade that there is just enough time to place a last importation order in Chocolat-Menier before the change of tariff. They guarantee that orders placed with them next week will arrive in time to get once more the benefit of the one-eighth Customs reduction.

LATE ADVERTISEMENTS.

The following items arrived too late for insertion in the regular advertising space. Reading notices inserted in this column at 5c. per word.

H. P. Eckardt & Co. report that they are selling an immense quantity of Heinz's baked beans, pickles, sauces, etc.

The bulk, mixed and chow pickles, in 5-gallon pails, offered by Lucas, Steele & Bristol are cheap and giving great satisfaction.



T. A. Lytle & Co. report a remarkably good season's trade in pickles and vinegar, with no sign of dropping off up to the present. The sales in other lines are satisfactory.

W. H. Gillard & &o. report an active sale for New York ginger ale, which was so deservedly popular last season, over 6,000 cases having been disposed of by this firm alone. The manufacturers, Pilgrim Bros., of Hamilton, claim this beverage to be absolutely pure and manufactured on a strictly scientific principle.

The above beverages, which are manufactured by J. W. Sutherland, Hamilton, are being offered for sale by Lucas, Steele & Bristol. This manufacturing chemist uses machinery frem Manchester, England. CHAPUT, FILS & CIE.'S "AD."

L. CHAPUT, FILS & CIE. last week prepared copy for an advertisement referring to certain lines of tea they were desirous of offering to the trade. The copy was mailed, but went astray, so the advertisement did not appear before the readers of THE CANADIAN GROCER. On page 39 of this issue the firm is advertising new season's teas; also lobsters, while on page 38 it is offering canned vegetables at special prices.

CANADIAN BUTTER IN JAPAN.

Editor GROCER,—I observe in your editorial on "Our Exports to Japan," that you made rather a discouraging reference to our butter trade with Japan, which the figures you give quite confirm.

On my return home last November, I induced the Department of Agriculture to make a trial shipment of a ton of creamery butter to Japan, and, I am glad to say, three days after arrival a cable was received to repeat the consignment. I have correspondence from the consignees stating that Canadian butter is the best ever received in Japan. The price realized about 22½c. per lb. at the creamery. I am quite convinced that if the quality is maintained and shipping instructions carefully followed, that this country can supply Japan with a large percentage of the whole quantity used, and the trade will rapidly increase.

GEO. ANDERSON.

Toronto, June 1, 1898.

[REMARKS.—Mr. Anderson, it will be remembered, was the Canadian Commissioner to Japan.—Editor THE CANADIAN GROCER.]

TO FIX TEA STANDARDS.

The Minister of Customs has introduced a bill for the better inspection of tea.

Up to the time of going to press, all THE CANADIAN GROCER can ascertain is that the bill provides for the adoption of tea standards.

BORACIC ACID IN BUTTER.

The National Provisioner, referring to the circular issued by the Ontario Government, re boracic acid in butter, says: "The great trouble about borax is that it is used to excess. It no doubt possesses some elements of a preservative character, but its adoption has been overdone, as many exporters know to their cost. The European buyer looks for quality, and he wants his purchases to weigh meat and not chemicals."

SPIRITS GOING UP.

There is expectation of a further advance in the price of spirits. Corn has advanced since the last time the price of spirits was put up, and there are reasons, it is thought, good enough to warrant the advance. There is good ground for believing that the end of the present month will see an advance of one or two cents from whatever price may be ruling at that time, as the cattle-feeding contracts expire at that time, and the argument will be advanced that, inasmuch as the distillers will not be getting the extra revenue from slop, they will have to make it up by an advance in the price. There is a disposition, anyway, to get the selling price of spirits up to a point where there will be some money made instead of falling behind, or, at the best, coming out even, and, whether the plan that has been under consideration for a long time, of the consolidation of the different distilleries, is effected, the same end may be accomplished in another way.—Liquor Trades' Review.

Helps to Good-Will

A broom is a small thing but it can do your trade a lot of harm or good, as you elect.

The woman who buys a broom that hasn't this guarantee "your money back if not satisfactory," isn't liable to be wholly satisfied with the broom—or you. We find that every grocer who handles our brooms increases his orders each year. He has to keep the good-will of his customers to do that.

There's only one conclusion we can draw—Boeckh's Brooms satisfy.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, June 2, 1898.

GROCERIES.

THE past week has witnessed an improvement in the wholesale grocery trade. This is the unanimous opinion of all in the business. The lines in which the increased business is most perceptible are sugars and canned goods. In tomatoes particularly the demand shows an improvement, although the feeling as to price is somewhat unsettled, although no change in quotations has taken place. There is a decided increase in the demand for salmon. Teas are quiet and uninteresting. California prunes are scarce on spot, but the demand is gradually falling off. Currants are firm, with business good for this time of the year. Coffees are quiet. Spices are quiet and firm.

CANNED GOODS.

While the tone of the canned vegetable market has again become a little nervous, there has been no actual change in quotations, and business has been more brisk than for some time. Purchases are largely of a sorting-up nature. The idea as to price to retailers is $1.15 to $1.20 for tomatoes, 90c. for corn, and 85c. upwards for peas. There have been some transactions between wholesalers during the week at $1.10 for tomatoes. The demand for tomatoes and peas during the week has increased relatively more than for corn. In canned salmon a materially increased demand is to be noted. This is quite natural, in view of the high price of canned meats, although a rather surprising quantity of the latter have gone out during the past month.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There is no change in the situation in regard to syrups. A few brights are being offered, but there is no demand. The molasses market is firm, but quiet.

SUGAR.

The outside sugar markets have continued to rule strong. In New York, raws last week advanced 1-16 to ⅛c. per lb. The only change in refined sugars was an advance of 1-16c. per lb. in one grade of yellows. One Canadian refinery is this week putting on the market a dark yellow at 1-16c. lower than any soft sugar previously selling. This has had the effect of slightly unsettling business, as the trade was not expecting anything lower on the market. The St. Lawrence, on the other hand, is quoting its granulated and ordinary yellows 1-16c. per lb. higher this week. The other refineries have not, however, followed. Both refiners and wholesalers are experiencing a little better demand for sugar this week. Some transactions are still taking place in foreign refined sugars. Willett & Gray's Statistical, of May 26, reported total stocks of sugar in Europe and America to be 2,272,573 tons, against 2,260,297 the week before, and 2,432,666 tons a year ago. The deficiency of stock last week was 160,093 tons, against a deficiency of 128,851 tons the week before, and 152,700 tons, Dec. 30, 1897.

NUTS.

Mail advices from Sicily state that stocks of filberts there are very light and in the hands of a few speculators who are holding for higher prices.

RICE, TAPIOCA, ETC.

The tendency of the rice market is still upward. Since last week there has been an advance of 6d. in imported rice. Tapioca and sago both continue firm. Local quotations remain as before.

For Prices Current See Pages 34 and 35.

COFFEE.

There was some speculation by retailers, but this appears to have been discontinued, and trade in consequence is quiet. The lowest price for Rio is 7½c. The outside markets are quiet but firm.

SPICES.

Advices continue to note a firm market, particularly in pepper. There is little business of any kind, however, being done.

TEAS.

Mail advices from London, Eng., state that the market for all grades of Indian teas, except poor stuff, is firm, while Ceylons continue to be in moderate supply only and strong in price, considering the period of the year. Broken Pekoes and broken orange Pekoes were all in good request at the last auction there. The output of Ceylon tea is much below the estimate, and lower prices are not expected for some time. Stocks of Ceylon teas in first hands on the Toronto market are light. There has been some business doing in Ceylon teas at from 13 to 13½c., 15 to 16½c. and 20c. The quality of the Ceylon tea coming forward from Colombo continues to fall off. Good samples of fine teas continue to come forward from London. The season for good teas in Ceylon will not begin till about August, which means October delivery. Locally, there is not much doing.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—There has been some buying for importation during the week, chiefly of fine Filiatras. Local stocks are light, and a broker, who made a canvass of the "street" for currants to fill an outside order, only succeeded in getting offers for limited quantities, and that at retail prices. The market continues firm.

VALENCIA RAISINS—Are moving fairly well, and, while stocks are small, it is thought there will be sufficient for requirements.

PRUNES—There is a shortage of California prunes on the local market in some sizes, and the high prices ruling in the primary prevent buying to any extent. At any rate the demand is falling off. Holders in Chicago are, however, offering at prices lower than those ruling on the Coast.

CALIFORNIA EVAPORATED FRUITS—This week's advices from the Coast state that apricots are dearer and in small supply. Stocks on the local market are also light.

GREEN FRUITS.

There has been a large movement of oranges this week. Mediterranean sweets are leaders at present, and Messinas and California seedlings are arriving in considerable quantities. The demand for lemons is good. There is a considerable quantity of poor-keeping stock on the market, which fact is keeping prices down somewhat; but, with the advent of a few really warm days, the shipment of these goods will necessarily cease, and prices may be expected to advance nearly $1 per case. Baltimore strawberries are now arriving daily in car lots. As the demand varies from day to day, and a large range of quality is noted, prices fluctuate considerably. The first shipment of Canadian strawberries arrived on the market on Wednesday, this week. Bananas have been rather scarce, and, as the demand continues brisk, prices are firm, though unchanged. Pineapples, too, are none too plentiful. They have been arriving lately loose and unsorted in cars, and prices have ranged all the way from 10 to 20c., according to quality. Some cases are also arriving. Tomatoes are scarce, and the price has risen 50 per cent. in a week, the figures now quoted being $4.50 to $5. Apples are pretty well cleaned up, and as much as $6 per bbl. has been paid for fancy red spies. It is reported that this year the peach crop will be only about one-half that of last season.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—Large quantities continue to come forward, and, though the demand is good, the feeling is weaker, though no quotable change is noted.

POTATOES— The break has come and prices have dropped from the high posttion they had reached, and are now at about the figure noted before the excitement of two or three weeks ago. Carload lots are quoted at 60c., while on the street market, 60 to 65c. is asked.

DRIED APPLES—Business is quiet, with prices weak at last week's figures, 3 to 4c. for choice lots, and 2½ to 3c. for ordinary stock.

EVAPORATED APPLES— There is nothing doing, with prices nominally at 9c.

BEANS—The feeling is firm, with a fair business being done. Hand-picked are in good demand at 95c. to $1, while ordinary beans are not much wanted, the price being 60 to 65c. per bush.

HONEY—Little doing. Prices steady and unchanged.

VEGETABLES—All lines continue to decline, as receipts continue to increase. There is an active demand for spinach, radish and asparagus. We quote: Rhubarb, 10 to 15c. per doz. bunches; onions, 10c. per doz. bunches; lettuce, 15 to 25c. doz. bunches; radishes, 12½ to 20c. doz. bunches; cabbage, new, per case, 90c. to $1.25; per doz., 50 to 60c.; parsley, 15 to 20c. doz. bunches; cucumbers, Canadian, 40 to 60c. per doz.; watercress, 15 to 20c. per doz. bunches; gardencress, 20 to 25c. per doz. bunches; spinach, 10 to 15c. per bush.; asparagus, 25 to 40c. per doz.; green peas, $1 to $1.10 per bush. Good butter beans are sold at from $2 to $3.50 per bushel basket, but some inferior grades are sold at $1.25.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—As is usual at this season, dairy butter is now marketed more largely in tubs than in large rolls. The local demand for dairy butter is good, but not up to the supply, and the feeling is weak. Creamery is even weaker, as the low state of the English market makes about 15c. the top price possible for export.

CHEESE—Receipts are large and prices are easy at last week's figures, 8 to 8½c. in Toronto.

PROVISIONS.

There is no change in the situation, except that, as the weather becomes warmer, the demand for smoked meats increases. A good all-round demand is noted, no special features being in evidence.

FISH.

The demand is generally good, with whitefish and trout, being as usual, in especial demand. We quote as follows: Fresh salmon trout, 6c.; fresh whitefish, 6 to 6½c.; steak trout, 7c.; fresh steak cod, 6 to 6½c. per lb.; fresh pike, 5c. per lb.; fresh perch, 4c. per lb.; fresh herring, 3½c. to 4c. per lb.; Labrador herring, $5.50 per bbl. and $3 per half-bbl.; Digby herring, 55c. per bundle of five; split herring, $5 per bbl. and $2.75 to $3 per half-bbl.; boneless codfish, 3½ to 5c. per lb.; pure cod, 6½ to 6¾c. per lb.; fresh water herring (heads oft), $2.50 per keg; ciscoes, $1; haddies, 5½ to 6c. per lb.; fresh haddock, 5c. per lb.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—A weaker tone is manifested in the Ontario wheat market, with a reduction of from 5 to 6c. noted for both red and white weat. Quotations on cars outside are about as follows: Wheat, red winter, $1.05 to $1.06; white winter, $1.02 to $1.03; goose, $1.04 to $1.05. The street market is active, a good quantity of wheat and oats still being brought in. We quote as follows: White wheat, 92c. to 96c.; red wheat, $1.02 to $1.06; goose wheat, 97c.; barley, 38 to 40c.; oats, 37 to

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, June 2, 1898.

GROCERIES.

THE grocery market has not developed any radically new feature during the past week, the most noticeable circumstance being the strong tendency of values on many staple articles. This is particularly the case in sugar, in which the raw article continues to advance so that it would seem to be wise for buyers to assort their stocks while they can do so at present prices, as values seem certain to advance. Molasses is another strong point in the situation, and rice and canned meats and provisions are equally prominent in the same respect. Spanish dried fruits also are pointing up, and it is expected that the fact will have its influence on California varieties. Spices are firm, and, in fact, no weakness is evident in any leading line, the tendency being generally in the opposite direction.

SUGAR.

Despite the steady upward tendency of the raw sugar market, the refined article here fails to respond. One of the refineries did advance its price 1-16c. all round last week, but, as the other establishment did not respond, the old jobbing range still holds good. The strength, however, has had one effect, and that is to improve the demand, as the movement is a much wider one than it was last week. All the indications go to demonstrate that buyers are wise in thus keeping their stocks better assorted, for the prospects certainly point to higher prices unless there is some radical change in the situation, which is unlikely. At the refineries standard granulated has moved at 4½c., Canadian-German 4 3-16c., and yellows 3 11-16 to 4⅛c., as to quuality. The ordinary jobbing range is given in our prices current elsewhere, the above quotations being for wholesale lots.

J. McLauchlan & Sons, - - Owen Sound

SYRUPS.

Very little activity is to report in the syrup market and prices are unchanged as last quoted. The tone, however, is very firm bright goods being held at 2½c. per pound at the factory.

MOLASSES.

There is no material change in the situation of the molasses market the tone being as strong as ever. In fact, it is still difficult to obtain any firm offers from the Islands, but, based on figures that have been named, it would cost at the very least 29c. to lay down cargo lots on the wharf here. The most recent transaction at the Islands was the purchase of 500 puncheons at 21¾c. cost and freight, to complete a cargo of 1,100 puncheons. The guild price is unchanged for ordinary business, 30c. in car lots and 31c. in puncheons.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been quite a fair trade in canned goods during the past eight days, chiefly in tomatoes, peas, and corn, some 3,000 cases in all leaving first hands here. Tomatoes sold at $1.15, corn 80c., and peas 80 to 85c. A round lot of tomatoes, carried in Ontario also on account of parties here, was sold for shipment to the Pacific Coast. There has been some enquiry for canned salmon, and 400 cases of last year's pack changed hands last Friday at $3.40 per case. Nothing is yet known regarding prices on new pack, as it is too early in the day to say anything about it. Canned meats, as will be noted in our prices current, have all been marked up, and even at the advance, jobbers state that the figures are not on a parity with cost.

TEAS.

The tea market is quiet, but very firm, as it is well known here that the trade are very bare of supplies. Yet, despite this fact, the demand is not of a pressing character, but it is the belief of the majority of traders, that when the demand does come prices will stiffen.

SPICES.

Locally, business rules quiet in spices, but outside markets continue very firm in their tone, especially pepper. Pepper and allspice are higher here.

COFFEE.

There are no special features in the coffee market and values remain as last quoted.

RICE.

There is no change whatever in this market, the firm feeling being as pronounced as ever, prices being well maintained at the recent advance. Foreign advices continue exceedingly strong, and cables report that the Spanish Government is in the English market for some 10,000 tons of Rangoon rice. We quote as follows: Standard B, $4.; Patna, $5 to $5.50; Carolina, $7.25 to $7.75; choice Burmah, $4 50 to $4.75, and Java kinds, $4.75 to $5.

DRIED FRUIT.

The chief feature of this week has been a moderate degree of activity in California fruit, the lots to which reference was made last week being distributed, while another carload or so have also arrived. They were vuickly bought up by the local jobbers, whose stocks are evidently not well assorted.

Valencia raisins are very firm also, and the prospects in regard to the new crop all depend upon the war. Any stock that is here is held very firm by jobbers, while no selected or layers are obtainable.

There is little change in the currant market, and prices are steady.

California prunes are in good request here, while prices are firmly held on the Coast. Stocks of European prunes are almost exhausted here.

Figs continue as last reported, and dates and evaporated California fruit are also unchanged.

NUTS.

Filberts and shelled almonds continue quite firm, and other lines also are steady.

GREEN FRUIT.

The chief activity in this market has been in strawberries, which have been arriving rather freely, and selling at 11½ to 15c. Pineapples also are lower at the same range, 11½ to 15c. With warmer weather, oranges and lemons are expected to pick up. At present they are quiet at $2 to $3.25 for oranges and $1 to $3.50 for lemons, according to grade.

DRIED APPLES.

Unchanged and without new feature.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There was an improved demand for eggs to-day, and the market was more active with a fair amount of business doing. The tone was steady and prices unchanged 9 to 10c. per dozen.

BEANS—A fair trade continues to be done in beans, and, as supplies are not excessive, values are maintained at $1 for primes and $1.10 to $1.15. for choice hand-picked per bushel.

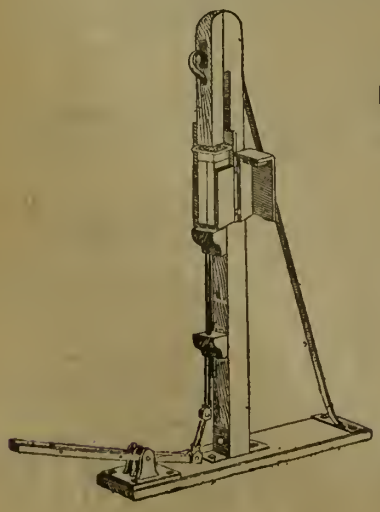
HONEY—In honey, business is exceedingly quiet and the market is without any new phase. We quote : White clover comb, 11c. to 12c. ; dark do., 8 to 10c.; white strained, 6c. to 7c., and dark, 4c. to 5c.

MAPLE PRODUCT—There was no change in maple product. The demand is slow and business quiet. We quote : Syrup in wood, 4½ to 4¾c. per lb., and in tins at 45 to 50c., as to size. Sugar, 6 to 6¼c. per lb.

TALLOW—Continues quiet, 1½ to 1¾c. for rough and 3 to 3¼c. for refined.

POTATOES—Remain steady at 75c. on track.

HOPS — Unchanged. Good to choice Canadian, 12 to 14c., and yearlings, 8 to 10c.



PROVISIONS.

In sympathy with other meats, provisions generally are higher all round than they were last week. For hams and bacon the demand is good, and an active trade is doing in these lines, which is as usual at this season, and prices are firmly held. In pork, trade is rather quiet, the call being chiefly for small lots to fill actual wants. Lard is moving fairly well, both for local and export account. We quote : Canadian pork, $16 to $16.50 per barrel ; pure Canadian lard, in pails, at 8½c. to 8¾c. ; and compound refined at 5½c. to 5¾c. per lb.; hams, 11½c. to 12c.; and bacon, 12c. per lb.

FLOUR, GRAIN, ETC.

There has been another shift to the grain markets during the week and values are lower than last quoted. Demand for all lines continues exceedingly slow, and as the offerings are fairly large the feeling is weak, and values have a downward tendency, but in the absence of transactions it is difficult to give correct quotations. Holders are asking 37 to 37½c. for oats ; 65 to 66c. for peas, and 50 to 52c. for buckwheat afloat, but lower figures might be accepted for round lots.

In Manitoba grades of flour a fair local and country trade was reported, but the demand is confined principally to small lots to fill actual requirements. Ontario brands are quiet, owing to the fact that buyers of such are pretty well supplied for the present. The tone of the market is firm and prices are fully maintained. We quote : Winter wheat patents, $6 to $6.15 ; straight rollers, $5.50 to $5.75 ; bags, $2.60 to $2.75; Manitoba patents, $6.90, and strong bakers', $6.50 ; extra, in bags, $2.40 to $2.50.

There continues to be a good demand for feed, and Manitoba millers state that they are closely sold up. The feeling is steady, and prices show no change. We quote as follows: Ontario winter wheat bran, $13.50 to $14; shorts, $16 per ton in bulk; Manitoba bran, $14; shorts, $16, and moullie, $17 to $18 per ton, including bags.

The demand for oatmeal is of a very limited character, owing to the fact that buyers have ample stocks on hand, and until such are worked off little improvement is looked for. Rolled oats are easy at $4.30 per barrel and at $2.10 per bag.

There continues to be steady demand for baled hay, and the market is moderately active, with no change in prices to note. No. 1 is selling at $10 to $10.50, and No. 2 at $8 to $9 for per ton, in car lots.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

The cheese market does not show any signs of improvement, and it begins to look as though the factorymen would have to accept 7c., and possibly less for their June make, unless the future brings radical and sudden change. Shippers state that the limits they have already in hand necessitate their obtaining finest western makes at 7c. and less on spot. There is little business in this grade, however, to-day, and prices are purely nominal. In eastern makes 1,500 boxes were offered at the wharf, and sold at a range of 6¼ to 6½c. This is a decline of ¼c. from last week. At St. Hyacinthe 6¼c. was paid Saturday for 700 boxes.

The butter market remains dull, and heavy in tone. The supply is now largely in excess of domestic wants, so that the export demand has become a governing factor in fixing prices. Shippers refuse to consider the propositions over 16c., and holders want 16¼c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Strawberries have declined somewhat in this market under increased receipts.

Pepper and allspice have been marked up by local dealers from 1 to 3c. per lb.

Provisions of all kinds have been materially advanced this week, also canned meats.

Rice of all sorts is held higher in a jobbing way than a week ago, though mill prices are not altered.

Cables state that the Spanish Government is a large buyer of Rangoon rice in the English market.

One of the sugar refiners asked 1-16c. advance, but, as the other has not done so, former quotations still rule.

Valencia raisins are becoming scarce and firm here, off-stalk being held stiff, while no layers or selected are obtainable.

Local speculators have, it is understood, made some handsome turns lately out of raw sugar in the New York market.

Cables state that the stocks of Barbadoes molasses at the Islands for shipment only amount to 6,000 puncheons, and that holders were not disposed to give way.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, May 30, 1898.

ONE of the events of the week is the purchase by the Ogilvie Milling Co. of Nairn's oatmeal mill. Mr. Nairn has run the mill for some 12 years, and is understood to have made a good thing out of it. The Ogilvies will enlarge the capacity and add the very latest improved machinery. It is quite possible that they will put up a package oatmeal, for which, as before intimated, there is a growing demand in this market.

The Lake of the Woods people are making large shipments of flour to Australia. This is somewhat a surprise to themselves, as in December last the Australian wheat crop was pronounced heavy, and that there would be grain to export. This has not been realized, however, and the demand for Manitoba flour is much larger than last year. The price of flour has not changed, though the price of wheat would seem to warrant it, and there may be an advance at any moment. Some of the smaller millers are understood to have taken advantage of the high price of wheat and sold their supply rather than go to the expense of milling it.

In the line of groceries and produce the markets are good, prices firm and trade brisk indeed. Scarcely any change in price can be reported.

EGGS—Pickling season is now in full blast, and the supplies for this purpose are good. Dealers are paying 10c. Winnipeg.

BUTTER AND CHEESE—The offerings of Manitoba creamery are small, but as we have now had a general rain there will, no doubt, be a large increase in the offerings next week. Price, 17 to 17¼c., point of shipment. Dairy butter, round lots of fresh made, 14 to 16c. Cheese remains same as last week: 8½ to 9c.

CANNED GOODS—The situation is without change, though the willingness of eastern people to sell tomatoes has increased rather than diminished. There is no actual change in price, however, and $3.15 remains a safe Winnipeg figure. Corn, $2.15 to $2.20; peas, $2.25 to $2.75. Canned meats hold the advance of last week, and it is thought by some that they will hardly go higher, as a higher price would almost be prohibitive.

CURED MEATS—Market firm and brisk, without change in price. Long clear dry salt, 9½c.; American short clear, 9c.; smoked, 10c.; hams, 12c.; breakfast bacon, 12½c.

RICE—A small amount of Japan (No. 1 and No. 3) has been received and is selling at 6¾c. Shipments of China rice are expected daily, and will probably bring 6⅛c. for No. 1. The high prices will hold for three months at least.

CEREALS—This market holds firm, but has not changed during the week. Granulated oatmeal, $2.65 the 98-lb. sack; rolled oats, $2.25 the 80-lb. sack.

SUGAR—No advance as yet reported, but dealers are still looking to a rising market. Granulated, 5⅛c.; bright yellow, 4⅝ to 4¾c., according to grade; lump, 5⅝ to 5⅞c., as to size of package.

EVAPORATED FRUITS — Prunes show an advance of ¼c. per lb. on all sizes. Dried apples are down ⅛c., but otherwise this market is without change.

GREEN FRUIT — Market brisk. Navel oranges are a thing of the past, and the local houses are now working on Mediterranean sweets at $3.50 to $4 per case, and seedlings at $3. Bananas remain at $2 to $2.50; lemons are $4.50. Egyptian onions are lower, being now $3.50 to $4 per cwt. Strawberries are out of this market for the moment, but fresh shipments are expected in a few days. Pie plant is now coming in locally, and is worth about $1.25 per 100 lb. Florida tomatoes are done, and the Mississippi supplies are not yet to hand. Pines are almost closed out.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., June 1, 1898.

THE week has been a quiet one in most lines. The active line has been fresh fish, particularly shad; catch of which has been large and price low. Markets are somewhat unsettled. Owing to the large advances in some lines demand has fallen off, and to make sales prices have to be shaded. Molasses is, perhaps, the strongest line in the market, except it be rice. For the latter, however, there is no large sale. Stocks here are light and a further advance in prices is looked for. Since my last report the matter of the Saturday half-holiday has been pushed, and all the dealers have promised to close, provided the thing is general.

OIL—While paint oils are firm and have ruled rather higher, in burning oil there has been no change, though prices are firmly held. This is a quiet season. Lubricating oil, while there are fair shipments being made, is also tending quiet. Cod oil, or what might better be called fish oil, is being received in small quantities; price is quite high, but there is little sale. In cod liver oil, the Newfoundland price for future is quite low, but higher prices are expected.

SALT—The small cargo which was spoken of last week found a ready sale, so that none was stored. There were a number of qualities in the cargo, as, beside the regular factory filled, there was some dry and fine for table use, and, in addition to the regular coarse, there was some packing salt. This, while largely used elsewhere, has but light sale here, our fishermen preferring that imported from the Mediterranean and Turks' Island. We quote as follows: Liverpool coarse, 45 to 48c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 to $2.60 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30; mineral rock salt, 60c. to $1.

CANNED GOODS — Little can be said. Prices are firm, and in vegetables stocks are light. New salmon have been quoted and the price is quite low. There is quite a stock of old held here, many last season buying freely on account of the low price. Sales, while quite large, have not been as active as was hoped. In pineapples, particularly eyeless and coreless, a good deal of Canadian packed is now being sold. All lines of meats are firm. Canned tongues, which showed but a slight advance as compared with other meats, have been again advanced this week.

GREEN FRUIT—As usual at this season, large quantities are moving. In lemons, prices keep low, though an upward movement is looked for. Our dealers complain that lemons coming here from Montreal are not as good as from American ports. In oranges, Messinas are having a large sale, and quality is particularly good. California navels are about out of the market. This fruit goes bad quickly, and the price is high. Quite a few seedlings are sold. Two cars are expected this week. Choice Florida pineapples are now being received; prices tend easily; sale is not large. Bananas move freely at even prices. Strawberries are lower, and those secured are good. In rhubarb, the local grown now has the market, and prices are firm at 1 to 1½c. per lb. lower.

DRIED FRUIT—As the sale of green fruit increases, particularly small fruit, the sale of dried fruit becomes quiet. As the season advances holders are anxious to push sales, particularly raisins, which, now for two years, have not made much money for holders. In currants, firm figures rule, and there are light stocks and sale. In peels, new goods are now quoted. Citron is rather lower than last fall, and orange and lemon higher and firm. In peanuts, prices have again advanced in first hands, some shippers having withdrawn quotations.

DAIRY PRODUCE — Butter is quite low, and with good dairy offering there is little general trade for creamery. Tub butter is preferred here to large rolls. In eggs, there is a firm market. Our prices are still below Prince Edward Island. Receipts are not large. Old cheese is still dull, and dealers have fair stocks, and are not anxious to take hold of new goods, the market for which is also dull.

SUGAR—While the feeling favors rather higher prices, there is but regular business doing, and, at present, prices in this market show no change. Some very nice West India sugars are offered.

MOLASSES—This is a firm line, and, at present, stocks are very light. Small lots are being brought in from Yarmouth and Halifax. These, with some old that was carried over, help to relieve the situation. Prices are high. In Barbadoes, the steamer about due is expected to have a fair cargo. This will help stocks, but owing to the advance at the Island full figures will be asked. Some New Orleans is also on the market.

FISH — Fresh have active movement. Shad, harbor caught, are plenty, and price is lower than usual. Gaspereaux are about over; catch has been light, and, owing to the large demand for bait, the pack of alewives has been small, only about half as many as last year, about 7,000 barrels being all that was put down. There are, however, about 4,000 of last year's pack still held; a fair market is expected. In salmon, catch is very fair, but prices are rather easier. A good season is looked for. Our harbor fish are considered better than those caught north. A few new dry cod fish are to hand; price keeps high. A fair business is doing. Smoked herring quiet and pickled dull. Fresh Halibut is rather lower. Fresh mackerel is to hand. We quote: Large cod, $3.50 to $3.65; medium, $3.35 to $3.50; pollock, $1.80 to $1.90; Grand Manan pickled herring, $1.85 to $1.95 per half-bbl.; smoked herring, 7 to 8c. per box; Canso, pickled, $5 per bbl.; boneless fish, 3½ to 4½c.; cod, 6 to 7c.; finnan haddies, 4 to 4½c.; fresh Gaspereaux, 40c. per 100; fresh halibut, 6 to 7c. per lb.; shad, 2 to 8c.; salmon, 14 to 17c.

PROVISIONS — There is a fair business. The season has been a dull one, and the high prices have affected sales. All prices are firmly held, and higher figures are expected.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL — Flour is rather quiet, and in Ontario grades prices are rather easier, but, as prices here did not go up to the full advance, there is no actual change. Our dealers hold fair stocks. Oatmeal is quiet, and is being sold below millers' figures. Cornmeal is the large seller and holds high. In feed there is very little to be had, even at the high prices, particularly middlings. Hay is dull. Oats are high, with but fair sale. In beans there is a light movement here. It is said that west prices are being shaded. In seeds there is no change in prices, after a large business. Season is about over. Barley and peas are scarce and tend higher. We quote: Manitoba flour, $7.50 to $7.80; best Ontario, $6.40 to $6.50; medium, $6.00 to $6.25; oatmeal, $4.50 to $4.60; cornmeal, $2.35; middlings, $20 to $22; bran, $18 to $19; oats, 42 to 48c.; hand-picked beans, $1.20; prime, $1 to $1.10; yellow eye beans, $1.75; split peas, $3.80 to $3.90; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $3.50 to $3.75; hay, $8.75 to $9.00; timothy seed, American, $1.75 to $2.15; do., Canadian, $2 to $2.40; mammoth clover, 7 to 7½c.; alsike, 7¾ to 8½c.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

James Patterson received some fine mackerel this week from Yarmouth. His daily receipts of fresh salmon and shad are large.

J. H. Harris, of J. H. Harris & Co., Moncton, was in the city last week. This firm do a large and growing wholesale grocery business.

J. Francis Beverly, of New York, representing W. G. Dean & Son, was in the city this week. This house is getting quite a trade here, particularly in mustard.

Some of the best Canadian pickles I have yet seen, are being offered to the trade by Bowman & Angevine. They are "Sterling" brand, and packed by Lytle & Co.

Quite a large seizure of cigars was made this week here by Customs offices, because they were offered for sale in other than the original packages. They were part of a stock damaged by fire, and were put up in envelopes.

Mr. James Parkenham, of the well-known pork packing house of Kehoe, Donnelly & Parkenham, Dublin, and of which Mr. Parkenham is manager, is in the city in the interest of establishing a factory here. Mr. Parkenham feels so sure of the success of such an undertaking that he offers to take $5,000 worth of stock.

NEWFOUNDLAND LOBSTER FISHERY.

THE growing scarcity and increasing importance of the lobster fishery have long been matters over which those interested in the fisheries, both in Canada and the United States, are vitally concerned. The lack of suitable legislation governing the catching of the fish, together with the ruthless and reckless methods employed by the fishermen and packers, have jeopardized the very existence of the crustacean along the whole Atlantic seaboard north of Sandy Hook. Despite the efforts that have from time to time been put forth to stay the slaughter of the species, the yearly output has been steadily growing less. In the United States the decrease has been marked. The effects of overfishing in Canada have for several years been the subject of grave concern. It is, therefore, a matter of special interest to learn from the annual report of the Newfoundland Department of Fisheries, for 1897, that the lobster fishery there has doubled in value within the last ten years. It now ranks second in value to the cod fishery. In 1897 there were upward of thirty-nine lobster factories operated by British subjects in the colony, and the value of the exported product was over $600,000. The total number of cases exported was 65,000, an increase of 8,000 cases over the preceding year. Owing to the diminishing supply of lobsters in other quarters there has been a steady advance in the price of the packed product. This has, of course, benefited the Newfoundland fishermen, and the danger is that, under the stimulus of good prices, the drain on the supply may be greater than the natural increase, aided by artificial propagation. There has been a marked improvement in the canning processes, and packers generally are bringing greater care and skill to bear on this branch of the industry.

But while there are these hopeful signs regarding the lobster fishery, the fishermen have at the same time unmistakable warning of the dangers that beset it, of the possibilities of destroying it by ignorant or reckless methods of conducting it, and even of exterminating the valuable crustacean, now so abundant. No other fishery requires so much care, vigilance and skill to protect it from injury. In the light of knowledge gained by a careful study of the causes leading to the diminishing fishery on other sections of the coast, it is conceded by the best authorities on the subject that the Newfoundland fishery has now reached a critical stage. There is no surer sign of a decline having set in than a diminution in the size of the lobsters taken, and that this is so borne out by the fact that in many localities where six or seven years ago two or three lobsters were sufficient to fill a can, the average now required is eight to ten. Let this go on for a few years without restriction and the fishery in such places will be extinct. The most vigorous measures are necessary to avert the decline and restore the balance. In order to prevent the taking of small, immature lobsters that have never spawned, the Fishery Department adopted a rule which required that the two undermost laths on each side of all lobster traps used in the fishery should not be less than 1¾ inches apart, thus securing an opening by which the small lobsters that entered the trap could escape.

Another rule prohibits the taking, buying or selling of any lobster less than nine inches in length. All owners of canning factories are required to take out licenses, to each of which copies of the rules are attached, and to make at the close of each season full and accurate returns of the year's operations. The distance between traps is also regulated. Packers are required to keep and deliver to employes of the Department, when requested, the eggs attached to lobsters brought into the establishment, in order that these may be hatched. Close seasons for the various localities have been set to meet the requirements of different portions of the coast. The date for the commencement of the close season on the southern and western shores is Aug. 10, and for the eastern and northern shores Aug. 20 in each year. No fishing is permitted from that date till April 1 in the following year. Fall fishing has been abolished. The artificial propagation of lobsters by the Department has received the attention it deserves. By means of it an average of 450,000,000 per annum of lobsters have been hatched during the last seven years. There can be no doubt that this enormous addition of young lobsters has told favorably in sustaining the fishery and increasing the stock in the waters. Neilson's floating incubators are used at all the hatching stations. These artificially propagated lobsters have precisely the same chances of survival as those which come from the mother lobster in the natural way. From many quarters reports have been received of an immense increase of small lobsters seen in the waters, and these have strengthened the opinion that the Department's efforts have been successful. In this enterprise Newfoundland leads the world. A careful study of the best methods to employ and a strict enforcement of the rules enacted for the conservation and protection of the fishery will eventually place Newfoundland in the van of lobster-producing countries. — Fishery Gazette.

DEATH OF ROBT. J. DAVISON.

Robert J. Davison, of Davison & Co., grocers, Newmarket, Ont., died at his home, in that town, on Tuesday, May 17, after a prolonged illness.

Mr. Davison commenced his commercial life in 1857, in a general store in Newmarket, and steadily worked his way upwards, till, in 1870, he became silent partner in the firm of Harrison, Sheppard & Co. In 1875 Mr. Sheppard retired, and the firm became Harrison & Davison.

Five years later Mr. Davison became sole proprietor, and carried on the business as general merchant until 1895, when, owing to ill-health and business losses, the worry of conducting the general merchandise business became too great a strain, and he confined his energies to managing a grocery business, in which he met with every success.

Mr. Davison's record throughout was that of an honest, candid business man.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. Fred J. Ward, representing John P. Mott & Co., chocolate manufacturers, Halifax, was in Toronto this week, and, in company with Mr. R. S. McIndoe, the local agent, called upon the different wholesale houses.

Mr. Joseph Ethier, of Laporte, Martin & Cie., will sail on June 21 for Europe on a business trip, and he will be absent about two months. Mrs. Ethier will accompany him.

SICILY ALMONDS AND FILBERTS.

A letter from Sicily, regarding shelled almonds, states: "We have had lately a revival of the demand for prompt as well as for fall shipment, and the advance has made further progress. Buyers have already paid 68s. for prompt and 65s. 3d. for October, and, even at these figures, sellers are wanting, but they are still buyers at these prices. Sicily filberts on the spot are practically exhausted, with the exception of small remnants in strong hands. For new, 41s. is demanded for October shipment."

CANNED SALMON DEARER.

THERE has been an important increase in the demand for salmon during the last few days, and some accession of price for most grades. The scarcity of fancy descriptions has become more marked, and half-tins, both flat and oval, are fully 1s. per case dearer. There are only two more vessels to arrive of what may be described as the London fleet of salmon ships, and the quantity remaining in packers' hands is now very small. With the summer demand not yet commenced, and with almost all other canned goods at abnormally high rates, those who anticipate a constantly advancing market can scarcely be considered optimistic.—Produce Markets' Review, London, England, May 21.

OUTLOOK FOR SULTANAS.

A London, Eng., paper says : The market for sultanas continues to be quiet, but it is only here and there, where a holder has desired for purposes of his own to clear up an odd parcel, that there is any change in prices to chronicle. If the reports of the growing crop are correct, the present rather high rates are probably justified, and the coming season will be one of scarcity, and consequently of high prices. This is much to be deplored, as in the seasons of plentiful supply and low values the fruit was very rapidly growing in public favor, and much of the benefit that was then derived will in all probability be lost by two or three seasons of higher values, which, it is to be feared, will result from the ravages of the phylloxera.

SHIPPING CANNED BEEF TO THE U.S.

An English paper, referring to the canned beef situation, says : "The strength of the position is emphasized by the fact of meats having recently been re-shipped from this country to America."

SITUATION IN CURRANTS.

The market for currants continues to be very quiet, and only a moderate business has been done, in most cases at slightly easier prices. The duty payments, however, are somewhere about the average for the time of year, and the quietness in the market is undoubtedly due to a larger business than usual having been done two or three weeks ago, and the fact that the grocers are working from the purchases made at that time. The stock which is said to remain in Greece is somewhat larger than was expected, and, indeed, is equal to what was said to remain some few months ago, notwithstanding that some not inconsiderable shipments have taken place in the interval. It is obvious, therefore, that it is either placed at too high a figure now or was put at too low a one a short time since. One thing, however, appears to be tolerably clear, viz., that whatever remains on hand is of inferior quality, and that, even if the prices of the lower kinds be affected by any shipments that may be made to England, it does not by any means follow that the value of medium and fine descriptions should be interfered with, having regard to the fact that all the available stock of these kinds is, and has been for some little time past, landed in England. A firmer tone prevailed just at the close of the market.—Produce Markets' Review, London, Eng., May 12.

EXPORTS OF THE PHILIPPINES.

The exports of leading articles from the Philippine Islands during the first three months of this year show the following comparisons with the same period for the two preceding years :

	1896.	1897.	1898.
Sugar, tons	73 910	52,163	34,171
Hemp, bales	135,851	253,093	157 963
Cigars, M	39,430	35,400	46,668
Coffee, piculs	501	1,247	111
Coprah, piculs	164,501	186,784	134,392

NEW PACK PINEAPPLES.

For new pack pineapples the following prices are quoted from Baltimore, shipment to be made when wanted : Two-pound standard, not eyeless and coreless, 95c.; 2-pound standard, eyeless and coreless, sliced, in syrup, $1 ; extra standard, eyeless and coreless, sliced, in heavier syrup, $1.20 ; 2-pound extra selected, sliced, eyeless and coreless, heavy syrup, $1.40 ; standard, grated, light syrups, $1.10, and heavy syrup $1.35.

TOMATOES HIGHER AND ACTIVE.

Mail advices from Baltimore state that the demand for future tomatoes continues active at the advanced prices. For strictly fancy brands of standards the inside price for future delivery is reported to be 72½c. for 3-pound and 52½c. for 2-pound, but in most instances 3c. per dozen more is asked.

JAPAN RICE.

Mail advices received by L. C. Naisawald from Kobe, Japan, of the date of April 22, say : "Since our last advices we are pleased to report that the rice market has, for the first time during this season, weakened. After reaching the high value of 9.30 yen per picul ; quotations have during the last few days rapidly fallen to 9 yen, with very present prospect of a further decline ; dependent very much, however, on the political situation. The impending war between America and Spain, with the local complications that may arise in the Philippines, will, in all probability, should war not be averted, react upon and again cause the rice market to advance. On the other hand, the import of foreign grain has been excessive, while the export of the home article has been almost nominal, and, with the near approach of the wet season, are causes that cannot be overlooked and should tend to weaken quotations. April 29.—Since writing the above, on account of the war, quotations have advanced 20c. per picul. Shipments of brown and polished rice from Japan to the United States and Canada have been 4,724 tons ; to Europe, 5,533 tons, and to Australia, 4,787 tons ; total, 15,044 tons."

FRUIT OUTLOOK IN CALIFORNIA.

Regarding the situation in fresh fruits on the Coast, The California Fruit Grower says, in its issue of May 21 : "Reports from the fruit districts are more encouraging since the rain. Canners are out investigating the fruit crop. Apricots and cling peaches are wanted by canners at good prices. This market is overstocked with poor navel and seedling oranges. Choice navel oranges are scarce. Shipments of oranges for season to May 14 were 11,625 cars, with a possible 1,300 to 1,500 cars yet to go forward."

RAISIN STOCKS SMALL.

Recent advices from California tend to show that the large supply of rain-damaged loose muscatel raisins, the existence of which have had a depressing influence upon the market generally for some time past, in view of the light consuming demand, has nearly, if not all, been disposed of to the wine makers, and as the supplies of sound fruit there now are scarce, the feeling among the holders is very firm. In this market, it is reported, desirable goods have been gradually cleaned up by the steady, though small demands of consumption. Latterly, some speculative interest has been shown by buyers here and it is intimated that a large business might be done in stock on the spot or to arrive, at a shade below the current quotations, but the holders are unwilling to make concessions in view of the limited supply of sound raisins in all positions, and bids of anything less than the figures quoted are rejected. The usual spring report of a proposed combination of the growers to control the 1898 output of raisins has been received.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

The Maritime Merchant states that of some twelve thousand barrels of flour in store at Halifax it learns on fairly good authority that one-third of the quantity could be disposed of on West India account, if transpsrtation could be secured. It adds that there was some talk this week of chartering a steamer to carry a cargo of flour to the West Indies.

Dow & Currie, oatmeal millers, Pilot Mound, Man., are talking of moving to Winnipeg. The high duty on oats, together with the scarcity of that grain in Manitoba, makes it impossible for this firm to compete with United States manufacturers of oatmeal in markets outside of their immediate vicinity, and they have been closed down since January 3. All other mills at provincial points in Manitoba have also been closed down. Dow & Currie's intention at first, was to start up a mill in the United States, but they now are favorable to starting up in Winnipeg.

CONCENTRATED ENERGY.

"THE only valuable kind of study," said Sydney Smith, "is to read so heartily that dinner-time comes two hours before you expected it; to sit with your Livy before you and hear the geese cackling that saved the Capitol, and to see with your own eyes the Carthaginian sutlers gathering up the rings of the Roman knights after the battle of Cannæ, and heaping them into bushels, and to be so intimately present at the actions you are reading of, that when anybody knocks at the door it will take you two or three seconds to determine whether you are in your own study or on the plains of Lombardy, looking at Hannibal's weather-beaten face and admiring the splendor of his single eye."

Don't dally with your purpose.

"The one serviceable, safe, certain, remunerative, attainable quality in every study and pursuit is the quality of attention," said Charles Dickens. "My own invention, or imagination, such as it is, I can most truthfully assure you, would never have served me as it has but for the habit of commonplace, humble, patient, daily, toiling, drudging attention." When asked on another occasion the secret of his success, he said: "I never put one hand to anything on which I could throw my whole self."

"Be a whole man at anything," wrote Joseph Gurney to his son; "a whole man at study, in work, in play."

"I go at what I am about," said Charles Kingsley," as if there was nothing else in the world for the time being. That's the secret of all hard-working men; but most of them can't carry it into their amusements."

Many a man fails to become a great man by splitting into several small ones, choosing to be a tolerable Jack-of-all trades than to be an unrivaled specialist. Such people produce admiration but not conviction.

S. T. Coleridge possessed marvelous powers of mind, but he had no definite purpose; he lived in an atmosphere of mental dissipation which consumed his energy, exhausted his stamina, and his life was in many respects a miserable failure. He lived in dreams and died in reverie. He was continually forming plans and resolutions, but to the day of his death they remained resolutions and plans. He was always just going to do something, but never did it. "Coleridge is dead," wrote Charles Lamb to a friend, "and is said to have left behind him above forty thousand treatises on metaphysics and divinity—not one of them complete!"—Pushing to the Front.

MANY persons, at times, permit themselves to FORGET, what all MUST KNOW, viz.: That "CHEAP" is a twin, with a brother named "NASTY," and that the fraternal feeling existing between this interesting pair is so perfect, that, like the famous Siamese couple, these Twins are absolutely inseparable.

The "stock" argument used by a host of competitors with is that their "so-called" just as good brands are "CHEAPER," leaving the tradesman a much larger profit than "Salada" does.

Our answer to the Grocer is the foregoing remarks in this Ad.

AN ENTERPRISING UNITED STATES HOUSE.

THE firm of Delafield, McGovern & Co., of New York, composed of men who gained their experience in the old firm of Wm. T. Coleman & Co., of San Francisco, who were among pioneers in the introduction of British Columbia canned salmon into Canadian markets, now control several of the large salmon canneries on the Fraser River and have an extensive trade in Canada, the lower provinces and Great Britain. Several years ago they conceived the idea of establishing and introducing a brand of their own, of superior quality, and packed in the handsomest style regardless of expense. Their artistic, embossed label, the "Clover Leaf" brand, is now known from one end of the American continent to the other, and while their trade in Canada is probably not over one-quarter of what it is in the United States under the same label, it is still comparatively large and is constantly increasing. This brand is handled they claim by fully 95 per cent. of the jobbing houses in Canada. The goods are distinguished by their uniformly excellent quality and the handsome style of the package. The "Clover Leaf" brand carries with it the fullest guarantee as to weight, quality and condition; and both wholesalers and retailers are also guaranteed against decline in price. In addition to the "Clover Leaf" salmon, Delafield, McGovern & Co. handle, under the same brand, high grade California canned fruits, raisins, prunes, and dried fruits, and are large factors in all lines of Pacific Coast products.

PORK PACKING IN N.B.

The question whether the New Brunswick farmers can supply enough hogs to keep a pork-packing establishment in operation at St. John appears to have entered quite largely into the discussion at the board of trade rooms recently. No doubt the same question arose at the beginning of the packing industry in Ontario. The farmers answered it by producing the hogs, and the packers there have developed a very profitable export bacon trade. Practical men say that New Brunswick pork is superior in quality to the Ontario article, and there seems to be no question of the ability of our soil to produce cheaply and abundantly the best kind of food on which to feed swine.—Sun, St. John, N.B.

Best
Because Purest.

It Costs No More.

The word "best" is misunderstood in Salt. Scientific methods of the day prove that the Vacuum Process, and that process only, makes a uniform, pure, sparkling Salt Crystal. We have the only plant in Canada for supplying Salt made by the Vacuum Process. Thus, Windsor Salt is doubly refined, cleansed, purified, dried. "As pure as Windsor Salt" is the trade phrase from which the quality of all other salts is judged. "Best because purest."

Windsor Salt

Leading Wholesalers Sell It.

The Windsor Salt Co., Limited, Windsor, Ont.

Bi=Carbonate Soda.

For greatest purity, unequalled strength, absolute evenness of the grade, the "Hand in Hand Brand" of Bi-Carbonate of Soda, has yet to find a competitor.

The United Alkali Company of Great Britain vouches for its high quality, and we stand back of them. $98\frac{50}{100}$ of pure Bi-Carbonate of Soda in it—please remember that.

Stower's Lime Juice

Made only from especially cultivated West Indian Limes. 20 per cent. stronger than any other and so admitted, everywhere.

It is concentrated—distilled and re-distilled, and absolutely pure.

There is "no musty flavor to it"—this one point alone gives it individuality.

No free acid taste. It keeps perfectly in any climate.

Quality Wins Trade

The way to a woman's confidence lies in helping her to economize on what she wears. The English Home Dye of highest quality—Maypole Soap does just this.

All colors in it and each one is fadeless and brilliant. It doesn't leave "streaks" in what is dyed with it. Handy—quick—sure—clean. Used like ordinary soap—no mess, no trouble, no disappointments.

Maypole Soap Dyes.

The Cocoa and the Chocolates that bear the name "Fry" need no argument from you as to their high quality. "Fry" is a household word when purity, and richness and delicacy are thought of.

And because a little of Fry's Cocoa does more than a woman expects it to, she buys it and saves money. That assures you a pleasant spot in a woman's memory.

Fry's Cocoa and Chocolates.

To Hit The Center.

It takes Skill and Experience and Good Ammunition to hit the bullseye—a rifle bullet kills where bird shot simply maims. Quality Counts, but time alone proves that.

True, we aim high, but we shoot to hit the center of the Target of Public Opinion—and we hit it. Increasing sales on these two sterling brands prove this beyond a single question. Quality always counts—we aim high, but we aim "to hit the center," and we hit it.

Greig's Crown Brand Flavoring Extracts.

The extracts of highest quality, absolute purity, great strength, "True to Nature," in their 40 different Fruit, Flower, and Spice flavors. The best cooks use but half the usual amount of the Crown Brand—thus you save your customers much money in a twelvemonth. Don't fear—12 months is a long time we know, but they won't use any other brand once they try the "Crown Brand."

The Greig Mfg. Company.

Lorimer's Worcestershire Sauce.

Possessing a peculiar piquancy that gives an added zest to appetite. Used more generally because of the excellent "body" it has. A little of it answers the purpose, and hence its economy. SUCCESS AS A TRAVELING SALESMAN.

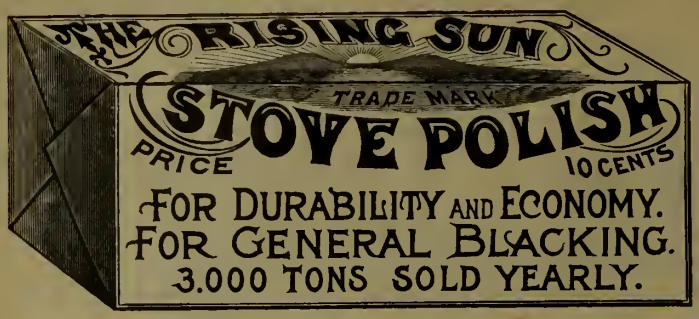
By Henry W. Chapman.

I HAVE traveled 20 years and never missed a season. I have been married eight years and only spent one Christmas with my wife. But I would rather be a traveling salesman than a lawyer or a doctor. Perhaps it is true that to succeed at anything a man must prefer that thing. If I am to be guided by my own experience, there are also other essentials to even a resonable success: Know your goods, know your market, know your customers. Work by day and travel by night. Keep your digestion and your temper even. Keep your eye clear and your hand steady, and tell your customers the truth—not fairy stories, not even "good stories."

The commercial traveler who carries a pistol, a pack of cards, a bottle of whisky and a box of cigars in his satchel doesn't hold out. As a type he is rapidly disappearing. The merchants of the United States have gotten educated beyond him. Goods are no longer sold on friendship. They must have merits of their own, and they must be offered for sale at the right time. Anticipation is half the battle. In the development of this country, the part played by commercial travelers is rarely considered. Yet it is a great deal easier to go out and do a thing than it is to tell how it is done.

Instead of the commercial traveler's work being a picturesque spree, with good stories, good cigars and perpetual parlor car seats, it is after all governed by exactly the same rules as those which regulate any other business. He is the middle man between the seller and the buyer, and he must command the respect of each of them. In order to do this he can't well avoid being truthful, courteous and polite. Instead of loafing, drinking and exchanging jokes with people along his route, he must work hard each day, say one town a day, and travel by nights to the next stopping place. It is hardly necessary to say that he must feel well and keep well to be able to do this; and his digestion must be equal to almost any kind of food he finds.



If my experience is of any value to young men who may think of starting out in this business, they are welcome to it. I began on the road about the time I reached my majority; already I had served a useful apprenticeship in the retail trade. Why was that useful? Because you can't sell goods unless you know them; you can't convince a customer unless you can answer his questions and anticipate his objections. There's no use wasting time in trying to make friends with him unless you can sell him goods. Drinking with him and telling him good stories doesn't count for much nowadays. It's more and more straight goods and straight business.

Every week I get letters from friends asking advice about the road. I believe it is true that I am the oldest man in my line, dry goods specialties, traveling out of New York. For 20 years I have made regular trips through the southwest. I have never carried a pistol in that time and never need one—in spite of the saying that when you need a pistol in Texas you "need it like h—l," I never saw trouble that I felt I had to take any part in. Indeed, I never carried a weapon since my early days, when there were not so many railroads, and I had to make wagon trips sometimes by night, from one backwoods town to another, with a colored man driving me and a Winchester on the seat by my side. When a young man asks how he can start all I can say is, begin in a small way. Experience and reputation in your line are absolutely necessary to secure employment by a good house at good money. Until you have these, try for them, as a retail salesman, anywhere. Unknown quantities are not wanted in big houses.

There are certain kinds of trade, such as shoes, the hat and the clothing, which do nearly all their business by means of traveling salesmen. And they do nearly all of it in four or five months of the year. These salesmen go out in May and June to take their fall orders, and they go in November and December to take their spring orders. A salesman who would travel ten months in the year and carry five times as many goods could not sell any more than they do in four or five. Which indicates that there are two kinds of salesmen, the "pikers," who grind away all the time, and the men who bunch their hits, to use a baseballism, anticipate their customers' demands, sell spring goods, say, in my line, in November and December, go out in March to keep in touch with customers and then spend the warm months in New York selling goods in their own houses to their road customers who have come on here to buy for the fall. While it is true that it is the advance business that pays, it is also true that there isn't any man who can make what I call a salary unless he sells goods in New York as well as on the road. While merchants came to New York twenty years ago more than they do now, it is still true that they continue to come on now at certain times. It is in New York, then, that the traveling salesman who has been in their stores, and mixed with them, knows what they want and how to sell them. And it is here, above all, that the value of the traveling salesman to his parent house is proven, above all mercantile agency reports.

The best customers last year may not be so good this year; discounts may have fallen off, ill-health hurt his business; he may have quarreled by letter with the home house. Now, the home house only wants to weed out undesirable customers, but to replace them with good ones. It is the experienced traveling salesman who alone can know not only when, but where to go. If I tell a southern merchant in July, in New York, that I will be in his place on December 1, and I've always "tooted fair" with him, he'll wait to buy my line of goods until he sees my samples. I have traveled 2,000 miles in one week, and made from five to seven towns in each. On the 26th day of last November I was in Dallas, on the 28th in Waco, on the 29th in Galveston, on December 1 in Houston, and on December 2 in Fort Worth. That would measure only about 700 miles over the State, but it was 4,500 the way I went.

Expenses? Expenses don't cut any figure, You must get the business, no matter what it costs. Your expenses may be $60 one week and $160 the next. To meet them you draw drafts on the parent house—not on a bank. I never knew a reputable house to refuse to pay a draft drawn by a reputable traveling man. And for integrity traveling men are away above the average. The old timer who drank hard and told stories is no longer "in it." The merchant of to-day knows when he is "getting a run for his money." It doesn't do any harm to "jolly" him a bit; naturally, you wouldn't take your troubles to him. Tact and truthfulness generally win. And sometimes you tell him a story you have heard.

Experienced men, who have their health, are never out of a job. Such a one, who travels with a special line of goods for a big house, may make $12,000 or $15,000 a year in commissions. Many of them make from $6,000 to $8,000. A good house salesman in a big house may sell in the market (that is, in New York City, of course), a million dollars' worth of general dry goods in a year. But he couldn't possibly go out on the road with general samples and sell half that amount. Yet, a good traveling salesman with a special line of dry goods might sell on the road a million dollars' worth of his specialty. So the cost to general houses is less than to special lines to sell their goods, and the general salesmen get paid less.

Concentration is what pays the house as well as its travelers. Know your market, know your customers and know your special line of goods. Every successful road salesman has offers to take out side lines. But I have always refused; it's better to have one thing to sell and to sell that and nothing else. In all my 20 years on the road I have never been insulted, never had a personal altercation. And the one Christmas that my wife did spend with me she traveled 2,000 miles to do it. But I love my business; I wouldn't give it up. Even if, like some habits, it does "unfit a man for anything else."—Knoxville, Tenn., Sentinel.

THAT BROWN WICK.

IN a little more than a year, the wick business of the United States has been revolutionized by the Marshall Process wick. This is because the wick has merit. The Marshall Process or "Brown Wick" is not a dyed wick, but, by the peculiar patented purifying process of extracting all extraneous matter from the best cotton wick that can be made it becomes brown. What at first seemed a disadvantage proved a distinguishing mark, which has made it popularly known as the "Little Brown Wick." It cannot be bleached white, and a dyed wick would be hard and more useless than before. This is a flexible, fibrous wick, as soft as silk, through which, by capillary attraction, the oil is drawn up easily and freely, and with great regularity, insuring thereby the finest white light of the greatest possible illuminating power. More than this, the lamp does not "smell," the combustion of the oil being so perfect as to render it odorless. Gowans, Kent & Co., Toronto, are the Canadian agents for this wick.

Twelve cars of sugar for Winnipeg were included in the cargo of one C.P.R. steamer from Owen Sound last week.

ANNUAL INVENTORIES.

By Geo. L. Pender.

MY experience with the retail trade convinces me that there is no evil to which the average country merchant is more prone than the neglect to make a careful reckoning of his real condition from time to time. Some retail merchants will permit two or three, or even four, years to elapse between inventories, and some of them never take stock.

No merchant, however small his business, can afford to disregard this most important duty. An inventory should be taken at least once a year. Twice a year would not be too often. The advantages of inventories at frequent intervals are manifold. It is the surest way of determining the real worth of the merchant. It is the only method he can adopt of ascertaining whether or not he is conducting his business on a profitable basis. It is the best and most reliable plan of reducing stock and of finding out how much of the goods on hand is old or unsalable, and therefore needs special effort to work it off.

There is no good excuse for any merchant who neglects to follow this desirable and beneficial practice. There are at least two seasons of the year when trade is sufficiently slack to enable him to perform this most important work. These periods are those just preceding the spring and fall seasons, when stocks of merchandise are at their lowest. It is very desirable that a careful summing up of the previous season's results should be before the merchant at these dates, in order that he may know where he stands.

LACK OF BUSINESS ACUMEN.

"Aren't you sorry that you mixed corn flour with your wheat flour, now that you are found out?" asked the Job's comforter.

"I should say I am," the miller admitted. "In the first place, I ought to have called it a 'health blend,' and put it on the market at a higher price than the pure stuff."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A PRAISEWORTHY STARCH.

RECENTLY we have received several inquiries regarding the "Boston Laundry Starch," which is made by The F. F. Dalley Company, Limited, of Hamilton, Canada, and, in keeping with the spirit which animates the publication of the American Journal of Health, a thorough investigation has been made with a result of demonstration that the article in question is eminently deserving of all praise. The following claim has been made for same: That it imparts a hard polish to collars, cuffs and shirt fronts.

In reply to those who ask if such claim is borne out in actual performance, we would say unhesitatingly, that it is not in the slightest degree overdrawn, but that the merits of the article in question are indeed conservatively stated, for a more praiseworthy addition to domestic equipment than is found in the "Boston Laundry Starch" has never been brought to our notice. It is invaluable to every household, and no one will ever regret the modest price which secures an article of such decided convenience and utility.

So many articles are advertised nowadays that it is impossible for the unadvised reader to distinguish between the catchpenny and the genuine. Honest statements concerning really worthy products are found side by side with speciously worded claims which, after it is too late, are found to be wholly without foundation. It is the duty of every publication, entering the home, to investigate such advertised claims, that readers may be warned from the unworthy, and, at the same time, given unbaised advice regarding trustworthy articles placed upon the market. Such investigation has been made in this case, and, as a result, we do not hesitate to bestow heartiest editorial endorsement upon the "Boston Laundry Starch," which should find a place in every household in the land. —American Journal of Health, New York, June.

AN INTERESTING WEDDING.

A June wedding, of more than ordinary interest to merchants and provision dealers from Winnipeg to the Pacific coast, was celebrated on Wednesday, the 1st inst., when Miss Edith, eldest daughter of D. C. McTavish, The Hudson's Bay Co. factor at Rupert House, N.W.T., was married to R. A. Rogers, of Winnipeg. Mr. Rogers, as a member of the Parsons Packing Co., and as head of the Winnipeg Cold Storage Co., is well and favorably known throughout Manitoba and the Northwest. He has had much to do with the development of creameries, cheese factories, etc., in the west, and it was due to his enterprise that the first really large and efficient cold storage warehouse was erected in Winnipeg, at a cost of $40,000.

MONTREAL GROCERS' PICNIC.

President John Scanlan presided at the regular monthly meeting of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association, in the Monument National on Thursday evening, June 2. All the officers and about 30 members were present.

The treasurer, Mr. J. P. Dixon, reported that he had received contributions towards the annual picnic from different wholesale houses amounting to about $230. The chairmen of the various committees had been delegated to select a suitable site for a picnic ground. They reported on the different places they had visited, and, after a thorough discussion, it was moved by Mr. Repentigny, seconded by Mr. Willison, and carried unanimously that the annual picnic be held at Cornwall, Ont., on July 13.

A discussion then took place as to the best means of making the picnic a profitable enterprise. It was suggested that the financial condition of the association would be much improved if the annual outing could be made to pay. It was decided to call a special meeting to go further into the question.

HOW TO SUCCEED IN GROCERIES.

MY theme this week is the dishonest grocer. If I could dip my pen in sulphuric acid and write on asbestos paper, I could not then express half the contempt and hatred which I cherish for the grocer who gives short weights and measures, makes low prices to attract trade, and steals customers away from a rival in business. Some people may think that I have suffered directly by such methods as these, which makes me so bitter against them, but this is not true. However, I sympathize with the honest grocer who is forced to meet such competition as this, and sees his trade gradually going toward the dishonest grocer.

The dishonest grocer does not exist, you say? He does, beyond a doubt.

He will never win out in the long run, because honesty will succeed as sure as the sun rises and sets. Why, then, are grocers dishonest? The most patent cause in making grocers dishonest is selling goods at too close a margin, or at no margin at all. The temptation to make both ends meet by giving short count and short measure is too great in times of close competition, and the man who is at all weak will finally fall. "Honor and fame from no conditions rise; act well your part—there all the honor lies."

Is it honorable for a merchant to advertise twenty pounds of sugar for a dollar, and give only eighteen? Is it honorable for him to sell thirteen ounces for a pound, and forty-five pounds of flour for a quarter of a barrel, which should be forty-nine pounds? Is it honorable to overcharge on one article and undercharge on another? Is it honorable to go to your neighbor's customers and quote prices far below what you would to your own trade? What man who sells sixteen ounces to the pound and twelve to the dozen can compete with these sharks and pirates? They degrade the profession, and make all classes of customers suspicious of all dealers.

It is a blessing to feel that they will sometime overstep themselves, and perish through their own dishonesty.

Shakespeare says: "Who steals my purse steals trash, but he who filches from me my good name, takes that which not enriches him, and makes me poor, indeed." The pirates, who are engaged in these reprehensible practices, will find some day that they are known in their true light, and all the perfumes of Araby will not suffice to make their name sweet to the public again. They will be shunned like a pestilence, despite their air of respectability. Unfortunately this class of grocers is far too numerous. They advertise largely in the daily papers, and hide behind the shield of a great name. Once in a while an extraordinary clever shark will succeed, but, for the most part failure is their portion. Let all young grocers take the advice of one who has seen grocers rise and fall, and who has studied the causes of success and failure, and shun all dishonest and crooked practices.—Storekeeper.

SLAUGHTERING AN INDUSTRY.

ACCORDING to the announcement of the Minister of Finance in the House, the duties on shirts, collars, etc., will not be altered during the present session.

This is much to be regretted, for, as matters now stand, Canadian goods are being crowded out by American slaughtered lots and European pauper-made goods. In fact, the situation has become so serious for the Canadian manufacturers, that a general reduction in wages will probably take place in the near future.

The industry has been struggling against a great disadvantage ever since the Fielding tariff came into force. By it, the duties on shirts, collars, cuffs, etc., were reduced to 35 per cent., while the duties on white and grey cottons were increased to 25 per cent., and on colored goods to 35 per cent. This was an evident error, for it meant that the shirt, etc., makers were to be taxed as much on their raw material as the duty on the finished article—a precedent which surely no Government would care to assume the responsibility of establishing.

Representations were made to the Government, and the Minister of Finance, evidently recognizing that an injustice had been done, introduced clause 355a, providing that cottons imported for the manufacture of shirts, etc., should pay an ad valorem duty of 15 per cent., and should be made up under Government supervision. This met with opposition from the jobbing trade, who contended that it would interfere with many lines of staples, and from the cotton manufacturers, who claimed that it would open the door to enormous imports of British and American cottons. Their arguments prevailed and the clause was withdrawn.

This is how matters have stood since, and though the shirt industry have preferred to meet foreign competition, and run their mills at a loss rather than disband their work people or reduce wages, still the struggle cannot be maintained indefinitely.

The shirt manufacturers of Canada employ over 8,000 hands, 90 per cent. of whom are women. These are paid wages averaging $1 a day and are able to live in comfort. If the mills are closed, or a material reduction is made in wages, it will be a serious problem to know what is to be done for these people—many of them with families to support.

The cotton combine, which at one time was the particular bugaboo of the Liberal party, has been treated with every consideration in the framing of the tariff, while the shirt industry, in which no combine existed, and which is of equal importance as a wage-paying institution, was handled by the tariff revisers without mercy.

In view of these facts one cannot help wondering if length of purse has anything to do with the immunity from tariff overhauling which the cotton interest seems to possess. Evidently their "pull" on this Government is greater than their influence with the late Conservative Administration.

There is another feature which makes it seem as though the shirt men had been specially singled out for ill usage by the Government. Prior to the election of 1896, one of the leading lights of the industry was approached by a prominent Liberal with a view to securing his support. The manufacturer had been a Conservative, but, like many others, disgusted with the men who were then at the head of affairs, was induced to go over to the Liberal camp. First, however, he demanded an assurance from the recognized leader of the party, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, that the manufacturing interests which had grown up and flourished under the National Policy should not be deprived of the protection which they required to permit of their competing with foreign goods. The assurance was given both before and after the election, and, later, when the tariff was down, and the shirt men found themselves in the cold, this gentleman received repeated promises from Sir Wilfrid—provided they kept quiet, that the duties would be restored and all made right.

How Sir Wilfrid Laurier can reconcile these statements with the action of his Administration is a question for independent voters to ponder over. One Minister said the Cabinet was not bound by the Premier's promises.

The matter is one which should interest every retail merchant in Canada, for, if an important industry is to be tomahawked and thousands of breadwinners thrown out of employment through lack of business ability —or something worse—in a Government, it is time that the commercial interests bestirred themselves, and called to account those who are responsible.

DEBT COLLECTING METHODS.

THERE are a great many schemes in vogue for the collection of accounts from slow pay people. Some of them are in direct contravention of the law, and merchants cannot be too careful in the methods they employ.

The bad pay debtor, commonly known as the "dead beat," is entitled to no smypathy, but the law has seen fit, nevertheless, to shelter him in certain particulars, and the law must therefore be respected whether the dishonest debtor is entitled to respect or not.

An Ontario act of 1896 imposes a fine not to exceed $20 per day upon persons who, in an effort to collect an account, use any notice or form which is an imitation of the forms appended to the Division Courts Act. To "dun" a person by postcard is also illegal, and so is any form which is designed to intimidate or to imitate legal documents.

Before us at the moment are a couple of forms and an envelope issued by a certain detective and debt collecting agency, which fact is stated in large letters on both envelope and forms; and all is on blue paper. The documents have been forwarded to this office by a subscriber who desires to know if they are legal; also, whether the attachment of a red seal thereto would be illegal.

As to the documents themselves, it is the opinion of a well-known lawyer, that they and all similar ones are illegal, as their obvious purpose is to intimidate, to frighten into paying an account. Then, as to the seal, the obvious intention of that is to give the document the appearance of being issued under official authority, and is therefore designed to deceive.

THE CANADIAN GROCER would not like to recommend the use of the documents. Aside altogether from the question of their legality, it is questionable whether they serve the purpose for which they are designed. They are chiefly intended to frighten the "dead beat" into paying his indebtedness. And when debtors of this class are not, as a rule, frightened by regular Division Court documents, they are not likely to be by these. The professional dead beat is not only often an intelligent man, but he can as quickly recognize an imitation from the real document as most people can a mule from a horse. And, when a merchant is discovered trying to deceive he, of course, weakens his case.

The question as to how debts may be best collected is an important one. We are, however, persuaded of one thing, and that is that a merchant should not give his accounts out of his own hands for collection until he had tried again and again himself. Having failed, then it is for him to employ other and more vigorous means.

The man with "snap" is not the man who snaps off people's heads. He is merely one who is awake to his opportunities.

WEIGHT OF A BAG OF POTATOES.

By an amendment to the Weights and Measures Act, it has been decreed that a bag of potatoes shall contain eighty pounds.

Under the law as it previously existed it was stipulated that "in contracts for the sale and delivery" of a bushel of potatoes the weight should be sixty pounds. There was no provision whatever as to the weight of a bag of potatoes. This defect the new law remedies.

CANADA AND THE U.S. TREATY WITH FRANCE.

A RECIPROCITY TREATY between France and the United States has been consummated. It went into effect in both countries on the 1st inst., and came as a surprise to even the people of the United States, although negotiations have been pending for about eight months.

This treaty is not without interest to Canadians, in view of the reciprocity treaty which exists between the Dominion and the French Republic.

According to the proclamation issued by President McKinley, the articles of United States production which are to be admitted into France at the minimum tariff, together with the rate in francs per 100 kilos thereof, are as follows:

	Per 100 kilos. Francs
Canned meats	15.00
Table fruits, fresh—
Lemons, oranges, cedrats and their varieties not mentioned	5.00
Mandarine oranges	10.00
Common table grapes	8.00
Apples and pears—
For the table	2.00
For cider and perry	1.50
Other fruits, omitting hot-house grapes and fruits	3.00
Fruits, dried or pressed (excluding raisins)—
Apples and pears, for the table	10 00
For cider and perry	4.00
Prunes	10.00
Other fruits.	5.00
Common woods—
Logs, per 100 kilos	.65
Sawed or squared timber, 80 MM or more in thickness	1.00
Squared or sawed lumber, exceeding 35 MM and less than 80 MM in thickness	1.25
Wood, sawed, 35 MM or less in thickness	1.75
Paving blocks	1.75
Staves	.75
Hoops	30.00
Apples and pears, crushed or cut and dried	1 50
Manufactured and prepared pork meats	50.00
Lard and its compounds	25.00

The particular advantages secured by the United States are on meat products and lard compounds, the duty on the former being reduced by one-half, and that on the latter by one-third.

According to the official report of the United States Bureau of Statistics, issued several months ago, the exports of the United States to France for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897, were $56,287,631. Of the chief articles enumerated in the above list the exports were as follows: Canned beef, $91,471; apples, green or dried, $41,513; other fruits, $259,867; lard, $1,032,286; bacon, hams, pork, $171,201; wood and manufactures of, not including furniture, $889,319; corn, $2,113,628; unmanufactured cotton, $26,110,302; ingots, bars and rods of steel, $4,513,395; crude mineral oil, $4,584,562 ; cotton seed, $2,601,526 ; unmanufactured tobacco, $1,832,903.

Articles, the produce of Canada, which France admits under the minimum tariff are :

Canned meats.
Condensed milk.
Fresh-water fish.
Fish preserved in their natural form.
Lobsters and crayfish preserved in their natural form.
Apples and pears, fresh, dried or pressed.
Fruits, preserved, others.
Building timber in rough or sawn.
Wood pavement.
Staves.
Wood pulp (cellulose).
Extract of chestnut and other staining extracts.
Common paper.
Prepared skins.
Boots and shoes.
Furniture of common wood.
Furniture, other than chairs, of solid wood, common.
Flooring in pine or soft wood.
Wooden sea-going ships.

It will be observed that the list of Canadian products entitled to enjoy the French minimum tariff is more extensive than is that of United States products, and that there is, at the same time, but little clashing of interests.

Canned meats, apples, timber and wood are practically the only articles which appear on the both lists. Canada is, therefore, likely to be affected little, if anything, by the treaty between the two republics. Of the articles which may possibly be affected the Dominion, last year, only sent $1,589 worth of green apples, $1,760 worth of dried apples, and $152,019 worth of wood and manufactures of. We sent no canned meats to France.

The total exports of the Dominion to France last year aggregated $690,696, and the chief articles of export were : Animals, living, $125,014 ; breadstuffs, $28,141 ; fish and fish products, 295,974; metals and minerals and manufactures of, $45,230 ; wood and manufactures of, $152,019.

Canada's exports to France last year were the largest in fourteen years, and have only been exceeded three times, and that was in 1879, 1880 and 1882. In the last named year the exports were $825,573, or about 16 per cent. larger than last year.

The number of articles the product of France which are to be allowed into the United States under a lower tariff are also fewer than under Canada's treaty with France, and are largely confined to brandies, still wines, vermouth and works of art. One important article of French production, champagne, is not included in the United States list.

Canada's imports from France last year were valued at $2,507,128 against $2,782,773 in 1896 and $2,636,342 in 1895. The imports of the United States from France last year were valued at $67,530,231.

From French returns we learn that the United States is fourth in order among the nations as a purchaser of the products of France. Great Britain comes first, of course. Then follow Belgium, Germany and the United States.

In 1896 the exports of France to British possessions aggregated 1,364,300,000 francs; to Belgium 576,300,000 francs ; to Germany 401,500,000 francs, and to the United States 339,100,000 francs.

It is estimated that the concessions granted by the United States to France amounted to 1.42 per cent. of the total revenue paid by French imports, while the concessions made by France to the United States show a reduction of 2.58 per cent. of the amount of revenue paid by imports from the United States into France.

A LOWER TOBACCO DUTY.

THE British Government has taken sixpence per pound off the import duty on tobacco.

The Customs revenue from tobacco and snuff last year was £11,036,380, and it is estimated that the loss of revenue on tobacco, because of the reduction in the duty, will be £1,120,000.

It is worthy of note that the amount received by the British Government from the Customs duty on tobacco and snuff combined is rather more than 50 per cent. of the total Customs revenue. The total revenue last year was £21,556,460.

Next to tobacco, the largest source of revenue from the Customs is tea, but it is a great deal less, being only £3,805,935.

During the discussion of the Chancellor of the Exchequer's proposition to reduce the duty on tobacco it was suggested by some members of the House that it would be better to make the reduction on tea as an encouragement to British grown tea. Some would like to have seen the duty on tea made 2d. instead of 4d. per lb. But the Chancellor of the Exchequer was obdurate.

The average duty on leaf tobacco under the old tariff was 3s. 6d. per lb., or equal to 79c. per lb. Canadian money, and is said to be the highest duty paid in the world.

The Customs duty on leaf tobacco in Canada is from 10 to 14c. per lb.

NO BOUNTY ON SUGAR.

A PRESS despatch from Ottawa states that the Government has decided to do nothing during the present session of Parliament, at any rate, in the way of a bounty on the production of beet sugars in Canada.

In 1895 the Conservative Administration tried its hand at bounty giving, an Act being assented to in July, of that year, authorizing the payment of a bounty of seventy-five cents per hundred pounds on raw beet sugar of 70 degrees, produced in Canada between July 1, 1895, and July 1, 1897, with an additional one cent per hundred pounds for each degree or fraction of degree over 70 degrees. But no one took advantage of the Government's liberality. In the same year the import duty on raw sugar was fixed at ½c. per lb., and on refined at 1 14-100c. per lb.

It has been settled beyond peradventure that in certain portions of Canada at least, beets rich in saccharine can be produced, and the present agitation for the reimposition of the bounty is due to the efforts of those who are interesting themselves in the establishment of a beet sugar factory in Ontario.

Early in May, it will be remembered, the Toronto Board of Trade petitioned the Government, on behalf of a Scotch syndicate, which proposed starting a factory in Ontario, for a bounty on raw beet sugar, the sum so paid to be $1 per 100 lb. the first year, 75c. the second, 50c. the third, and 25c. per 100 lb. for the fourth and fifth years. But as has already been pointed out, the Government has decided to do nothing this year.

The persevering man may not get all he wants, but he will get a great deal more than he would had he not persevered.

ADVANCE IN MATCHES.

A new list has been issued this week on matches by the E. B. Eddy Co., values having been advanced 25c. all round, and jobbers are now quoting as follows : Telegraph, 1 case, $3.45 ; 5 cases, $3.25 ; Telephone, 1 case, $3.25 ; 5 cases, $3.05 ; Phœnix, 1 case, $3.15 ; 5 cases, $2.95 ; Tiger, 1 case, $3.10; 5 cases, $2.90; Telephone, ⅛ boxes, 1 case, $3.45 ; 5 cases, $3.25.

Parlor matches are unaltered.

A 10c. PER LB. DUTY ON TEA.

IN THE war revenue bill, passed by the United States Senate, is a clause providing for a duty of 10c. per lb. on tea. Before the bill can become law it will have to receive the endorsation of the House of Representatives. Whether it will receive this endorsation remains to be seen. A private letter to hand from a New York tea house ventures the opinion that it will not. At any rate, the Senate's action has in the meantime had the effect of imparting a stronger tone to the tea market generally.

In New York, holders have put their prices up, while cables from Japan state that shippers are asking from 2 to 3c. per lb. more.

The effect of these high prices, if maintained, will be keenly felt on the Canadian market, for buyers here who purchased on standards at a limited price will not be able to get their orders filled except at higher figures. In fact, in one instance reported, an advance of 4c. is demanded, while 2c. more is commonly asked. Several others have refused to entertain the proposition, while they, in the meantime, are refusing to place further orders.

The imposition of the proposed duty of 10c. per lb. will not only mean higher prices, but it would also mean the importation into the United States of less low-grade and medium teas than would otherwise be the case, although the tea inspection law already closes out a good many of these teas. This would mean a greater quantity of low-grade and medium teas available for the Canadian market, although here again the tendency in this direction has already been minimized by the fact that fewer of these grades of teas will be picked, the tea inspection law in the United States having induced the growers in Japan to curtail their output in this particular.

When it was proposed, under the Dingley bill, to put a duty on tea, it will be remembered large quantities of tea were bought up in Canada for shipment to the United States. It will be remembered the same thing was done, although to a lesser extent, four or five weeks ago, when the putting of a duty on tea for war revenue purposes was first mooted. What will be the experience in the present instance remains to be seen. So far there has been a little inquiry, and a few China greens were shipped to the United States a few days ago.

As to the future of the market, a great deal now depends upon what the House will do.

CONFLICTING MOLASSES REPORTS.

THERE has been a rather unsettled feeling developed on Barbadoes molasses at the Islands within the past ten days or so, and advices have been of a conflicting character.

On the one hand, it is stated that the market there is very active, with a large business doing, while, on the other, some agents state that they have firm offers of 11c. first cost, which is a decline of 1 to 2c. per gallon.

It is worthy of note, however, that buyers in Montreal have not nibbled at any of these low offers.

The reason is clear. There has been possibly 4,000 to 4,500 puncheons of molasses bought on Montreal account, costing, laid down on the wharf, all the way from 28 to 28½c., and possibly 29c. The owners of this do not want any decline, and do not expect it, as it is pretty well known that there are not over 3,000 puncheons remaining unsold at Barbadoes.

Accordingly, with no old stock in Canada to speak of, the general expectation is that Canadian market values on Barbadoes molasses will rule pretty steady around their present range.

POOR CLERKS ARE DEAR.

A poor clerk is dear at any price. Low wages and clerks low in measure of ability are just as certain as it is that water seeks its own level.

If a merchant will not pay a fair wage he cannot get a clerk that will be profitable to him.

Poor clerks, like poor goods are unprofitable A merchant may imagine that because he has secured the services of a clerk at a low wage that he has struck a bargain. But if that clerk be either ungentlemanly or ignorant of his business he will drive away more customers than he will attract. And a man who drives away customers is dear, even if his services were gratuitous and a premium was thrown in.

Judging from the character of some clerks, these are particulars which all merchants do not appear to consider.

THE SUGAR INDUSTRY.

EDWARD KYNASTON'S West India Sugar Circular says: "The Sugar Conference appears to be settled to take place in Brussels on June 7 or 8, when all the European powers are to be represented, and it is devoutly to be hoped some definite and final solution to this vexed controversy will be the outcome of its deliberations. It surely ought not to be difficult to arrive at an understanding mutually acceptable to all, and from the course the American and Spanish conflict appears to be taking, it will be more than desirable that these bounties should once and for ever cease. There can be little doubt that sooner or latter the Philippine Islands, Porto Rico, and Cuba will pass into the hands of the United States of America, and once the Stars and Stripes flag is planted in these colonies there is but a very remote chance of its being disturbed. In that event, the sugar production in those places, coupled with that of the Sandwich Islands, and of the rapidly expanding beet industry in America, will more than supply all the requirements of that country, so that the cane sugar growers, with those who produce beet on the continent, will have to look to their respective populations, both home and colonial, to take off the sugar produced under their flags. If our Government will consider not only the present but the future position which will then exist, they will surely not hesitate to see their colonies righted in the unequal battle that has raged round them for so many years. The continental people have the remedy in their own hands, for by reducing their home duties, all their surplus production could quite well be consumed, after allowing for such quantities as will in a natural way find their destination in this country. That the present Spanish and American conflict will revolutionize the sugar world there can be little doubt, and as our colonies will more than ever need the Mother Country as an outlet for their produce, it will be simply a scandal if it is kept closed any longer by hostile tariffs which benefit the foreigner and the foreigner only. A suicidal policy such as this has been for so long a period must have caused unlimited amusement as well as profit to our continental neighbors, and it is high time a juster and more liberal administration of affairs should be meted out to those of our own blood and connections. That the end of these bounties is not far off seems as certain as ever, and the party in power that brings about the consummation of this most desirable event will have won the lasting gratitude of our colonial inhabitants and of the sugar refiners in the British Isles.

"The position of sugar is once again becoming sound, and as the cane crops for next year bid fair to show a not inconsiderable reduction, whilst the assumed sowings of beet can scarcely produce a crop exceeding the present one of say 4,800,000 tons or thereabouts, it is probable the next twelve months will display a higher range of prices than have obtained during the last two years. As this is in a great measure accidental, the opponents of bounties will have no just cause for saying the remedy has been found for the cane sugar growers' complaints, for, whilst these bounties remain, no limit can be placed on the continental production, which any year may plunge us into a deeper mess than ever."

MASTERING THE BIKE.

THE only help I got in learning to ride the bike was from my wife. The little lady would grab hold of the framework just over the rear wheel and maintain my 200 pounds of peerless manhood while I talked to her and told her what to do and remonstrated with her for not doing what I though she ought to do. I do not believe any one else could have helped me as much as she did. You see, I could hardly have talked as freely to any one else.

The last time she helped me my conversation ran something like this :

"Now give me a good start. Hang on! Hold up! Great Scott! Are you trying to run me into the ditch? Jane, pay attention to what you're doing. You'll kill me! Don't let we wabble so. Look out! I'm running into a rock—can't you see I am? There! I told you I would. It was all your fault. I should think you would have some sense by this time."

I did not stop here, but I have to make a break in the report of my remarks to say that just here a young lady of whom I am rather fond in a paternal sort of way, and whom I familiarly call Puss, rode up on her own wheel and went along with me although some few yards away for safety's sake. I did not stop talking to the little lady, though. By this time I was too mad to care for appearances. So I turned to Puss and continued :

"Did you ever see such a fool woman? Why can't she hold the blamed thing straight? Here I am wabbling around like a drunken man."

Puss merely grinned and showed her pretty teeth and gurgled a delightfull little girlish laugh. That made me all the madder, and I began at my wife again.

"Now, Jane, do use some sense. Hang on! Put some muscle in it. How would you like it if I let you skin around like this when you were learning? Look out! Ouch! I'm going over. No, I ain't, Yes I am. Push! Pull! Move the blamed thing along. Stop here, stop here! Can't you see, you great, great goose, that I'm running into the fence? I'll be killed? My bicycle will be smashed to pieces. Stop me! I'm gone up! O-o-o-o-o-o-o o-o-o-h!"

And, crash bang, I went into the fence, just as I had predicted. I picked myself up, and after an examination found that no bones were broken. Then I examined my wheel and found that it was all right. Then I looked around to find my wife and give her a piece of my mind. There she was, three blocks up the street, just at the point where I started, sitting on the curbstone and laughing so loud I could hear every "Ha, ha!" And, worse and more of it, Puss was immediately across the street dismounted and also sitting on the curbstone and laughing just as hard.

Then I saw it all. I had made the whole distance all alone by myself, and I had been talking, directing and protesting to the circumambient air. No wonder the girls laughed, but I forgave them. I had learned to ride the bike.—New York Truth.

TORONTO GROCERS' PICNIC.

Messrs. J. W. Sykes, D. W. Clarke and T. Clarke, representing the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, went to Port Hope on Monday, this week, to make arrangements for the annual picnic of the association.

They report that they were most cordially received by the mayor of the town, and by members of the Port Hope Retail Merchants' Association, and, that after they had finished the business of their trip, they were treated handsomely by their fellow business men in that town. They are all enthusiastic over their reception, and predict a good time on the day of the trip.

The sports and programme committee met on Monday evening, a report of which is to be presented to the association at its regular meeting on Monday evening next.

ORANGE MARKET OVERSTOCKED.

The immense quantity of California oranges on the market, with a large proportion of extremely poor quality, has about knocked the bottom out of the orange market. Cars upon cars (something like 100 cars said to be on track this week) are being turned into the New York market, and operators are almost willing to come out even, after paying freight and refrigerator charges. It apparently looks as if the people were getting tired of eating oranges, and are turning their attention to eating other fruits.—American Grocer.

BORACIC ACID IN BUTTER

A good deal of attention has been directed to the useful warning of the Minister of Agriculture for Ontario against the use of preservatives other than salt in the making of butter in Canada for the British market. He points out that Canada has a high reputation for the purity of her dairy produce, which is most important to maintain ; adding that the increasing use of drugs as preservatives has alarmed British consumers so much that butter containing traces of such preparations is likely to be excluded from the country. Mr. Dryden takes an exaggerated view of the attention paid to the subject in this country at present ; but he is wise in warning Canadian buttermakers to avoid a practice which is bringing discredit upon the butter imported from most of our principal sources of supply.—Grocers' Journal, London, Eng.

COST OF DOING BUSINESS.

THE following, signed by a Tennessee firm, recently appeared in The Inter-State Grocer :

"In answer to your request as to the cost of doing business, we would say that is one part of our business that we watch very closely, and we take pleasure in giving you a list of our sales and expenses for the year 1897, as we think we could not give you a better answer than by giving you a statement of our actual business. We carry a mixed stock of about $1,800, groceries, feedstuff, queensware, glassware, saddlery, harness, etc. We do our own work, with the exception of a porter and his salary is charged to the expense of delivering goods. Our sales for the year 1897 were $11,350.85.

Rent for storehouse	$240 00
Lights	30 00
Fuel	21 75
Delivering goods in city	270 00
Telephone rent	24 00
Privilege tax	32 25
Insurance	41 00
Stationery and postage	42 00
Drayage	48 00
Petty expenses	7 50
Total	$756 50

"So you can see from above statement that it cost us $756.50 to do $11,350.85 worth of business, making a net cost of 6⅔ per cent. on each $1 worth of business done. We handle some country produce and make a small profit on it. We would like to hear from others on the subject, as we take a great deal of interest in that part of our business.

"Enclosed you will find check for $2, for which you will please send us the Interstate Grocer for another year, as we don't see how we could do business without its aid and make money."

"CLAN" BRAND TEA.

Balfour & Co., of Hamilton, will, in a few days, have upon the market a new package tea. It will be known as the "Clan" brand, and the trade will be interested to learn that the packages will be imitations of the various tartans which are in existence. The advantage of this will be that the retailer will be able to supply a Macintosh, a Campbell, a MacGregor, a Colquhoun, a MacLean, or the descendant of any other clan with a package of tea labelled with the facsimile of his own tartan.

The tea will be of the finest Ceylon description, and will be put up in half pound and pound packages.

Balfour & Co. should experience a good demand for their teas.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, June 9, 1898.

GROCERIES.

BUSINESS during the week has improved rather than otherwise, and a generally satisfactory feeling prevails. No material change has been made in quotations during the week, although the price of canned vegetables is rather unsettled. The demand for canned goods generally, however, has improved during the week. There is a firmer feeling in regard to canned peaches, owing to reports that a short crop is expected. Sugars continue firm, with the demand a little better. The Japan tea market is cabled dearer, owing to the proposal in the United States to put a duty on tea. The ginger market is a little easier. Coffees are dull and unsettled in price. Business continues fairly good in the foreign dried fruits for this time of year. Rice is still firm and in good demand. Cream of tartar has again taken an upward turn in the primary market.

CANNED GOODS.

Trade this week in canned goods exhibits a great deal more activity than it did a week ago. In tomatoes, peas and corn the feeling is easier. Some wholesalers, who have hitherto been holding prices above those commonly ruling, are, this week, quoting the same prices as their confreres. The idea as to price is $1.15 to $1.20, and we hear of a transaction, in which a carload was concerned, at $1.10. Ordinarily, peas and corn are quoted at 90c., but both can be bought at lower prices, and corn is being quouted by some houses as low as 82½c. Salmon is in brisk demand at steady prices. Fruits, and particularly peaches, are also selling better. It is reported that the peach trees in certain districts are being attacked by "curly leaf" and that a small pack is probable in consequence. This report is the cause of the increased demand. Prices are also firmer in consequence. Canned pumpkin is another line which is moving more freely than it was.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The syrup market is still in an uninteresting condition. There are a few bright syrups offering, but there is no demand. Molasses is also quiet, and advices from New Orleans indicate a somewhat easier feeling.

SUGAR.

Monday's cables on beet showed a decline of ¼d. per cwt. in London, with cane quiet and firm. Otherwise the European markets have ruled firm. The same may be said of the markets on this side of the Atlantic, although in New York a nervous feeling prevailed in regard to refined sugars in consequence of the near approach of the completion of the Arbuckle refinery, which is opposed to the sugar trust. On Monday, however, the latter issued a notice to the trade stating that prices would be guaranteed against a decline this month, and this gave more confidence to buyers in consequence. In Canada, the market has ruled strong during the week. The demand is improving, and higher figures are looked for. During the week there have been a few importation orders placed for foreign granulated sugars, and some have arrived.

NUTS.

A further advance has taken place in Sicily filberts in the primary markets, a cable received in Toronto on Monday demanding higher prices.

For Prices Current See Pages 34 and 35.

RICE.

The market still rules strong and local wholesalers are experiencing a good business.

COFFEE.

The coffee market is rather uninteresting and business is light, and advices in regard to Rio descriptions report an unsettled feeling.

SPICES.

Ginger is easier in the outside markets, and shippers report a little better demand. Singapore black pepper, on the other hand, is firmer. Trade, locally, in spices is naturally quiet at this season.

TEAS.

The feature of the tea market this week is the advance in Japan teas in the primary market, prices being 2 to 3c. higher in consequence of the proposal of the United States Srnate to put a duty of 10c. per lb. on tea. This advance will cause some disappointment to wholesalers, who have bought Japan teas on standard at a limited price. Some business in Japan teas was done on the local market before the advance took place, but nothing is now being done from first hands. A small shipment of new season's Japan tea arrived on the Toronto market last week. The one or two wholesale houses which brought on Japan teas by the first steamer are quoting 28 to 35c. per lb. There have been a good many transactions in Ceylon teas of low and medium grades during the past week, and there has been a little doing in Indian growths, but other descriptions are neglected. The Ceylon teas arriving this week are not showing nearly as good quality as those which arrived a month ago, and advices from Colombo and London say that fine teas are becoming scarce. Bright, flavory Pekoes are practically unobtainable in Ceylon. A few China green teas were shipped to the United States this week, while some teas of the same description, which had been rejected by the tea inspectors in the United States, are being offered this week in Toronto.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS — Further orders for import have been placed during the week. Shipments arriving still show remarkably good quality for this time of the year. The market rules steady. Advices from Greece state that the crop is doing well and promises to be large with opening prices lower than those now obtaining.

VALENCIA RAISINS — There has been some inquiry during the week for spot goods, but there has not been much business done. The crop in Spain is backward, and, owing to the war, the production is likely to be light.

SULTANA RAISINS—Raisins in the country of production have been good, and an abundant crop is now thought to be assured. The crop is expected to be larger than that of last year.

FIGS—A letter from Smyrna states that the original estimate of a 9,000 ton yield is being still lowered, and it would appear we are likely to have a minimum record yield next season. Offers have been asked from the United States for important quantities, but no shipper is inclined to undertake any forward engagements. Damage done to the trees is due to the winter frosts, and, though the rains may improve the quality, it will not contribute to augment the crop.

PRUNES—There is very little doing, the higher prices of California prunes and the appearance of domestic green fruits having materially checked the demand. The Bosnia crop promises to be very large, and of good quality. The Servia production will be small.

We have put forth every effort to make the best Soap that can be made.

There is the best material in it.
There is brains used in its make-up.

That people are satisfied is the best guarantee of its worth. Surprise is known and used over all Canada—not in a small way, but universally used.

CALIFORNIA EVAPORATED FRUITS--There is little or nothing doing. Prices are much as before.

GREEN FRUITS.

The feature of the market this week is the practical commencement of the Canadian small fruits season. Canadian strawberries have begun to arrive in considerable quantities, and are in brisk demand. With a good shower of rain, the arrivals next week will likely be large. The price has fallen to from 10 to 12½c. per quart. Bananas are scarce, but, though the demand is good, prices are unchanged. The sale of pineapples this season is smaller than usual, due to the scarcity and high prices. Canadian apples are about done, some fancy red Spies selling this week at $7 per bbl. The orange trade is quieting down somewhat, as is usual at this season. There is still a considerable quantity of lemons of inferior keeping qualities on the maket, and prices remain about the same as last week. The scarcity of tomatoes noted last week is not nearly so marked, and prices have come down again to $2.75 to $3.50 for six-basket carriers.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The situation is unchanged. There is a brisk movement, with both supply and demand large. Prices are unchanged.

POTATOES—The feeling is decidedly weak. and prices for carload lots have dropped as low as 53 to 55c. per bag. The price asked on the street market ranges from 55 to 60c. per bag.

DRIED APPLES—There is nothing doing, a decidedly weak tone being manifest. From 2½ to 3½c. is quoted, according to quality.

EVAPORATED APPLES — There is little doing, with prices nominally at 9 to 9½c.

BEANS—The feeling in regard to hand-picked is firm, with prices steady at 95c. to $1. Opinion differs as to the value of ordinary beans, all the way from 60 to 80c. being noted. There is little movement at either figure, however.

HONEY—Little doing. Prices steady and unchanged.

VEGETABLES — There is now a brisk movement in all lines of green vegetables, as prices are about the minimum for most lines. Imported butter beans are off the market, and there will not likely be any more offering till the home product is put on the market. We quote: Rhubarb, 10 to 15c. per doz. bunches; onions, 12½c. per doz. bunches; lettuce, 15 to 25c. doz. bunches; radishes, 10 to 15c. doz. bunches; cabbage, new, per case, $1.65 to $1 75; per doz., 50 to 60c.; parsley, 15 to 20c. doz. bunches; cucumbers, Canadian, 40 to 60c per doz.; watercress, 15 to 20c. per doz. bunches; gardencress, 20 to 25c. per doz. bunches; spinach, 10 to 15c. per bush.; asparagus, 25 to 40c. per doz.; green peas, 75c. to $1 per bush.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Receipts of dairy have not been as large this week as last, but it is considered that this is largely due to country dealers holding back tubs for higher prices. The outlook, however, does not seem to warrant any advance, as, though local and shipping demands are good, they are not over the supply. The British market for creamery is too low for export at the present figure, so there is no prospect for higher prices in either creamery tubs or prints for some time to come. Dealers are now paying 11c. f.o.b. at country points for dairy tubs and prints, and from 14 to 14½c. for creamery tubs, and 15c. for creamery prints.

CHEESE — The feeling is somewhat steadier at the factories, where from 6¾c. to as high as 7⅛c. is asked. Prices ruling in Toronto are very close to 8c. per lb.

PROVISIONS.

Business in all meats is brisk. Though stocks of lard are light, it is considered that there will be enough to supply the demand. Long clear bacon and bacon pork are expected to fall short of demand, and are consequently firm in price. Quotations on plate beef have advanced 50c., now being $11 to $11.50.

The demand for fresh fish continues good. Steak cod are off the market. Frozen fish are not in demand, but prices are nominally unchanged. We quote as follows: Fresh salmon trout, 6c.; fresh whitefish, 6 to 6½c.; steak trout, 7c.; fresh pike, 5c. per lb.; fresh perch, 4c. per lb.; fresh herring, 3½c. to 4c. per lb.; Labrador herring, $5.50 per bbl. and $3 per half-bbl.; Digby herring, 55c. per bundle of five; split herring, $5 per bbl. and $2.75 to $3 per half-bbl.; boneless codfish, 3½ to 5c. per lb; pure cod, 6½ to 6¾c. per lb.; fresh water herring (heads off), $2.50 per keg; ciscoes, $1; haddies, 5½ to 6c. per lb.; fresh haddock, 5c. per lb.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—There has been a decided slump in wheat during the past week, red wheat declining 11 to 13c.; white wheat, 11 to 12c. and goose wheat, 14c. Quotations on cars outside are as follows: Wheat, red winter, 92 to 95c.; white winter, 90 to 92c.; goose, 90c. There is still a good deal of wheat and oats offered on the street market. Barley, oats, peas and rye have all declined 3 to 4c. this week. The street market is active, a good quantity of wheat and oats still being brought in. We quote as follows: White wheat, 92c.; red wheat, 94 to 98c.; goose wheat, 88c.; barley, 35 to 36c.; oats, 34 to 35c.; rye, 51c.; peas, 55c. No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat has declined 12c., now being quoted $1.26 Sarnia freights.

FLOUR—There is little doing, buyers only purchasing for actual requirements. Manitoba flour has declined 10 to 20c; Ontario flour, 25c. We quote: Manitoba patents, $6.60; Manitoba strong bakers', $6.10; Ontario patents, $5.45 to $5.50; straight roller, $5 to $5.10, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—There has been a decline of 20c. for standard rolled oats and oatmeal. Business is quiet. We quote: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $4.30 in bags and $4.40 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $3.50 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.75; split peas, $3.75; pot barley, $3.75.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES—There is a good demand from local tanners, and prices are firm. We quote: No. 1, 8½c.; No. 2, 7½c.; No. 3, 6½c.; cured, 9 to 9¼c.

CALFSKINS—An advance of 1c. per lb. is noted, but the prices are considered too high, and there is but a poor demand. We quote: No. 1 veal, 8 lb. and up, 10c. per lb.; No. 2, SHEEPSKINS—There is little doing. We quote at $1.15 to $1.35.

WOOL—The prices now paid are speculative, as there is nothing in the English or American market to warant the quotations. Unwashed is selling at 10 to 11c., and fleece at 16 to 17c.

SALT.

There is a good business being done. Liverpool salt is arriving in considerable quantities. We quote: Carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 65c. per sack; less than carload lots, $1.10 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells we quote: F.O.B., barrels, 75c.; sacks, 45c.

MARKET NOTES.

Sulphur matches are 25c. per case higher.

Cream of tartar has advanced 2s. per cwt.

Standard rolled oats and oatmeal are 20c. cheaper.

Fleece wool has advanced 1c., now being quoted at 17c.

Ginger is a little easier, while black pepper is firmer.

Japan tea is 2 to 3c. per lb. dearer in the primary market.

Manitoba flour has declined 10 to 20c.; Ontario flour, 25c.

Calfskins have advanced 1c. per lb., which price is considered too high by most buyers.

Canadian strawberries are now arriving in large quantities. The price is 10 to 12½c. for quart boxes.

Rutherford, Marshall & Co. report that receipts of butter have been large, but that their local and shipping trade has enabled them to keep well sold up.

Ontario wheat has declined 11 to 14c. during the past week; barley, oats, peas and rye from 3 to 4c. No. 1 Manitoba hard wheat has declined 12c.

D. Gunn, Bros. & Co. have completed arrangements to buy the usual quantity of dairy butter in tubs. They would be glad to hear from any persons holding, stating the amount held.

The Dawson Commission Co., Limited, this week sold six barrels of especially fancy red spies at from $6.50 to $7 per bbl. Two of the barrels were considered exceptionally fine looking for this season of the year.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, June 9, 1898.

GROCERIES.

THERE has been a fair volume of trade in groceries during the past week, and the general firmness in values is expected to lead to a still better distributive movement. All leading staples are strong in tone, and none more so than sugar, and surprise is continually expressed that there has not been an advance in its price ere this. Molasses continue stiff, and syrups, while quiet, are firmly held. Tea is firm, with supply in first hands very light; and spices and coffee also are strong. Canned goods of all sorts are unchanged as to price, but meats are very stiff at the late advance. Dried fruits also are pointing upward abroad, though there has been no change in local prices.

SUGAR.

The strong tone of the outside sugar markets is well maintained, in fact, the raw cane article has probably never been in a stronger position than it is at present. Beet has fluctuated a fraction or so in London, but cane rules steady there, and in New York is very stiff. Cables from London said that cane was steady, but with little doing at 12s. 9d. for Java, and 11s. 3d. for fair refining. Beet was rather easier, prices sagging off ¾d. at 9s. 9d. for present, and 9s. 9¾d. for next month's delivery. Locally, the refiners appear to be unable to agree about an advance in price, for, while one, the other week, advanced prices on yellows, the other, this week, worked their lowest grade goods down 1-16 of a cent. The fact has not led to any change in the local jobbing range, which we quote as before. Demand is steadily improving, and as soon as the preserving season sets in an active trade is anticipated.

SYRUPS.

There has been no alteration in the syrup market, but offerings are light, and prices quite firm, nothing under 2½c. being obtainable at the refinery.

MOLASSES.

A rather unsettled condition of affairs is reported from Barbadoes in molasses this week, but it is not believed that the local situation can be very seriously affected now, one way or the other. Montreal importers have bought in the vicinity of 4,000 puncheons, which will cost all the way from 28 to 28½c. to them net cash on the wharf. They are likely to hold values firm, and all the more so as it is calculated that there only remains about 3,000 puncheons for sale on the Islands.

CANNED GOODS.

The canned goods market has been somewhat quieter this week, the demand being principally for small lots, but the undertone is firm, and prices are fully maintained on all descriptions. As noted last week, canned meats are very firm at the advance already recorded.

TEAS.

There has been little change in the tea market during the week, business in a large way being confined to narrow limits, for the reason that there is no stock to trade in, while the distributive enquiry is only of a quiet character.

SPICES.

The news all indicates strength outside, but there is no change on spot, and trading is very light.

COFFEE.

Outside markets rule quite firm on coffee, but there is little doing on spot.

RICE.

The decline in the price of breadstuffs has not had any influence on the rice market, values being held very firm at the recent advances.

DRIED FRUIT.

There has been some further trading in carload lots of California raisins, but prices show no change.

Valencia raisins are moving in a small way because there is very little stock to trade in. What is here consists principally of off-stalk fruit.

Local jobbers have done little or nothing yet for importation in cnrrants. Locally, business is quiet and values are firm.

There has been a good enquiry for California prunes, but European sorts are almost off the market.

Figs are steady and dates are unchanged, and the same can be said of evaporated fruit.

NUTS.

Advices from abroad continue strong in regard to nuts, especially filberts and almonds. There is nothing special to report locally.

GREEN FRUIT.

The chief feature of the week has been the auction sales of southern strawberries. Two carloads were put through Tuesday under the hammer, strawberries realizing 11 to 15c., according to grade, and pineapples the same range. The warmer weather has induced a somewhat better demand for oranges and lemons, but there has been no change in prices, and we quote the former at $2 to $3.25 and the latter at $1 to $3.50, according to grade.

DRIED APPLES.

Both dried and evaporated apples are unaltered.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There was no change in the situation of the egg market. The demand today for small lots, to fill actual wants, was better, and a fairly active trade was done on the basis of 9 to 10c per doz.

BEANS — Business in beans continues quiet, but prices are fairly well maintained at $1 for primes and at $1.10 to $1.15. for choice hand-picked per bushel.

HONEY—The market for honey is exceedingly quiet, there being little or no demand at present, and prices are nominal. We quote : White clover comb, 11c. to 12c. ; dark do., 8 to 10c.; white strained, 6c. to 7c., and dark, 4 to 5c.

MAPLE PRODUCT—In maple product the feeling is steady, but the movement is small at this season. We quote : Syrup in wood, 4½ to 4¾c. per lb., and in tins at 45 to 50c., as to size. Sugar, 6 to 6¼c. per lb.

TALLOW—Rules quiet at 1½ to 1¾c. for rough and 3 to 3¼c. for refined.

POTATOES—Steady at 75c. on track.

HOPS — Dull at 12 to 14c. for good to choice, and 8 to 10c. for yearlings.

PROVISIONS.

There has been an improvement in the demand for provisions, especially for smoked meats, and a more active trade was done at steady prices all round. We quote: Canadian pork, $16 to $16.50 per barrel ; pure Canadian lard, in pails, at 8½c. to 8¾c. ; and compound refined at 5½c. to 5¾c. per lb.; hams, 11½c. to 12c.; and bacon, 12c. per lb.

FLOUR, GRAIN, ETC.

The feature of the grain market is the demand from foreign buyers for wheat, and sales aggregating 250,000 bushels of No. 1 hard Manitoba were made at prices equal to $1.22 per bushel, afloat Fort William, which figure shows a decline of 10c. per bushel within the past two weeks. There were also sales of 25,000 bushels of Ontario red at 98c. Oats were weak and prices ½c. per bushel lower at 35½ to 36c. afloat. Other coarse grains are neglected and prices are difficult to quote.

There is no actual change in the situation of the flour market. The tone is easier, in sympathy with the sharp decline in wheat values, but, as the demand for flour is of a very limited character just now, no change in prices has been made. We quote as follows: Winter wheat patents, $6 to $6.15; straight rollers, $5.50 to $5.75; bags, $2.60 to $2.75; Manitoba patents, $6.90, and strong bakers', $6.50; extra, in bags, $2.40 to $2.50.

There is still a good demand for feed, and an active business is doing in this line at steady prices. We quote as follows: Ontario winter wheat bran, $13.50 to $14; shorts, $16 per ton in bulk; Manitoba bran, $14; shorts, $16, and moullie, $17 to $18 per ton, including bags.

The demand for oatmeal is slow and the market is dull, with prices nominally quoted at $4.30 per barrel and at $2.10 per bag for rolled oats.

A fairly active trade continues to be done in baled hay, but the market is in an unsatisfactory condition just now owing to the cutting in prices on the part of some dealers. However, No. 1 is still quoted at $10, and and No. 2 at $8 to $8.50 per ton, in car lots.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

The cheese market continues mixed, and the facts of the situation are conflicting. A rather steadier feeling is apparent, and it has been supplemented by the payment of rather higher prices in the country, purchases lately at country boards establishing this fact. On the other hand, exporters who cabled on the basis of the higher prices paid cannot elicit any orders, and the inference is that some buyers on the other side were not prepared to follow the rise. Based on country purchases the market should be a 7¼c. one at the least for finest western makes, but it is not, as 7⅛c. is considered an extreme price and 7c. is the ruling bid. In eastern makes 6½ to 6¾c. is the range.

Butter ruled steady at 16 to 16¼c. for creamery, and exporters are willing to do business on this basis, but find it difficult to get the right quality.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Advices from Virginia state that peanuts are 5c. higher, and that sellers are firm at the rise.

Advices from Barbadoes state that there is scarcely 2,000 to 3,000 puncheons left for sale there.

There has been an advance of 25c. on the entire list of Eddy's matches, except in the case of parlor goods.

One of the refiners is offering low grade yellows 1-16c. cheaper, but the jobbing range has not been altered.

As a result of the rise in flour French imported Vermicelli would cost 1c. per pound more to import than it did in the spring.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., June 1, 1898.

THE week has been a quiet one. Flour tends easier. Throughout the country everything is looking fine, vegetation being more advanced than usual at this season. In the city, quite an active business is looked for, both the C.P.R. and I.C.R. intending to build large elevators. In spice, prices are rather easier. This is, perhaps, the more noticed in ginger, though pepper has also been shaded. Cream of tartar, while lower than when present stocks were bought, is higher than last week. A number of our dealers bought quite freely at the lowest figures. In rice, prices are still high, with the Canadian mills able to follow rather behind the English advance to get the business and still make a profit.

OIL—The movement is light. In this, prices are firm, tending rather higher. Lubricating oils have not had as large a sale as usual, and the rest of the season is apt to even show poorer results. Burning oil shows but a small movement.

SALT—This is always quite an interesting feature in our market, as so much English coarse salt is used. Stocks here are not large, and a small cargo about due is said to be quite largely sold to arrive. There is another cargo afloat for here. Prices are firm. In fine salt there is a good sale. We quote: Liverpool coarse, 45 to 48c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 to $2.60 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30; mineral rock salt, 60c. to $1.

CANNED GOODS—There is little to report. In vegetables, while some dealers are short, there is enough in the market to go round, and it is doubtful if there is much or any further advance. In fruits, there is a fair sale, particularly in peaches and pineapples. In strawberries and raspberries new goods have been quoted. Prices are rather lower than last year. In pumpkins there is quite a sale noted. Gallon apples have but a fair demand, and the price tends to lessen sales. In condensed milk and coffee little is doing. Oysters show a fair movement. Salmon are dull; our dealers have fair stocks, and prospects of large profits are slight.

GREEN FRUIT—Whatever we say of other lines at this season, this is always an active one. Oranges have a good sale, the grades being Messinas and California seedlings. Prices show no change. Lemons would be higher, but for the reason that a good deal of the stock here is poor, so that the market at present shows quite a range. Bananas during the week have been scarce, there being not enough to supply the demand, but this state of affairs is not likely to last long. There is little change in price. Strawberries are lower; stock arriving is rather soft. In pineapples, price is quoted rather higher owing to improved quality. Florida fruit is being offered. In rhubarb the market is rather overstocked; native coming in freely, and sales are freely made at 1c. per lb.

DRIED FRUIT—There is not much doing. A fair sale continues for apricots, peaches and prunes at rather advanced prices. Raisins are very dull. A few seeded are being sold. Currants are in light stock, but limited sale. Some 2-crown California and seedless consigned here were shipped back to the United States, there being no sale here for those grades. Dates and figs move slowly at even prices. Peanuts are up ¼c. and very firm. In onions there is a fair sale, but little change. The prospects for Canadian is a large crop, but should the Klondyke demand be as it was for the old it will help to keep up prices.

SUGAR—While prices continue firm, and in some quarters are quoted rather higher, there is little change here. Quite a large quantity of foreign sugar has arrived during the week, the most for a long time. It came from New York. It is in bags, it is a refined sugar and a fair color. It will be sold at about the same price as Canadian of the same color.

MOLASSES—Prices are still high, and likely to rule so, but dealers are not sharp buyers at present prices, at least, in Porto Rico. A cargo offered by a New York house, this week, did not find a buyer. Offers were made shading the price, but the sellers were firm. The prospects of getting Barbadoes to supply needs affect the upward movement. The market was quite relieved this week by the arrival of the West India steamer with 800 casks Barbadoes, 100 bbls. Trinidad, beside small quantities of Antigua, St. Croix, and St. Kitts.

DAIRY PRODUCE—In butter, some little Canadian continues to arrive, owing to the low price at which a fair article is offered. Creamery has little call, as dairy is now good and dealers will not pay the difference in price, except for small quantities for particular trade. In fact, our creameries ask too much for their butter, and must come down if large business is to be done. As the output is increasing, owing to increased number of creameries, the competion will no doubt soon fix the price. In cheese, there is an unusual absence of Canadian new cheese. This is caused by the dull market, and the fact that quite a stock of old is still held. Our own factories will soon be in the market with new cheese ; in fact, some are now here. Eggs hold their price. Both receipts and demand are light.

FISH—Fresh fish have been less active during the week. Catch of shad has been light, and price rather higher. In salmon the catch is still small here, but fair supplies are received from the north. They are largely reshipped to Boston. Price there, as here, is rather lower. While a few Gaspereaux continue to be caught the season is late. Dry cod is scarce; receipts of new are late, light and small, so prices are quite high with medium selling about the same as large. In pollock the price is easier with light sale. Smoked herring dull. Pickled, quiet. A few Shelborn and Canso are still offered. We quote : Large cod, $3.50 to $3.75 ; medium, $3.50 to $3.60 ; pollock, $1.50 to $1.75; smoked herring, 7 to 8c.; pickled Shelborn, ½-bbls, $2 to $2.50; bbls., $3.75 to $4; Canso, bbls., $4.25 to $4.50; fresh salmon, 12 to 13c.; shad, 10 to 12c.; Gaspereaux, 40c. per 100.

PROVISIONS—Packers of beef and pork are inclined to shade prices to push business, which has been dull; but dealers still have quite a stock bought at lower prices, and sale is slow. In beef, Boston is underselling western packers. In both smoked meat and lards demand is quiet.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL — There is a very light business in all lines except cornmeal, which, owing to high price of oats and feed, continues to have large sale. Flour is dull, particularly Manitoba grades, prices of which are much higher in proportion than Ontario. Stocks of this grade are quite large; larger than that of Ontario. For all grades prices are rather lower and holders are inclined to sell, but sales are very light. Oatmeal continues to be sold at below millers' prices, and business is dull at that. Oats are rather easier, with but fair business. Beans have a limited demand, and it is hard to maintain prices. Business in seed is about over. We quote : Manitoba flour, $7.25 to $7.50; best Ontario, $6.25 to $6.50 ; medium, $6.00 to $6.25 ; oatmeal, $4.50 to $4.60 ; cornmeal, $2.30 ; middlings, $20 to $22 ; bran, $18 to $19 ; oats, 42 to 48c.; hand-picked beans, $1.15 to $1.20 ; prime, $1 to $1.10 ; yellow eye beans, $1.75; split peas, $3.80 to $3.90; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $3.50 to $3.75; hay, $8.75 to $9.00; timothy seed, American, $1.75 to $2.15 ; do., Canadian, $2 to $2.40; mammoth clover, 7 to 7½c.; alsike, 7¾ to 8½c.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Among the imports this week were 50 cars of corn for one of our local millers.

W. Frank Hatheway, T. J. McPherson, F. L. Potts, J. S. Armstrong and George Calwell have been appointed a committee to arrange for the annual grocers' picnic, to be held the last week in July.

Halifax will add $50,000 dollars to the $75,000 voted by the Dominion Government to build an elevator there.

The advance in flour has only just begun to effect the price of bread here. Price is now 8c. per loaf, being an advance of 1c.

Mr. S. S. Arnold, representing W. G. Dunn & Co., mustard manufacturers, Hamilton, Ont., called on THE GROCER this week.

The ss. Prince Rupert is now making daily trips to Digby. Anyone on pleasure bent, or, in fact, on busines, who can include this trip, should not fail to do so.

The new factory of The Ossekeag Stamping Co is now in full running order. The grade of stamped tinware and enamelled ware being turned out is pronounced excellent. The company received two cars of tin last week.

One trip of the American boat this week brought 525 bags of sugar and the next trip 125 bags. Large shipments of salmon are now going forward by these boats—about 100 cases per trip.

Our facilities for handling grain during the coming winter will be much better than ever. The need was much felt during the past season, as much business had to be refused. It is expected to have two new elevators. One is being built by the Intercolonial and another by the Canadian Pacific railway. The latter will be more than twice the size of the one now here, having a capacity of 750,000 bushels.

TRADE CHAT.

GOOD ADVICE AND ITS RESULTS.

A WICHITA traveling man, according to the Eagle, of that place, about a year ago, was asked by a clerk in a shoe store to get him a job traveling. The young man was told to write in to the "house." He did, and the proprietor asked the traveling man about the young fellow, and was told that he might make a good man. The house told the young man to begin. The young man came to the old traveling salesman and asked how he should begin, and received this advice :

"Know nothing but shoes. Talk nothing but shoes. Never go into a store without having your pockets full of shoes. Take an old boot and carry it under your arm. Set it up on the washstand, and when you go to bed fall asleep studying that boot. Look at that boot the minute you wake up in the morning. When you go into a store, never ask a merchant if he will buy. Never induce him to say 'No' at the start. Show him your goods and talk shoes."

Well, the young fellow started out. Pretty soon a friend of the old traveling man said :

"Your house has got the biggest knock-kneed idiot on the road that ever struck the State. Why, the darn fool lugs an old boot around with him, and you can't get anything but shoes out of him. He is a '98 chainless idiot, that fellow is. Why don't you get the house to call him in ?"

But at the end of the first year the young man's work was sized up by the house, and they wanted to give him a banquet. He had not only earned his salary, but $2,200 in commissions in addition.

AN EXPLANATION.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER,—My attention has been called to an article in your paper in which you criticize the action of the Tourist Association of this city in having one of its pamphlets printed in the United States.

I feel that it is only necessary to give you the facts of the case in order that you may correct the wrong impression which has doubtless been created by this statement going abroad without explanation. The facts of the matter are these :

The pamphlet in question was specially prepared for distribution at the "Sportsmen's Fair" held in Boston during March. It was the desire of every member of the committee to have the work done here, but when estimates were submitted it was found that to have the work done here and pay the duty necessary in order to distribute the books on the American side that it would cost at least $150 more than if the work was done in the United States.

In addition to this, it was somewhat a question whether the work could be finished in time if done here, and it was absolutely essential that they should be ready when the Fair opened ; the main reason, however, being that of expense.

I may further say that we have now in press another much more elaborate book, mainly for distribution on this side of the line, and this, I am happy to inform you, is being printed in one of our city offices.

CHARLES D. SHAW.

Sec. New Brunswick Tourist Association.

TRADE IN OTHER COUNTRIES THAN OUR OWN.

WHY CANE SUGAR IS DEAR.

THE great advance in cane sugar is, of course, partly due to the disturbance in Cuba, to the partial failure of the Jaggery crop in India, and perhaps to the blockade of Manila ; but, the diversion of cane sugar to other countries rather than to England has, perhaps, never been so marked as now. After the many years of depression, however, which have at times threatened to imperil the cane industry, no one will begrudge the return of prices which are once again remunerative, and which are the outcome of an improved demand and shortened supply.—Produce Markets' Review.

STOCK OF SALMON IN "FLATS."

After the somewhat unusual activity of the two preceding weeks, it is not surprising that the canned goods trade is somewhat quieter. The advance, however, in many articles, particularly fruit, has been well maintained and an average amount of business has been done. A good trade has been done in the finer grades of salmon at full prices, but the commoner packs have been somewhat neglected, which, in a great measure, accounts for the quieter feeling of the entire trade. It is now pretty evident that the stock of really fine quality salmon, in flat tins, will be barely sufficient for all requirements until the arrival of the new pack, and it is not improbable that an advance in price for this description may be soon established. Salmon, which hitherto has been regarded as an article of luxury, will now compare favorably with other cheap articles of food, and the consumption of the large stock, which existed at the commencement of the season, at the present rate is an evidence that this fact is beginning to tell.—Produce Markets' Review, May 28.

SULTANA RAISINS IN LIVERPOOL.

Liverpool mail advices to May 19, received in New York, report a quiet and nominal market for Sultana raisins. Arrivals from Smyrna, from the commencement of the season, to May 17, were 584,021 packages as compared with 601,981 packages for the corresponding time the previous season.

THE SULTANA YIELD.

The market for Sultanas is quiet, but steady, and there seems to be no inclination on the part of holders to encourage more business at reduced prices. As is usually the case at this time of year, the reports of the coming crops vary considerably, and some exceedingly gloomy prospects are foretold by one or two of the largest Smyrna merchants, who estimate the crop at 22,000 to 25,000 tons. Considering that the past season's high prices have been maintained on a crop of over 30,000 tons, it is to be hoped that these low estimates may prove to be wrong. There has probably never been a year when the wholesale and retail traders in the article have been worse paid for the work of distribution, and a further advance of prices to a higher level would certainly not improve matters.—Produce Markets' Review.

SALES OF "CLOVER LEAF" SALMON.

Notwithstanding the rather demoralized condition of the canned salmon market, it is reported that fancy brands of Columbia River hold their own, and that consumption is increasing. Packers of "Clover Leaf" report that sales of that brand last year were 50 per cent. larger than in 1896, and that to June 1, this year, the sales were 25 per cent. greater than for the corresponding period a year ago.

CHICAGO BUYING PRUNES.

Owing to the limited offerings and comparatively high prices of prunes on the Coast, it is reported that Western buyers are making inquiries in the New York market with a view to purchasing certain sizes needed to cover immediate requirements of consumption. According to The New York Journal of Commerce, a letter from San Jose states that Chicago parties have been trying to buy 60's to 70's in bags there, but were unable to get their orders filled.

THE FROZEN MILK TRADE.

According to information received, frozen milk has become quite an important article of trade in Europe. The milk is frozen in different sized bricks, and in this way it is said its purity and freshness are insured. The Belgian Government, it is reported, intends to increase the trade at an annual outlay of $50,000. In Copenhagen, the capital or Denmark, a company has been formed and arrangements completed to undertake the exportation of frozen milk extensively.

ARRIVAL OF NEW JAPAN TEA.

The San Francisco Bulletin, of a recent date, says : "The steamer Tacoma arrived at Tacoma on the 16th from Hong Kong with 200 chests of new crop Japan tea, the first received at that port this season. It was in transit overland, and has already gone forward. The first lot of new tea from Japan arrived at this port on the same date by the Doric, and went through to New York. The first consignment by the Canadian route arrived at Vancouver on the 19th. The first steamer with new tea for the Oregon route is now 22 days out from Hong Kong for Portland, and will be due next week. The next tea steamer due on the Sound will be the Victoria, now 14 days out from Hong Kong. There are two steamers on the way to Vancouver from Hong Kong, but they are out only 7 and 3 days, respectively. The ultimate destination of the last-named is Tacoma. The big steamer Arizona is now at Hong Kong loading for Tacoma via Vancouver. The China will be due here on Saturday from Hong Kong."

CALIFORNIA RAISINS SCARCE.

Advices from San Francisco to May 28 state that stocks of sound loose muscatel raisins on first crop are scarce and held firmly, but that the movement is rather light. Seeders are said to be buying in a speculative way. In this connection The California Fruit Grower says: "The increase in the number and capacity of the seeding plants indicates that the output of seeded raisins the coming season will be largely in excess of the quantity offered from the crop of 1898. The low price at which these popular goods will be offered will no doubt induce heavy buying when the season opens. The growing crop promises well at this time."

MOLASSES AT CIENFUEGOS.

It was stated that between 10,000 and 20,000 hogsheads of molasses were held at Cienfuegos, Cuba, and, owing to the probabilities of that port being taken by the United States during the war and the supplies held there coming on this market, buyers of low grade molasses were disposed to hold back awaiting developments.

CANNED GOODS FOR FUTURE DELIVERY.

Early in January an active demand set in for canned goods for future delivery, undoubtedly stimulated by the general improvement in the trade and commerce of the country, the relegation of the currency question to the future (at least, for three years), and to the low prices at which jobbers were willing to make contracts.

The aggregate of business since Jan. 1 on contracts exceeds that of any previous year, and probably covers the bulk of the probable pack of tomatoes, corn, New York State peas, asparagus, Maine succotash, and lobster. "We have sold up to the last limit of our probable pack," is the message packers are sending their brokers.

The jobbers, in turn, have made contracts with retailers with a freedom never before known ; so that when deliveries are made in the fall, it is probable that stocks left in the hands of jobbers will be exceedingly light.—American Grocer.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, June 6, 1898.

WHEAT has been "wobbly" all week and closed at $1.20 in store Fort William. It dropped as low as $1.18 on Thursday, and then gained Friday afternoon. There is really nothing doing in wheat here, as all of last season's crop is handled. Reports as to area and condition of present crop are now coming in freely, and though the amount per acre will perhaps be curtailed in some districts owing to lack of rain ten days ago, everything now points to a large crop. The rain came in with June and seems likely to continue. The country can stand a general steady rain for a week longer at least. Flour has not altered in price, nor is it likely to do so. Not having advanced in proportion to the price in wheat, it will not be so much affected by the drop in that article.

Early Saturday morning, the spice and vinegar mills of The Dyson, Gibson Co. were burned. It is not yet known to what extent this will cripple operations for the season, but losses was fully covered by insurance. They were extensive manufacturers of baking powder, pickles, sauces, extracts, etc., all of which sold under the "White Star" brand.

There is really very little news to report this week. Business continues good; in fact, dealers state that it is unusually good for the season, as June is generally a quiet month.

BUTTER—The supply of creamery is now fairly good, and will be largely increased this week owing to grass being more plentiful. The quality so far is good and will improve. Creamery is 16½c. point of shipment, and may drop to 16c. in sympathy with eastern markets, though the bulk of Manitoba make will be sent west. Dairy butter is in rather a peculiar position. It is extremely high, considered in connection with the price of creamery, and there seems to be no reason, for beyond the fact that the offerings have been small and it has all been consumed by local trade. Dealers are paying 14c. point of shipment.

CHEESE—The new cheese offering is of very fine quality. About 30 factories are operating, and the supply is increasing. So far, a good price has been maintained. All purchases on Saturday were made at 8 to 8½c. point of shipment.

EGGS—Manitoba hens have evidently been tired all spring, as the supply of home eggs has not increased as expected. Offerings are larger than last week, but still the supply is not equal to the demand for pickling purposes; 10c. (Winnipeg) is the price paid all week, and it is not likely to alter in the next three or four days.

CURED MEATS—The market here is a little easier, owing to decline in prices on the American side. There is no drop, however, nor is there likely to be any. Hams, 12c., breakfast bacon, 12c.; long clear smoked, 9½ to 10c.; long clear dry salt, 9½c.; American short clear, 9c.

FLOUR—Market steady; patents, $3.30; strong bakers, $3.10; 2nd bakers', $2.75; XXXX, $1.70.

CEREALS—Market firm and unchanged. Rolled oats, $2.20 to $2.35 per sack.

GREEN FRUIT—Market brisk. New apricots have arrived and are selling at $2.75 to $3.25 for the 4-basket crate. Strawberries were scarce on the market all the week, but Saturday a large shipment was received from Hood River, Oregon, said to be the finest berries ever seen on this market. The prices range from $3.50 to $4, according to condition of fruit. Hood River cherries are also on the market and fine sample; price $1.50 for the 10-lb. boxes. Bananas were short during the week, stocks arriving last Saturday being too soft for re-shipment. New stocks arrived Saturday, and are selling at $2 to $2.50 per bunch. All staple fruits as oranges, lemons, and the like remain without change. Home-grown pie plant, lettuce, radishes, asparagus and onions are coming in freely. Tomatoes are out of market, all late shipments being too soft they have been discontinued for the present.

The general market for groceries is entirely without change, and all prices given in the "prices current" hold good here at present. There will possibly be a little move in some lines next week.

BEES BY POST.

In pursuance of an agreement between the postal authorities of the United States and Great Britain, Postmaster Van Cott has been notified that samples of liquids, live bees, fatty substances, powders and fragile substances may hereafter be admitted to the mails exchanged between the two countries. It is stipulated, however, says an exchange, that spirituous liquors and articles (including medicines, confections and soaps) which contain spirits, or into the manufacture of which spirits—including naphtha or methylic alcohol—have entered, are excluded from the mails for the reason that they are liable to customs duties in Great Britain.

GOING INTO SPECIALTIES.

O. Legendre, who has been carrying on a retail business at 253 Duluth avenue, Montreal, has sold out to A. Leclair, a son of C. Leclair, who is also a Montreal merchant. Mr. Legendre thinks there is more money in handling special lines, and is now getting agencies from manufacturers and merchants, and will sell to the retail trade in Quebec and Maritime Provinces.

Laporte, Martin & Cie. are daily expecting new samples of 1898 crop Japan teas.

Fraser river salmon at close figures can be had from Messrs. Laporte, Martin & Cie., who have a good supply on hand.

"Although price of canned apples is very firm," say Laporte, Martin & Cie, "we can quote extremely low figures for them. We have a large quantity of the best-known brands."

A COMMISSION FIRM ASSIGNS.

Lightbound, Ralston & Co., brokers and commission merchants, St. John street, Montreal, have assigned, at the demand of Alfred Powis, tea broker, Hamilton, Ont. Mr. Ralston, the sole partner in the firm, has been ill for some time and unable to devote his attention to business, and there is general sympathy for him among his confreres, the other brokers. An assignee is now engaged in an examination of the books, and it is believed that the liabilities will be light. The liabilities total about $11,000, of which about $3,500 is secured. The principal unsecured creditors are: Estate P. Robertson, $4,031; Alfred Powis, Hamilton, $403; John Murphy & Co., $333.

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS.

The secret of success is never far to seek in a business career, because however many disguises it may wear at different times, it is always to be recognized as the old fashioned hard work. Broadly speaking, the successful business man may be described as the man who always wanted success so much that he was willing to exert himself to the utmost for it, while the man who has failed to distinguish himself may be described as one who never wanted worldly success enough to practise self-denial in order to get it.

Here's to the man who wants!—Merchants' Review.

UNIQUE SIGNS.

A sign in a New England college town some years ago, read about like this:

"JOHN JONES, HATS AND GROCERIES."

There was an old New England sign, or there was said to be one which read thus:

"TESTAMENTS, TAR, AND TREACLE, GODLY BOOKS AND GIMLETS."

And yet these were not in any sense of the term "department stores." No stretch of reasoning can make them such. They did not monopolize trade, they were a "necessity," not a monopolistic outgrowth. —N.E. Grocer.

BACK FROM EUROPE.

Mr. Charles Chaput, of Chaput, Fils & Cie., wholesale grocers, Montreal, has returned from an extended trip through Europe. An interesting interview which THE CANADIAN GROCER had with him has been unadvoidably crowded out. It will appear next week.

Bonneville & Sons, of Montreal, who manufacture the Silverine stove polish, are looking for selling agents in Toronto, St. John, N.B., Halifax, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

BRITISH TEA IN NORTH AMERICA.

GOW, WILSON & STANTON, of London, in their tea report of May 20, say :

"The figures given below would at first sight appear to indicate a check in the consumption of British grown tea in North America ; but they do not warrant such a supposition, because, as mentioned in our circular of March 26, 1897, the heavy import during the first quarter of that year, was mainly caused by the fear of an alteration in the tea duty.

"Almost all the increase which then occurred in Indian tea was lost during the remaining three quarters, the total import for the year being 5,663,244 lb., against 5,258,773 in 1896 ; the quantity of Ceylon tea was 5,698,596 lb., in 1897, and 4,364,510 lb., in 1896, the increase in 1897, being mainly contributed during the first quarter.

STRAINED THE JAR.

A little old woman with a sharp nose and sharper tongue was in the country grocery store buying supplies. Among other things she brought in from her cart was a battle-scarred jug, which she ordered to be filled with treacle.

At last, when the purchases were completed, she began looking over the account, item by item, before paying.

"What's this?" she exclaimed. "You have charged me for two gallons and a half of treacle."

"Yes, ma'am."

"But that jug holds only two gallons."

"You must be mistaken. I measured the treacle carefully, and it took two gallons and a half to fill it."

"Well," said the old woman with a sigh, "I don't so much mind having to pay for the treacle, but I do object to having the jar strained by your putting in a half a gallon more than it will hold."—Strand Magazine.

A whole string of Owls

is not half so wise

as the grocer who sells . . .

Ceylon and Indian Teas

He is wise because:

1st. He buys the best teas.

2nd He buys the most economical teas.

3rd. He buys the teas his customers want.

4th. He is building up a good trade in teas, which his competitor who sells the cheap, trashy, uncleanly-made teas of China and Japan never can do.

Are you wise?

YOUNG & SMYLIE

Established 1845. BROOKLYN, N.Y.

Salt that Pays

Some dealers say there is no money in handling salt. Our best customers tell a different story. Almost everything depends on the way it is handled.

How do they manage it?

First of all they buy it right—they send us their orders knowing that we carry large stocks of first-class salt, and that we ship promptly by any line of rail or by water. On arrival it is stored in a clean, dry place, and treated with the care that all good merchandise deserves. It is bought right—stored right—and as a result—sold right.

Coleman's Table and Dairy Salt

This pays the dealer a much better profit than common barrel salt, and by keeping it to the front, sales may be largely increased. Many farmers are using the cheapest salt they can buy for butter, simply because the grocer has never urged them to use anything better.

No time like the present

"June butter" is supposed to be the best of the year. It is for dealers to see that their customers use the best salt. Get a stock of fifty and twenty pound sacks of Coleman's Butter Salt, display it nicely, and it will be found a quick and profitable seller. We send attractive advertising matter in each car.

To complete the carload

We can supply fine or coarse salt in barrels, bags, or bulk—any assortment you may require.

TALK THAT TALKS.

EVERYBODY who knows the grocery trade of St. John, knows that W. A. Magee has one of the handsomest retail grocery establishments in the city, and that his trade is of a character that will not tolerate poor goods. Here is a word from Mr. Magee:

ST. JOHN. April 6th, 1898.

We carry 28 lines of Biscuits manufactured by the Queen Biscuit Co., and the BOSS LUNCH MILK BISCUIT is the quickest seller of them all. All their goods give excellent satisfaction to our customers. The sales of the BOSS LUNCH MILK BISCUIT have greatly increased with us. We think most highly of them.

W. A. MAGEE.

Mr. Magee believes in patronizing lower province industries if they produce good goods. So do you all. Give us a chance to prove our claim that BOSS LUNCH MILK BISCUIT, of which we are the sole manufacturers in Canada, possesses the same unsurpassed qualities that have sent the annual production in the United States up to 30,000,000 lbs.

We have given you just one testimonial. We could fill pages with them, from pleased customers as well as from merchants.

Remember—A delicious Lunch Biscuit at a popular price. Only the best materials go into our goods.

MUSTARD PURE AND MUSTARD IMPURE.

By Prof. F. H. Borradaile, State Analyst of Michigan.

MUSTARD, as originally used by our Saxon forefathers, was mixed with honey, vinegar and wine as a condiment. The custom of mixing the pounded seed with wine, must or vinegar gave rise to the name, from the Latin Mustum, must or unfermented grape juice.

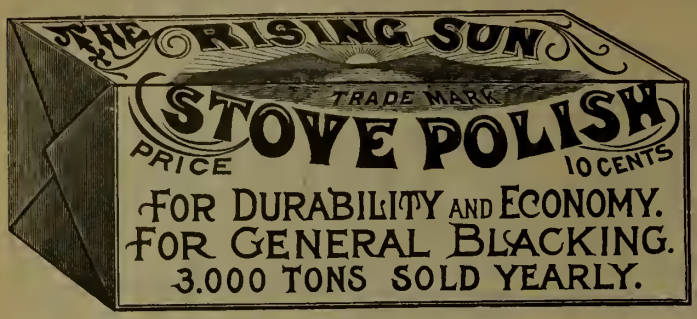
The ordinary mustard species are the black, white, and the wild mustard or Charlock. The black and white are largely cultivated in Europe and America. The seed of the wild mustard or Charlock is inferior, but yields a good burning oil; all of the species yield oil fit for lamps or for use as foods. The leaves of various mustards form excellent salads. "The tree which grew from a grain of mustard seed," mentioned in Luke xiii, 19, was probably the true black mustard, which attains in Palestine a height of ten to fifteen feet. The natural plant bears a bright yellow oblong pod, which terminates in a sword-shaped and compressed beak, containing one row of seeds. The black mustard also grows wild in fields and by waysides in the Middle and Southern States, probably escaped from cultivated fields where seed brought from Europe has been sown; the seeds are of a brownish black.

The white mustard is a habitat of nearly the same region as the black; and is an annual plant having divergent pods covered with stiff hairs; seeds yellowish.

Black mustard is preferred to white because it is more powerful, but there is more difficulty in removing the skin of its seed than that of the white, which is, therefore, often preferred.

In England, where the best quality is grown, it is cultivated on the alluvial lands of the level eastern countries; Wishbeach, in Cambridgeshire, is the great mustard market in England.

White mustard is often grown in gardens and forced in hot-houses to be used in the seed leaf as a small salad, having a pleasant pungency. It is also sometimes sown for feeding sheep when turnip or rape has failed, being of very rapid growth, although inferior in the quality of the crop. The wild mustard, or Charlock, is distinguished by turgid or knotty pods with many angles. It is a most troublesome weed. Its seeds are said to have yielded the original Durham mustard, and are still gathered in England for mixing with the cultivated species.



The manufacture of mustard, as it was originally carried on in England, and, as it is still carried on in some parts of the world, consisted in simply grinding the seed into a very fine meal. A false taste, however, arose for having an improved color, and the flour or farina of mustard was introduced, in which only the interior portion of the seed is used, the husk being separated as the bran is from wheaten flour. This causes a great loss of flavor, as the strongest and most active principle of the seed exists as a pungent body in the husk. The manufacture, as carried on at the present time, consists in crushing both the white and black seeds between rollers, and then pounding in large mortars; the pounded seeds are then sifted. It was formerly contended that the addition of wheat flour, or other inert matter, was a necessity to give the ground mustard keeping qualities, and make the condiment palatable by softening its natural acridity. But the most reputable manufacturers have demonstrated the fallacy of this contention by producing absolutely pure mustard, which has received public acceptance and appreciation.

The mustard of the market, when pure and unadulterated, consists usually in the blending in different proportions of the black and white mustard. Sometimes it is made wholly from the black seed, and at times the flour of the white mustard seed is the principal constituent. Black mustard consists for the most part of fixed oil, myronic acid combined with potash, myrosin, albumen, water and cellulose. In the crushing or grinding of the seeds the water dissolves the myronate of potash and myrosin, and by bringing these two active bodies together a decomposition takes place, resulting in the production of sulphocyanide, allyl or volatile oil of mustard. This oil possesses the odor of mustard in so high a degree that the smallest quantity of vapor excites tears. This is a beautiful bright emerald green when pure, and is powerful and poisonous. It is the gradual formation of this oil, when powdered mustard and warm water are mixed, that occasions the special action of the mustard poultice.

White mustard differs essentially in its composition from black. It also contains fixed oil, but, in lieu of myronic acid, convertible as described into the volatile oil of mustard, it contains a non-volatile, bitter and acrid salt termed sulphocyanide of sinapine. It is on this volatile oil and the acrid and somewhat bitter salt that the pungency and acridity of mustard depend, and hence we see a strong reason why in the mustards of commerce the flour of the two spices should be blended together. Of the two active principles, the volatile oil is by far the more important, and hence the seed of the black possesses the greatest commercial value.

Notwithstanding the terms flour and farina of mustard commonly employed, ripe mustard does not contain a single starch granule, and yet samples of so-called pure mustard have been sent into this laboratory, which contained in some cases as high as 50 per cent. of starch, which fraudulent additions were further aggravated by disguising the whitened appearance by the addition of some yellow foreign body, as turmeric, yellow ochre or naphthalene yellow. By making mustard entirely of one kind of seed, or of admixtures of the black and white seed, a wide range in the qualities and prices of mustard is obtained. Even without the addition of any foreign substances, the mustard in which the white seed predominates can be sold at a very low price.

The following simple tests for impure mustard will be found of great value to dealers if properly applied :

A few drops of aqua ammonia added to mustard will turn it to a brownish red if it has been colored with turmeric ; if not, it will turn it to a light greenish-yellow. Where analine color has been used it is quite difficult to determine, and will have to be left to the chemist. If any foreign substance has been mixed with it, such as wheat, flour or starch, put a half teaspoonful in an ordinary sized test tube—which can be procured at any drug store—fill it with water, and, after shaking, heat it until it comes to a boil, then let it cool and add a few drops of tincture of iodine ; if it turns blue it is a sure sign that it is adulterated.—Grocery World.

WISDOM IN FOOD SELECTION.

SCARCELY a day passes that the editorial department of this journal is not confronted with fresh proof that those responsible for the catering for the family table rely largely upon the guidance of the hygienic writer. The grave importance of the proper selection of food products is becoming deeply impressed upon the housekeeper. The labor, time and space in its columns which the American Journal of Health constantly devotes to the subject of food selection receives, we find, the fullest appreciation from its readers. And it is our own thorough consciousness of this fact joined to our own keen appreciation of the responsibility devolving upon the hygienic press that urged us to unrelaxed effort to afford the most thorough information. Good health and pure food are almost synonymous terms—no man, woman or child ever was or ever will be healthy if they are careless about the food they eat. They need, too, a constant reminder of this truth.

And, as the public perpetually needs this reminder, we perpetually investigate on its behalf, and have just concluded our examination into the claims of the "Sliced Smoked Beef" offered by W. Clark of Montreal, Can. As in every similar instance, our mode of ascertaining the facts about this product has included the tests which we have repeatedly referred to in previous articles. We have thus secured a result which leaves no uncertainty, and are able to report that this product is distinguished by the highest percentage of nutritive quality, that it is notably pure, and can be used with entire satisfaction.

Such is the verdict we pronounce for the benefit of the readers of the American Journal of Health, whom we are frequently obliged to warn against inferior food products of all kinds. Clark's "Sliced Smoked Beef" is an article eminently desirable for the most careful and conscientious housekeeper's use ; we have demonstrated this fact so unmistakably in the course of our examination that we desire to impress it on all who read this article. The separation of the food products which, by reason of their excellence, should be kept permanently upon the housekeeper's list from those which should be avoided, is the hygienist's task. In performing it, he is aided by skilful analysts and the scientific knowledge, which comes from training and long practical experience. When his task is performed, he publishes the facts he has discovered—he instantly and impartially either condemns or endorses according to the facts. Purity which has been proved, wholesomeness that cannot be doubted, the nutrition that can be derived from its use, are all qualities found in a marked degree in the Clark's "Sliced Smoked Beef."

When we can say so much after a food product has undergone analysis in our test kitchens at the hands of scientific experts, and everything has been done to render its examination thorough, Clark's Sliced Smoked Beef" has received the strongest endorsement it is in the hygienist's or the physician's power to bestow.—A. W. Gray, M.D., in American Journal of Health.

LARGE SHIPMENT CANNED GOODS.

W. Boulter & Sons, of Picton, Ont., recently shipped in two C.P.R. cars, 2,000 cases of their "Lion" Brand canned corn for Dawson City, via Vancouver and San Francisco. This firm shipped 3,000 cases of canned goods last season to the Klondyke. It now has 3,500 more cases of corn and tomatoes awaiting shipping instructions.

One of the cars sent by Boulter & Sons was new, and into it they put 1,200 cases, believed to be the largest quantity ever put into one car.

THE CURRANT CROP.

Cremidi Brothers, Patras, writing under date of May 27, say : "We beg to give you some information about our currant market, which, owing to the restricted demand from abroad, has declined lately to about 17s. 3d. for good Provincials, 17s. 9d. for fine and extra, 18s. 9d. for fine Patras, and 21s. 9d. for fine Vostizza, all in barrels C. & F., Montreal via. England. The stocks now in Greece are reduced to about 6,000 tons. The new crop progresses well and promises a good yield, unless the peronospores, any other disease, or rain might either reduce the quantity or damage the quality. The disease peronospores has already appeared in Cephalonia, and some parts of the mores, but the damage done is of no importance for the present. We trust if the yield is a good one, prices will be moderate.

A POINTER TO EGG SHIPPERS.

IN our issue of April 8th, it will be remembered an extract was published from a leading English trade paper, stating that Canadian eggs are being received with much favor in the British market, and prophesying great extension of our trade with the mother country.

This praise has been hardly won, the difficulties of transportation, etc., being indeed great. And, added to this, exporters have had to deal with a condition which does not seem altogether just, and which may possibly be put an end to before another season.

The condition referred to is the state in which eggs frequently arrive at the great shipping points. Besides the large proportion of bad eggs found by candling, from 5 to 10 per cent. of the stock arriving in the Toronto market is found to be checked or cracked. These eggs are not bad, but the fact of their shells being broken, makes exportation impossible, and necessitates their being sold at reduced prices.

The remedy is simple. The farmer is the man who will be most largely benefited by the development of Canada's export trade in eggs, and he should be called on to bear his part in making this development possible.

During the warm weather hens seem to prefer private nests in the hay loft, under the barn, in the orchard, or in fact in any place which strikes their individual fancy other than the nests provided for them. As many of these eggs as can be found are gathered together, packed, and arrive at the country merchant's in a more or less fresh condition.

What is wanted is that every country merchant should candle his eggs carefully, and make the farmer bear the loss from all bad ones; that in re-packing they should be handled carefully to reduce the loss from cracking. To do this would be no hardship to the country dealer, and would create better feeling between him and the large dealers in Toronto, Montreal, and other centres. There is now talk among Toronto dealers of an agreement to charge all losses from bad or checked eggs to shippers.

Our export trade in eggs is growing, but it has room for much greater growth. In 1895, our exports to Great Britain were valued at $524,577; in 1897 to $923,965. This is a good increase, but the total is yet small compared with Great Britain's aggregate importation, which amounts to $20,000,000 annually. So, it is natural that the large dealers should be anxious to adopt every means possible to increase our trade. In these endeavors they should have the active support of every dealer, and every farmer in the country. And nothing can be done of more importance to the extension of this business than to keep the quality and appearance of the eggs shipped up to the highest possible standard. To do this, persons responsible for loss due to cracked or bad eggs should bear the loss.

LUCK OF ONE DAY'S FISHING.

One morning, when spring was in her teens—
A morn to a poet's wishing,
All united in delicate pinks and greens—
Miss Bessie and I went fishing.

I in my rough and easy clothes,
With my face at the sunshine's mercy;
She with her hat tipped down to her nose,
And her nose tipped—vice versa.

I with my rod, my reel and my hooks,
And a hamper for lunching recesses;
She with the bait of her comely looks,
And the seine of her golden tresses.

So we sat down on the sunny dike,
Where the white pond lilies teeter,
And I went to fishing like a quaint old Ike,
And she like Simon Peter.

All the noon I lay in the light of her eyes,
And dreamily watched and waited,
But the fish were cunning and would not rise,
And the baiter alone was baited.

And when the time for departure came
The bag was flat as a flounder,
But Bessie had neatly hooked her game,
A hundred and eighty pounder.

CITY AND COUNTRY BUSINESS.

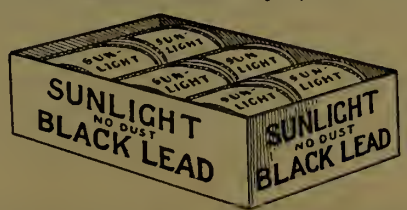
"You can't take a grocery clerk from the city and use him in a country store," said a man who had studied this question to me the other day. "We've tried it here and found it about the worst thing we ever did. Not very long ago we were short of hands and sent to the city for a clerk. He was a fine fellow; an earnest worker—never idle—prompt and accurate. He was pleasant and genial, too, and when he came here among the boys at first we thought we had just the man we wanted. But we began to lose trade through him. He hardly ever talked to the customers. He would greet them probably when they came in, but he was all business. He immediately had out his book writing down their orders, and, as soon as that was finished was at some other work, dusting the shelves and busying himself around the store. This doesn't suit the country people. If you treat them that way they will drop into some other store to have a chat, and pretty soon their trade goes there too."

There is good hard truth about the foregoing remarks, and they are right in line with the well-known fact that the dealer who best pleases his customers gets the trade. It certainly is not business to take a farmer or a miner who has just driven miles and miles over a lonely country road or through a wild mountain pass and alights first at your store—to take him and treat him as though he lived a block away and had just dropped in to get a cigar. The man expects something like a welcome; he expects to give and receive news. After this he gives his order and goes away pleased. But to be met by a strange clerk, who acts as though there was a train to catch, is a little too freezing treatment.—San Francisco Grocer.

There is a good demand for flour from the West Indies and large orders have been filled from this market. The Delta will take 1,000 barrels for Barbadoes, Martinique and other points. The Duart Castle, which sails next week, will have 3,000 barrels. Some of this goes on consignment, and much is to fill orders.—Herald, Halifax, June 11.

NEW BRUNSWICK PORK PACKERS.

The establishment of a pork packing factory now seems to be an assured fact. T. L. Hay, James Pender, Capt. Keast, E. H. Turnbull, Dr. Gilchrist and W. L. Hamm, the committee in charge of the matter, met at the board of trade rooms last evening. Dr. Gilchrist was in the chair.



After some general talk it was determined to issue the prospectus of the company forthwith and proceed to select a site, which will probably be on the Strait shore. It was decided to open the stock list and interest capitalists in an investment which the gentlemen interested claim will yield a return of at least ten per cent. So far as the country has been canvassed, there appears to be no doubt that sufficient hogs can be secured. One gentleman farming in Sheffield offers 100 pigs a year.

The capital stock of the company is $100,000, and work will commence when $75,000 is subscribed. The company propose to reserve $25,000 for the farmer, which can be paid for in pigs.—Sun, St. John.

SUPPLIES OF HAVANA TOBACCO.

As time goes on the situation of Havana tobacco and of its manufactures attracts increased attention. It is estimated by usually conservative members of the tobacco trade that there are not more than between 16,000 and 17,000 bales of Havana tobacco in this market, and, while reports vary as to the amount in Havana, it is known to be light. It is asserted that since May 16, 1896, up to the present time, the imports of Havana into this country have generally been of the poorer grades, and it is known that at the present time there is scarcely any "old fine" offering on this market. Stocks here are concentrated in few hands, and the situation has developed into a contest between the importers and manufacturers to see who can hold out the longest.

The large cigar makers here have, it is claimed, sufficient Havana to carry them through for the present, but, it is said, very few have enough to last them ten months, and none longer than a year.

The policy adopted by the manufacturers is to husband their supplies as much as possible, on the ground that it will be some time before new goods can be got from Cuba.

Some of the manufacturers are turning to Mexican, Florida, and Connecticut leaf for the manufacture of cigars.—N.Y. Journal of Commerce.

HIS 'RITHMETIC LESSON.

"This is a straight story," said a grocery clerk, whose veracity, according to an exchange, has never been impeached. "It happened in our store. A little boy came into our store on Monday, and waited for some one to notice him. He carried a sheet of writing paper in his hand, at which he glanced from time to time. One of the idle clerks came to him finally, and the boy, reading from his paper, announced in a sing-song voice: 'My mother wants 10 pounds of rice, 15 pounds of sugar, 12 pounds of oatmeal, 20 pounds of —' 'Hold on! interrupted the clerk.'

"But the boy insisted on calling off the articles himself. Two other clerks were pressed into service, and the three proceeded to do up the packages as the boy called them off. He wanted all kinds of things, and he asked the price of each article as they went along, making a note of it on his paper. The clerks had the counter stacked with packages, when the boy wound up with 'eighteen pounds of flour.' One of the clerks called out the price, and the boy continued, 'And how much does my mother have to pay for her groceries?'

"One of the clerks counted up the total and announced it as $18.73. The boy made a note of it and started out.

"'Come back here! Where are you going?' cried the clerks in a chorus.

"'Why,' said the boy, as he made for the door, 'that's jest me 'rithmetic lesson fur Monday. I have ter know it, er I'll get licked.'"

Building operations will be commenced as soon as a site can be secured.

CHINA TEA SITUATION.

Wisner & Co.'s tea circular, dated Shanghai, May 21, says: "Black teas, old season's, no business has been reported. New season's—Our advices from Hankow extend to the 15th inst., and report as follows: Musters of Khemuns commenced to arrive on the 9th inst., the market was opened at once, the teas proving of attractive quality. Ningchows were shown on the 11th inst., teas from other districts following closely; with the exception of the first packs of Khemuns quality seems scarcely as good as last season. No Hohows have yet been shown. Total arrivals are 204 000 half-chests, against 216,751 half-chests in 1897. Comparative prices paid, exchange 2s. 7d. for 4 months' credit, against 2s. 9¾d. in 1897: Ningchows, 29 to 55 taels, against 23 to 51 teals last year; Khemuns, 30 to 66 taels, against 26 to 54 taels last year; Oanfaas, 38½ to 46 taels, against 32 to 48 taels last year; Oopacks and Oonans, 19¼ to 38 taels, against 15 to 34 taels last year. Green Teas—New Teas — No news regarding country teas has yet been received. Pingsuey—The picking of new leaf began this week. Prices of leaf and expenses of preparation combined are 18 per cent. higher than last year. The teas may be expected here about June 15; the teamen are reported to be making their teas of far finer quality than last year; they are, however, finding some dificulty in making teas of a desirable color and at the same time of good cup. No reliable figures are yet to hand regarding the size of the crop."

FLOUR FOR JAMAICA.

THE CANADIAN GROCER learns from an article which appeared in a recent issue of The Naval and Military Record, that the Jamaican Government is purchasing from the United States 120,000 barrels of flour for the military and naval stores there.

The question arises, why were Canadian millers not given an opportunity of tendering for this business? It is but natural to suppose that it is the Imperial Government, through the Jamaican authorities, that is making this purchase, and even if that supposition is incorrect and the Jamaican Government is acting independently, it is an unpleasant surprise to the grain and flour producers of the Dominion to find that they have been entirely ignored in such a purchase as the one in question.

Enquiries from numerous millers go to show that they had no knowledge whatever that such a deal was about to be put through.

Much has been said and written about the "unity of the Empire" and "preferential trade," but it is hard to reconcile these expressions with the lack of consideration which is given to Canada in this and other instances of a like nature.

Canada is one of the greatest wheat producing countries in the world, and the flour made therefrom is second to none, commanding the highest prices in London, Liverpool, Glasgow, Australia, South Africa, Hong Kong, and also in Barbadoes and other points in the West Indies. Its keeping qualities are undisputable, as many recent shipments to Australia, after having crossed the American continent, have undergone a long ocean voyage, been unloaded at Hong Kong, stood for days on the hot wharves there and then been reshipped to Australia, arriving at their destination in perfect condition, and the exporters have yet to receive a complaint of deterioration in quality.

Canada has the right article, and her millers are prepared to compete, in fact, are now competing against the world in all its leading markets. They could readily fill such an order as the one heretofore mentioned, and had they but had an opportunity to do so, would gladly have entered the field for this business. Canadians cannot, and do not, expect to know of, or secure all the trade in flour or other produce that is being done with the various British possessions, but they think that in a case of a supply of foodstuffs to a Government it is but reasonable to suppose that they would at least be enquired of.

The pressing need for the appointment of a commercial agent in London has been often felt, and this is one of the instances where the services of a live, reliable man would have been invaluable.

It is high time that our Government was taking steps towards securing the services of the right man for this position. He should be one who has made a success in his own business and who holds the respect and confidence of the commercial community, as well as possessing a complete knowledge of the needs of Canada, both from an export and import standpoint.

The Canadian Colonial Office has, without a doubt, been of great service to the country, but much remains to be done to put Canada and her products properly before the English and colonial markets, and THE CANADIAN GROCER feels sure that the best way to secure this end is to have a thoroughly competent man resident in London who will be charged with this duty.

The raisin growers in the district about Fresno, California, have formed a pool, whereby the crop of all the growers is put into the hands of a committee of seven who are to dispose of it to the best advantage, the profits to go direct to the grower.

A PROSPEROUS BRUSH FIRM.

The manufacturing industries of the "Queen City" have made rapid strides during the past half century. Small buildings have been demolished to make room for more extensive factories, and a few years later these also had to be deserted for still larger buildings. To gaze up now at the towering factories of the present day, in comparison with a small place of one flat and limited space, of a few years ago, one would naturally say Toronto was growing. A firm of special mention, who have been building and rebuilding from time to time, and keeping "quality" as their standard, who have made wonderful advancement in the manufacture of brushes of every description, is that of Boeckh Bros. & Co., who have found it necessary to further enlarge their offices and sample rooms and warehouses, so as to meet the increasing demand for their brushes, and when completed will be one of the most handsomely fitted and equipped sample rooms and offices of their kind in Canada. The alterations will not interfere at all with filling orders for brushes, brooms and woodenware, and the trade may be assured of prompt and careful attention at all times. Merchants are always welcome to the firm's warerooms.

SOUTH AFRICAN EXHIBITION.

Commencing Dec. 15, 1898, there will be held at Grahamstown, South Africa, the South African Industrial and Arts Exhibition, an exposition of the products, manufactures, and mineral wealth of the various states and colonies of South Africa, together with the manufactures and merchandise which are, or might be, imported from other countries.

The Canadian Parliament voted $5,000 to promote trade with South Africa, and part of this sum is to be used in giving free transportation from Canada to South Africa of exhibits for this exposition. Then goods will be taken from any port in the South African colony in bond, carriage free, by the exposition authorities, and no duty will be levied upon them, unless they are sold.

The exhibits are classified into five groups, raw materials, manufactures, mining and machinery, natural history and science, and fine arts.

This will be an excellent opportunity for Canadian manufacturers, dealers in farm produce, etc., to get a foothold in the South African market, especially as their efforts will be supplemented by the work of a permanent trade representative, who has been appointed by the Dominion Government.

If a sufficient quantity of exhibits offer, a vessel will be chartered direct from Montreal to South Africa.

EXCITEMENT IN TEA.

THE adoption of the war revenue bill by the United States Senate, and its signature by President McKinley, the other day, had an electrifying effect on the tea market in Montreal this week.

The excitement began on Saturday last when commission firms commenced to rush goods forward from the C.P.R. tea warehouses at Smith's Falls, and it culminated on Monday in a regular scramble to get tea across the lines before the new law went into effect on Tuesday.

It is, of course, impossible to give any accurate estimate of the movement of tea from Montreal on this account, but it is known that a special train of seven carloads, entirely loaded with tea, left on the New York Central Monday afternoon for Malone, New York State, the nearest port of entry in the States from Montreal. This would mean fully 3,000 half-chests, the shipment being participated in by all the leading commission firms and some of the wholesale grocers also, who had tea to spare.

It is understood that quite as much, if not more, was shipped from the Smith's Falls warehouse, via Ogdensburg, as Jardine Matheson alone sent forward 1,400 packages from that point.

Some idea of the profits that were made on this movement may be gathered from the fact that tea which had previously been realizing only 16c. per pound in the Canadian market was sold for 21c. In fact, one lucky but daring Montreal speculator made even more money, as he bought up a considerable line of tea in New York at 15c. per pound some weeks ago. He sold it the other day for 22c., making a clear profit of 7c. per pound on his deal.

There was some anxiety whether the tea would all arrive in time to get the benefit of the old duty, but the law division of the New York Custom House has ruled that in the absence of a special clause in the law governing the matter, tea that had crossed the boundary in bond would come under the general practice of the United States, making it within the jurisdiction of the United States, and it would not therefore be subject to the import tax.

Some idea of the effect of the new tax on tea values in the States will be gathered from the following figures taken from The New York Commercial Bulletin :

The ultimate effect on the markets at primary centres is another matter. As already noted, values in Japan have advanced 2c., but, while some operators look for this advance to be not only retained, but improved upon, there are others that take a different view. Their contention is that sellers at primary markets have been holding up prices in anticipation of this duty, but, now that it is an accomplished fact, and the anticipatory demand from the United States satisfied, they will be more disposed to negotiate with Canadian buyers, with whom they would hardly treat at all previously, except at extreme figures.

It will be interesting to see which view is correct, as shown by the future course of primary markets.

MERCHANTS AND THEIR CLERKS.

THE duty of merchants towards clerks in their employ does not end when they remunerate them in dollars and cents. At that point it has really little more than begun.

The welfare of every clerk in his employ should be the concern of every merchant.

Many a clerk to-day would be a better man in more ways than one had his employer been more concerned about him.

One of the first duties of a merchant toward his clerks is to teach them their business : coach them as to ways and means of dealing with customers ; instruct them as to quality of goods and ways and means of manufacturing thereof ; induce them to read good trade papers and other commercial literature.

But even here the merchant's duty does not end. He should also be concerned about the manner of man the clerk became.

There are a good many who think that honesty is not always the best policy ; the "wild oats" every young man has to sow before he begins to cultivate the more serious things of life. By quiet little talks it is the duty of the merchant to disabuse the minds of his clerks of the fallacy of these arguments.

Concern for clerks begets confidence of clerks.

UNBUSINESSLIKE PARLIAMENT.

The last session of the Dominion Parlialiament is not one that will appeal to the business element in the country.

The preferential tariff on British goods appears to have been a good stroke of business, but in many other particulars there has been a decided neglect of legislation which would have been to the advantage of the commercial interests of the country.

There was, for instance, the bankruptcy bill and the readjustment of the tariff in order that the high and onerous duty on the raw material used by the shirt, collar and cuff industry might be made, at least, less burdensome. There was no sound reason why these should have been ignored.

Then the days and weeks of the House which were wasted in idle and malicious talk is inexcusable. Business is not business with many members of Parliament ; it is talk. And the country has to pay the piper.

TRADE CONDITIONS IN CANADA.

TRADE conditions in Canada are of a reassuring character. There is no doubt about that. The only room for difference of opinion is in regard to the measure of prosperity the trade of the country is enjoying.

As a manufacturing country, Canada is gradually increasing her importance, but agriculture is still our chief industry, and, unless it be in good condition, the commercial health of the country cannot be accounted healthy.

The farmers of Canada may not be lying in a bed of roses, but their circumstances are a great deal easier than they have been for probably a decade at the least. Compared with their confreres in other countries it is no exaggeration to say that the comparison is not unfavorable to them.

Last year, the wheat crop was a bountiful one. In Ontario, the yield exceeded all others in the history of the Province. Some authorities place the excess at nearly 25 per cent. Then, of course, prices have been more satisfactory than even the yield. Even a couple of years ago "dollar wheat" was only what fools were supposed to talk about. Those who essayed to be wise declared that such things never could be again. And the evidence certainly leaned to their side. But the "fools" turned out to have more prophetic blood in their veins than the "wise," for it is safe to say that the bulk of the wheat marketed this campaign averaged at least a dollar per bushel. And not only wheat, but all other cereals are materially higher in price.

For beef, immeasurably better prices are being obtained, while the demand exceeds the supply, Hogs average a cent a pound above the figures ruling last year. Hides are a cent dearer, and potatoes are double as high. Cheese is something like a cent per pound cheaper, but this is due to large production and restricted consumption in Great Britain, chiefly on account of the labor troubles.

Other evidences of the increased prosperity of the farmers of Canada may be mentioned. One is the way in which he is "lifting" the mortgages which of late years have become so burdensome. Then, there is a better demand for farm lands. In Manitoba and the Northwest a material increase in the sales of farm lands is to be noted, while one of the largest loan companies in the Dominion in its annual report the other day stated that out of 117 farms which it held in Ontario every one was occupied, and that at a fair rental. Real estate in the cities is also improving, there being a better demand, although prices are not altogether satisfactory in some instances. And this improvement applies to vacant land and residential and store property. Of 122 houses held in Toronto by a loan company only five are vacant.

Railway earnings in all countries are accounted reliable trade barometers. Turning to the figures relating to the two great systems operating in the Dominion we find that the gross earnings of the Grand Trunk for the first five months of the year were $9,499,412, against $8,516,791 the same period last year, and those of the Canadian Pacific $9,400,448, against $7,679,822 last year.

Several of the chief chartered banks of the Dominion have during the past few weeks been holding their annual meetings, and the reports of all of these testify to better trade conditions.

The profits of the Bank of Montreal were $35,000 greater than in 1897. The net profits of the Standard Bank were $115,157, against $100,919 the previous year; of the Traders Bank, $54,891, against $45,000; of the Eastern Townships Bank $160,000, against $158,000; of the Bank of Commerce, $477,456, against $445,730; of the Ontario Bank, $84,648, against $74,133; of the Bank of Hochelaga, $115,067, against $78,211.

Then, there are the bank clearings, and the monthly bank returns, issued by the Government. All these indicate a gratifying expansion of trade. The bank clearings for the first five months of the year aggregated $558,340,349, against $426,509,704 for the same period in 1897, an increase of 30.9 per cent.

Last year, the shipping out of Montreal was enormous, but this year it promises to be larger. The steamships sailing from that port have so much package freight to carry that they have no room for grain, with the result that the elevators from Montreal to inland points are crowded, while a few days ago there were, in addition, 800 loaded grain cars between Owen Sound and Montreal, while a couple of weeks ago, on account of this blockade, it was necessary to countermand an order for the shipment of 200,000 bushels from Owen Sound.

The foreign trade of the Dominion is one of the most gratifying of present trade conditions. The exports for the first ten months of the fiscal year aggregated $134,853,366, compared with $106,339,814, the same period in 1897.

And it is worthy of note that these exports of ten months exceed the total of any twelve months in any one previous year in the history of the Dominion, those of last year excepted, which were $137,950,253.

The imports of the country for the ten months of the present fiscal year were $105,187,009, against $93,498,951 the same period last year.

Recent developments in the gold mining industry are of an assuring nature. From the Klondyke come reports of further discoveries which have strengthened, rather than weakened, the hope of the country in the richness of the gold fields in that part of the Dominion. And then there are the gratifying reports from Rossland which establish what knowing ones have maintained for some time, namely, that the district was rich in permanent, paying properties.

As far as actual trade is concerned only the pessimistic can grumble. Many manufacturing industries from one end of the Dominion to the other are really overburdened with work, as the inability of many of them to fill orders testifies. Then all descriptions of wholesalers are doing a brisk trade, and although in some lines profits are not altogether satisfactory, yet in others the conditions in this particular are all that can reasonably be desired.

The lumbering industry is at the most the only staple industry that can really be accounted unsatisfactory. And this is due (1) to the condition of the United States market and (2) to the overstocked condition of the British market. Cheese, too, is also at the moment suffering from over-production.

As far as the present cereal and fruit crops are concerned, Nature again promises to be bountiful. And then another thing which should not be overlooked is the general tendency on the part of all classes of manufacturers and merchants to shorter terms of credit and to employ better methods generally in the conduct of business.

OPENING OF THE CANNED GOODS MARKET.

THE canned goods market for the pack of 1898 appears to be fairly opened, several packers being now offering futures in tomatoes, peas and corn.

As far as can be learned very little business has yet been done. Tomatoes appear to have attracted some attention, transactions having taken place in these at 70 to 75c. per dozen.

Packers are quoting 60c. for new corn, but as the jobbers last year bought freely at 45c. per dozen, and, as it will be several months before the canning of this commodity actually begins, this figure is above their views. Their view, as far as can be gathered, is 50 to 55c. Peas are being held at 60 to 65c. for future delivery.

In regard to canned fruits, the only line being mentioned is peaches, and reports so far agree that the pack in the Niagara districts will be a light one ; possibly one-third less than last year. But last year, it will be remembered, the pack was large. Curly leaf is the cause of the anticipated short crop. Although a short pack is threatened, it is worthy of note that those who are holding canned peaches are offering rather freely.

Generally speaking, the outlook for canned vegetables of the coming season's pack is for prices higher than those which ruled at the opening of the market last year, for not only is the material which enters into the making of the tins dearer, as a rule, but the packers are compelled to pay higher prices for their vegetables.

At the time of writing the members of the Packers' Association are in session, in Toronto, considering prices, etc., and the conclusion they arrive at may materially affect the future of the market.

UNIQUE POSITION OF CANADIAN BACON.

THE way in which Canadian bacon is increasing in favor in Great Britain is most gratifying.

Evidences of this increasing popularity are multiplying.

Lately the market for bacon has been quiet in Great Britain with prices tending downward, but exchanges recently at hand show that the position occupied by the Canadian product has been somewhat unique.

Referring editorially to the bacon market, The Grocers' Journal, London, of May 28, said : "While the fall in price on Continental and Irish bacon has been very heavy, Canadian has dropped only a shilling or so, and last week remained unmoved amid a scene of tumbling quotations everywhere. This is because buyers are turning to it at all centres, knowing that the quality is all that they require."

Could any better testimonial than that be required? Scarcely. But that is not all the meritorious things the same paper had to say, for we also read :

> We asked him what was the best bacon imported into France, having regard to price, and he replied undoubtedly Canadian. Not much of it gets to France, because of the heavy duties, which make the price pretty steep before it reaches the consumer and draws demand on American. But he assured us Canadian, where it could be had, was esteemed the most, the reason for which lay entirely in the feeding. The system of rearing on peas which obtains in Canada gives a firmness and solidity to the flesh, an even grain, and a piquancy of flavor which are entirely absent from maize or mixed fed bacon, and the cure is also conducted on first-class principles.

Canadians can protect the good name which their bacon is earning by not only maintaining the quality, but improving it. And the Federal and Provincial Governments should take all the necessary steps to see that such is done.

The following table, giving Canada's exports of bacon to Great Britain during the past ten years, shows how marked has been the development of this trade :

1893	17,274,676	$1,828,555
1894	26,765,800	2,748,072
1895	36,505,934	3,544,015
1896	47,030,980	3,799,428
1897	59,522,464	5,058,074

But rapid as has been the growth of this trade, there is still room for its expansion, for Great Britain in 1896, the year for which the latest returns are available, imported 509,546,912 lb. of bacon, valued at $38,225,306.

TORONTO FRUIT SALE.

At the Toronto Fruit Auction Co's sale on Wednesday there were offered 2 cars budded seedling oranges, and 1,000 boxes lemons. The oranges sold briskly at from $2.50 to $2.90. Some of the lemons were of poor quality, and were bought in by the sellers at $1.85. Some better stock, which, however, was not really good stock, sold from $2.50 to $2.65.

The amount of money a merchant is making is not always commensurate with either the size of the store or the volume of business he does.

LOBSTER SHIPMENTS FROM HALIFAX.

Herald, Halifax, June 11.

THE value of live lobsters shipped from this port to Boston this season is estimated at $77,000. The shipment of canned lobsters is approximately valued at $245,934.

At the end of the season last year there had been shipped to Boston from Halifax 5,481 crates of live lobsters. The shipments at this date last year corresponding to this—June 12—amounted to 4,438 crates. To-day this season's shipments from Halifax are 7,700 crates. The steamer Halifax, on her last trip, took 161 crates from this port, and 102 were taken aboard at Hawkesbury, a total of 263 crates. The shipments for the corresponding week last year were 494 crates. The big decrease this week was caused by the heavy rains, which made it impossible to keep the fish. The lobster is very sensitive to changes of water, and the fresh water falling on the sea as the lobsters are confined near its surface awaiting shipment, so affects them that many die. The dealers could not keep all their lobsters for this reason, and had to pack them.

The shipment to Boston this week realized $11 per crate, an advance of $1 over the week before. The price in the corresponding week last year was $12, and this season higher prices are paid to the fishermen. If the facts are as stated recently in The Herald, shipments this year, to Boston, do not pay under $10.

The following figures show the export, to Boston, for last season up to this date, what went subsequently, and the quantity sent forward this year :

	Crates.
Shipments to date last year	4,498
Subsequent shipments	983
Total last year's shipments	5,481
Shipments this year	7,700
Value, approximating it at $10 per crate	$77,000

The shipments of canned lobsters during the week amounted to 8,911 cases, making a total from this port this season of 24,464 cases. At the corresponding period last year there had been shipped 27,371 cases. A couple of weeks ago The Herald's statement showed that the shipments of canned lobsters then were nearly 50 per cent. greater than during the corresponding period the year before. This difference has now been more than equalized, exports declining largely on account of lack of shipping facilities. The Kilmorack and Damara, to sail for Britain at an early date, will take large quantities. In estimating the values the average price last year is estimated at $9 per case, while this year the value is placed at $10. This week's shipments were to the following named destinations :

	Cases.
Per steamship Halifax—
New York	320
Boston	341
Liverpool	757
Per Portia—
Marseilles	250
Havre	4,139
Nantes	327
Antwerp	778
Hamburg	581
Copenhagen	368
Rotterdam	90
New Orleans	960
Total	8,911
Previously reported	15,553
Total to date	24,464

The shipments this year, comparing them with the amounts exported during the corresponding period last year, are as follows :

	Cases.	Value.
Great Britain	9,773	$ 97,730
United States	3,921	39,310
Other countries	10,770	107.770
Total	24,464	$244,640

Last year was as follows :

	Cases.	Value.
Great Britain	11,210	$100,890
United States	6,064	54,576
Other countries	10,097	90,468

A GROCER'S MISTAKE.

JOHN MORGAN keeps a grocery store in Pittsburg. The only instrument upon which he plays is his cash register, and he thinks it makes better music than the Pittsburg orchestra. He has had trouble and the trouble was caused by the big policeman who walks or rather swaggles, past his store every hour.

In that jaunty, careless manner affected by policemen, this copper would sometimes step into the store, and as he said "Good morning, Mr. Morgan," or "Good evening, Mr. Morgan," he would deftly transfer a generous handful of raisins, cakes, candy or whatever happened handy, to his capacious pocket. This made Mr. Morgan tired. He paid taxes to feed the police, and he calculated ruefully that the value of what the big policeman helped himself to in the course of a year would more than pay his school tax. After thinking carefully over the matter, he concluded to stop the policeman's liberality to himself.

Selecting a measure of fine apples, he dosed a few with cayenne pepper, carefully concealing the cuts in the skin, and placed them in a tempting position just outside the door. Ten minutes later the policeman came sauntering carelessly by. As he neared the door his eye caught sight of the apples. Mr. Morgan was busy attending a customer in the rear, but glanced up as the officer called out, "Good morning, Mr. Morgan," and took two or three of the dosed apples.

Morgan chuckled to himself for an hour. He thought he had stopped the leak all right. A little later he was startled by a rough voice calling to him from the front of the store. It was the copper.

"Look here, Morgan, how many times have I told you not to blockade the sidewalk with your blasted baskets and boxes. Now, if I find these things out here when I come back I'll make an information against you and make it cost you $25." And he slammed the door and departed.

Morgan had stopped the leak, but sacrificed his sidewalk privileges.—Exchange.

SCHEME FOR PRESERVING FOOD.

A Louisville butcher, according to an exchange, is the originator of a chemical process which he claims will freeze articles better than ice, and will, in time, displace the frozen water for cooling purposes. He places a mixture of chemicals beneath an ice box. The vapors which arise float through a hole beneath the box and a heavy frost forms about a metal box, inside of which is meat, etc., and there it is kept at a regulated temperature.

The New Glasgow Milling Co. report a most successful year. This is one of the few mills in the Lower Provinces that grinds any quantity of wheat. An 8 per cent. dividend has been declared, and $6,000 carried to rest account, the earned dividend being 13 per cent. This is outside of the profit in wheat bought before the advance, some 10,000 bushels.

THE POWER OF CONCENTRATED ENERGY.

CARLYLE says: "The weakest living creature, by concentrating his powers on a single object, can accomplish something; whereas the strongest, by dispersing his over many, may fail to accomplish anything. The drop, by continually falling, bores its passage through the hardest rock. The hasty torrent rushes over it with hideous uproar, and leaves nothing behind."

"When I was young I used to think it was thunder that killed men," said a shrewd preacher; "but as I grew older I found it was lightning. So I resolved to thunder less and lighten more."

This is the age of concentration or specialization of energy. The problem of the day is to get ten horse-power out of an engine that shall occupy the space of a one horse-power engine and no more. The solution of that problem will solve in its turn the lesser problem of flying. Just so society demands a ten man-power out of one individual. It crowns the man who knows one thing supremely, and can do it better than anybody else, even if it only be the art of raising turnips. If he raises the best turnips by reason of concentrating all his energy to that end, he is a benefactor to the race, and is recognized as such.

"Lord, help me to take fewer things into my hands, and to do them well," is a prayer recommended by Paxton Hood to an overworked man.

If a salamander be cut in two, the front part will run forward and the other backward. Such is the progress of him who divides his purpose. Success is jealous of scattered energies.

No one can pursue a worthy object steadily and persistently with all the powers of his mind, and yet make his life a failure. You can't throw a tallow candle through the side of a tent, but you can shoot it through an oak board. Melt a charge of shot into a bullet, and it can be fired through the bodies of four men. Focus the rays of the sun in winter, and you can kindle a fire with ease.

The giants of the race have been men of concentration, who have struck sledge-hammer blows in one place until they have accomplished their purpose. The successful men of to-day are men of one overmastering idea, one unwavering aim, men of single and intense purpose. "Scatteration" is the curse of American business life. Too many are like Douglas Jerrold's friend, who could converse in twenty-four languages, but had no ideas to express in any one of them.

One of the hardest tasks for a boy or girl is to concentrate the whole attention upon the lessons of the morrow; for the student in college to prepare for the next recitation without running to the ball field, or allowing his gaze to wander around the room, or doing anything else in order to cheat himself out of what he ought to do. In study, as in business, we must not only strike the iron while it is hot, but strike it until it is made hot.

William A. Mowry tells a story of one of the foremost of American scholars, who found himself spending two hours a day in preparing his Latin lesson. He determined to get that lesson in an hour and fifty minutes, and succeeded. When he afterwards sat down to learn his Latin, he bent every energy to accomplish it in the shortest possible time. He found by daily trials that he could learn it in an hour and forty-five minutes, and that the time required was diminishing. Concentrating all his powers upon the task, day by day, he soon found himself studying only an hour and a half upon it, then 5, 10, 15 and even 30 minutes less. Encouraged, he redoubled his efforts, and within a few months the lessons could be learned in less than half an hour, a thing absolutely impossible with his habits of study when he entered the school. But he had done something more than to learn a Latin lesson in a shorter time. He had learned something of the value of concentration. The acquisition of such power is of more value than the acquisition of knowledge.—Pushing to the Front.

SOME REMARKABLE RHUBARB.

A man in Cherrywood has some rhubarb, "the stalks of which, aside from leaves, measure 23 inches, while the leaves spread out like so many tennis lawns." Well, Well! There is a man in Hope Township who has rhubarb of sufficient height and foliage, that, prior to the races in Toronto, he built a one mile race-track under one plant and a grandstand under one a trifle smaller.—Port Hope Guide.

Markets and Market Notes

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, June 16, 1898.

GROCERIES.

THE feature of the local wholesale market during the past week was the excitement in teas, due to the scramble on Friday, Saturday, and Monday last to get teas into the United States before the 10c. per lb. duty went into operation. Probably some two thousand packages went out in all, but a great many more would have gone had it been possible. Generally speaking, the wholesale grocery trade during the week has been rather quieter than it was a week ago. Immediate business in canned vegetables has been quiet, but a little has been doing in futures. Canned fruits are in good demand. Business is steady in canned salmon. Sugars are 1-16c. per lb. lower than they were a week ago, and the demand is light. There are not, generally speaking, many teas moving. Nuts for future delivery are dearer.

CANNED GOODS.

Packers are soliciting orders for future delivery of new pack vegetables and there have been a few transactions. Prices are higher than last year, as far as can be learned, tomatoes being sold at 70 to 75c., although it is reported some have changed hands at a little lower figure than the inside prices. The packers appear to want about 60c. for corn and 60 to 65c. for peas. The packers are meeting in Toronto, at the time of writing, to consider the canned goods situation. Wholesalers have, during the last week or two, been experiencing a good demand for canned fruits for shipment to the Northwest, and some houses report that they have sold more of these goods during the past fortnight than during the two previous months. Later reports confirm the statements in regard to a probable light crop of peaches in the Niagara district, but it is also to be noted that packers who still have some of last year's pack on hand are offering rather freely. Others again have refused to entertain offers lower than the asked figure. Wholesalers are quoting $1.40 to $1.75 for 2's, prompt shipment. Wholesalers are holding canned tomatoes corn and peas at nominally the same figures as a week ago, although the tone of the market naturally gets easier as the season for the new pack approaches.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Wholesalers are experiencing a little business in syrups, but it does not amount to much. The molasses market is quiet, and advices from New Orleans report that a forced sale of low grade syrups netted rather lower figures. Otherwise the market for New Orleans molasses remains much as before.

SUGAR.

The most interesting feature of the sugar market in Canada is the reduction of 1-16c. per lb. in the price of all refined sugars. Competition of foreign refined sugars is the cause assigned for the decline. The wholesale price for ordinary quantities is now 4 13-16c. per lb. for Montreal granulated and 4¾c. for Lower Province sugars. Cables from Europe are a little unsatisfactory, the price of beet sugar having declined ¾d. on Monday. In New York the market has ruled quiet and unchanged in both raw and refined sugars. Receipts in New York last week were unusually light. Aggregate stocks in Europe and America show a decrease compared with the same time last year. The estimated world's crop of sugar, beet and cane, is 7,725,347 tons, a decrease of 56,005 tons compared with the yield of 1897.

For Prices Current See Pages 34 and 35.

NUTS.

Quotations for forward shipments of all kinds of nuts are higher than a year ago. Tarragona almonds particularly are higher, being quoted at 3c. per lb. dearer than in 1897. Some filberts have been bought for this market, but practically nothing else has been purchased by local importers.

COFFEE.

There is not much doing and the market is unsettled for Brazilian descriptions. Exchange, the advices say, is fluctuating a great deal—as much as 5 to 10 per cent. in a couple of hours sometimes, and this is interfering a great deal with business.

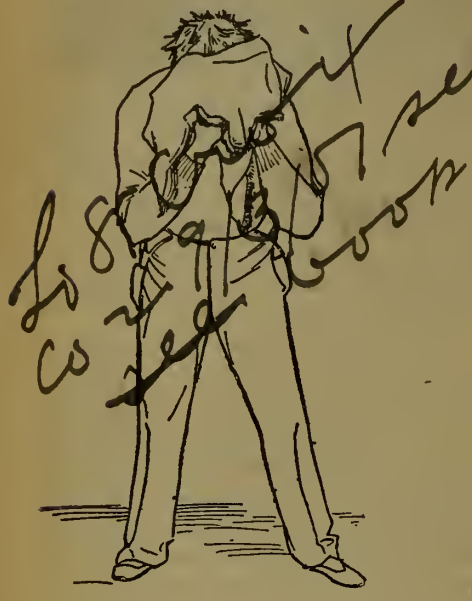
TEAS.

During the closing days of last week and Monday of this week there was some excitement on the local market owing to a demand for teas for shipment to the United States before the duty of 10c. per lb. went into force. A special train went out on Saturday carrying about $19,000 or $20,000 worth of teas, and, this with other lots that were shipped on Monday, made a total of about 2,000 packages of tea which went from Toronto. Had there been more time a great deal more would certainly have been shipped, but the signing of the war revenue bill by President McKinley at 3.05 o'clock on Monday afternoon prevented further business being transacted.

Local wholesalers report a good demand for tea, and the representatives of shipping houses report a good business in Ceylon teas, with all other kinds quiet. People are uncertain as to whether the present high price of Japan tea will be maintained, and this is interfering a great deal with transactions at the moment. Mail advices state that for some time the United States has purchased very few teas in Japan, either of this or last year's growth. Further samples of new season's Japan teas have been received in Toronto during the week.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS

CURRANTS—The demand for importation is almost nil on account of the approach of the season when the new fruit will be shipped. For currants on spot there is a good demand. Reports from the primary market are slightly weaker.



VALENCIA RAISINS—Selected fruit is still scarce, but otherwise the market is without interest.

PRUNES—Are in light demand and unchanged in price.

CALIFORNIA FRUITS—Apricots continue scarce and firm in the outside markets, but locally the market is without change.

GREEN FRUITS.

Strawberries are receiving most attention on the market this week. After the abundant rains during the end of last week and on Monday this week, there was such a rush of strawberries on the market that the demand did not nearly equal it. As many of the berries were wet, and of poor keeping qualities, the price fell for the poorest to as low as 2½c. per box. The general price paid, however, was about 4 to 6c., and as high as 7c. was paid for some choice stock. These figures, however, should not be taken as the prices for the week, as prices for this fruit are susceptible to change according to circumstances. A fair valuation for berries this week should be about 4 to 9c. per quart basket. California navel oranges are off the market, Mediterranean Sweets and Messinas and Cal. "Bloods" are moving fairly well at advanced prices. The hot weather has made shipment of the poorer keeping qualities of lemons risky, thus sending up prices all round. Pineapples are arriving in moderate quantities, and are moving well at somewhat lower prices. Mississippi tomatoes have begun to arrive in four-basket carriers, and are moving nicely at $1.50. A few Canadian cherries are in, the price ranging about $1 to $1.25 per basket. Canadian gooseberries are also arriving, the price running from 50c. to $1. California apricots, peaches and plums are arriving in small quantities, but it is too early to quote prices. Bananas continue scarce, and are in brisk demand at an advance of 25c. per bunch.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—Supplies did not arrive quite so freely as usual, due possibly to the rainy weather, and the market was strengthened, till 10½c. straight was asked. The offerings outside are reported free at 9c. f.o.b. country points.

POTATOES—The weak tone of the market noted last week is still manifest, and carload lots have freely changed hands at 50c. The price asked on the street market ranges from 50 to 55c.

DRIED APPLES—Nothing doing. Prices nominally 2½ to 3½c.

EVAPORATED APPLES — There is little doing, but as stocks are light, prices are steady at 9 to 9½c. per lb.

BEANS—The busy season is over. Hand-picked are firm at 95c. to $1, while ordinary beans are quoted all the way from 60 to 80c.

HONEY—Nothing doing. No change in prices.

VEGETABLES — Canadian green peas are now on the market and are selling freely, as are also beets and carrots. All green stuff is in active demand. Prices are generally lower. We quote: Rhubarb, 10 to 15c. per doz. bunches; onions, 5 to 10c. per doz. bunches; lettuce, 10 to 20c. doz. bunches; radishes, 10 to 20c. doz. bunches; cabbage, new, per case, $1.50 to $1 75; per doz., 50 to 60c.; parsley, 10 to 15c. doz. bunches; cucumbers, Canadian, 40 to 60c. per doz.; watercress, 10 to 15c. per doz. bunches; gardencress, 10 to 15c. per doz. bunches; spinach, 10 to 15c. per bush.; asparagus, 30 to 50c. per doz.; green peas, Canadian, $1.25 per bush; Canadian butter beans, $3.50 per bush.; beets, 30 to 40c. per doz.; carrots, 30 to 40c. per doz.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—As a few buyers have been paying ½c. above the market, which is about 11 to 11½c. f.o.b. at country points for dairy tubs and prints, the tone is rather firm. Creamery has advanced ½c., as the hot weather has decreased receipts of dairy large rolls, increasing the demand for creamery. From 14 to 15c. is being paid for creamery tubs and about 15c. for prints, at country points.

CHEESE—Dealers here are not enthusiastic in buying at present quotations at factories, where from 6⅞ to 7⅛c. is asked. The price for sale to the trade at Toronto is now 7¾c., a drop of ¼c. as compared with last week.

PROVISIONS.

The demand for all smoked meats, but especially hams and rolls, is brisk. An increased sale of long clear bacon is also noted. Lard is firm and selling well.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—The decline noted last week has been followed by a further drop of 6 to 9c. for wheat. We now quote on cars outside as follows: Wheat, red winter, 85 to 86c.; white winter, 83 to 84c.; goose, 84c. The street market is rather quiet, with prices of wheat, 3 to 5c. cheaper, and coarse grains unchanged. We quote as follows: White wheat, 88 to 90c.; red wheat, 90 to 93c.; goose wheat, 88c.; barley, 35 to 36c.; oats, 34 to 35c.; rye, 51c.; peas, 55c. No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat has declined 9c., now being quoted $1.15 Sarnia freights.

FLOUR—There has been a decline of 40 to 50c. in Manitoba flour and 25 to 50c. in Ontario flour. The declining market keeps trade quiet. We quote: Manitoba patents, $6.00; Manitoba strong bakers', $5.60;

SHEEPSKINS—Nominal. The season is over. Lambskins, however, are quoted at 30c., and shearlings, at 20c.

WOOL—The situation is unchanged as to price, but the feeling is rather depressing and the dealers are hesitating, as they claim there is no profit on the figures now quoted. Unwashed is selling at 10 to 11c. and fleece at 16c.

SALT

There has been considerable improvement in the demand this week. Prices are unchanged. We quote: Carload lots, $1.05 per bbl., and 65c. per sack; less than carload lots, $1.10 per bbl., and 70c. per sack. At the wells we quote: F.O.B., barrels, 75c.; sacks, 45c.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, June 16, 1898.

GROCERIES.

THE grocery business, in a legitimate jobbing sense, has been rather quiet during the week, but there have been other factors of striking nature that have more than made up for quietness in this respect. Notable in this connection has been the heavy movement of tea from this market to the United States, which will tend to sensibly reduce the reserve stocks in first hands in Canada. Sugar has declined 1-16c. as a result, not of change in raws, but of a desire to keep out Scotch refined sugar, which has been offered rather freely of late for future delivery. Molasses rules steady, and the same can be said of syrups. Canned vegetables have been enquired for to a fair extent in small lots. Spices, coffee and rice are as last reported. California raisins have continued to show activity, and are firmly held, while any Valencia fruit that is in jobbers' hands here is being carefully husbanded owing to reports from abroad.

SUGAR.

The raw beet market is not quite as firm as it was at the close of last week, prices declining ¾d. on the dry on Monday, and are now 1½d. lower than they were last week. It is the distant position of beet that is weakest, however, but both present and next month's deliveries are quoted at 9s. 9d. There was no change in the cane market, prices remaining at 12s. 9d. for

J. McLauchlan & Sons, - - Owen Sound

Java, and 11s. 3d. for fair refining at London. In New York, raw sugar has been steady, fair refining 3¾c., and centrifugal, 96 test, 4 5-16c. Refined sugar in that market has also ruled firm, but the same cannot be said of the local refined market, which is 1-16c. per lb. lower on all grades, except Paris lump and extra ground. This decline took place Monday, and is attributed not to any change in the position of the raw article, but to a desire to keep out Scotch refined sugar, offers of which have been freely made lately in anticipation of the preferential duty going into effect on August 1 next. Accordingly, we quote granulated, 4 7-16c. in 10-barrel lots, and 4½c. in less than 10 barrels, and yellows, 3 11-16 to 3 13-16c. for jobbing business.

SYRUPS.

These continue quiet and featureless, with prices unchanged.

MOLASSES.

There has been no new feature in molasses since last report. Demand on spot is slow, and the business doing is light from second hands, which is quite natural at this season of the year. There has been nothing new from the Islands, and importers here are not much interested, as they have supplied themselves pretty well ahead. Values are steady.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been a fair demand for small lots of canned vegetables. Prices generally are steady, tomatoes having sold at $1.15 up, corn at 85c., and peas at the same figure. There is nothing yet reported on this market in regard to canned salmon.

TEAS.

The chief feature of the local tea market has been the movement of teas to the United States, specially dwelt upon in another column. Demand on local account is light, for the reason that buyers and sellers cannot come together.

SPICES.

There has been little or no change in the spice market, and demand is of a very moderate character.

COFFEE.

While values are firm at primary points, the fact has not encouraged any activity here as jobbers don't appear to be at all anxious. Values all round are unchanged.

RICE.

The rice market is unchanged, with the firm tone well maintained, in sympathy with foreign advices. Local demand has been fairly active and prices steady.

DRIED FRUIT.

California raisins have supplied a fair business during the week, several more carloads being distributed this week at firm prices. Values are as last quoted.

Valencia raisins have been asked for but trading has been light, owing to small stocks which jobbers are husbanding carefully, as reports from abroad are very firm in tone. Spot values are quite firmly held.

The currant market continues much as it was last reported.

California prunes are the only sort moving on the market and values are firm.

Evaporated California apricots, peaches, etc., are very scarce and prices are stiff, though not quotably altered.

Reports from primary markets on figs indicate a smaller crop than was at first estimated, but there is nothing definite yet to work on.

NUTS.

Filberts continue firm abroad, but there has been no change in spot values. Other nuts are much as they were.

GREEN FRUIT.

The chief feature of the green fruit market has been large arrivals of new Canadian strawberries, and prices have slumped sharply in consequence, offers being freely made at 7 to 8c. for No. 1, and 4 to 6c. for off grades. Pineapples are steady at 11 to 15c. United States buyers have been heavy operators in the local lemon market, taking over 5,000 cases this week at $2.75. This has tended to stiffen the market and prices are firmly held at $1.50 to $3.50, as to grade. Oranges also have been more active, owing to the warm weather, at $2 to $3.25.

DRIED APPLES.

Dried and evaporated apples continue as reported last week.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—This market has shown distinct improvement during the week as a result of more active enquiry on local and export account. Prices are higher all round and we quote ; Fancy selected stock, 10 to 10½c.; ordinary run, 9 to 9½c., and No. 2 stock, 8 to 8½c. per dozen.

BEANS — There was no change in beans, prices being steady at 95 to $1 for primes, and at $1.05 to $1.10 for choice hand-picked per bushel.

HONEY— Honey was dull and prices nominal. We quote : White clover comb, 11c. to 12c. : dark do., 8 to 10c.; white strained, 6c. to 7c., and dark, 4 to 5c.

MAPLE PRODUCT—Demand for maple product was slow. We quote : Syrup in wood, 4½ to 4¾c. per lb., and in tins at 45 to 50c., as to size. Sugar, 6 to 6¼c. per lb.

TALLOW—Little offering on the market this week.

POTATOES—Firmly held at 75c. on track.

HOPS — Dull, but steady at 12 to 14c. for good to choice, and 8 to 10c. for yearlings.

PROVISIONS.

A fairly active trade continues to be done in smoked meats, there being a good demand for small lots, but other lines are moving slowly. We quote : Canadian pork, $16 to $16.50 per barrel ; pure Canadian lard, in pails, at 8½c. to 8¾c. ; and compound refined at 5½c. to 5¾c. per lb.; hams, 11½c. to 12c.; and bacon, 12c. per lb.

FLOUR, GRAIN, ETC.

In sympathy with the sharp break in prices at American grain centres, there was a weaker feeling in the local market and prices generally are lower. Oats declined ½ to 33½c. in store, and 34c. afloat. Peas are quoted 1c. lower at 61 to 62c. afloat. There was no demand for wheat and business, on the whole, was exceedingly quiet.

There was no change in the situation of the flour market. The demand was slow, and what little business was done was at a cut on present prices. We quote : Winter wheat patents, $6 ; straight rollers, $5.40 to $5.60 ; bags, $2.55 to $2.65 ; Manitoba patents, $6.40 to $6.60, and strong bakers', $5.90 to $6.20 ; extra, in bags, $2.35 to $2.45.

The feed market is quiet and featureless, the demand at present being limited, as buyers have ample supplies on hand. We quote: Ontario winter wheat bran, $12.50 to $13 ; shorts, $14 to $15 per ton in bulk ; Manitoba bran, $13 to $13.50; shorts, $15 to $15.50, and moullie, $17 per ton, including bags.

There was no change in oatmeal, rolled oats being quoted at $4.20 per bbl., and at $2.05 per bag.

The demand for hay is only fair, of which the offerings are large. Shipping hay is selling at $5.50 to $6.50 per ton. Good to choice No. 1 is quoted at $9 to $10, and No. 2 at $7 to $7.50 per ton, in car lots.

was principally to eastern makes, and the difficulty appears to be to get the desired quality. When it is obtainable, 6¾ to 7c. is paid, but for the bulk of the eastern goods the ruling price is 6⅝ to 6¾c. Finest Ontario makes that are offering here cost fully as much as buyers are bidding for them, so that trading is dull. If a buyer had to fill an order he would certainly have to pay 7¼ to 7⅜c., but if it was a case of a sale it would be different, for 7 to 7¼c. is all that could be realized.

Butter has developed a firmer tone within the past few days as a result of rather free purchasing by local jobbers, and some speculative exporters, who consider June creamery a purchase. They have been paying all the way from 16½ to 17c. at the factory, and naturally other salesmen are firmer sellers as a consequence of this. In contrast to this, however, it is worthy of note that cable limits do not permit the payment of more than 16½c. here. In a jobbing way finest creamery sells in small parcels at 16½ to 17c., as to grade.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Buyers have bid from ¼ to ½c. more per pound for creamery butter at country points this week.

Large shipments of teas to the United States from this market has been one of the features of the week.

The local refiners have marked down prices 1-16c. per pound on all sugars, except Paris lump and extra ground.

Large receipts of Canadian strawberries have led to a slump of 3 to 4c. per basket, quart boxes being quoted at 7 to 8c.

THE BEET SUGAR FACTORY.

The establishment of a beet sugar factory has been again brought up for consideration in the Wiarton town council, and a committee has been appointed to arrange terms to offer the company seeking to establish the works.

TORONTO GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE regular meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held on Monday evening, this week, in St. George's Hall, Elm street, the president W. H. Marmion, occupying the chair. There was a fair attendance.

Five new members were admitted: G. Sanderson, 706 Queen street west; E. J. Henry, 783 Queen street west; W. H. Harper, 357 King street west; A. A. Bogart, 356 College street, and Fred Thorne, 107 Nassau street.

Communications were received from the Members of Parliament for Toronto, Peel and York, in regard to the Civil Servants' Garnishee Bill, stating that it had been shelved this session, but would be brought up again next session. The M.P.'s did not commit themselves as in favor of or opposed to the bill.

A communication was received from E. M. Trowern, secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association, regarding the raising of peddlers' and hawkers' licenses, asking that a good representation of the grocers should be present at the meeting of the property committee of the city council on Thursday afternoon. A resolution was passed instructing the secretary to notify Mr. Trowern that the Retail Grocers' Association would do all in its power to co-operate with the Retail Merchants' Association in this matter.

Communications were received from many of the leading wholesale and manufacturing grocers, offering prizes or cash equivalent, for the games to be held at the annual picnic of the association.

As many of the premiums offered were of considerable value and were accompanied by expressions of good-will from the manufacturers and wholesalers; these communications were received with enthusiasm.

W. J. Sykes, on behalf of the committee which visited Port Hope to make arangements for the picnic, reported that the committee had been received most cordially by the grocers and the authorities of Port Hope, that the day of the picnic was to be observed as a holiday in that town, and that the grocers there intend to co-operate with the Toronto body to have a good day's sport.

The report of the programme committee was then received, the programme showing that, beside the baseball match between the Toronto Travelers' Association and the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association, and the tug-of-war tournament between Port Hope merchants, Toronto merchants and travelers, there will be a large list of foot races, bicycle races, ball throwing, etc. Prizes for four special events have been promised by the Pure Gold Mfg. Co., Toronto. One of the most interesting of these will be a boys' scramble for five nickle watches. The committee have also made provision for a good prize for the best team of entertainers on the boat coming home. The teams are already making preparations to capture this prize.

The musical committee reported, and, on vote of the meeting, it was decided to secure Glionna's orchestra for the day.

It was decided that two sets of badges be printed, one for the committee, the other for the members, and that none but members should be given badges.

COMMISSION MAN MARRIES.

A pretty wedding took place at the residence of John Minto, Esq., of the firm of Minto Bros., 457 Dovercourt road, Toronto, on Tuesday, June 14, when Mr. Fred J. White, of the enterprising firm of White & Co., wholesale commission merchants, was united in marriage to Helen Mildred, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Minto. The ceremony was peformed by the Rev. L. E. Skey, of Merriton, assisted by the groom's cousin, Rev. W. H. White, of Trinity College, Toronto.

After the ceremony the happy pair took their departure on the evening train for an extended eastern trip. THE CANADIAN GROCER joins with the friends of Mr. and Mrs. White in wishing them much happiness.

A MEETING OF CREDIT MEN.

IN view of the approaching convention of the National Association of Credit Men, to be held in Detroit, June 22, 23 and and 24, a statement of what this organization has accomplished to date in way of business reform is in order. To present a list of its committees and to arrange therewith a circumstantial record of the work of each would be a far easier task than to present in a few sentences a conception of the wide influence for good which the organization is exerting. What the committees have done and are doing is only the means to the end. The history of their work would be in many respects only dry statistics, while that with which the business public is concerned is the net result accomplished, instead of the detail of endeavor.

The association closes the second year of its existence with so many of its objects achieved and so much of real business reform in visible progress that not only is there demonstrated to be most excellent reasons for its existence, but there is also shown that it has a valid right to the approval and financial support of the business community. There is not a wholesale house, nor manufacturing establishment in the whole country that is extending credit to its customers that has not been materially benefited by the work of this organization to date. The mere influence flowing from its efforts in many fields has had a far-reaching effect, and to-day credits in all lines of trade are far safer than they ever have been in the past by reason of the existence of the association.

Among the specific results accomplished by the National Association of Credit Men we direct attention to the following: Credit department methods have been rendered more uniform, among the different branches of trade and among different houses in the same trades. Standard blanks for all the more prominent uses have been adopted, and in various respects the granting of credits has been reduced to a scientific process. Credit managers have everywhere been afforded both a theoretical and practical education by the efforts of the organization, exerted through books and pamphlets, which have been widely dislributed by articles in the trade and financial press, by discussions conducted by the various local organizations, and last, but not least, through the frank conferences of one credit man with another as often as questions come up. Before the organization brought the credit men of competing houses into pleasant and confidential relations, they were prone to regard each other as enemies or, at least, rivals, and, therefore, they always held aloof. That the barriers separating men of common calling having been broken down, is an important result in itself. But it is only one of many.

Fraudulent failures and conspiracies to rob jobbers and manufacturers by obtaining goods for which it is intended payments shall never be made, having been rendered extremely hazardous by the action of the national association. The active prosecution that has been undertaken of a number of debtors whose failures show evidence of fraud, through its numerous branches, to inquire into all failures and through its selected attorneys prosecute fraudulent debtors to the utmost limit of the law, have already had a most salutary effect, and as further particulars of this policy are published to the world its deterrent influence will become still more manifest.

Comparatively few of those who are overtaken by business adversity are dishonest. A large number fail unintentionally, and yet from preventible causes. Among these causes may be mentioned lack of commercial knowledge, poor administration, laxity in enforcing collections, inadequate accounting, neglect to take advantage of cash discounts, and mistaken notions of business principles. While with one hand the National Association of Credit Men is prosecuting the dishonest debtor, relentlessly and according to his just deserts, it is, with the other widely disseminating a wealth of wholesome and instructive business literature, inculcating correct business doctrine, and instructing in the best up-to-date commercial methods. In this department of its work it has invoked and secured the aid of nearly the whole trade and financial press of the land, and thereby has exerted an influence for better business methods too large to be measured.

Again, in those States wherein the laws relating to commercial affairs are inadequate or unjust, the National Association of Credit Men has been at work introducing and supporting new bills, working for repeals of obnoxious laws, and advocating amendments to existing laws that are of obvious advantage to the business community. In this effort it ever seeks to put upon the Statute Book of each State in the Union, or to retain thereon, if already enacted, only those laws which are absolutely impartial in their operation and which treat debtor and creditor with equal fairness.

Every business man who extends credit —and who is there that can avoid doing so? —must perforce depend more or less upon the mercantile agencies for information concerning his customers. Before the National Association of Credit Men was formed, the subscribers to the agencies were in no position to urge or enforce their reasonable demands for improvement in the service. They were merely individual patrons of the agencies, and had no means of combining together to secure the satisfactory performance of contract or the institution of such reforms as seemed to them to be absolutely essential. Now, all this is changed. The National Association of Credit Men includes in its membership a very large fraction of all the patrons of the agencies, and through their organization they speak concerning the character of service and improvements required as one man. To the credit of the agencies, be it said, they are attentively listening, and apparently they are adjusting the machinery of their organizations to the new requirements as rapidly as circumstances will permit. The result of the work of the National Association of Credit Men in this direction alone has already proven exceedingly valuable, but the ultimate reform is not yet. Even more than has been accomplished to date is at present in sight.

Still other departments of activity in which the National Association of Credit Men is engaged might be cited, for this account is by no means exhaustive, but quite enough has been presented to indicate to a discriminating business public the claims that the organization has to cordial co-operation with its efforts, and substantial support in a financial way. The organization stands for business reform and progress in the best and broadest meaning of the terms It will eventually return its cost a hundred times over.

The work might well be taken up by business men in Canada by the organization of a similar association.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Boulter, of Picton, are in Montreal, attending the Presbyterian General Assembly.

Mr. Charles Alexander, of Alexander Bros., wholesale grocers, Providence, R.I., spent a few days in Toronto, last week. He was on pleasure bent and made a tour of some of the "Queen City's" principal wholesale grocery warehouses. Mr. Alexander was one of the New England delegates to the convention of the wholesale grocers of the United States which met at Niagara Falls on June 7 and 8.

Mr. Stephen Hustwitt, who, for some months, has been representing T. B. Greening & Co., of Hamilton, in Manitoba and Northwest, is on a visit to Toronto. Mr. Hustwitt has gained about twelve pounds in weight since he left Toronto; and speaks highly of the Northwest and of its merchants.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

WINNIPEG, June 13, 1898.

THE weather is ideal for growing, and the reports from every part of the Province indicate that the crop is much in advance of this date last year. Flour has fallen in sympathy with wheat, but is still 45c. higher than before the advance. Butter (creamery) is becoming more plentiful. The May make was light, owing to scarcity of grass, but June promises to be a full month.

The Dyson, Gibson & Co. fire, mentioned last week, was not at all so serious as at first reported, it being only the wooden portion of the building that was destroyed. The firm is continuing in the brick structure, and made connection for its new electric machinery this week. The firm will put up a large brick building on the site of the burned structure almost immediately.

The prize list for the Winnipeg Industrial is now out, and a very handsome volume it proves to be.

Business is remarkably good, and prices are being very well sustained.

CANNED GOODS—The position has been unchanged since last writing. Tomatoes continue easier, though it is difficult to quote an exact price. Corn, peas and beans are firm, and there will be no change in prices in these goods till the new stocks are in.

EVAPORATED AND DRIED FRUITS—Apples are easier in tone, and are quoted at 5½c. for dried, and 10 to 10¼c. for evaporated. Apricots, peaches and pears have been without change for some weeks. Good strong stocks are held, and there is no doubt there will be a wish to see them cleared out before the new fruit comes, which, in regard to apricots, will be about the end of July. California muscatel raisins are looked upon as good value, when compared with Valencia fruit, and are selling from 5½c. upward, according to the number of crown. Currants are firm, and there will be no change in price until new crops are received.

NUTS—Tarragona Almonds 11c.; Fancy Jordan shelled, 45c.; Valencia 27c.; Sicily Filberts 8½c.; Grenoble Walnuts 11 to 11½c.; Brazil nuts 12c.; Texas Peccans (large) 10c.; Peanuts, roasted, 11 to 12½c.

TEA—Recent advices from China stated that market there has opened firm, and higher prices are being obtained than last year. The first crop of China tea is billed to reach this market between the first and second weeks in July.

COFFEE—This market has remained much in the same position for some weeks, Rios No. 5 being quoted by some houses at 10c. and by others 10½c. The market is rather quiet, but the demand is steady.

RICE—One firm has received a carload of China which is No. 1 and is selling at 6c. Japan is almost unobtainable, and B. or Rangoon shows no change since last writing.

CEREALS—Market is rather easier. Most of the material coming is American, although a few carloads of Ontario have arrived. Rolled oats are quoted at $2.15 and granulated at $2.30 per sack. Beans are very firm at $1.30. In sympathy with wheat flour is down. Patent $2.95; Strong bakers', $2.75; 2nd bakers', $2.95; XXXX, $1.35.

GREEN FRUIT— This market is active. Owing to wars and wrecks there is likely to be a banana famine. This fruit has advanced fully 20 per cent., and the supply, even at that figure, is decidedly short. Present quotations are: $2.50 to $3.50, according to size of bunch. Apricots are selling at $2.75 to $4 basket crate. Cherries, a very fine sample, $1.50 to $1.75 for 10-lb. crate. The two varieties of oranges on the market are Mediterranean sweets and St. Michaels. The former sell at $3.50 to $3.75, and the latter at $4 to $4.50, according to size. Messina lemons, $3.75 to $4. Oregon strawberries, $3.50 to $3.75 per box. First plums of the season are on the market to-day, they are California Clymon, and are quoted $3 for four basket crate, weighing about 20 pounds.

APPLES—Only one house has any stock of really good apples, and their supply is nearly exhausted. Prices quoted for fancy American Ben Davis, $5.50 per barrel.

BUTTER—Creamery is now coming in freely, and though it is a little difficult to quote values at present, 16½ to 17c. is a pretty safe market. This is, of course, point of shipment. Butter is improving in quality now that the rain has come and renewed the grass. Dairy butter has taken the expected slump, and is now worth only from 12½ to 13c., and will probably be lower by the time this is in print.

CHEESE—This product is now coming in freely and the quality is fair; price ranges from 7½ to 8¼c,

EGGS—The Manitoba hens seem tired Aear. The supply is again short, and just in pickling time, too. Price being paid is 10c. point of shipment, or 10½c. Winnipeg.

QUICK TEA PACKING.

"Talk about packing tea," said the Salada Tea Co., "one day last week one of our 'Ideal' packing machines turned out 2,200 pounds in half-pound packages. This is over 9 packages per minute, as the packers only work eight hours per day. Another machine turned out 2,750 pounds of tea, but part of this was in pounds and the rest in half-pound packages."

TRADING STAMPS.

Before I leave the stamp question I will tell about the reception which a trading stamp grocer received from another grocer's customer. The stamp grocer was trying to get some of the other dealer's trade on the strength of giving away stamps.

"See," said the grocer, "if you deal with us you get stamps and fill up one of these books (exhibiting one of the stamp company's books) and then you can obtain valuable presents for them all for nothing."

"Is that so?"

"Yes, madam."

"Well, do you give short weight?"

"Why, certainly not."

"Then you are selling inferior articles?"

"Not at all, madam."

"And you are not in business for your health?"

"No."

"Well, then, I'm sorry to say I can't believe what you say, and don't want to deal with you."

This shows you can't fool your customers all the time.—Retail Grocers' Advocate.

You want to be ready for them with a good supply of "Owl Brand," as they know that it beats all others. Better make a display of it and let them know you have it. Then they will be sure to come to you for it.

TRADE IN OTHER COUNTRIES THAN OUR OWN.

CANNED SALMON IN LONDON.

THE position of salmon has not been influenced by the quiet week, and the firm tone still prevails. There have been a few speculative transactions in the new pack at prices based on about present rates, but the sellers now decline to make further sales except at an advance of from 6d. to 1s. per case. The district from which these sales have been made is a comparatively new and untried one as far as this country is concerned, the fish in previous seasons having been sold principally for domestic consumption, and consequently the purchases are in the nature of an experiment, which may account for the low price accepted as compared with what prevails for the more established and better known packs.—Produce Markets' Review.

TEAS IN NEW YORE.

There has been a radical change in the market. The prospective import duty of 10c. per pound has had the effect to stimulate an active demand for investment account, and prices have advanced sharply, showing a rise of fully 3 to 5c per pound on low grades from those paid at the auction sale. The demand has been principally for tea for price, and the bulk of tbe business transacted has been in lines, although at the close there was more doing in invoices, as holders were showing more of a disposition to meet the demand at the higher prices ruling.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

JAPAN TEA AND RICE.

Smith, Baker & Co.'s circular, dated Yokohama, May 20, says: "New teas commenced arriving in considerable quantities on the 2nd instant, and have met with an active and general demand, a large business resulting. Prices have ruled strong throughout, and are about on a par with those current between the 9th and 20th of May last year for kinds above $30. Below this price they are higher than last season. The quality of the crop thus far does not compare favorably with last year. Values have ruled much higher than was anticipated before the opening, but, even at present prices, the natives claim that tea-growing is not as remunerative as in former years. The terms 'increased cost of production' and 'lack of care in cultivation and manipulation,' which have become familiar and hackneyed to American readers in quotations and reports of Japan teas for the last two seasons, must not be passed over as meaningless. In support of their relevancy, we beg to call attention to one factor only. A measure of rice (Itto), which cost 87c. in 1893 and $1.18 in 1896, now costs $2. This alone, in a community where the value of labor is measured by the bare cost of maintenance of life, is sufficient to explain why a certain crop like tea, which is almost wholly a question of labor, should be produced poorer and in decreasing quantities, and in part justifies the native demand for a better price."

CURRANTS IN LONDON.

A quiet tone has again prevailed in the currant market, and only a moderate weight of fruit has changed hands. So far as figures are concerned, the position has seldom been stronger, and it is now beyond all doubt that the new season will be started with a much cleaner book, so far as stocks are concerned, than has been the case for many years past. The landed stock in London on the 31st ultimo was 3,999 tons, against 4,920 tons in 1897, 10,631 in 1896, 15,152 in 1895, 11,984 in 1894, and 12,466 in 1893. The average deliveries in the three remaining months of the present season have, during the last four years, been 5,500 tons, and it is obvious that if anything like this figure is to be kept up a not inconsiderable weight of fruit must be drawn from the stock remaining in Greece. This is altogether apart from the fact that it is clearly impossible to entirely use up the landed stock and reduce it down to next to nothing, as dealers must always hold some sort of stocks, and for one reason or another some holders always exhibit sufficient confidence to retain a certain proportion, be it ever so small. A glance at the stocks remaining on August 31 during the last six years shows that in 1897 2,500 tons remained, and the average of the five previous years was no less than 8,000 tons. Supposing, therefore, that only 5,000 tons are required for delivery between now and the new season, and that a landed stock of 1,000 or 1,500 tons is on hand at the close, it is clear that 2,000 to 2,500 tons must be drawn from the comparatively small stocks in Greece in the meantime.—Produce Markets' Review.

BUTTER OUTLOOK IN ENGLAND.

Grocers' Journal, London, Eng.

Since we addressed our readers in March on this staple, the market has pursued a devious course, and this week finds it, after continued sagging, as deep in the slough of despond as it has ever been. Two months ago, when the Australasian season practically came to its end, prices took an upward turn, the low rates which had ruled since the first shipment of the past season arrived from the Antipodes having caused such an increased consumption that there were little or no stocks to draw upon when the falling off came, increased as it was by the diminution in the Danish output. The rise, however, was but small, and its life a short one. Supplies began ere long to pour on to the markets and rates to drop once more, notwithstanding all the efforts of sellers to clear, so that a second period of dulness and extreme declension of values has come about, which allows of no prophesy as to its longevity. People are asking everywhere what is the reason of the decadence in price of butter, so short a time after the removal of one of its most powerful rivals from the scene. It is certainly a puzzling question when one looks at the imports and finds that the natural needs of the population have not been inordinately catered for by the foreigner and the colonial. The fact is, that the home-make is now a factor to be counted with more than ever before. Progress has been made in the placing of butter on the markets both of the towns and of the suburban districts, the attainment of uniformity in style of output has been more nearly reached, the factory system has met with such success in Ireland, and organization in England has been so far perfected, that it only required a favorable spring to ensure an enormous output. That has come this year. It is now recognized by those who have studied the question that the home-make is a formidable factor in the situation. This spring, which opened dry and unpromising for the dairy farmer, developed into a wet and warm May which has been an essentially grass-farming month. Seldom have the pastures looked as luxuriant as now, and it is certain that the make of butter is exceptionally large. The market has been simply overpowered with the immense bulk of the offerings, and the pity of it—from the producer's point of view—is that there are no signs of a break in the immediate future. Irish is not yet in sufficient supply in the Metropolis to make much difference, but it is well in evidence at Liverpool, and in the north it is running its competitors close. Quantities of foreign butter are already going into store here to be held on speculative account for the day of better things, and as this accumulates it will hang over the market to stay the upward rushes which Copenhagen is fond of springing on people here every time it sees an opportunity. Thus it would seem that an era of extremely low rates is upon us, and is likely to stay, and it is no light in a dark place to learn that America and Canada are likely to increase their output, though it is at present unprofitable to ship—Liverpool prices for creameries being between 60 and 80s.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., June 15, 1898.

THE past week in the grocery trade has been a quiet one. Fair stocks are held, and there is but a limited demand. In lumber, the American market is still dull, and but little improvement is to be noted in the English market. This month is seeing the first large shipments going forward. Quite a number of steamers are due here for cargoes. The lumber for the English market is brought here from outside mills very largely, the local mills chiefly sawing for the American trade, and they are mostly shut down, which leaves very many men idle. Rice keeps high. In spice, the feeling is easier. Tea shows a fair business, chiefly Indians and Ceylons. Package teas are being pushed under private brands for each retail dealer. It is said while with large dealers this works satisfactorily, through the country the consumers seem to have the idea that they are being sold a poor article at a big price. It is very difficult, even with a good tea, to break down the prejudice.

OIL—The demand is light, particularly for burning oil, but at this season that is expected. Some dealers report a good sale for lubricating oil, even in the face of many lumber mills being shut down, but at this, of course, only one branch of demand. It is as yet too early for cod oil.

SALT—Another small cargo of Liverpool salt is landing. It finds but a fair sale. The large quantities brought here during the winter enabled consumers to anticipate their needs till late in the season at the low prices then ruling. Further supplies are due, so, though prices are rather firmer, there is lots of stock. In Canadian, the regular demand is noted. Cheese and butter salt, in barrels and bulk, is rather scarce, but manufactuers west stand ready to supply all demands at even prices. We quote as follows: Liverpool coarse, 45 to 48c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 to $2.60 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30; mineral rock salt, 60c. to $1.

CANNED GOODS—There is quite a free sale, the picnic season now being on. Canned goods rule firmer than almost any line at present, but stocks are thought to be quite enough for all demand till new goods arrive. Lower prices are then looked for, at least as compared with the present. Still, if western demand should be again large in the spring, it would do much to keep prices up. Salmon is the easy point, and dealers are carrying quite a stock for this season, though the demand is better than for some time, and better prices expected. In fruits a fair sale is noticed, but largely peaches. In oysters there is but quiet movement; prices are very firm. Lobsters keep high. American canners have reduced their quotations on meats.

GREEN FRUITS—While very active business is noticed in this line it is no exception, as far as easy prices rule, except perhaps pineapples, which are quite firm. There is little money to be made in pines; in this market sale is slow. Tomatoes at this season are also not money-makers, price being too high for active business, and sales are made at about cost. Oranges show little change, except for a fair stock. Lemons are low, but quality is the same. Otherwise they, like oranges, would be higher. Strawberries are easier and tend to be soft. Rhubarb is very plentiful and is down to about ½c. per lb., and when berries come in will go even lower. Bananas, though showing no change in price, continue quite a light stock.

DRIED FRUIT—There is no improvement. Demand is very light. Raisins are particularly dull and easy. Sellers of California are already beginning to look for business in new fruit, though no prices are yet quoted. Seeded have but a limited sale. In evaporated fruits and California prunes season is about over. Many more of these goods have moved here than ever before, and fair money has been made. During the spring there has been quite a steady advance. In currants the firm prices continue, but there is light sale. Dried apples are dull, and holders would like to sell; stock is not large. Peanuts hold the advance.

DAIRY PRODUCE — Except a limited quantity of creamery prints, the butter now in the market is dairy; quality is but fair, except now and then in tubs. Some store-packed is very poor. Supplies are ample. The quality accounts chiefly for the low price. If the farmers would only wake up to the money they lose every year in this way, they would surely see to it that a change be made. Eggs are not in large supply, but demand is light, and at even prices they move slowly. A few new cheese are now here, but old are still quite plentiful. Sale is light, even at the low prices. An improvement is, however, looked for.

SUGAR—It is as firm as anything, though as yet there is no change in price. It is felt that if there is any change it will be to higher values. The English refined, which was referred to last week, gives fair satisfaction, and is rather lower than Canadian, but it is in bags, and they are not liked here. Further importations are doubtful.

MOLASSES — Even here, where it was thought there would be a very firm market if not quite an advance in prices, the general weakening is noticed. Even in Porto Rico, which looked so rosy, there seems now to be ample stocks. Quite a quantity came in this week from Halifax. Some holders, in place of making a big profit, it is said, already find they paid too much for their stock. This is true also of Barbadoes, and it looks as if future arrivals would cost less than those to hand. All this is a surprise. The two cars of New Orleans which came to hand this week are being offered quite low. Quality is but fair.

FISH—Owing to light catch, market has been active. Shad and Gaspereaux are about done. Salmon are still a light catch. Price is low, and there is no good demand from the American market, where, at present, mackerel are preferred. As a rule, prices get better there later. Just at present it is, perhaps, just as well the catch is no larger, as that would only mean lower prices. Halibut is scarce, but the season is over, and price shows no change. In dry fish, cod is still scarce, and quite high, but, with improved weather, larger arrivals are looked for, which means rather lower prices. Pollock are rather easier. There are no pickled fish moving. Fish is a line which, in the American market, where we have to look to sell our surplus, keeps peculiarly low. Quite a few smoked herring were received this week. Prices are easy. Bloaters are dull. There continue to be very few lobsters. We quote: Large cod, $3.50 to $3.65; medium, $3.50 to $3.60; pollock, $1.75 to $1.80; Grand Manan pickled herring, $1.85 to $1.95 per ½-bbl.; smoked herring, 7 to 8c. per box; Canso, pickled $5 per bbl.; boneless fish, 3½ to 4½c.; cod, 6 to 7c.; finnan haddies, 4 to 4½c.; fresh Gaspereaux, 40c. per 100.; fresh halibut, 6 to 7c. per lb.; shad, 10 to 12c.; salmon, 12 to 14c.

PROVISIONS—Are dull as are the other lines. Barreled pork and beef tend easier, with but limited sale. In lard an effort is being made to keep up prices, but it is hard work. Light sales are reported for smoked meats.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—Holders of flour are sellers, and the big prices hoped for have not materialized. Sales, however, still show a good margin, but business has to be pushed, and even then results are not satisfactory. Stocks of Manitoba are quite large, and it would look as if the chief trouble would be with them. Not only is the stock much larger than that of Ontario's, but at present difference in price, sales are hard to make. Oatmeal and oats show quite a decline. Stocks here are light. Cornmeal, which, as in other lines, ruled higher, is, with other lines, off in price. Hay is dull. Feed is still very hard to get, and full prices are asked. A few blue peas are offered, but split peas are about out of the market. Beans are dull sale; little change in price. Seeds have shown a large business this year, but season is about over. We quote: Manitoba flour, $6.90 to $7; best Ontario, $5.80 to $6; medium, $5.50 to $6.75; oatmeal, $4.30 to $4.70; cornmeal, $2.25; middlings, $20 to $22; bran, $18 to $19; oats, 42 to 45c.; hand-picked beans, $1.20 to $1.30; prime, $1 to $1.10; yellow eye beans, $1.75; split peas, $3.80 to $3.90; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $3.50 to $3.75; hay, $8.75 to $9.00; timothy seed, American, $1.75 to $2.15; do., Canadian, $2 to $2.40; mammoth clover, 7 to 7½c.; alsike, 7¾ to 8½c.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Mr. E. A. Smith, of the well-known firm of manufacturers' agents, Smith & Tilton, goes to England, this month, as adjutant of the Bisley Team.

Mr. Archibald Sinclair, the senior member of A. Sinclair & Co., leaves for London this week. He will be accompanied by the Misses Sinclair.

Mr. A. P. Raymond, of Toronto, who has, for a number of years, been here in the office of the Imperial Oil Co., has returned to his home, where he has accepted a position with the Royal Oil Co.

The Burnham-Morrill Packing Co., of Grand Manan, shipped 700 cases of lobsters this week to San Francisco, Cal.

J. K. Armsby Co., of Chicago, writing to their representative here, J. Hunter White, regarding the position of canned salmon in the American market, say that this line has been placed on the Government ration list. The Alaska Packers' Association, for whom they are agents, have placed their entire holding of red fish at San Francisco, to go to the Philippine Islands. It is expected the Government will take within the next few weeks 75,000 to 100,000 cases. So, at least, for this season it would seem the low prices are at an end.

The policy of the Government to pay a higher rate of interest on borrowed money from outside than they pay for that received from the Canadian public, is having the anticipated result. Again, last month, the withdrawals from the St. John branch of the savings bank were very much larger than the deposits, being $100,403.86, or $50,629.20 more than the deposits.

The dairy industry is increasing rapidly in this Province. The dairy factory at Sussex took, last Monday, 974 tons of milk, the largest quantity ever taken at one time.

GIVE THE CLERK A CHANCE.

No man has a monopoly on ideas; no store has a corner on all the good things, says Retail Grocers' Advocate. Sometimes a very attractive display is seen in a store that makes little pretension in this direction, and for this reason it is all the more noticeable.

Investigate, and you will often be surprised to find that the artist is one of the clerks not specially employed for the purpose. Some emergency has given him the opportunity to show what he could do, and he has performed the work well.

It would be well for that store if the newly discovered talent were fostered and encouraged. But it usually happens that, having filled the gap, the clerk is quietly allowed to take his accustomed place, the old order of things goes on, and the displays in window and department remain of the same monotonous, uninteresting type.

Why not give the new man a better chance? Why not give all the clerks a chance to show what they can do, especially those who appear to have taste and aptitude for the work? If it did nothing else it would insure variety, and real artistic ability might be discovered.

THE MACWILLIE CO., LIMITED, SELL OUT.

It was with much surprise that the grocery trade of Toronto learned, on Monday, that The MacWillie Co., Limited, retail grocers, Confederation Life building, Yonge and Richmond streets, had sold out to The Robert Simpson Co., Limited, as previous to this announcement, not a rumor of the deal had been heard.

The MacWillie Co. opened up in the Confederation Life building about five years ago. Prior to that time they had been in business at 190 King street east, where they sold out to Scott Bros.

At the time of their removal to Yonge street the opinion was freely expressed that the proximity to the large departmental stores would make the fight for trade a difficult one.

A good fight was made, however, and the company had a nice trade, extending not only from one end of the city to the other, but to many of the outlying towns and villages. But the margin of profit was so close, and the expense of the delivery system so great, that it was decided to discontinue business.

When the business was first started it was under the style of MacWillie Bros., the present firm name being assumed when the concern became a joint stock company a year or two ago.

TO FIX TEA STANDARDS.

There is to be a meeting of the Board of Customs at Ottawa, on the 21st inst, to fix the standards of tea, in accordance with the amendment to the Customs Act passed last session.

Representatives from the boards of trade at Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, London, Quebec and Halifax, have been invited to attend.

An effort will be made to adopt the same standards as they have in the United States, which is the standard advocated by the board of trade, Montreal, but the board of trade, Toronto, strange to say, want a lower standard.

After the standards have been adopted by the Minister of Customs, they will be kept at two or three ports, and all imported tea must come up to this standard to be admitted for consumption.

The test applied at these selected ports will be by infusion, but provision will be made for a chemical test at Ottawa, in the event of an importer appealing from the decision of the collector at the port of entry.

The adoption by the Department of standards will enable importers to send samples abroad, so that exporters in the country of production will know exactly what will be admitted into Canada.

DON'T.

To those dealers who contemplate dunning slow-paying debtors by means of post cards, the advice of The London Punch to people about to get married, "Don't," is the best that can be offered. The only safe way to use a post card dun is to tear it up and throw it in the waste paper basket, instead of dropping it into a letter-box.

Some local luminaries insist that certain forms of phraseology can be safely used, but the post office authorities say, no, and it would hardly pay to fight Uncle Sam for the sake of a small bill for groceries. Therefore we say, DON'T use post cards, but ordinary writing paper covered from view by the customary envelope. —Merchants' Review.

Good Advertising

We reckon on getting the best possible kind of advertising from every single Broom we put out—every Broom we sell sells another Broom sooner or later. Our Brooms don't last forever, but when one finally wears out the only Broom that replaces it is its original counterpart—a new Boeckhs' Broom.

"It's a poor rule that wont work both ways"—why can't you get some "good advertising" out of our brooms too? You can, if you'll stir around a bit and send for our price list and illustrated book. Good advertising is cheap—if it's done this way.

MR. CHAS. CHAPUT RETURNS.

THE many friends of Mr. Chas. Chaput, of L. Chaput, Fils & Cie., Montreal, will be pleased to learn that he is home again looking exceptionally well after a prolonged continental holiday. He, accompanied by Mrs. and Miss Chaput, arrived at New York early on Wednesday, June 1, by the ss. Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, after a fine and fast passage, having sailed from Southampton on Wednesday May, 25.

Mr. Chaput with his wife and daughter, left Montreal on October 7 last, being given a hearty sendoff by his friends, and sailed from New York on October, 9, by the ss. Touraine, for Havre, France, arriving there on October, 17, after a pleasant voyage, proceeding immediately to Paris, where, owing to remarkably fine weather, they prolonged their stay until November, 19.

Mr. Chaput, who had not been to Paris for over eleven years, says that he found it little changed excepting in the way of architectural embellishments, but, that while practically unchanged, there was always something new to be seen. After spending a delightful month in Paris, they visited Tours, Poitiers, Angouleme, Cognac, where they were entertained by friends, then on to Bordeaux, that district of fruits and wines, where they visited the wine cellars of the principal merchants, and were entertained at the Chateau Floirac, then to Biarritz ; Pau, where they visited the Chateau Henry IV, to Lourdes, Toulouse and Marseilles, from which port steamer was taken across the Mediterranean to the city of Algiers. Mr. Chaput and party took up their residence in the Mustapha or upper part of the city. He describes the city as being picturesque, of about one hundred thousand inhabitants, one-third of whom are Arabs, who fortunately for the city and its visitors, owing to their utter disregard for anything in the nature of cleanliness, occupy a separate district from the Europeans. At that season of the year, January, flowers were in full bloom, and new peas, potatoes, etc., were served up daily at the hotels. The climate is all that can be desired, being warm and balmy, yet, free from strong winds, and, as a consequence, the city is much frequented during the winter months, by English and American tourists. Leaving Algiers on January, 20,they crossed again to Marseilles, and from thence journeyed to Nice, arriving there in time for the carnival season, and finding the many large and commodious hotels overflowing with visitors. All the sights were taken in during their stay of almost a month at that beautiful spot, including the magnificent hotel at which Her Majesty Queen Victoria stops, viz. the Excelcior Regina. From Nice they went to Genoa, Pisa, and on to Rome, which city seems to have been the piece de resistance to Mr. Chaput, its numerous places of historic interest, its churches, and its crowds of English, German and American visitors combining to make it most interesting. Mr. Chaput mentioned with some pride that he and his family had had the pleasure of being present on two different occasions when His Holiness Pope Leo had sung mass. He says that His Holiness shows his age considerably, but, is apparently active still, receiving seven secretaries each day and directing the affairs of the church which his exalted position calls for.

Rome was left behind on March, 20, the party journeying to Naples, where, owing to continued rain, they were prevented from taking in the interesting sights near that city. The next stopping place was Florence, which Mr. Chaput describes as being particularly nice and clean, and where the fine arts are cultivated. Venice was reached on March, 31, and here a number of the large glass and crystal works were visited. Milan came next in order, and its modern improvements, including a splendid system of electric cars was quite a change from the more backward cities. Its magnificent cathedral was an object of much interest and evidently created a lasting impression. Turin, with its splendid straight streets, its many fine monuments, and its bustle, owing to preparations for its National Exhibition, was visited, as was also Lyons, the centre of silk industry in France. Paris was reached again on May, 11, where a longer time than was intended had to be spent owing to the indisposition of Mrs. Chaput, and a proposed visit to the north of England and Scotland had to be cancelled owing to the same misfortune. London was reached on May, 16, and here, to Mr. Chaput's mind, pleasure seemed forgotten and business was all that was thought of. First impressions were unfavorable but the longer they stayed in the great city the more attached they became.

Mr. Chaput and family, sailed from Southampton for home on May, 25, after having spent a most enjoyable and instructive holiday.

Being asked what his impressions were regarding business and business methods, Mr. Chaput said that he thought Canada was doing as well, and that her methods were as good if not better than any country he had visited ; that the comforts enjoyed by Canadians were greater and the expense of living less than at any point which he touched, with perhaps the exception of the city of Algiers.

Italy was at present passing through a crisis, brought on evidently by high taxation and lack of trade, and the Hispano-American war was making business somewhat unsettled in France, owing to the large trade connection with Spain. He had, however, during his stay of over five weeks in Paris failed to hear any expressions directly antagonistic to the United States, nothwithstanding the large financial and business connection between France and Spain.

BUSINESS IN BRISTOL.

THE CANADIAN GROCER has received a copy of the annual report of the Bristol, Eng., Chamber of Commerce and Shipping. During the year the boundaries of the city were extended, so that Bristol now holds the seventh position as regards area in the United Kingdom, as well as sixth for population (320,000), fifth in rateable value and third in its contribution to the National Revenue in Customs levies.

The total number of vessels entering Bristol docks during 1897 was 9,101 with an aggregate tonnage of 1,593,882 as compared with 8,991 with an aggregate tonnage of 1,548,620 in 1896.

Last year, fully 10,000 cattle were received from Canada and a similar number from the United States, making a total of 20,000 as compared with 4,000 the previous year.

The receipts of provisions are growing steadily, being 44,121 tons in 1897 as compared with 37,127 tons in 1896 and 27,695 tons in 1895. Trade with Canada in cheese and butter is growing also, this port taking the second largest proportion of our butter among the United Kingdom ports.

Everything considered, however, Bristol, as a shipping port, has not made advances corresponding to the progress of other cities in the United Kingdom, for, so far as tonnage entering and clearing the port is concerned, Bristol has receded from the second position, which she held for years, to the fifteenth place. This fact has led to an agitation favoring an extension of the dock facilities, etc., it being generally considered that with greater facilities a much greater shipping trade might be done.

CHEESE BUYERS DISSATISFIED.

London, Ont., cheese board buyers are dissatisfied with the present rules governing the sales of the board, as factorymen have the liberty to refuse bids made at the board, and to accept the same price afterward at private sale. The buyers desire an agreement, such as the Peterboro' board is governed by, whereby a fortnightly market will be held, at which all cheese made by the factorymen belonging to the board must be sold. No sales were made at the last meeting of the board, buyers declining to buy until the question of selling is settled.

I know just how much of everything is needed to make the best Condensed Mince Meat on earth, and you may be sure I use my knowledge to the best of my ability. That's why there is so much of my brand sold. Are you getting a share of the profits? I would like you to. Hundreds of others are making lots out of it, so, why not you? You can if you like. Better make a try. Send in a trial order, you'll be surprised how quickly you sell it. Remember the brand, "Wethey's Condensed Mince Meat."

TALK THAT TALKS.

EVERYBODY who knows the grocery trade of St. John, knows that W. A. Magee has one of the handsomest retail grocery establishments in the city, and that his trade is of a character that will not tolerate poor goods. Here is a word from Mr. Magee:

ST. JOHN, April 6th, 1898.

We carry 28 lines of Biscuits manufactured by the Queen Biscuit Co., and the BOSS LUNCH MILK BISCUIT is the quickest seller of them all. All their goods give excellent satisfaction to our customers. The sales of the BOSS LUNCH MILK BISCUIT have greatly increased with us. We think most highly of them.

W. A. MAGEE.

Mr. Magee believes in patronizing lower province industries if they produce good goods. So do you all. Give us a chance to prove our claim that BOSS LUNCH MILK BISCUIT, of which we are the sole manufacturers in Canada, possesses the same unsurpassed qualities that have sent the annual production in the United States up to 30,000,000 lbs.

We have given you just one testimonial. We could fill pages with them, from pleased customers as well as from merchants.

Remember—A delicious Lunch Biscuit at a popular price. Only the best materials go into our goods.

Queen Biscuit Co.

ST. JOHN, N.B.

(We manufacture over 500 lines of Biscuits.)

It Costs No More.

Best Because Purest.

It Costs No More.

The word "best" is misunderstood in Salt. Scientific methods of the day prove that the Vacuum Process, and that process only, makes a uniform, pure, sparkling Salt Crystal. We have the only plant in Canada for supplying Salt made by the Vacuum Process. Thus, Windsor Salt is doubly refined, cleansed, purified, dried. "As pure as Windsor Salt" is the trade phrase from which the quality of all other salts is judged. "Best because purest."

Keeps customers in pleasant temper and inclines them to pay their bills in hot weather.

Maypole Soap Dyes.

The modern English Home Dye of highest quality.

It washes and dyes at one operation. The colors are brilliant—sun, water, air can't fade them. A child can dye perfectly with them.

Help a woman economize and she'll spend more money for necessities at your store.

Vol. XII. (Published Weekly) TORONTO AND MONTREAL, JUNE 24, 1898. ($2.00 per Year) No. 25

CHAT WITH A CANNED SALMON MAN.

I HAD a pleasant chat a few days ago with Mr. Thomas B. McGovern, of New York. A good many readers of THE CANADIAN GROCER know who he is, but there are, doubtless, a good many who do not. To those who do not know him I would say that he is a member of the firm of Delafield, McGovern & Co., who, when I mention that they pack "Clover Leaf" brand salmon, everyone in the grocery trade will recognize. Mr. McGovern is tall, is good looking, and is a young man, notwithstanding his white hair.

Mr. McGovern's visit to Canada was not due to any desire to escape enlistment in Uncle Sam's army, but with a view to capturing orders in this country for "Clover Leaf" salmon, although I doubt not he would do well capturing Spaniards. When I saw him he was in Toronto, and appears to have pretty well succeeded in accomplishing his object. He had already been in Montreal, and was heading for Hamilton, Brantford and London.

"How have I done?" he said, in reply to a question of mine. "Well, last year we sold in Canada double the quantity of 'Clover Leaf' that we did in 1896, and, from what we have already done, we expect that our sales will be double those of 1897."

"What do you know about the canned salmon outlook on the Coast?" I asked.

"Well, it is expected that the pack on the Fraser river will be less than last year. This is what we call the short year; but what would naturally be a short pack is likely to be discounted to some extent by the hatcheries which your Government have established on the Fraser."

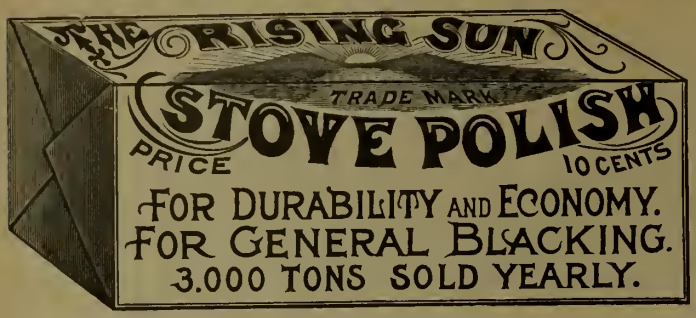
And then Mr. McGovern became eulogistic. "Your Government, through the hatcheries are doing a good work. The hatcheries it has established are far superior to those which our Government has put into operation. They are looked after better; and then the fishing laws are better enforced."

I smiled and asked: "But what about prices?"

"Well, our quotations, free on board, on the Coast are about the same as they were a year ago, but freight rates are about 10c. per hundred pounds lower to Toronto, and 15c. lower to Montreal than they were last year, which means that the laid down prices to the jobber will probably be lower than in 1897. But prices are at the moment firm. In London, England, the market is higher, and about a month ago a meeting of United States packers was held at Puget Sound, when an association was formed and prices advanced for futures 20c. per case, and they are keeping the advance. Now they are trying to do the same thing in British Columbia, and the packers of one of the brands for which we are the agents have instructed us to withdraw quotations until the outcome of this movement has been ascertained. As you already know, the price of canned salmon in Great Britain is controlled by a syndicate."

"Do you not find that there is a great deal of low grade canned salmon on the Canadian market?" I asked.

"I do; and I think it is a pity, for not only does it tend to bear the market, but it tends to affect the consumption of canned salmon, some of it not being fit to eat. You know the canned salmon industry in Canada is an important one, and your people ought to guard it carefully. In the English market the Fraser river salmon has practically driven out the Columbia river canned salmon. A few years ago something like 80 per cent. of the Columbia river pack was exported to England; last year I doubt whether ten thousand cases out of a total pack of half a million cases packed went to that country. The Columbia river salmon is of the chinook variety, and, although a few of this kind are to be found on the Fraser, yet, the bulk of the pack there is, as you, of course, know, sockeye. The chinook is a pink salmon, and the flesh of the sockeye is red. The chinook is also a heavier salmon, running twenty-five pounds to the sockeye's ten."



Then, as Mr. McGovern stopped to "fire up" his cigar, I remarked: "This decision of the United States Government to put canned salmon on the army ration list will be a good thing for that industry in your country?"

"Yes, it will; and for the canned salmon in your country, too, indirectly. The first order placed by the Government was for four thousand cases. It is the intention of the Government to issue canned salmon as rations for the army two days per week, each soldier to get a one-pound can each day the salmon ration is issued. With 200,000 men in the field, you can readily see the consumption of canned salmon will be enormous. Canned salmon ration has not yet been extended to the navy, although, at the officers' mess, canned salmon has been served for some years."

"I wonder," I said, in a sort of meditative way, "why it is the United States Government did not put canned salmon on the ration list before?"

"I don't know," replied Mr. McGovern. "There is no question about its being a good food. A short time ago, we prepared a table giving the nutritive properties of various prepared foods. I dug up some figures which I had in my possession, and forwarded them to the authorities. I am not sure that I remember these figures exactly, but it was something like this: The nutritive properties of canned salmon were 870 points, and of canned corned beef 1,120 points. My recollection is that, in the whole list, corned beef was the only food product which was higher in nutritive qualities than canned salmon, all the others being below it.

Canned salmon, I might say, is on the ration list of both the army and navy in Great Britain."

"How will stocks in the United States stand the demand on army ration account?"

"Well, there was not more than enough to supply the demand at this season, and these purchases on army account are, therefore, likely to exhaust spot stocks. Another feature is this: We will have the Columbia river salmon to fall back upon at first, but it must be remembered that this is a high-priced fish—higher than Fraser river or Alaska salmon. Columbia river salmon is now being delivered, I might say. Packing on the Columbia river began on April 10, and closes on August 10. On the Fraser, the season begins July 1. In Alaska, the packing season begins about the middle of July, but shipment of canned salmon from there do not reach San Francisco until September; sometimes, in fact, till October."

Then Mr. McGovern opened his watch, looked at it, snapped it and "with a good afternoon," took his departure." OMAR.

PEPPER IN OLDEN TIMES.

Dr. Adolph Miller, of Philadelphia, president of the Pennsylvania Mycological Club, in a dissertation on the pepper plant, says that during the middle ages, in Europe, pepper was the most esteemed and important of all the spices. Genoa, Venice and other commercial cities of central Europe were indebted to their traffic in pepper for a large part of their wealth. Its importance as a means of promoting commercial activity and civilization during the middle ages can hardly be overrated. Tribute was levied in pepper, and donations were made in this spice, which was frequently also used as a medium of exchange in place of money. When the imperial city of Rome was besieged by Alaric, the king of the Goths, in 408 A.D., the ransom demanded included 5,000 pounds of gold, 30,000 pounds of silver and 3,000 pounds of pepper, illustrating the importance of this spice at that time.

AMONG TORONTO RETAILERS.

Yonge Street Dealers Satisfied.

This week I turned my footsteps northward, and had a talk with the grocers in the neighborhood of Bloor street on Yonge, and the reports they give regarding the condition of trade are quite roseate. Francis Simpson, 756-760 Yonge street, considered business to be in every way superior to the preceding year or two. The trade in that section of the city, he thinks, is of a somewhat different nature to that in most parts, inasmuch as a great proportion of the people have a regular income, and are consequently in a position to pay cash, or, at the furthest, every month. This makes it possible to do a large cash business, enabling one to do more business on a lower margin. Mr. Simpson's store is an excellent one for fruit trade. It has, as the numbers indicate, the frontage of three single stores. In the window is a large stand, slanting from three feet inside the window to three or four feet outside, thus giving a fine view of the fruit on sale. The stand is protected from the sun by a large awning.

Robert Barron, 726 Yonge street, is making this year some changes to increase his trade in green vegetables. He has had placed in one of his large double windows two troughs, about three inches deep, and covering the whole floor of the window. In the centre of each of these troughs is a large spraying fountain, which keeps the vegetables fresh. The idea of these spraying fountains is not new at all, but, nevertheless, is one that is worthy of more consideration than it receives from many grocers.

David Bell, 702 Yonge street, is also making some extensions. His business has increased during the present season to such an extent that he is now having a new delivery wagon built. He says it is going to be the finest in the street. Mr. Bell says the best feature of business on Yonge street north is, that one can get a good household business, which results in large orders, without the necessity of cutting a half-cent here or a cent there.

In connection with this section of the city. I was impressed last Saturday with the good judgment shown in, I think, every grocery and fruit store on Yonge street, from Bloor to Carleton. About seven o'clock each of these stores had a large number of strawberry crates on display, so large, in fact, that it looked as if they would not nearly all be sold. But, at eleven o'clock, all of them were sold out except two or three dozen small boxes, with hundreds of people still passing to and fro. It is a knowledge, such as this, of the requirements of the neighborhood that makes the difference between a successful and an unsuccessful retailer. Of course, with the most experienced, there is an occasional loss when there is an exceptionally poor or good demand, but a man should know his trade well enough to strike it right about nine times out of ten. THE RAMBLER.

NOVA SCOTIA LOBSTER CATCH.

The Nova Scotia Lobster season has been satisfactory so far. Up to June 10 there were 7,700 crates of live fish shipped this season, as compared with 4,498 crates in the same period, or 5,481 crates altogether last year.

Shipments of canned lobsters up to the same time amounted to $244,640, as compared with $245,934 last year. The slight decrease is caused by lack of shipping facilities, as the pack has been greater. The prices of the canned article have been $10 per case this year as compared with $9 last year.

HALIFAX GROCERS' PICNIC.

On Tuesday, July 26th, the grocers of Halifax will hold their annual picnic at Watters' Landing. It is expected to be a big affair, as five trips will be made to the grounds—two boats about 9 a.m., one about 11 a.m., and two at 1.30 p.m. A band will be present. The profits of the picnic are to be given to the Halifax Horticultural Association.

NEWFOUNDLAND HERRING FISHERY.

THE herring fishery ranks third in the list of the fisheries of the colony. The reports of the operations of fishermen in Placentia Bay—the locality where the catching and curing are carried on on the largest scale—during 1897, emphasize strongly the immense value of this fishery to the fishermen, according to The Fishing Gazette. But, in this particular fishery, the effects of bad methods of cure and reckless operations are more evident than in the cod fishery. They have practically ruined the character of the product in the foreign markets, and made it well nigh impossible to secure remunerative prices. With a failing cod fishery and low prices, there is a louder call for the intelligent development of the herring fishery, in which direction the best efforts of the more enterprising curers and packers should be expended. In the reports recently issued by the Fisheries Board, considerable stress is laid upon the fact, that the practice of selling the herrings in a fresh or frozen condition at a very low price to outsiders, is a source of great loss to the community at large.

The 1897 herring fishery, particulary in and around Placentia Bay, was one of the best, as regards the number of fish taken, on record ; but if, instead of selling the fish in a frozen condition, the fishermen had cured them in a proper manner, the financial results would have been far greater. As it was, the outsiders reaped the benefit. It is estimated that, if vigorously and skillfully worked, this fishery would in ordinary seasons be worth $3,000,000. In the great centres of the fishery—Bay of Islands, St. George's Bay, Fortune and Placentia bays —there has been no serious diminution of the supply, though the seasons vary somewhat in productiveness from year to year. The neglect with which this possible source of wealth has been treated may be judged of from the fact that the average annual herring export does not exceed over 70,000 barrels ; whereas, if turned to proper account, the product might be found competing successfully with that of other countries in all the markets of the world. The quality of the herring compares favorably with that of any other, and the abundance of the fish in and around the shores is such that the supply may be said to be almost inexhaustible.

In addition to other efforts on the part of the Fisheries Board to improve and protect the fishery, printed instructions for the proper cure were widely circulated among the fishermen. The reckless destruction of herrings is prohibited under heavy penalties, and also the pollution of waters. A standard measure for the sale has been fixed, in order to guard against imposition on the part of purchasers. Under these and other necessary restrictions, a small measure of improvement has been noticed ; but constant vigilance is needed to secure the enforcement of the rules. The advisability of establishing two or more curing establishments, where the cure and packing of herrings could be carried on by properly instructed experts, and where herrings could be kippered and made into bloaters, is shown, and an object lesson would thus be given the people as to the proper mode of curing, and actual practical instruction imparted to those who desired it.

MONTREAL GROCERS' PICNIC.

The Montreal Retail Grocers' Association held a special meeting on Thursday, June 16, to hear the reports of the different committees who have been entrusted with the management of the annual picnic. About twenty members were present. The secretary acknowledged the receipt of many contributions from the wholesale trade and other friends of the association. As soon as the list is complete it will be published in THE CANADIAN GROCER.

The session was a short one and all other business was laid over until the regular monthly meeting.

INJUSTICE TO GROCERS.

THE following appeared in a recent issue of The Kingston News: "Dear Mr. Brewster,—I feel greatly interested in your letters, especially your chats with the groceryman. I was just thinking how hard it is nowadays for the groceryman to make ends meet. He pays a heavy license, a fine if you like to call it, for keeping a stock of showy goods, and every improvement he makes the fine gets larger. I have to make $100 profit each week to pay rent, taxes, insurance, clerk hire, for horse feed, etc., and if I get my clothes and 21 meals each week out of the balance, I am lucky. And why the cause of all these charges? Simply this: that a certain class of individuals from back of Sundown have come to town and are shooting here and there like torpedo boats peddling from door to door, selling cheap—but deluding poor, innocent citizens by giving light weight. Shaking and skimming berry boxes, making six bags of potatoes out of five, and doing all sorts of 'leetle' things, besides being a nuisance to citizens. Now, Mr. Brewster, you may think I am hard, but I think it is impossible to be too hard on such a class of so-called ready-made grocers. Dear Brewster, it is hard for an honest groceryman to sell honest goods when the spurious goods are allowed to be handled at will by such people as I have mentioned.

"A lady told me a short time ago she bought a bag of potatoes from one of these dealers, and she had it weighed. She was out just twelve pounds. Now, what is the result? I know several grocerymen who, a few years ago, hired married men, representing so many families, but who now hire boys. Hoping you will soon find a remedy for the evils, I am,

POTENCY OF CONCENTRATION.

"SEE a great lawyer like Rufus Choate," says Dr. Storrs, "in a case where his convictions are strong and his feelings are enlisted. He saw, long ago, as he glanced over the box, that five of those in it were sympathetic with him; as he went on, he became equally certain of seven; the number now has risen to ten; but two are still left whom he feels that he has not persuaded or mastered. Upon them he now concentrates his power, summing up the facts, setting forth anew and more forcibly the principles, urging upon them his view of the case with a more and more intense action of his mind upon theirs, until one only is left. Like the blow of a hammer, continually repeated until the iron bar crumbles beneath it, his whole force comes with ceaseless percussion on that one mind till it has yielded, and accepts the conviction on which the pleader's purpose is fixed. Men say afterward, 'He surpassed himself.' It was only because the singleness of his aim gave unity, intensity and overpowering energy to the mind."

"Daniel Webster," said Sydney Smith, "struck me much like a steam-engine in trousers."

As Adams suggests, Lord Brougham, like Canning, had too many talents; and, though as a lawyer, he gained the most splendid prize of his profession, the Lord Chancellorship of England, and merited the applause of scientific men for his investigations in science, yet his life, on the whole, was a failure. He was "everything by turns, and nothing long." With all his magnificent abilities, he left no permanent mark on history or literature, and actually outlived his own fame.

Miss Martineau says: "Lord Brougham was at his chateau at Cannes when the daguerreotype process first came into vogue. An artist undertook to take a view of the chateau, with a group of guests on the balcony. He asked his lordship to keep perfectly still for five seconds, and he promised that he would not stir, but alas!—he moved. The consequence was, that where Lord Brougham should have been there was only a blur. So stands the view to this hour.

"There is something," remarked Miss Martineau. "very typical in this. In the picture of our century, as taken from the life by history, this very man should have been the central figure. But, owing to his want of steadfastness, there will be forever a blur where Lord Brougham should have been. How many lives are blurs for want of concentration and steadfastness of purpose."

"I resolved, when I began to read law," said Edward Sugden, afterwards Lord St. Leonard, "to make everything I acquired perfectly my own, and never go on to a second reading till I had entirely accomplished the first. Many of the competitors read as much in a day as I did in a week; but at the end of twelve months my knowledge was as fresh as on the day it was acquired, while theirs had glided away from their recollection."—Pushing to the Front.

ADVERTISING TO CONSUMERS.

THE phrase is becoming somewhat of a chestnut, says St. Paul Trade Journal. To be sure, there is much virtue in employing a style of advertising that will reach the class who are the eventual users of the particular article advertised. At the same time, it must be remembered that every retailer has a large number of customers who will accept his word for anything they buy, against all the advertising that may be published from January to December. John Jones may advertise his soap for years, and spend thousands of dollars in inducing some housekeeper to ask for "Jones' Soap." When she goes to the store and asks for it, her grocer, whom she has known for years, and who handles Smith's Soap, which is brought to his attention through his trade paper, will say to her with a smile: "My dear Mrs. ———, I cannot really advise you to use that soap. It has been tried, and has not given satisfaction. Here is something that I can recommend, however." And Jones, who has advertised to the consumer, makes no sale, while Smith, who has used the trade journals and reaches the storekeeper, gets the business.

The point we make is simply this—that the element of the effect of the advice and suggestion of a known and trusted family merchant is too often overlooked. It may have as much, or possibly more, weight with the buying public than the advertisements that go direct to the consumer. This is, of course, assuming that competing articles are of equal merit, as a large percentage of them are at the present time.

Advertise to consumers by all means, but at the same time do not overlook the tremendous effect of gaining the eye and ear of the man who can influence more sales than all the "advertising to consumers" in all the "family" publications in the country.

CHINA'S TEA TRADE.

THE following is taken from The N.Y. Commercial Advertiser: "Speaking the other day, of the effect on the China tea trade of the present complications in the Far East, a well-known authority in the trade said:

"'It appears to be probable that China, unless she wakes up and does something, will gradually lose her tea trade. China teas of the finer grades are certainly as good as any other teas in the world, if not better, but the greater energy of the virile and progressive Anglo-Saxon men who control the Indo-Ceylon tea industry is making itself felt. With unlimited capital, with the use of machinery and with modern business methods, the Anglo-Indian tea planters are having a "walkover" in the contest with China. Racked by internal disturbances, verging on a revolution, menaced by foreign powers and threatened with dismemberment, her public men and officials sunk to the lips in corruption, poor old China apparently has neither the inclination nor the time to protect and foster her industries and commerce. The ultimate result will probably be that China will be divided up by Great Britain, Russia, France and Germany, and that European capital and energy and business methods will come to the rescue of the already imperilled China tea industry.

"'With the Japanese, however, the situation is different. Of great enterprise and business push, these Yankees of the east have learned a lesson from their loss of a great portion of their European tea trade, and are now thoroughly alive to the importance of holding what they have and increasing it. The Japan Tea Traders' Association, which is practically a branch of the Department of Agriculture of the Japanese Government, has now complete control of the tea industry of Japan. All the tea planters of that country, numbering over a million altogether, are compelled by law to belong to the association, which is under the immediate control of a committee in Tokio. This committee, in order to maintain the quality, examines, or causes to be examined, every package of tea exported from the Empire. At the present time, Japan proper exports one-half of the tea used in the United States and Canada. With the addition of Formosa, which now belongs to Japan, this large proportion is increased to two-thirds. This is a vast business, and the Japanese are thoroughly alive to the importance of retaining it. A year ago, the Government appropriated $400,000, to be expended in advertising Japan teas in this country. Negotiations are now being conducted which, if successful, will increase this amount to upward of $2,000,000. I am also informed that tea-rolling machinery is rapidly supplanting hand work in Japan, and, as the Japanese are, besides, and in contradistinction to the Chinese, one of the cleanest people in the world, it will be readily seen that the Ceylon and other Indian tea planters have their work cut out for them in seeking to displace Japan tea in the American market. It is an interesting struggle.'

"On the general subject of tea and its preparation, the gentleman quoted said: 'It is said that the United States of America consumes the poorest teas in the world. This is caused partly by a lax enforcement of the pure food laws, and partly by the fact that Americans are not really good judges of tea, and do not demand the best. Another contributory cause is, no doubt, the ignorance and carelessness of many dealers who handle the fragrant herb. The tea plant is a very delicate one, and its product, the tea of commerce, is equally delicate, yet in thousands of stores in this country teas are kept in open boxes or bins in close proximity to fish, vegetables, butter, cheese and other interesting, but unpleasant smelling articles of commerce. Even if tea is kept away from foreign odors, it ought not to be kept in stock in open packages. A certain proportion of its strength and flavor is sure to escape if the air can get at it. The ideal, indeed the only sensible way for the dealer to handle tea, is in small, air-tight packages which can be sold unbroken to the retail customers. These packages preserve the delicate strength and flavor intact until the tea is required for consumption.

"'In China and Japan the art of properly making tea is an important part of the female education. Indeed, everyone, from the highest to the lowest, seems to be well versed in this important matter. The following recipe for making tea was written by the Chinese Emperior Kien Long, who departed this life in 1799: "Place over a gentle fire a well-seasoned and long-used vessel filled with the pure water of melted snow. Boil it long enough to turn a lobster red and then pour it upon the leaves of the choicest tea in a tea pot of the finest procelain. When the thick cloud issuing from it becomes a fine mist floating upon its surface, pour it into the cup and drink it off. This precious liquor will drive away every care. The delicious state of quietude produced by such a beverage must be felt and cannot be described." '"

HAD TO GET A NEW WAREHOUSE.

The Fairbanks Co. which has been doing business throughout Canada for over 40 years finds its trade increasing to such an extent that it has recently decided to open an extensive warehouse in Montreal, from which place all Canadian orders can be filled with even greater despatch and satisfaction than heretofore. The large building, No. 749 Craig street, has been secured, and extensive alterations and improvements made, enabling the company to use the four flats and basement to the best advantage.

It is proposed to carry, and have always in stock, a full line of scales, asbestos disk valves, asbestos packed cocks, store and warehouse trucks, portable forges, factory and mill supplies, etc., and all goods sent from this branch will be inspected, and orders filled according to Canadian requirements.

The company manufactures about 7,500 modifications of weighing-machines, and will make a special effort to meet all requirements. One of the latest improvements, which will be of interest to many, is a scale, the beam of which prints tickets registering the weight of the load upon the platform, thus doing away with all possibility of mistake, and keeping a record for future reference.

One of the features of interest to visitors to the warehouse is a display of the numerous gold, silver and bronze medals awarded the firm from all the leading exhibitions of the world, certifying, as they do, to the high quality of its goods.

THEY ARE GOOD PICKLES.

An exchange in an article on pickles, says: "Famous among the American brands are the goods manufactured by Williams Brothers & Charbonneau, of Detroit, Michigan. Their product is enormous. The quality of all goods of their manufacture is second to none in the world. The style of their packages is unique and elegant. Their business is conducted on a very extensive and broad plan, which includes raising cucumbers and other vegetables and fruits on immense farms, which are models of modern agricultural development. From the farm to the glass bottles in which they are sold to the consumer, all the labor of raising, salting, pickling and packing, is done by this great house on their own premises. From the planting of the seed to the shipping of the product, constant care and vigilance places Messrs. Williams Brothers & Charbonneau in an enviable position among the pickle manufacturers of the world. Their line of pickles, preserves, mustards and condiments, are justly famous among dealers and cousumers everywhere."

A. E. Richard & Co., of Hamilton, are the selling agents for these goods for Canada. The quantity distributed by them this season, has, they say, been enormous, averaging about 500 cases per week, and the demand is increasing.

THE cable announces that in the new treaty which Germany is making with Great Britain, the Dominion of Canada is to be denied the privilege of sharing in its provisions.

In taking this stand, Germany has, doubtless, been actuated by the spirit of retaliation because Canada was instrumental in inducing the British Government to renounce the treaty of 1865.

It is to be regretted that the German Government is inclined to be revengeful over the matter. It is undignified and unbecoming a great civilized nation.

Canada, when she induced the British Government to renounce the Belgian and German treaties of 1862 and 1865, respectively, was actuated by no desire to injure either of these countries. Her motive, purely and simply, was to be freed from the provisions of treaties made before the Dominion was born, and which prevented her, a self-governing colony, from according tariff preferences to the Mother Country.

But, even had the German Government been willing to accord, under the new treaty, favored nation privileges to Canada, as to whether we would have accepted them would have depended upon ourselves, for some years it having been the policy of the British Government, when making treaties with foreign countries, to provide that the Dominion could refuse or accept them at will.

Since 1880, Canada has refused to accede to no less than thirteen treaties which the British Government has entered into with foreign nations. The last to which she refused to accede was that with Japan, signed by the Imperial authorities a couple of years ago.

The treaties to which, since 1880, she has acceded are only two, and they were with Muscat and Uruguay.

As a purchaser of Canadian products, Germany does not rank high. Last year, the total exports to that country only amounted to $1,045,432. In 1896 they were $757,331, and in 1895 $626,976. And, although among Germany's customers Canada only ranks about sixteenth, yet this country is a much larger buyer of German products than the latter is of Canadian products, the Dominion in 1897 importing $5,785,546 worth from that country.

Great Britain is incomparably above all other nations Germany's best customer. According to the last returns we have to hand, the exports from Germany to Great Britain were valued at 675,522,000 marks, while the next in order was Austro-Hungary, with 373,912,000 marks. Of Germany's total exports, between one-fourth and one-third are to the British Empire.

CANNED MEATS LOWER.

A reaction from the phenomenally high prices which have for some weeks been ruling on canned meats has begun.

The reduction began with the United States packers, and this week the packers in Canada have followed suit.

The reduction in the price of Canadian canned beef is 15c. on 1's, 35c. on 2's, $1.25 on 6's and $1.50 on 14's.

The wholesalers are now quoting as follows: 1's, $1.55 to $1.60; 2's, $2.80; 4's, $5.75; 6's, $8.75 to $9; 14's, $20.

Under the new quotations the prices of Canadian meats are still materially below those of the United States product.

SUGAR UNSETTLED.

THE sugar market has been rather unsettled during the past week and still continues so. The chief influence in producing this condition is the heavy disposition of beet abroad, prices on that staple having dropped fully 6d. since June 9.

Last week, both present and next month's shipments were quoted at 9s. 9d., whereas, this week, present month is offered at 9s. 7½d., and next month, 9s. 8¼d.

Cane continues steady, for there is little of it offering, but it is the fluctuation in beet that exercises the most influence on the price of Canadian refined.

This condition, and the fact that agents of foreign sugar take advantage of every fluctuation in the raw market to offer goods, keeps domestic refiners on the watch, so that no business may slip away from them. As a result, Canadian standard granulated was marked down 1-16c. per pound this week. This is a decline in the past fortnight of 3-16c. per pound.

With regard to foreign sugars, it is understood that offers of English sugar, in bags, is being made at 3½c.; and German and Dutch sugars at 4c.

Demand at the refineries is rather quiet at the moment, though it is expected to pick up soon, as the preserving season will commence in a short time.

CANNED VEGETABLE FUTURES.

THE decision of the Canadian packers, at the meeting held in Toronto last week, to fix the price of tomatoes at 80c., of peas at 75c. and of corn at 70c. has induced some talk but no business.

The prospects for the present season are for a large yield. And this naturally does hot help matters as far as the packers are concerned.

But the greatest deterrent to business in futures is the price. Last year, the bulk of the tomato pack sold at 65c. per dozen. Peas opened at 60 to 62½c., and corn at 55c.

Then, before the packers met last week, some of the wholesalers contracted for the bulk of their season's supply of tomatoes at 70c. per dozen.

Wholesalers do not deny that they may ultimately have to pay the prices asked by the packers, but, in the meantime, they prefer to wait developments.

HOW TO START A CASH BUSINESS.

CASH stores are springing up all over the Dominion. Some are new stores, and some are old stores which are forsaking the credit for the cash system.

THE CANADIAN GROCER is, from time to time in receipt of letters courting suggestions as to ways and means of inaugurating the cash system, both from those who are going into business for the first time, and from those who are already in business, and desire to adopt the more modern system.

The same modus operandi would scarcely be applicable to all cases, but there are certain principles which may be referred to, and which may be of some help in the premises.

The merchant who will find the greatest difficulty in adopting the cash system is unquestionably he who is already in business and has been following the credit system. Most of his customers have probably been dealing with him for years, and many of them have probably been getting three, six, or twelve months' credit. How to get them conformed to the new order of things is the problem to be solved.

The giving of credit, and the accepting of credit, is a habit, and habits are not easily broken, especially when they have been years in operation. There is a song which says "Don't get in the habit of it," and it applies to the credit system as well as to other things which are evil in their tendencies.

In departing from the credit system, and conforming to the cash system, some customers are certain to be lost. Some will be lost because of their inability, fancied or real, to pay cash. Others will be lost because their dignity will be touched by the new order of things.

Obviously, then, a careful intelligence should be exercised. The change from credit to cash should not be made suddenly.

It would be the height of folly for a merchant to decide on Saturday night that when he opened his store on Monday morning not an ounce of goods should cross his counter unless the cash or its equivalent was first in his till. He would lose half his customers ; and it would serve him right.

When a merchant has decided to throw overboard the credit system and take on board the cash system, he should give his customers at least one month's notice.

As a preliminary step, he should announce his decision in the advertising columns of his local paper. Then, a personal letter to each of his customers, setting forth his intentions, would materially help in the premises. In the store, a hanger might be placed, announcing that on and after a certain date the credit system would be discarded and the cash system inaugurated. And then, on every opportunity, the merchant and his clerks should speak to customers of the proposed change and dilate upon its advantage to the customer.

The most careful of merchants who do a credit business annually lose money from bad debts. And every dollar so lost is so much added to the cost of doing business, which, in turn, must be borne by the goods which are sold.

These are facts which, in letter, in advertisement, and in conversation, should be pointed out out to customers.

The merchant who does a cash business is in a position to sell his goods at a lower figure and still make as good, if not better profit than his competitor who sells on credit. And he is expected to sell cheaper. If he does not his efforts will be sadly handicapped.

Let him put himself in the place of his customers. Would he buy from A for cash if, other things being equal, he could get the same things from B at the same price and secure from one to twelve month's credit ? Of course he would not.

The department stores are enabled to sell at the close figures they do because their business is carried on wholly under the cash system.

Country merchants who adopt the cash system are, in this particular, therefore, on an equality with their great deparment store contemporaries. And out of this fact they should make all the capital they possibly can.

While it is not as essential that persons just starting into business and under the cash system should take as much pains to acquaint the public with the fact, as those who are leaving the credit for the cash system, yet it is essential, nevertheless.

The new merchant is different from the old merchant in one important particular : He has no customers whom, in adopting the cash system, he has to mollify. But, like the other, he has need to advertise, and advertise well. If not, his chances of success are poor. He, too, like the merchant going from credit to cash, will find it necessary to show the consuming public that by selling for cash he can do better as far as prices are concerned, than he could if he adopted the credit system.

There are, doubtless, some now doing a credit business who deem that the best policy would be to gradually give up the credit system, and not do so at one fell stroke. In other words, they would continue giving credit to the good customers, but add no more to their list, new customers being compelled to pay cash.

Perhaps, in some instances, this would be the better plan to follow. But a merchant would have to decide this for himself. It might and it might not be satisfactory. It would, at any rate, be unsatisfactory if Mr. Brown knew that Mr. Smith was getting credit at Jones' while he, notwithstanding his good financial standing, was denied it.

But perhaps the experience of an Eastern Ontario merchant might be cited. He dedided to have two prices—one for credit and the other for cash customers. He advertised this fact, and in the rear of his store kept suspended a large sign announcing the fact to every customer who entered the store. He experienced some difficulty at first, but eventually he began to be understood. Finally, however, he discarded altogether the two-price system and confined himself to one, the cash price, for he had adopted the cash system.

Some people have asked questions in regard to coupons and trading stamps as helps to doing a cash business. We could not recommend them. They are, at best, but a temporary expedient, and unsound in business practice.

Success can only be really obtained by a man managing his own business. Let him have fair capital as represented in brains and money, reliable goods in his store, ideas and energy in himself, and he will be successful under either the credit or cash system, but especially under the cash system.

THE TEA STANDARDS.

THE Hon. W. Paterson, Minister of Customs, has this week been paying a good deal of attention to the proposed changes in the method of testing tea imported into the country.

On Tuesday he was in Toronto to consult with the trade in regard to the matter, and a conference took place in the Board of Trade building. There was a good attendance of wholesalers and brokers.

It was pointed out to the Minister that to put standards into effect at this time of the year would be most inadvisable. In March last the importers had been given to understand that no changes in the method of testing tea would be made this year. On the strength of this the trade had placed import orders for tea, large quantities of which would not arrive for several months hence. Therefore, to fix standards now would be an injustice. The proper time to do so would be in January.

That night Mr. Paterson returned to Ottawa, and on the following day (Tuesday), in response to invitations which had previously been sent out, he held a conference with tea importers from different parts of Canada.

There were present: Messrs. T. H. Estabrooks and W. R. Miles, St. John, N.B.; Alex. Anderson and P. S. Doyle, Montreal; T. C. Bates, Ottawa: T. McPherson, M.P., Hamilton; F. Dane and James Ince, Toronto.

The immediate putting into effect of standards was again deprecated, and the concensus of opinion was that January was the most suitable time. Against the adoption of the United States standards the importers strongly urged. And in support of this contention it was pointed out that under the law in operation across the border fine and high priced teas had sometimes been rejected. One lot, for instance, of broken Pekoes and broken Orange Pekoes, the first cost of which was 28c., had been rejected at one of the United States ports of entry and afterwards sold at a sacrifice in Toronto. It was held that the duty of the Government was not to keep out low priced teas, but to keep out spurious and injurious teas.

It was also urged that the standards should be fixed by experts, and that they should be prepared in December, going into effect the following month.

In order to provide for the inspection of teas for the present season, this recommendation was made: That samples of Japan teas invoiced under 12c., China black teas under 9c., China greens under 10c., and Indian and Ceylon teas under 10c., should be submitted to an expert at Ottawa for examination by the infusion test, all teas above these prices to be passed without this test being applied, except when it was deemed necessary to do so.

When the proposed tea standards went into effect, the Minister was urged that an expert be appointed at each of the chief commercial centres, whose duty, in case of a dispute with the regular expert at Ottawa, would be to revise his inspection and report thereon to the Department.

Hon. Mr. Paterson expressed a strong desire to fall in with the views of the tea trade, but, of course, did not say what would be the final outcome of the representations. The trade came away with a high opinion of Mr. Paterson.

It is when trade conditions are bad, not when they are good, that business men are most zealous for good business methods.

STRAWBERRIES CHEAP.

As was noted in these columns, a large crop of Oakville and Niagara strawberries was anticipated this season, but none of the dealers and few of the growers fully realized the abundance of the crop till the immense receipts in Toronto sent prices tumbling all round last week. The fine rain on Sunday and Monday had a wonderful effect, and strawberries are now more plentiful than they have been for years. This can best be realized by comparison of prices.

The prices ruling this week are about 3½ to 5c., while the range last year was from 6 to 10c.; in 1896, 6 to 8c., and in 1895, 8 to 12c.

The low prices have made it useless to ship very poor stock, so the average quality this year is easily higher than in former years.

If some people used their heads as often as they do their feet they would do more and better work, and that without any greater impairment of vitality.

We attribute this to the facts mentioned in our announcement in this week's issue, to which we draw the attention of the trade, and respecting which we shall be glad to answer all enquiries for quotations, etc.," say The Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

Lucas, Steele & Bristol report a good sale for their Crystal beverages. They prepay freight and freight on empties returned in 5-case lots.

Pineapple, new pack, in 1-lb. flat, oval tins, "Extra Bahama" grated and triangular cut, is in stock with The Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

Lucas, Steele & Bristol are sending out with their "L.S. & B." and "Empire" coffees, simple directions for making coffee, which should be appreciated by their customers.

"Clearing prices" for California prunes, peaches and apricots are moving out the balance of The Eby, Blain Co.'s stock at a lively rate.

Nearly all the coffee now sold by grocers is of good quality, but is spoiled in making. Few people, especially those in hotels, understand it. Lucas, Steele & Bristol urge that cold milk should never be used.

The Davidson & Hay, Limited, has to hand this week a large shipment of Spanish olives, packed expressly for themselves under their own brand. "Buyers can fill their requirements in all grades at rock bottom prices," say the firm.

TWO WINDOW DISPLAYS.

Two windows recently described by a writer on grocery topics, appeared as follows:

A SOAP DISPLAY.

In this display there was a wall extending right across the window, and made up of washboards, packages of washing powder, and other washing materials. In the centre of this wall were two pillars of soap, in between which was a regular wooden gate, swinging on hinges, and marked, "Gateway of cleanliness." On top of each pillar was a bucket, with cotton batting on top to represent soap suds. The floor of the window was a white gloss starch, and set into this was a pathway of white and mottled castile soap leading to the gate.

A COFFEE DISPLAY.

All kinds of coffees were displayed in this window but a leading feature in the display was a sort of fort formed with the different brands of package coffee with the prices hanging in front. From this fort of coffee protruded several water pipes with apples wrapped in tin foil discernable at their mouths, to represent cannons ready to be fired. A label in front proclaimed "Death to high prices."

FEMALE CLERKS.

PROFITS are getting so small and expenses are increasing in a ratio so out of keeping with the business done that many grocers are contemplating employing female clerks, claiming that they can do all the work except the lifting and order deliveries. This is, of course, on the presumption that the wages will be less than men must be paid. And yet the grocery clerk (hours of labor considered) is paid a very small wage. Too bad that these labor men who agitate for short hours and high wages for clerks cannot see that the first essential to these desirable reforms is a good profit on goods sold. Ninety-five per cent. of those agitators will buy their goods at some cut-rate store, departmental concern or supply house. The inevitable result will be that men will be displaced by women as clerks. A reform to be effective must contemplate all the questions that enter into the solvment of a hard commercial problem.—Commercial Enquirer.

MR. MARCEAU GOING TO EUROPE.

Mr. E. D. Marceau, of L. Chaput, Fils & Cie, Montreal, sails on the ss. Umbria from New York on Saturday, 25th inst., for a six weeks' trip throughout England, Ireland and France. He proposes visiting London, Liverpool, Manchester, Dublin, Glasgow, Paris, and other trade centres, and will combine business with pleasure. A BOOM IN PORK PACKING FACTORIES.

THERE is one other particular in which Canada is likely to be benefited by the popularity of its pea-fed bacon in Great Britain, besides the actual consumptive demand for it, and that is by the starting of pork-packing factories in this country by British capitalists.

Within the last few weeks, representatives of British syndicates have been in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Ontario, looking for favorable sites on which to start these factories.

Already a company, with a capital of $150,000, is seeking incorporation for the purpose of starting a factory at Brockville, Ontario, work on which will be started as soon as a site is secured. Then, a member of a Liverpool firm is looking for a site in Western Ontario, on which it is prepared to erect a $50,000 building, and is trying to induce Ballantyne & Sons, of Stratford, to join him in the enterprise.

In New Brunswick, a joint-stock company is being organized, with a capital of $100,000. The site of the proposed factory will, in all probability, be on the Strait shore. Nova Scotia is likely to have a pork-packing factory at Middleton, on the Yarmouth and Annapolis railway.

In Charlottetown, P.E.I., the unremitting exertions and intelligent enthusiasm of Mr. Packenham, of Dublin, Ireland, are meeting with the appreciation they deserve, and we expect, in the near future, to see a practical result from his efforts.

Stouffville, again, is not far behind, and we hear of $40,000 being raised in ten minutes at a farmers' meeting lately, to start a joint stock company for the same purpose.

The increased demand for good bacon and pork, has led to a corresponding improvement in hog raising. Mr. Brethour, of Burford, is said to produce the best Yorkshire bacon hogs in Canada. He proposes making a study of the bacon trade in England, and is certain to make a success of it, as he has studied all its branches in Messrs. Davies' and Fearman's houses, than which there are no better in the Dominion. Mr. Brethour says that the demand for thoroughbred hogs is excellent; he finds difficulty in supplying them.

Canada is gaining a reputation in Great Britain for its bacon, akin to that which it now enjoys there for its cheese. This reputation has been built up by pea-fed hogs, and, it is to be hoped that the Federal and the Provincial Governments and the pork-packers will hand in hand take steps to prevent this reputation being sullied through the ignorance or carelessness of hog-raisers.

That a warning is necessary is obvious. Not only corn-fed, but, even grass-fed pork is being marketed. No one can prevent farmers feeding corn, grass, or even glass to their hogs if they so desire, but some vigorous and efficient means should be taken to see that the bacon of hogs so fed does not cross the Atlantic. Canada cannot afford to jeopardize its export bacon trade because a few people are short-sighted enough to feed their hogs with food, which, while it may fatten them, will kill the trade which is now so promising.

QUEEN CITY OIL CO. MOVING.

The headquarters of the Queen City Oil Co. has been moved from 30 Front street to the new building at the northwest corner of King and Yonge streets, where the company will occupy the entire top flat.

The founder of this company, Mr. Samuel Rogers, commenced business about 22 years ago, and already the product of this company reaches to every section of Ontario, involving an immense amount of business, embracing not only the output of the Sarnia Oil Co., but the Canadian agency of the Standard Oil Co.

For the expeditious handling of this large business, branches have been established at Hamilton, Ottawa, Brantford, Belleville, Brockville, Kingston, Napanee, Port Hope, Peterboro', Owen Sound, Orillia, Midland, London, Berlin, Woodstock, St. Thomas and Fort Erie.

A NEW WASHBOARD.

The progressive dealer is always on the look-out for something new and attractive for his customers. New goods draw new trade and retain your regular customers. A new line of washboards is being placed on the market; something that will give satisfaction and not fall apart after once using. No backs to come off, or warp and twist out of shape. The framework is constructed from selected hardwood, and has a patent ventilating feature to allow the water to drain off, and prevents becoming water-soaked, and corroding of zinc, as happens so frequently. The new line is manufactured in ten grades, with single and double surface, and improved tops. Every board is warranted if branded "Boeckh." Write to Boeckh Bros. & Co., Toronto, for catalogue and prices.

H. P. Eckardt & Co. are offering special value in select Valencia raisins.

PEDLARS' LICENSES.

THE Toronto Retail Merchants' Association and the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association are using every effort to have the licenses of pedlars doing business in Toronto increased, the associations claiming that the pedlars do not pay a just share of taxation for the amount of business they do.

On Thursday of last week the meeting of the property committee of the city council was attended by a large number of grocers, butchers, etc., and by representatives of the pedlars. The grocers asked that a charge of $50 for a two-horse wagon; $30 for a one-horse wagon and $15 for a hand-cart be charged, instead of the present general rate of $10, and that the license for hand-baskets be reduced from $2 to $1.

The property committee talked long, but adjourned without taking any action.

They were to have met on Tuesday of this week, but, in the absence of the chairman from the city, they did not do so.

The Toronto commission merchants intend backing up the retailers, and the following petition is to be sent from the commission merchants to His Worship the Mayor, and to the members of the Toronto City Council:

GENTLEMEN,—In view of the proposed changes in the market building, we, the undersigned ratepayers of the City of Toronto, humbly beg to draw your attention to the fact that unless some measure is adopted, whereby farmers, hucksters and other vendors of produce are compelled to come to the market to dispose of their goods, in our opinion the money expended in making said alterations will be in vain. Consequently, we, the undersigned ratepayers of the City of Toronto would petition your honorable body so to legislate, that outsiders offering their wares for sale, off the market, will be compelled to pay a license, to put them on equal footing with business houses contributing to the taxes of this city. As it now is, much loss is entailed to the city, and we, as business houses, are put to a great disadvantage and actual loss, on account of the loose way this part of the business is conducted.

SALES AT CHEESE BOARDS.

THE following offerings and sales were made at the various cheese boards during the week:

London, June 18.—133 boxes of May and 3,525 boxes of June cheese were offered; 210 boxes were sold at 7 1-16c.; 340 at 7⅛c.; 255 at 7 3-16c.; 935 at 7¼c.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, June 23, 1898.

GROCERIES.

THE feature of the wholesale grocery trade this week is undoubtedly the sugar market, quotations for which are 1-16 to ⅛c. lower than they were a week ago. The demand for sugar is gradually improving, although the Canadian refiners are not yet feeling the benefit of it to any material extent. The fixing of the price by the packers of tomatoes, peas and corn for the coming season's output is the only new feature in the canned goods market. Teas are quiet, Ceylons being the only descriptions for which there is anything like a good demand. Coffees are quiet. Currants are easier in the primary market, and locally the demand is fair, with prices unchanged. In nuts, the only feature is the high price of Tarragona almonds. Syrups and molasses continue dull. Canned beef is lower by from 15c. to $1.50 per case. Trade generally is not as good as wholesalers would like to see it.

CANNED GOODS.

The feature of the canned goods market is the fixing of prices, by the Canadian Packers' Association, on tomatoes, peas and corn, for the coming season. For tomatoes, the price is 80c., for peas, 75c., and for corn, 70c. No business, however, as far as can be learned, is being done at these figures, especially as some wholesalers have contracted for tomatoes at the price the packers are now asking for corn. There have been some offers of new pack strawberries at $1.30 per dozen, but the figure appears to be too high to attract buyers. By no means the least of the features is the decline in the price of canned beef, packers' prices being all the way from 15c. to $1.50 per dozen lower, according to size. Salmon is the most active line in canned goods, the demand for it being good. With the advent of green fruits, the demand for the canned description is falling off. Wholesalers' selling prices of all kinds of canned goods, except meats, are much as before.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There is practically nothing doing in either syrups or molasses. Advices from New Orleans state that the market there is quiet, with buyers and sellers apart in their views.

SUGAR.

The condition of the sugar market during the past week has not been satisfactory. Prices have experienced another reduction of 1-16c. per lb., and, in the lower grades of yellows, even ⅛c. reduction is to be noted. No. 1 granulated is now down to 4 5/8c. per lb., and No. 2 domestic and imported granulated are quoted at 4 7-16c. per lb. A new classification of yellows has also been put into operation, there now being a No. 3 at 3 13-16c., and a No. 2 at 3¾c. The latter figure is also the price of imported yellows. The wholesalers report the demand much better, but refiners' agents are doing very little yet. Fresh shipments of foreign granulated are this week being taken into warehouse by the Toronto wholesalers, which, no doubt, in part explains the small business which the refiners are doing. An improved demand from this out is anticipated.

NUTS.

The strength of the Tarragona almond market is still being maintained. To-day old crop would cost 10c. per lb. to lay down here, and new, for shipment in September, would cost the same figure. Prices, compared with a year ago, are 30 per cent. higher.

For Prices Current See Pages 34 and 35.

COFFEE.

The local market is quiet and unchanged. Fluctuations in exchange continue to interfere with business, and easier advices from Europe do not tend to add to the strength of the market.

TEAS.

Ceylon teas are still selling well on the local market. The London market has been showing good values in these teas for three months past. Prices there have a little higher tendency, all fine liquoring teas being keenly competed for at ½d. to 1d. per lb. advance. The Ceylon teas which are receiving the most attention on the local market just now are medium grades, which are showing unusually good value. Japans are coming forward more freely, although a cable from Yokohama states that there was no room on the Empress of China, which sailed on the 16th inst, for teas for Canada, all on board being for the United States. This will make Japan teas scarce on this market. The teas coming forward show good liquor, but there is not much business being done. China teas are neglected. Most, if not all the teas shipped from Toronto to the United States appear to have got across the border before the war revenue bill went into operation.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS—The currant market is easier in Greece. Locally, there is not much doing on importation account, but retailers are still buying fairly well.

VALENCIA RAISINS—A few lots have changed hands, but it is now too late to allow of any import trade being done.

PRUNES—Are still neglected, and nominally unchanged in price.

CALIFORNIA FRUITS—It is now between the seasons, and there is practically nothing doing.

GREEN FRUITS.

The receipts of strawberries continue as large as ever, and they are selling briskly. The stock offered has been of comparatively good quality, and prices are steady at a small range running from 3½ to 5c. per box. Gooseberries are now coming in plentifully, and are selling from 20 to 40c. per basket. Canadian cherries are arriving now in fair quantities, the prices quoted being 60 to 75c. per basket. The supply of bananas is better this week, and prices are easier. Mississippi tomatoes are arriving in moderate quantities at about $1.25 per case. California plums are coming in well, and are readily purchased at $2 to $2.25 per case. California navels and Messina oranges are off the market, and Mediterranean sweets and California seedlings are offered in about equal quantities. The hot weather is gradually driving the poorer quality of lemons off the market, and, as the demand continues good, the best qualities are advancing in price. Pineapples are still scarce and prices are practically unchanged. New potatoes are arriving from the United States and are selling in 100-lb. bags at $2.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER—Receipts of dairy tubs have been large, and, as the demand is small, a steady accumulation is noted. The hot weather has, however, reduced the receipts of large roll dairy butter, and the demand for creamery prints is better, causing a firmer feeling, and an advance of ½c. in the latter. At country points 11 to 11½c. is paid for dairy tubs and prints, 15c. for creamery tubs and 16 to 16½c. for creamery prints, f.o.b.

CHEESE—The feeling is firmer at factories, prices at cheese sales reaching as high as 7 3/8c., while 7¼c. is a common

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The delivery is not quite as free as it has been, and, as the demand keeps brisk, an advance of ½c. is noted, the ruling prices now being 10½ to 11c. Offerings outside are moderate, the price now being 9½c. f.o.b. country points.

POTATOES—The market is weak. Carload lots are quoted about 45 to 50c., but, as the new potatoes will soon be in, dealers are not anxious to buy, considering it risky to purchase any quantity at these figures. The price asked on the street ranges from 50 to 55c.

DRIED APPLES—Nothing doing. Prices nominally 2½ to 3½c.

EVAPORATED APPLES—There is a steady feeling, with prices at 9 to 9½c. per lb.

BEANS—Business is dull. Hand-picked are firm at 95c. to $1, while ordinary beans are quoted all the way from 60 to 80c.

HONEY—Nothing doing. No change in prices.

VEGETABLES—Green peas, butter beans, beets and carrots have declined materially. Rhubarb, spinach and asparagus are dearer. We quote as follows: Rhubarb, 15 to 25c. per doz. bunches; onions, 5c. per doz. bunches; lettuce, 10 to 20c. doz. bunches; radishes, 10 to 20c. doz. bunches; cabbage, new, per doz., 50 to 60c.; parsley, 10 to 15c. doz. bunches; cucumbers, short, 40 to 60c. per doz.; long, $1 per doz.; watercress, 10 to 15c. per doz. bunches; gardencress, 10 to 15c. per doz. bunches; spinach, 25c. per bush.; asparagus, 40c. to 60c. per doz.; green peas, Canadian, 80c. per bag; Canadian butter beans, $2.75 per bush.; beets, 20 to 30c. per doz.; carrots, 20 to 30c. per doz.

PROVISIONS.

A good, steady trade is being done in all lines, with no special features to report. Prices are firm in tone, but unchanged throughout.

GRAIN, FLOUR, BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN—All grades of Ontario wheat have declined 3 to 4c. during the past week. We quote on cars outside as follows: Wheat, red winter, 82 to 83c.; white winter, 80 to 81c.; goose, 80c. The street market is quiet. We quote as follows: Wheat, old white, 83c.; red, 82c.; goose, 71c.; peas, 51c.; oats, 31½ to 33c. There is no barley or rye offering. No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat has declined 10c., and is now quoted at $1.05 per bush.

FLOUR—Decline of 50c. in Manitoba and 25 to 40c. in Ontario flours are noted this week. We quote: Manitoba patents, $5.50; Manitoba strong bakers', $5.10; Ontario patents, $4.75 to $4.85; straight roller, $4.25 to $4.35, Toronto freights.

BREAKFAST FOODS—Business is quiet. Rolled wheat has declined 50c., and standard oatmeal and rolled oats 30c. We quote: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $4.00 in bags and $4.10 in bbls.; rolled wheat, $3.00 in 100-lb. bbls.; cornmeal, $2.75; split peas, $3.75; pot barley, $3.75.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES—The feeling is firm, with an all-round advance of 1c. to be noted. We quote: No. 1, 9c.; No. 2, 8c.; No. 3, 7c.; cured, 9½ to 10c.

CALFSKINS—Dealers consider prices too high, and are not anxious to buy. We quote: No. 1 veal, 8 lb. and up, 10c. per lb.; No. 2, 8c.; dekins, from 30 to 35c.; culls, 15 to 20c.

SHEEPSKINS—Nominal. The season is over. Lambskins, however, are in fair demand at 30c., and shearlings, at 20c.

WOOL—The market is slow, country dealers considering the price low, while the city jobbers claim it is too high. Unwashed is selling at 10 to 11c. and fleece at 16 to 16½c.

FISH.

The demand has quieted down somewhat. Prices are unchanged. We quote: Fresh salmon trout, 6c.; fresh whitefish, 6 to 6½c.; steak trout, 7c.; fresh pike, 5c. per lb.; fresh perch, 4c. per lb.; fresh herring, 3½c. to 4c. per lb.; Labra-

Rolled wheat has declined 50c., and standard oatmeal and rolled oats, 30c.

D. Gunn, Bros. & Co. have an unlimited demand for choice dairy butter, and would be glad to hear from any holders. They want it while still fresh and sweet.

Rutherford, Marshall & Co. exported a shipment of creamery butter to Great Britain last week, and are sending another car this week. They are also handling a large quantity of dairy butter. They report a healthy market for both dairy and creamery.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, June 23, 1898.

GROCERIES.

THE chief feature of the grocery situation is the unsettled feeling in refined sugar, refineries shading granulated another 1-16c. this week, though the jobbing range is not yet altered. The offers of foreign refined sugar account for the unsteadiness of the market, as the refiners watch every fluctuation of the market for raws. Tea has ruled quiet and steady after the excitement of last week, and other lines of groceries furnish nothing new, the volume of business in all lines being fairly satisfactory.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been a firmer feeling in canned vegetables, and a trifle higher prices have been realized in several cases for round lots of goods. Tomatoes have brought $1.15 to $1.20; corn, 90c.: peas, 85 to $1, and beans, 80c. Enquiry is also noted for canned fruits, especially strawberries, which are quoted at $1.35 to $1.40 in 3-lb. tins in straight invoice lots, but no new contracts have yet been closed. In canned salmon the situation is still a purely speculative one as no news of a definite nature is at hand from the Coast, and prices on new stock are not quotable.

SYRUPS.

Demand for syrups is limited, and stocks rather larger than they were in first hands. Refiners, however, are still asking the same price at the factory for round lots, viz. 2⅞c. per lb.

MOLASSES.

There is no new feature in the molasses market. No cable advices of an important nature have been received from the Islands lately, and, though planters have been bid 11c., they are said to be holding for 12c., and refuse to take less. Locally, trade is quiet, being confined to the sale of an occasional small lot at the basis quoted previously, the guild holding prices firm.

SUGAR.

The market for beet sugar has continued unsettled, a further decline of ¾ to 1½d. being noted this week, as compared with a week ago. The easiness in beet has exercised a depressing influence on local prices, and refiners have shaded granulated another 1-16c., compared with last week. Yellows are unaltered as yet, and jobbers' prices on granulated are not changed from last week, 4 7-16c. being asked in 10-bbl. lots, and 4½c. in less quantities. Raw is reported inactive in New York, fair refining at 3¾c. and centrifugal, 96 test, 4 5-16c. At London, cane was cabled dull but steady, Java 12s. 9d. and fair refining 11s. 9d. Beet was dull and lower, the present month's deliveries being 1½d. lower, at 9s. 7½d., and next month's ¾d. less, at 9s. 8¼d.

COFFEE.

The market remains firm at primary points, but business is quiet here, and values remain as last quoted.

TEAS.

The tea market has ruled rather quiet since the excitement noted last week. Some small lots of new crop Japan have been arriving, however, and have been placed at 19 to 20c. It is considered a remarkable fact by many commission men that, despite the admittedly bare condition of the market, buyers appear to be in no hurry about supplies in Canada.

SPICES.

Spices rule strong on outside markets, and there is nothing particular to report locally.

RICE.

While easiness is noted on outside markets in rice, there has been no change in local quotations. Demand has ruled fair, and prices steady all round.

NUTS.

Advices from primary markets on nuts are firm in the extreme, but there has been little or nothing done here yet for forward importation. In a local way, jobbing prices are unchanged.

DRIED FRUIT.

California raisins have moved in a quiet way at steady prices.

There is nothing new to report in Valencia fruit, the small stocks of which are very firmly held.

Currants are quiet and unchanged, little movement being noted.

The only prunes moving here are California sorts, which are stiff.

Evaporated fruit of all kinds is quiet and steady. Figs are as last reported.

GREEN FRUIT.

The fruit trade has had a moderately active week. Strawberries have been extremely plentiful, and sold at 2 to 3c. per quart box. Cherries range from 75c. to $1 per basket for Canadian and $1.40 to $1.80 for Californian. Cucumbers are in good demand at $3 to $3.25 per bushel. Pineapples are scarce and rather firm at 15c. each. Tomatoes are quiet at $2.75 per carrier. California apricots and peaches arrived for the first time this season, and are selling at $1.75 to $2, as to grade.

DRIED APPLES.

Dried and evaporated apples are unchanged.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—This market was without any new feature. The demand was fair for small lots to fill actual wants, and prices rule steady. We quote; Fancy selected stock, 10 to 10½c.; ordinary run, 9 to 9½c., and No. 2 stock, 8 to 8½c. per dozen. The receipts to-day were 1,107 cases.

BEANS—Beans are neglected, and the market is quiet and about steady at 95c. to $1 for primes, and at $1.05 to $1.10 for choice hand-picked per bushel.

HONEY—Business in honey is dull, and the market is featureless. We quote: White clover comb, 11c. to 12c.; dark do., 8 to 10c.; white strained, 6c. to 7c., and dark, 4 to 5c.

MAPLE PRODUCT—The demand for maple product is slow. We quote: Syrup in wood, 4½ to 4¾c. per lb., and in tins at 45 to 50c., as to size. Sugar, 6 to 6¼c. per lb.

TALLOW—Quiet and unchanged.

POTATOES—Stocks light and of poor quality. Prices steady.

increased supplies, and prices in some cases have been shaded ½c. per lb. The demand for smoked meats is still good and a fair amount of trade is doing. Pork and lard are quiet and without change. We quote as follows: Canadian pork, $16 to $16.50 per barrel; pure Canadian lard, in pails, at 8½c. to 8¾c.; and compound refined at 5½c. to 5¾c. per lb.; hams, 10½c. to 11½c.; and bacon, 11½ to 12c. per lb.

FLOUR, GRAIN, ETC.

There was no improvement in the grain market. The demand for all lines was slow, and business continues dull. The feeling in oats was again weak, and prices scored another decline of 2c. per bushel, with holders offering No. 2 white, in store, at 32c. All other lines were nominally unchanged.

The feature in the flour market was the decline of 25 to 35c. per bbl. in the price of Manitoba grades of flour, which is in sympathy with the recent decline in grain. The demand is still of a very limited character, and the market is dull. Ontario brands are 25c. down, also. We quote: Winter wheat patents, $5.75; straight rollers, $5.25 to $5.40; bags, $2.45 to $2.50; Manitoba patents, $6.15 to $6.40, and strong bakers', $5.75 to $6; extra, in bags, $2.25 to $2.30.

There was no change in feed, but the market continues quiet and featureless. We quote: Ontario winter wheat bran, $12.50 to $13; shorts, $14 to $15 per ton in bulk; Manitoba bran, $13 to $13.50; shorts, $15 to $15.50, and moullie, $17 per ton, including bags.

In sympathy with the recent weakness in the market for oats, prices for meal have declined 20c. per bbl., rolled oats now being quoted at $3.85 to $4 per bbl., with holders, in some cases, even disposed to shade these prices in order to make sales.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

Cheese continues to gradually appreciate in price on this side, with but little encouragement in the shape of response from Britain. In fact, as we pointed out before, values are being fixed for June cheese entirely irrespective of what British buyers' views are, for those who do respond to the current advances do so very reluctantly, and only for small quantities. It has become, therefore, a question between speculaors who have bought June cheese, and put up the price, and the British buyers which shall meet the other. At present it is a drawn battle. Trading Monday at the wharf involved 5,000 boxes of Quebec cheese, and various prices were named, ranging from 6¾ to 7⅛c. It is learned on pretty good authority, however, that 7c. was the ruling, which is an advance of ¼c. per pound over a week ago. In Ontario, cheese values are purely nominal, but holders asked 7½c., and in some cases more from people who were looking around the market to find out what they could pick up.

Butter was quiet, and though high prices have been paid in the country, and also on spot, the ruling range is 16½ to 16¾c. for creamery, for there was plenty of stock available at that price. Other reports stated that in some cases private cables had advanced limits 6d. per cwt. In one case also 17c. was paid, so that the market is a rather irregular one.

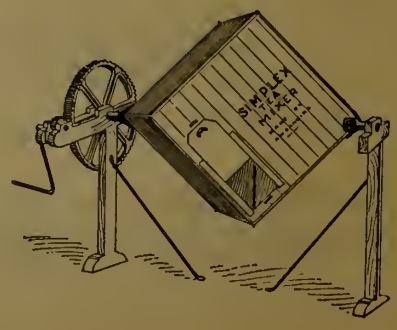
MONTREAL NOTES.

Hams are ½c. lower than they were under freer offerings.

Refiners have reduced the price on granulated sugar another 1-16.

The speculation in June cheese continues, and prices are advanced ¼ to ½c. per lb.

First arrivals of California and Canadian cherries were received this week and sold well.



The first large sales of new crop Japan tea were made here this week, costing wholesale grocers 19 to 20c. per lb.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,
ST. JOHN, N.B., June 21, 1898.

THERE is little life in the wholesale grocery business. The rapid decline in flour and other lines has made people very backward buyers. The berry season is about here, as the large quantity of empties passing through from the American buyers to different parts of the country is proof. For some years this business, particularly in raspberries and blueberries, has been large. It is said that this year the American Government will charge a duty of 1c. per quart. What effect this will have is yet to be seen.

OIL—This is a quiet season. Dealers require but light stocks, and are well supplied. In cod oil, receipts are light, and perhaps a little more could be used, but it would not take much to overstock the market.

SALT—The cargo which has been landing during the past week has found but a fair sale, the larger quantity having to be put in store. While there is not likely to be any further arrivals for some little time of Liverpool salt, there is a steamer on the way with a small cargo. So at least no higher prices are looked for, and, if bought to arrive, no doubt figures could be shaded. In Canadian salt there is the regular movement. Prices show no change. We quote: Liverpool coarse, 45 to 48c.; English factory-filled, 90c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.50 to $2.60 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.85 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 20c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 12c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 doz.; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30; mineral rock salt, 60c. to $1.

CANNED GOODS—While there is no large sale, a fair demand is noted. Values in canned meats have shown quite a falling off. As our dealers, however, bought at the early prices, they still stand to make a fair profit. The salmon market is thought to be in better shape. Both the English and American Governments have included them in their army supplies. This and the high prices of meats have very much improved the sale. The local market shows no change. Vegetables show firm prices, but hardly as good as expected. Peas are, perhaps, the finest line. In grated pineapple there is quite a sale at this season.

GREEN FRUIT — During the summer months this is always a busy line, both because it is the season of demand and because stocks spoil so quickly. Nearly all lines are now on the market except perhaps pears. California apricots, peaches and plums have been received and prices are quite low for first arrivals. Oranges range rather higher, but quality shows no improvement. Lemons still have quite a wide range in price and quality. Bananas are firm; supplies while quite large are not as free as usual at this season. Pines are firmly held with limited sale. Strawberries are now being received from Ontario, and native berries will soon be to hand. Rhubarb is plentiful and low in price.

DRIED FRUITS—Business is very quiet. In raisins values are low. There are fair stocks still in this market. While outside it is said currants are easier, there is no change here; stocks light. There is a fair demand for cleaned currants. In prunes and apricots wholesale men are not buyers, as the season is late and they prefer to work off present stocks, which, however, are light. Dried apples are dull. Wholesale grocers cannot help taking a few from country dealers, and they find it very difficult to resell. In evaporated, sales and stocks are both light. In onions, Egyptian are about the only grade on hand; prices rather easier.

SUGAR—The market shows no change, though local trade, perhaps because of the decline in other lines, look for lower prices. Sale have been light, but with the coming in of July, better business is looked for.

MOLASSES—There is still an easier feeling, but many seem to think that, at least, in regard to Porto Rico it is only temporary, claiming that the trade will have it and that further supplies will be difficult to get. The price of Barbadoes cannot but affect the market, however. Small quantities of New Orleans continue to arrive.

PRODUCE—Except, perhaps, in eggs, this is also an easy market, and even they only hold their price because of rather light arrivals. Butter, being very plentiful, is low, but to get a first-class article is much more difficult than one would suppose. Cheese sells slowly; the presence of quite a few old tends to lower prices.

FISH—Large arrivals of dry fish have been the order of the day. In cod, however, this has had very little effect on prices, as stocks were low and large, or, at least, very large, and further arrivals are not looked for. With pollock, however, prices are much lower, as there is limited sale. While the stock of smoked herring is quite light, the prices still hold low. Pickled fish show but little movement. In fresh fish receipts are light. Gaspereaux are about over; about 6,000 barrels were pickled, or rather made into alewives, for which, as yet, there is little sale. In shad, the spring catch, which is now over, was large, and prices ruled low. Quite a quantity were pickled, and are now being offered. In salmon, though season is now well entered upon, the catch is light, and not over one-quarter of what it was this time last year; prices rule firm, and will, if arrivals do not improve, go higher. Lobsters are hardly seen. There are fair receipts of mackerel. We quote: Large cod, $3.50 to $3.65; medium, $3.50 to $3.60; pollock, $1.35 to $1.45; Grand Manan pickled herring, $1.85 to $1.95 per ½-bbl.; smoked herring, 7 to 8c. per box; Canso, pickled $5 per bbl.; boneless fish, 3½ to 4½c.; cod, 6 to 7c.; finnan haddies, 4 to 4½c.; fresh Gaspereaux, 40c. per 100.; fresh halibut, 6 to 7c. per lb.; shad, 10 to 12c.; salmon, 12 to 14c.; ½-bbl. shad, $4.

PRODUCE—There is but limited business. Prices, particulary pork, are quoted lower. There are but light stocks here. In beef, there is fair sale at rather easier prices.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—It is here the chief trouble is. The bottom seems out, particularly as far as the local market is concerned. There are many who feel rather firmer figures will rule as soon as the somewhat panicy feeling gets over. Oatmeal shows lower figures, as does cornmeal, and in oats there is quite a falling off; buyers are very backward. Beans are dull, and lower prices are asked, western holders being more anxious to sell. Feed keeps scarce, though rather more bran is being offered. Split peas are about out of the market, and it is almost impossible to get any. We quote as follows: Manitoba flour, $6 to $6.20; best Ontario, $5.25 to $5.50; medium, $5 to $5.25; oatmeal, $4.30 to $4.40; cornmeal, $2.15; middlings, $20 to $22; bran, $18 to $19; oats, 42 to 45c.; hand-picked beans, $1.05 to $1.10; prime, 90c. to $1; yellow eye beans, $1.75; split peas, $3.80 to $3.90; round, $3.25 to $3.40; pot barley, $3.50 to $3.75; hay, $8.75 to $9.00; timothy seed, American, $1.75 to $2.15; do., Canadian, $2 to $2.40; mammoth clover, 7 to 7½c.; alsike, 7¾ to 8½c.

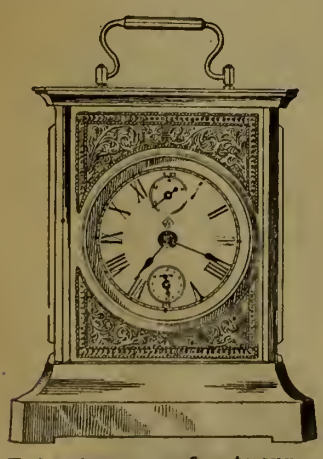
Wheelmen are much pleased that the difficulties over the admission of tourists' bicycles into Canada and the United States have been removed. Early in the season it looked as if the arrangements of the last few years would not be renewed.

Said Mr. Tilton, of the brokerage house of Smith & Tilton, to THE GROCER : "We are finding an improved sale for English goods, as for the past few weeks dealers have been holding orders so as to get the benefit of the extra ⅛ rebate after July 1." All representatives of English houses make the same report.

The annual meeting of the Sussex Board of Trade was held last week. The following officers were elected : Murray Huestis, reelected president ; J. A. Humphrey, treasurer ; John P. Robinson, secretary. The matter of a condensed milk factory for Sussex was discussed, but with no definite result. The matter will have further consideration.

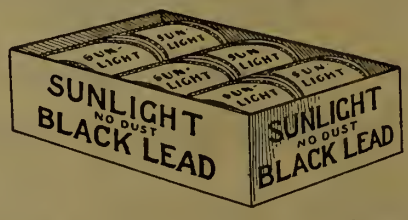
MANITOBA MARKETS.



WINNIPEG, June 20, 1898.

THE weather is very hot, with frequent showers of rain. Growth during the past week has been astonishing, especially to new arrivals from other countries, who are not accustomed to see the business of raising a crop done in such a hurry. Produce of all kinds is coming in freely, and, in the matter of vegetables from local market gardeners, the supply is fully two weeks ahead of last year. Business continues good, and active preparations are being made for the great summer fair. Every available room in many of the hotels was engaged as early as the first week in June, and hotelmen are advertising for lists of rooms in private houses.

CANNED GOODS—This market presents some changes and an increase of activity. New strawberries were offered this week, and, judging from the energy with which they were pushed by local brokers, the pack is large. The price of new goods is $3.25 per case, and those to hand are a very fine sample. The stock of old goods was limited, and will not be affected by the new pack. The next articles to come in will be June peas and raspberries, but it is too early yet to predict a price. The tomato market continues easier, though it is difficult to say that there is an actual change in price, because all houses are not selling at the same figure. There is no question that the fact of fresh vegetables being in larger supply, cheaper, and of better quality, has materially affected the sale of tomatoes. Asparagus has been on the market for weeks, and is now retailing at two bunches for 5c. New cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes, cucumbers, and the like, are to be had at reasonable figures. Stocks of canned goods in the east would seem to be in second hands ; the factories have very few, and the eastern holders seem anxious to realize. Corn remains firm, though it has been offered a little more freely this week.



EVAPORATED FRUITS—Dried apples are offering freely with lower tendency. Evaporated are still firm at the old figure of 10½ to 11c. California evaporated fruits are offering freely, particularly apricots, in expectation of the new crop being on hand some two or three weeks earlier than usual.

COFFEE AND TEAS—Are without change for the week.

RICE—A small consignment of Japan is now in transit and will sell at 6½c. per lb.

SUGAR—Is steady, with very fair demand, but syrups are offering more freely. The decline in price, however, is slight. Quotations are 2¾ to 3c. per lb., according to quality.

CURED MEATS—The burning of Armour's packing houses has not affected the market, but lovers of "Star" hams and bacon will have to content themselves with something else for a short time. The decline in the American market has not yet caused any change of price here, and this market is still firm with a good demand. Quotations are as follows: Dry salt extra short clear, 8¾c.; dry salt clear smoked, 9¼c.; dry salt long clear, 9¼c.; hams, 11½ to 12c. according to average; breakfast backs and bellies 11½ to 12c, LARD—Is firm and the market good. Pure $1.95; composite, $1.45.

MATCHES—All grades of matches have gone up 25c. per case.

CHEESE—There has been a slump in cheese during the week and it is now quoted at 7 to 7¼c., f.o.b. The make is large. MacLaren is putting in a small stock of "Imperial" potted cheese in cold storage, so that dealers will be able to get it at any time in first-class condition. This will be a convenience as this is a favorite article on this market.

BUTTER—Offerings for the week have been very large. Quality of creamery is much improved. Market is a little uncertain and 16c. at factories is the best figure. It is thought that it may even go lower owing to a lower tendency in the British Columbia market. Dairy butter is coming in abundantly, and extra choice is worth 11 to 11½c. at country points.

EGGS—Are in demand, and the price has stiffened to 11½c. Winnipeg. The supply, however, is increasing.

GREEN FRUIT—Market is well stocked. Bananas are still scarce and dear, though the price is not so bad as a slip on my part last week made it appear. The price is $2 to $2.50 per bunch, not $2.50 to $3.50, as quoted. Oregon strawberries are of the past; their season was brief, but very satisfactory. It will be a week before the more northerly States begin to send forward. Cherries, Royal Ann's, are in from Oregon, Washington, and Idaho, very fine in quality, and are quoted at $1.50 to $1.75 per 10-lb. box. Apricots are $1.75 to $2, and the quality, so far, is poor. On the other hand, the Alexandria peaches are exceptionally fine. Price, $1.75 to $2; plums, $2.50 for 20 lb. box. Oranges show quite a range of prices, but for really good fruit the price is $3 to $4. Lemons show a decided upward tendency, and are bringing $4 to $4.50 per box. Tomatoes from Southern Illinois are now on the market, at $1.75 the 4-basket crate; cucumbers, $1 per box.

ADVANCE IN FREIGHT RATES.

An advance in freight rates to the west is to take place on Saturday next, which will affect Ontario and Quebec manufacturers and merchants who do a business with Pacific Coast points. The Transcontinental Freight Bureau, embracing all the western roads, have issued a new tariff, effective on the 25th, from Chicago to the Pacific Coast, in which rates on a number of commodities have been advanced from 20 to 25 per cent., and this, of course, means a similar advance on the through rate from Canadian points. The roads doing the through business are the Canadian Pacific, the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific. The advance in all dry goods is quite 25 per cent., while rates on machinery and stoves will be 20 per cent. higher. There are also advances on metallic shingles, whiskey, high wines and spirits in wood, and on ales and porter, the latter two if in less than carloads. The rates on furniture remain the same.

OUTING FOR PICKLE MEN.

The employes of the H. J. Heinz Co., pickle manufacturers, etc., Pittsburgh, Pa., have annually an outing to some of the pleasure resorts near that city. This year they hold their outing at Ross Grove, going there on Saturday, July 2. THE CANADIAN GROCER cannot accept the invitation to be present, but it hopes the day will be fine and the amusement abundant.

A NEW GROCERY STORE.

J. Shields & Son, grocers, have dissolved, Frank Shields retiring, J. Shields continuing under the old style. Frank Shields, in partnership with his brother, William, has opened up a grocery store at the south-east corner of Church and Carlton streets, under the style of Shields Bros.

CAUGHT STEALING GROCERIES.

The way of the thief in Toronto is hard. On Saturday evening two thieves entered the warehouse of Park, Blackwell & Co. and stole some hams, but before they got home they were arrested by the police on suspicion and were in the cells even before the robbery was reported to the authorities.

The same evening a man was discovered opening a large box of coffee, and, as he could give no reason for his possession of it, he was arrested. It was later discovered that the Cowan Chocolate Co.'s premises had been entered and the coffee stolen from that place.

TRADE IN OTHER COUNTRIES THAN OUR OWN.

CURRANTS IN LIVERPOOL.

AN English paper in regard to the Liverpool market says: Further forced sales of currants have stimulated the demand, the attractive values of Gulph having induced buyers to operate with a little more freedom. Provincial fruit is again easier, and is difficult to sell at the decline, its value not being useful when compared with the better growths at from 2s. to 3s. more money. The statistical position of currants is so strong that the season seems bound to wind up with a higher range of prices, and such a position generally means a fairly high opening level however good the prospects may be of plentiful supplies and reduced prices as the season advances. With these circumstances in view a reasonable good working stock at present values is at least prudent.

SULTANA RAISIN OUTLOOK.

The market for Sultanas is in rather an unusual position. The larger holders, who control probably three-fourths of the remaining stock, are firm in their ideas that present rates are fully justified by the shortness of stocks, both in Smyrna and in England, and by the unfavorable reports of the growing crop. It must frankly be admitted that these same gentlemen were correct in the views which they took in the commencement of the season, and that what was then regarded by the English buyers as being an extravagant range of values, has proved to have been justified. Whether or not they will again be found to have come to correct conclusions must, of course, remain to be proved, but it must be admitted that it seems likely to be the case. So far as the immediate moment is concerned, however, the demand from the dealers is so small that the few merchants, who have for one reason or another had to force sales, have had to do so at a very marked decline. and, for the time being, have spoilt the market for the larger and the stronger holders.—Produce Markets' Review.

CANNED GOODS IN ENGLAND.

Although business has again been somewhat limited, signs are not wanting that stocks of many articles in the retailers' hands will before long need replenishing. The market is full of inquiries for cheap apricots and salmon a little below market value. Both these articles are difficult to obtain, and, although buyers are confining their purchases within as small limits as possible in the hope of inducing a reduction, prices continue to steadily harden. Although it is too early to form an opinion of the salmon pack for 1898, it is generally expected that it will be much smaller than last season. Prices asked for British Columbia fish, although still moderate, are in advance of those now ruling. Quotations for Alaska salmon on the spot show an advance of fully 6d. per case, and some sales have been effected, though not to any extent. Sardines have sold freely at a slight reduction, the rate of exchange having been very favorable to this country. A reaction has now taken place, and it is doubtful if recent purchases could be repeated. Some lobster of 1898 pack has been landed, but the quality is poor: choice descriptions will probably not be available for a few weeks. Forward sales, principally for the Continent, will absorb the earlier arrivals, so that the supply is likely to be short of requirements for some time. Meats have sold slowly, and the full advance asked by packers has not been paid, as stocks in dealers' hands have, up to the present, proved sufficient for the limited demand.—Produce Markets' Review, London.

TEA IN THE UNITED STATES.

A fairly large volume of business has been transacted in lines, as dealers generally have been in the markets as buyers to replenish the supplies which they are marketing with the retail trade, the latter having come in the market as a free buyer, stimulated by the placing of an import duty of 10c. per lb. on tea, and they have paid full values. There has also been considerable business transacted in a large way, and sales for the week include 50,000 packages Formosa and Amoy, 12,000 packages Congou and 3,000 packages Pingsuey.—N.Y. Journal of Commerce.

THE PRUNE CROPS.

Regarding the situation in prunes on the Coast, The California Fruit Grower says in its last issue: "A few prunes are changing hands at previous quotations. The overland movement is light at this time. Estimates place the stock held in the Santa Clara Valley at from 50 to 75 cars. The shipments from San Jose for week ending June 4 were 147,800 pounds. The outlook in the Santa Clara Valley for the growing prune crop is good, and estimates at this time place the output at from 35,000,000 to 55,000,000 lb. Some of the leading guessers say one-half to two thirds of a crop, others say as many prunes as last year. It is a little early to estimate the prune crop, but in a general way reports indicate that the crop of the State will be a fair average one, possibly not so large as last year, but large enough for all purposes. The prune crop of Europe promises well at this time, and, with favorable weather, a large output of French and Turkish prunes may be expected."

SALMON PACKING IN THE U.S.

In its issue of June 10, the San Francisco Trade Journal says of the salmon situation on the Coast: "There is a very active demand for Alaska pinks and Oregon cohoes and silversides. This call is cleaning up spot quite fast. The feature of this year's business is the phenomenal run on Puget Sound sockeyes. The call is from the east, north, and south. It is stated that over 75 per cent. of the estimated pack has been contracted on the basis of 85c. for talls. It is thought by the trade that more have been sold than will be canned this season. In Columbia river there is a steady movement in carload lots, as heavy buyers had placed their orders earlier in the season. Sacramento river is slow, and why it is hard to say, for it is equal to the Columbia river. The run on the Columbia river continues below that at the corresponding time in 1897. Strong efforts have been made at Washington to have salmon placed on the army ration, and, if reports are correct, with success, for we hear that the Government has placed an order for 3,000 cases of red Alaska with the Alaska Packers' Association, and 3,000 cases with Griffith-Durney Co. The price named is 87c. for talls and 96c. for halves."

The majority of the fruit canning factories have commenced canning, the start being made with strawberries last week.

The London Advertiser states that Mr. Whitworth, a member of one of the largest firms dealing in pork and bacon in Liverpool, Eng., is looking for a site upon which to establish a pork factory, the construction of which is expected to cost $50,000. The Advertiser claims London to be the best centre for such a business.

EFFECT OF THE DUTY ON TEA.

THE following is from the New York Journal of Commerce : "As has already been reported, a duty of ten cents per pound is imposed on tea by provisions of the war revenue bill. Considerable difference of opinion exists among importers, brokers and tea merchants as to whether the duty of 10c. will stop the importations of the low grade teas. Some hold that no more of the lowest grades can be brought in here and handled profitably at the duty of 10c. per pound. Others think that the duty, causing a higher price for all grades of tea, will drive a large mass of consumers from the better to the poorer qualities. Wholesale prices will be advanced from 4 to 7c. per pound, according to the basis taken, and the retail price will go up about 10c. per pound.

"A member of a prominent tea importing house said recently : 'The duty will help the trade on the better grades of teas. When it does not pay people to do anything they will not do it, and as soon as the importers of the lowest grades find they cannot have those qualities laid down here at a figure that will yield them a profit, when the duty is taken into consideration, they will not import these teas, but turn to higher grades. This will materially improve the general quality of the goods to be offered on the market and turn many consumers from the poorer to the better qualities. A taste once formed for the better grade, the consumers will be loth to again use poor qualities, and, in my opinion, the duty will create a larger permanent market for good teas and shut out poor lots.'

"Mr. Thomas Phelan said : 'It remains to be seen whether this 10c. per pound duty will shut out the lower grades of teas. It will have a tendency to do so, it is true, for importers, left to themselves, would prefer to import the higher grades of tea, as the percentage of duty imposed on such teas is less than on the lower grades, but if there is a demand for the lower grades they will be imported. The retailers for the past year have been selling large quantities of low-grade teas, which shows there is a very good demand for them at present, and I am inclined to think that many users of tea will hesitate in paying the higher prices. This duty of 10c. may even have the effect to increase the demand for the lower grades, for the increased price at retail will put the better qualities out of the reach of many consumers and compel them to take lower-grade teas at the same price they have been paying.'

"Mr. S. W. Gillespie said : 'The wholesale price will be advanced on account of the duty, the amount of the advance depending on the basis taken. Some teas will advance 5c. per pound, others 6c., and still others 7c. per pound. Very few of the lowest grade teas will be imported while the present duty remains in force.'

"Mr. Frank S. Thomas, president of the Montgomery Auction and Commission Co., said : 'In my opinion this duty will create a larger demand for the lower grade teas. The lowest retail price at which tea was sold before the duty was effective was 25c. per pound. This will be advanced to 35c., so that while the duty is effective that figure will be the lowest at which tea can be purchased at retail. The highest retail price at which tea was sold before the present duty was imposed was 75c. per pound ; that grade of tea will now be advanced to 85c. per pound. Of course these figures are average market prices. Exceptional qualities of tea are sold at retail about 75c. per pound, and there may be bargain sales at 20c. per pound for poor qualities.

"'Now, assuming that a consumer has been paying 60c. per pound for tea, he goes to his retailer and finds the price of that tea advanced to 70c. per pound. He does not wish to pay more than 60c. per pound, and so takes a grade of tea that was 50c. before the price was advanced, still paying 60c. for it. Of course, the wealthier classes will pay the advance, but I think the majority of consumers will take the lower grades at the same prices they have been paying. On the poorest quality of tea, of course, the increased price will have to be paid. The lowest price at which tea could be laid down here before this duty was imposed was 10c. per pound. It is now 20c. per pound.'"

"The tea inspector of the appraiser's stores has rejected about 50,000 cases during the past year, but, owing to the new regulations regarding standards, which went into effect last May, a considerably better quality of tea has been coming here of late. Another effect of the new rules is that it has stopped, to a very large extent, the exportation of very low grade teas by the natives in China, who, at one time, were sending a very poor quality of Pingsueys. The tea inspector when seen recently said that he thought the effect of the duty of 10c. per pound would be to turn a large number of consumers to a lower grade of teas, not necessarily the poorest, but to the medium grades. The cost of some of the lowest grades here during the past year was from 10 to 18c. per pound. Of course, no duty has been levied heretofore."

ADVANCE IN FEATHER DUSTERS.

THE CANADIAN GROCER has been advised by Boeckh Bros. & Co. that prices on feather dusters, of all kinds, have advanced considerably during the past week. The cause of the advance is attributed to scarcity of feathers.

TOMATOES LOWER IN NEW YORK.

There has been a marked decline in the price of spot tomatoes, both here and in Baltimore, during the past few days, which is generally attributed to liberal offerings and the small demand, prices being 5 to 15c. per dozen less here than a week ago, according to seller, brand, and variety.

The requirements of the Government, which were expected to be very large, have not come up to expectations, it is reported, and the demands of general consumers have been somewhat disappointing. While stocks of spot goods in first hands have, for some time past, been held to be exceptionally light for the season, it would now appear that the supply left from last season is much larger than was generally believed. The effort to dispose of this surplus before the advent of the new packing season, now near at hand, is said to be responsible, in a large measure, for the break in prices. A week ago sales on the spot of Jerseys were mentioned at $1.15 cash, while to-day, goods of the same or similar packing, are reported to be procurable here at $1. On Marylands, the price has declined from $1.05 to 97½c., though on some brands $1 is demanded.

It is intimated in some quarters that the decline in prices is due to speculative influences. Some dealers in spot goods state that supplies here are not more than a fifth of what they were a year ago. It is rumored that some sellers having made contracts with the Government are now trying to cover and are bearing the market with that object in view. On the other hand, the indifference of buyers is said to be the chief cause of the depression.

Baltimore mail advices state that the result of the decline in prices in spot tomatoes has been a larger business than for several weeks past, but the New York market continues unresponsive. — N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

APPLES IN MISSOURI.

"Apples will be scarce this year," says J. C. Evans, president of the State Horticultural Society of Missouri. "The crop is now gone on the old trees. The prospect for apples early in the season was good, with the exception of the Ben Davis and Johnson varieties. These varieties bore beautifully last year and exhausted their nutriment. They did not bloom this year. At the time the fruit buds should have formed last year it was very dry and the trees lacked vitality to form them. The extreme cold and damp weather this spring prevented those which did from maturing. There will be a larger crop in the eastern than in the western part of the State. The peach crop will be spotted, dependent on altitude and exposure."—American Grocer.

A SHOP-STARTER.

OVER in England they have the professional "shop-starter," or "pusher-off." One of them tells something about his methods in Pearson's weekly, from which the following is taken :

You must have the shop fitted attractively, and see that it is on the right side of the road, and boom it thoroughly. Nothing so important as having your shop on the right side of the road—that is to say, the side on which most pedestrians pass. And that's the sunny side. In streets running from north to south, the east side is the best ; while in those stretching east and west, the north side is the best. Many a capable business man has failed for no other reason than that he has not paid proper attention to the question of the side of the road.

A shop cannot be too well lighted ; the brighter the light the greater the attraction ; and here is presented a curiosity in things human, for when people see a brightly-lighted shop they will gather round it like moths, and, very often, won't move away until their pockets are burned.

Everything in the way of trimmings should be made particularly attractive—neither glaring nor offensive to the eyes, but just sufficiently effective. The thing is to draw attention to the window, and prominence given to any other feature detracts from that and is a mistake. After all, the window is the main thing.

There are many methods of calling attention to a newly-opened shop—some of them suitable in one neighborhood and some in another. Not a bad speculation is the engaging of a band to play on the opening night of, say, a grocer's shop in a working district. It wouldn't do, though, in a middle-class neighborhood. I pushed off successfully in Nottingham, a little while ago, a grocer's shop on these lines. The band played for the first four Saturdays, at a cost of £10, but a good connection had been built up before the fourth Saturday came round, notwithstanding the comparative failure of one or two other similar businesses in the neighborhood. I started a business in Leeds once for a young firm, and got them to give away a handsome dinner service, worth four guineas, to the customer who presented at the end of the first month the greatest number of checks, which were given with every article worth sixpence or more. It sent the business up safely. But on one occasion the police in another town interfered with this idea, claiming that it was a lottery. That did more to advertise the business than the service itself, the gift of which was got through all right.

A cheesemonger's I started in a similar way, only I gave away six eggs with every pound of bacon for the first week. In Blandford I opened a cigar and tobacco shop for a young married couple, and got a connection together for them by selling ounce packets of tobacco at half price for the first week. An enterprising London drapery salesman took it into his head to open a country public, and he commanded almost instantaneous success by giving away half-ounce twists of tobacco with every glass of ale—my suggestion—for a month. The second week he augmented this gift with a pincushion for the customer to take home to his wife, which put the lady on good terms with her husband and "The Romping Kitling."

IN THE LONG RUN.

IT is to be presumed that when a man buys a store, stocks it and opens its doors for business that he has some intention of staying there for a while, says Trade Magazine. Nearly all merchants are in business to make a living and acquire a competency, and do not move of their own accord unless with a view of bettering their conditions. They are working not for to-day or to-morrow, but for the years to come. They can only afford to build solidly, therefore, if they would realize their ambition.

These are facts to be borne in mind these days, when there are so many who do not scruple to stoop to disreputable methods in business for the sake of temporary profit.

There are "schemes" and "plans" and "methods" without number, all of which are widely advertised as sure to increase business. It is safe to say that fully half of them are essentially dishonest, and even a large percentage beneath the dignity of an honorable man. It is just as true that 90 per cent. of them are ephemeral, resulting at the most in a little temporary business, which is followed by a most pronounced reaction.

How about the men who are everlastingly adopting these methods? Their stores are crowded for a while.

How long?

They make a great noise in the community and seem in a fair way to sweep everything before them.

How long ?

They start in the race at a great speed and go rushing towards the goal in a way that promises sure success.

How long ?

Just long enough for the people to tire of their sensationalism or discover their dishonesty. It sometimes takes a year or two, but usually they are off for pastures new in a much shorter time.

They may worry the legitimate merchant for a while, but he should never allow their apparent success to tempt him to adopt any of their methods.

The man who is in a community to stay must be straightforward, honest, natural.

It's the "long run" that counts.

C. E. COLSON & SON, MONTREAL

HIS REPORT A GOODLY ONE.

MR. W. D. ROBERTS, who for nearly a year has been with G. F. & J. Galt, Winnipeg, has been in Toronto for a few days. "Trade," he said, "is good in Winnipeg. So it is in Vancouver. In Victoria, the Klondyke trade has petered out for the time being, but ordinary business is still fairly good in Victoria. You know that city has got an established trade. Business is quiet in New Westminster. Taking British Columbia generally, trade is good throughout the Province. While I was on the Coast I took a trip on the Stickine river. I went up on the second trip of the first boat. When I reached Glenora there were only about 300 people there. I was only there five days, but when I came away there were nearly 3,000 people there."

The spice mills started in Winnipeg by the Messrs. Galt are doing well, Mr. Roberts said, an enlarged plant already being necessary. "Blue Ribbon" tea was also doing well, and the firm was introducing it in Tacoma and other United States Coast cities.

FLOUR IN HALIFAX.

Flour in Halifax is to-day nearly $1 a barrel lower than the highest point during the recent boom. Flour that would have brought from $6.25 to $6.40 a month ago, good Ontario 80 per cents., for instance, can be had to-day in car lots at $5.40, or a shade lower. From 75 cents to a dollar lower than a month ago is a fair statement of the Halifax flour market.

Stocks are light. Most of the dealers are holding a mere hand-to-mouth stock, and have a smaller quantity than for two years, a satisfactory condition in a falling market. Reports come that on the western shore stocks are rather heavy, especially at such points as Shelburne, Lockeport and Liverpool. Rumor has it that some merchants at these places bought from a Boston house at pretty good prices, just before the decline. Generally speaking, it will be found the best policy to patronize Halifax houses. Their experience in buying flour from Boston on this occasion may bring home this connection to some of the western shore merchants.

The general impression seems to be that elsewhere in Nova Scotia, as in Halifax, the rule is comparatively light stocks.—Herald, Halifax, June 17.

A large number of Chinamen and Japanese have secured work in the Fraser river canning factories. They will make the tins for the season's pack.

YOUNG & SMYLIE

Established 1845. BROOKLYN, N.Y.

Half an ounce of salt

is the average allowance to a pound of butter. The very best butter salt—COLEMAN'S—is retailed in small quantities for about a cent and a quarter a pound. Barrel lots cost considerably less. What possible "saving" can there be by using anything commoner or cheaper?

Insist on having Coleman's Salt.

The poorest butter-maker in Canada can afford to use it. The richest cannot afford to do without it. Our best customers are large users, who do business profitably and economically.

The Dealer's Position.

Grocers with a good farmers' trade sell a lot of common barrel salt for general farm use. If nothing better is kept in stock, their customers have to worry along with it for butter-making, or get the proper thing elsewhere. There is every reason to believe that a grocer can sell more or less Dairy Salt with every barrel of common salt. It pleases the consumer and pays the dealer a good profit.

Coleman's Cheese Salt.

This is another specialty in which every dealer in a cheese-making district has an interest. First-class makers prefer it to anything else. Special prizes are offered at the Exhibitions for cheese salted with Coleman's Cheese Salt. Write us for further particulars.

Carload Lots

Assorted with any of the above grades, together with table and common salt, as required. We ship promptly.
